Mr. Daniel comes to Belleville highly recommended and has a special interest in work among the young people. Many members of the local congregation will remember him as during his study at McMaster University he conducted services in the Baptist Church here.

In addition to his duties with Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, he will supervise the Fairway Baptist Church in Parkwood Heights. He succeeds Rev. H. O. Eastman, former church pastor who died last May.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 11—(CP)—Stock market prices turned lower today in early afternoon dealings. The exchange's index of 20 selected issues dipped more than two points within as many hours.

Mid-Continent Oil continued extremely heavy trading as more than 875,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours. The stock became active late yesterday on reports that 1,000,000 shares had been underwritten at 10 cents by Watt and Watt.

Liquors formed the firmest industrial section. Papers, utilities, constructions, steels, textiles and miscellaneous industrials were mixed. Agriculturals, foods and retail stores weakened while refining oils slipped moderately.

Western oils dipped after a first-hour climb to another record high. Trading was highly selective. Anchor Petroleum, Anglo-Canadian, Gridoil, National Petroleum and Pacific Petroleum lost up to 50 cents, Federal Petroleum, General Petroleum, Oil Selections and Commonwealth went against the trend for small gains.

Base Metals continued mixed and trendless. Again heavy selective buying spotted the list. Base Metals, Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, Noranda and Waite Amulet edged ahead, Ascot, International Nickel, Sherwoon, United Keno Hill and Pend Oreille eased.

Senior golds were mixed. Juniors dipped slightly while prospects held gains and losses in balance. The exchange's 1 p.m. index showed industrials down 1.87 at 354.07, golds down .01 at 84.16, Base Metals up .01 at 104.47 and Western Oils down .90 at 116.30.

Cost of Cement Retaining Wall From Gangway to Fire Hall To be Ascertained by Council

Construction of a retaining wall on the east bank of the Moira River north from the Foothridge Gangway to the old fire hall, will be considered by city council.

Yesterday on recommendation from Alderman Hyde it was voted to ascertain the cost of such a retaining wall and whether the work could be done under local improvements. In tabling the recommendation Mr. Hyde said such a retaining wall would greatly increase the parking space for autos at the rear of Front Street stores.

The hot weather season is now practically over but council approved of a recommendation to purchase a new water cooler for the police station—providing there is money in the police commission budget. It was pointed out the drinking water cooler was made earlier in the year during the summer recess for council. A new ice scualator will be purchased for the fire department at a cost of approximately $500.

Building Lots Sold

A series of building lots north of Hastings Drive on the former county home property were recommended sold to the Tatham Company Ltd. at a price of $200 each. A rider was attached to the recommendation, however, reserving any lots required by private builders, and calling on the construction company to assume possession of all the lots at one time.

A petition from Grove Street residents asking that council bar any move to re-open a woodyard in the area, was read in council. The restrictive by-law covering the area allows continuation of the woodyard business until Jan. 1, 1936. The matter was turned over to the city solicitor for a ruling.

Notices Will Go Out

Sale of local improvement debentures covering the Park-Victoria Street grade will be made at an interest rate of 4½ per cent instead of the 3 per cent which was anticipated. It was pointed out that such debentures must be sold at par and due to current loaning conditions this would be impossible. Notices to land owners in the area affected will go out, it was stated.

A committee of Aldermen Thomas, Deacon and Countryman was named by the mayor to meet with members of the Belleville Agricultural Society and with Parks Board members to discuss would have favored taxing outside contractors doing business in the fair grounds. Alderman Harry Rollins, as chairman of the fair board, said there was no use his organization considering plans for the grandstand unless they were approved by the other organizations.

Want Street Changed

A petition was received by council from merchants and businessmen on the Footbridge Gangway asking that the name of the street be changed to Foothridge Arcade. Signatures on the petition will be checked by the city clerk.

Repainting of city of Belleville highway signs will in all likelihood now be left until another year. Local painters asked to bid on the work have not yet submitted their bids and it was suggested the season was now a bit late for painting of the signs.

The parks board will again be asked to trim young trees which last year were set out by the city. Alderman Clarke noted a high percentage of the trees have survived but need trimming to train them into correct growth.

Report Encouraging

City garbage collectors are not required to pick up garbage unless it is contained in proper metal garbage cans. This was pointed out when one alderman asked why cardboard garbage containers were being left behind. Ordinarily garbage collectors are very particular about tying up the cardboard containers but during a wet time trouble is experienced with the bottom of the boxes falling out necessitating picking up of loose garbage.

Alderman Hall reported that the financial report for the Belleville General Hospital for the first six months of the year was "very encouraging." For that period the hospital showed on current basis with receipts taking care of expenditures, "Generally speaking there is a great improvement at the hospital," he said.

Protest Rates

City council will add its voice to the general protest going in to the Bell Telephone Company protesting against any increase in phone rates as is being sought by the company.

Yesterday during the general council session members concurred in a resolution protesting against the proposed telephone rate increase. "Definitely" was the comment as unanimous approval was given to the resolution.

No action was taken on another resolution which if passed would have favored taxing outside contractors doing business in a municipality.

Blind Institute Makes Annual Appeal, Quota Set at $4,500

The annual appeal for funds for work for the blind, sponsored by The Hastings County Advisory Board to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind opened on Monday. Friends of the blind in the city and Hastings County have come to expect this appeal every fall covering the months of September and October. Because of increased registration, a broadened and intensified service program, and of course higher operational costs, $4,500 is required this year if this important humanitarian work is to be maintained at the same level. Last year the institute had a substantial deficit in the work in this county, and the members of the Hastings Advisory Board are very anxious that adequate support will be forthcoming this year.

The Hastings County Advisory Board to the C.N.I.B. is made up of voluntary workers who are actively interested in work for the blind. They have been the institute's service program grow, until today the blind are attempting and successfully engaging in activities that were undreamed of a few years ago. George Wishart, chairman of the board, is one of the board members who notes the growth of services, especially those that may be classified as welfare services.

This summer the Institute took another county sightless girl to Toronto and gave her a course in training which made it possible for her to take her place beside sighted workers in a Toronto manufacturing plant where she is just one more demonstration of the fact that a blind worker when properly trained and placed on the right type of work, can do just as much and just as good work as the sighted. She brings up to seven the total number of Hastings blind who are working at jobs found for, or provided by, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

This is just one of the many services for the blind made possible by the continued generous financial support by the people of Belleville and Hastings county. The appeal this year is being set to run from September 10th to 30th. H. J. Fuke, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce is campaign treasurer, and will issue official receipts for all contributions of one dollar or more.

Council Decides to Construct New Fire Hall on Tourist Park, To Compensate Kinsmen's Club

The proposed new fire hall for East Belleville will be constructed on the former tourist park on Dundas Street, it was decided by members of city council at their first meeting of the fall season held at the city hall Monday afternoon.

The new fire hall will be constructed on the northeast corner of the park property with the contract for building of the station going to S. R. McCrory Construction Company. The McCrory tender of $68,154 for the construction of the hall was accepted.

Selection of a site for the new fire hall on the east side has been a much discussed question by city officials during recent months there being many proposals forwarded for a site other than the tourist park. Against these was that of the recommendation of the Fire Marshal's Department, and also of the former council.

Some Objectors

Possibly the most strenuous objection to the park site for the fire hall were members of the local Kinsmen Club, many of whom felt that a fire hall on the park site would detract from the appearance and efficient operation of the community swimming pool now nearing completion.

The claim of the Kinsmen was that the city had given them the tourist park site to operate as a park and consideration of a fire hall on the property would defeat this purpose. Club members however were willing to agree to a site for the fire hall providing the city would underwrite their debentures of $20,000 to completely finish the swimming pool.

Defeated in Committee

In an effort to "keep faith" with the Kinsmen Club and allow the service organization to retain the complete tourist park and develop it in conjunction with their swimming pool, the city fire committee recommended purchase of certain property immediately to the south of the park along Newberry Street, this to be the site for the fire hall.

This was defeated in committee, the recommendation being later read and turned down in open council. The recommendation to earmark $20,000 from the sale of the present Front Street fire hall property to underwrite the swimming pool debentures was also defeated. Prior to the vote, it was pointed out the $20,000 could be considered in the same light as a loan and that the club would have every intention of repaying the money.

Turn Property Over

Finally council approved of a recommendation to purchase the Cochrane property to the south of the tourist park and turn it over to the Kinsmen Club and to build the fire hall on the tourist park.

One alderman asserted that the discussion on the site for the fire hall was out of place. All council had to do, he maintained, was to adopt a previously council recommendation to build the fire station on the old county home property.

"There are not enough parks now without taking park land for a fire hall. Also the city was paying rent for the county home site in years to come would prove advisable," he said.

Motion Declared Lost

It was an even vote on the recommendation to purchase the Cochrane property south of the tourist park as a site for the fire hall. According to municipal regulations a recommendation not receiving a majority vote is considered lost.

Favoring the recommendation were Mayor Potter, Aldermen Argue, Countryman, Hyde, Lummis, Rollins and Tice. Opposing were Aldermen Butler, Clarke Deacon, Duffy, Haig, Lattimer and Thomas.

The recommendation to build the fire hall on the tourist park and to purchase the Cochrane property to the south and turn it over to the Kinsmen Club to compensate for the loss of park property, was carried 10-4.

Approving the recommendation were Mayor Potter and Aldermen Butler, Clarke Countryman, Deacon, Duffy, Haig, Lattimer, Thomas and Tice. Opposing were Aldermen Argue, Hyde, Lummis and Rollins.

U.K. to Purchase All Canadian Cheese Available

The Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board will purchase all the cheese it can procure between now and October 31st, it was announced today by C. N. Heath. Cheese purchased will be for export to the British Ministry of Food.

Mr. Heath said that approximately 12 million of the 18 million pound cheese contract with Great Britain had now been filled but he emphasized their agreement with Britain was an open end contract. In other words the British Food Ministry will take all the cheese from Canada that it can get.

WEEDS LINE MADOC HIGHWAY

If anyone would like to see a first-class stand of weeds all they have to do is take a drive on the Foxboro-Madoc highway. There flourishing in all their glory is about as fine a crop of weeds of many types as could be seen in a day's travel.

Prominent amongst them is rag-weed which is said to be a main source of hay fever and for that reason alone its removal should be the concern of every land owner. It is rather disheartening to drive through a corridor of weeds growing alongside grain fields that appear to be reasonably free of such pests. Weed seeds spread and grow so easily.

In contrast to this situation are the clipped shoulders of the provincial highway north and south of the Madoc road. There the growth is cut right up to the fences and as a result the highway presents a nice, clean appearance.

It is late in the season, but not too late, for the county to get busy on this task and clean it up. The public and the neighboring farmers on the road are deserving of such action and the sooner it is done, the better for all concerned.

A UNITED FRONT

The signing of the Japanese Peace Treaty at San Francisco on Saturday by 48 nations of the non-Communist world was, at the same time, a triumph for the Democratic nations. They signed it despite the threats and scathing tactics of the Russian bloc. It is termed Russia's worst diplomatic defeat or more probably, Gromyko's defeat. It was a strong indication of the growing strength of the western powers for they are no longer cowed by Communist threats as they were two years ago when their defences were at low ebb.

The terms of the peace treaty are: Take away Japan's overseas empire, amounting to 45 per cent of the territory it owned when she made her attack at Pearl Harbor; obligate Japan to abide by the purposes and principles of the United Nations Charter in her intercourse with other nations; force Japan to pay limited reparations claims to the nations she overran, by bringing her former Japan to sign separate treaties with those countries which did not attend the conference and give her a choice of which China she wished to recognize — Nationalist China or Communist China. These terms will come into effect when ratified by the governments whose delegates signed the treaty.

Russia wanted harsher terms for Japan, but received no encouragement from nations outside her sphere of influence. Failing in that her chief delegate left the conference without signing the treaty and predicting the seeds for a new war have been sown. Those in a position to know believe the Russians will do everything to stir up animosity against the treaty throughout the Asiatic world, chiefly those who have suffered in the past through Japanese aggression. Being masters of propaganda there is a good chance the Communists will have limited success.

The treaty is, in fact, more favorable for our former enemy than it would have been had it been signed not long after the war ended. Then the bitterness over the memory of war atrocities and the attack on Pearl Harbor would have called for more severe measures, but the exigencies of the world situation call for a new alignment of nations against Communism. There is sovereignty in numbers and a co-operative former enemy can be of assistance in the common fight.

There will be much uneasiness over what successes the Russians will have in their efforts to stir up trouble, but meantime the treaty adds strength to the cause of the free nations. At least it shows a united front against the evil that threatens all.

PURGING LENIN'S FAME?

(Ottawa Journal)

From Moscow comes word that under a decree of the Kremlin the anniversary of Lenin's death, January 22, will no longer be a Soviet holiday.

Stalin's most authoritative biographer has told how Lenin, on his deathbed, wrote in his last will and testament his distrust for Stalin, and of how Stalin suppressed the document to gain control of the Politburo, a control which he later consolidated by liquidating Trotsky, Bukharin, Zinoviev, Kamenev and many another who won the revolution. Can it be that Stalin, inscrutable, mysterious, and implacable for power, has now decided to erase Lenin from Soviet history and mythology, leaving himself as the one divinity — St. Stalin?

The rifle controversy gains heat with the Belgians, as well as the British and Americans, claiming they have the best new weapons. They mean with nothing personal when they chose to demonstrate the fine new rifle by piercing six British helmets at a range of 1,904 yards.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The way we cook halibut in Canada, Lady, deserves to be a noble a fish. It is almost invariably filet. And if it isn't fried, it is grilled or pan-fried. Halibut, but in Canada is a dry, solid substance, more shape than taste that is, four small segments of fish arranged around a central bone like the six of clubs.

The flesh is dry and, of the consistency of pork. It has a good familiar fried-fish taste, but when you order halibut in any small English coastal town, or Scottish, to which the trawlers come home from far up to Greenland you get a dish as fabulous in flavor that you wonder how a country like Canada with three thousand miles of Pacific-Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic—can be so heedless of its own blessings. In these British towns, they steam the halibut. In plenty of the fish restaurants, they just won't fry it, or broil it. You can offer them money: they have their principles. The halibut that is steamed comes out a light and most delicately savored fish, with a thin sort of parsely broth to it. The difference between a soft and our Canadian version of halibut is the difference between a poached egg and an egg fried on both sides, with leather edges.

The nearest we are able to come to the British genius for fish is our Canadian fish and chips shops. In most of the big cities, we have restaurants that flatter or dignify themselves with the name of an English specialty. Some of them are pretty good.

But after a good few coastal towns of Britain, including also Boulogne, Calais and even Hamburg, the impression one gets is that Halifax, St. John, Montreal and Vancouver should set a standard of fish cookery that should enlighten and educate the entire Dominion. We just aren't aware of the gastronomic glory of fish.

RIGHT WAYS AND WRONG

Are you throwing away your life? Lots of people do. Some throw it away on drink. Some waste it in dissipations, a few in wallows in the mire. Others cherish grudges, and throughout their lives they are unforgiving and hateful to others. Many a person throws his life away because he makes the acquisition of wealth first on his agenda and pays no attention to human values—to his own heart, in the circle of his family, in the business and social world in which he moves.

But paradoxically enough, the Bible commends people who throw their lives away; only it is very careful to direct them as to how they are to throw them away. Said Jesus, "Whosoever would save his life shall lose it, and whosoever shall lose his life shall save it." It was the contention of the Great Nazarene that the way to find happiness is to forget about it and to keep busy in the living of an unselfish and useful life. When one does this, he does not lose his life; he throws it away. And behold, the bread he has cast upon the waters comes back to him later in the form of real happiness.

We have to throw away our lives and to throw them away every day, if we are going to be happy. But we have to throw them away according to the directive found in the Bible and not according to the fashion and fancy of the world.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

INCIDENT ALOFT

The man in the brown suit had a coffee in Winnipeg and smoked a cigarette. He looked through the window of the restaurant at the airliner being refuelled on the tarmac, a fat, gleaming cigar in a glare of flood lights. It was raining slightly, the service men on the wings were wearing wet yellow slickers. It was three o'clock in the morning, Central Standard Time. The man in the brown suit wished he were home in bed.

He had been in Montreal on business. In four days he had eaten too much and drunk too much and slept too little. He felt a strange, nameless, polecard reading "Occupied". A young woman, joining the flight at Winnipeg, had taken the side seat. The man, excusing himself, got by her awkwardly and took the window seat.

He reached up and snapped off the small reading light above his head. Then he fastened the safety belt about his middle, tilted his chair back to its farthest angle, adjusted a small pillow behind and his head and pulled a grey blanket about himself.

The airliner took off. The man in the brown suit looked down through the window, specked with rain, and saw the lights of Winnipeg recede and become swallowed in mist. Then he closed his eyes and prepared to sleep.

The Meeting

When the man in the brown suit felt the girl's hand on his he kept his eyes closed. He did not move his hand, but thought to himself, the girl is sleeping. Her hand has fallen on mine. He grinned to himself. It seemed a pity the kind of queer little accident that fitted his mood.

The girl's hand tightened on his. The man in the brown suit kept his eyes closed. He thought to himself, God Lord, I am being picked up. After all these years. He turned his head to the girl and opened his eyes.

Everyone in the plane was asleep. They had dim lights above the seats had all been extinguished. Only the faint blue dome lights above the aisle threw a dim glow through the cabin. It was enough to see that the girl was looking at him with a big smile.

The man in the brown suit saw that the girl had taken her cheek back to the inner level of his. She was young, perhaps no more than 24. She was blonde. She wore a small white straw hat. Her dark hair fell to her shoulders.

The man in the brown suit closed his eyes again, making no effort to pull away from the girl. Things were always a little unreal in flight, always especially charged with the orange fire of the exhaust vents outside your window and the thrumming of the motors and stars below the wing tips. Still, that was no answer to this off-beat kind of thing.

"Going home?" he asked.

The girl turned to look at him in the half light. Her hand was still over his on the arm rest. He was surprised by her voice. There was no sophistication in it, neither promise nor denial.

"Gosh, yes," she said. "And I'm never going away again."

And Farewell

The girl in the white straw hat talked until dawn was in the windows. She had been to New York for a holiday. She had been by herself. It had been the loneliest time of her life. She had flown all that day from New York to Chicago, Chicago to Winnipeg. Now she was a few hours away from home.

"I go back to work this morning, she said "and I can hardly wait."

The girl fell asleep somewhere over Saskatchewan. She had rested on the man's shoulder. When the airliner began to circle to touch down for Calgary he shook her awake gently. It was daylight. The girl looked down on the prairie. She began smiling. She was the first to leave when the plane landed.

The man in the brown suit watched from his window seat as she walked across to the airport building. She turned and gave him a last wave over the door. It said, "Howdy". The girl turned and looked back and waved. The man in the brown suit waved through the window.

Letter to the Editor

That's all there is to the little story except that perhaps an attractive girl in Calgary will read this and know that the man in the brown suit enjoyed his flight from Winnipeg. The man in the brown suit was I.

Farmers Could Raise Funds to Tell Story

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

There is a feature farm story from your news columns, under a Picton date, which unfortunately escaped my notice, by the above speaker to agricultural problems generally, but particularly to the difficulties and possibilities) in rural organization. It is not likely to flow from same. All in all, it was a most informative and refreshing address.

I would like to color this little letter with a gist of characterful quotes from the above address with one of which I agree and disagree. (a)—Co-operation is now developed—the power of labor. Through monthly dues, union funds are built up and used to be used in hiring high-priced lawyers, for advertising, lobbying etc. Nearly all legislation aimed by U.S. labor has been granted. These gains are used by labor to create these groups to buy their way"; and (b)—"Farmers have not the funds to tell their story to the consumers."

Now, sir, it cannot be doubted that the average farmer is in the financial techniques of urban organization and is very much up on the fact beam? On the other hand and on the proverbial basis of "where there's a will there's a way", I decidedly do not concur in the clean cut statement that farmers have not the funds to tell their story to the consumers".

A basic industry that can raise $375,000 within a single day, (Belleville Red Cross) farmers are doing via their agreed "one percent set aside" for their advertising campaign, that can make a contribution of an average of $4,000,000 under terms of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, annually can hardly be described as not having "the funds to tell their story to the consumers?" From my grass-roots viewpoint, the members operating along the agricultural trade lines, with incomes of $2.5 billions in 1950) have the story, the know-how, the leaders and the funds to tell it. Then if something conspicuously absent, perhaps it would be fair to define it as the desire, to tell their story to the consumers?" Once the rank and file of the farmers decide to emulate the techniques of their urban brethren in the direction of using the matchless, power, of modern advertising, they will be heard from, and bowl Organization in, of course the central need.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE PASSING OF THE ATTIC

Miss Margaret W. Brown, acting curator of the historic attic in the United States National Museum, states in a recent newspaper article that the old fashioned attic is a thing of the past, what with need for space and shrinking living quarters, and a more compact living plan. A long time ago, when pay is plentiful and to the attic, however, furnishing the family with numerous and valuable historic treasures for posterity to mull over!

Miss Brown said, the Smithsonian Museum in Washington has recently been enriched by a rare collection of clothing, and other articles of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, wife of the sixth President of the United States, given by her great-great-great grandaughter, the late Miss Mary Louisa Adams Clement of Warrenton, Virginia. One more attic relieved of its burden, but great gallery enriched!

There seems to be a general cleaning up of attics for I am informed that the Smithsonian Museum is dealing with items offered of great historic value, but with space lacking on their public premises. Perhaps the Smithsonian should have looked ahead and built an attic.

The cleaning of attics, however, is a good thing. It is far better to give away and distribute than to hoard, and give to moths and moths a holiday. Recently the newspapers were filled with the discovery of one of the most remarkable and valuable hoards in the history of literature, when bundles of well papers—hidden for a hundred years—were found in old boxes and trunks in an English attic. Now the entire literary world is rejoicing.

Why not Attic Cleaning Day, to sandwich into Mother's, Father's and Aunt Sarah's days? We can guess the treasures in old garments, books, letters, and utensils that may be of great historic interest to generations yet to be! Of course many an attic could well afford a good bonfire! Why should we cling to so many things of no earthly (or heavenly) use? Of course houses are the only ones concerned with the attic, but the larger homes are getting too expensive to keep up, and to dig with items of no value, thanks be, in the small apartments!

Personal Health Talks

NEVER MIND THE CHILD'S TEMPERATURE

There is no question in my mind, writes Mrs. P. J. B., that exposure to damp, cold weather does not cause or contribute to illness.

One night my two year old daughter ran outdoors after dinner in just a sunsuit. The weather had made a quick change to damp and cool, with a strong breeze blowing, he was out for perhaps half an hour. Two days later she had a temperature of 103.6. The doctor said there was evidence of infection; (he called it a cold) in her throat, although there was not and has not been any sneezing, coughing, soreness in throat or running nose. In fact no other symptom except the fever.

The doctor prescribed sulfa for 5 days and told me to keep her quiet and indoors.

Three days later, although she feels a little warm to the touch she seems to feel better. I am writing a hard time keeping her indoors.

When I called the doctor to ask, he said I should keep her indoors he said it has been his experience that it is better not to expose a child in a temperature to sudden cold breezes when the child might be tired and sleepy activity. To my knowledge the child has not come in contact with any one who has a cold, developed any illness.

I say, you refuse to explain why you took the child's temperature in the first place. I say, for the thirty-seventh time, it is standard belief that exposure to damp cold weather does not cause or contribute to illness.

As you describe the child's trouble, I gather she didn't have a symptom of any kind and wasn't any symptoms now, at the rise of temperature, that isn't a symptom. It might happen in a child of that age from wipe away.

Corns and Calluses

Cut out your article telling how to remove corns and callouses but lost it. (Mrs. S. B. A.)

Answer—Paint corn or callus with a solution of 10 grains of salicylic acid in one-half fluid-ounce flexible collodion, once daily for a week or two, by which corn or callus softens enough to wipe away.

Decoration Day Service Held By Legion Branch

Campbellford—Sunny fall weather greeted members of Branch 103 Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., when they turned out for their annual Decoration Day services on Sunday afternoon. The parade from the local armories preceded to the cenotaph for the service. Members of the Frankford and Havelock branches were also on hand for the ceremony. The Ladies Auxiliary of the local branch also turned out, and marched in the parade to the cenotaph.

Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church gave the sermon. He spoke on "Courage, Energy and Confidence." These were the words used by Damilyn in his speech to the French people at the close of World War II.

Comrade Paul G. O'Sullivan read the names of those from Campbellford who had fallen in combat during the last war, as well as the names of those who have passed away since. Rev. A. E. Toombe of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church read the scripture and Rev. H. S. Staples led in prayer. Capt. Cook of the Salvation Army read the psalm.

The Campbellford Citizens' Band was in attendance, and played during the service. Bandsmen Walter Lowe, Elmer Kelly, James Baker and Robt. Nichols played the "Last Post" and "Reveille".

Earlier in the day, the graves of servicemen who had fallen during the war as well as those who have passed away since, were decorated with flags.

Fell Out of Car

Campbellford — Three-year-old Donna Peever, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peever of Front Street suffered painful injuries to her head on Sunday afternoon, when she fell from the rear door of her father's car.

The Peevers were driving down Front Street with the little girl in the back. She accidentally slipped off the seat and grabbed the door handle to steady herself. The door opened and the child tumbled to the roadway. Mr. Peever was able to stop the car almost immediately, and he drove to Campbellford Hospital where the child was treated for head and face cuts.

She is reported to be resting comfortably this morning, little the worse for her experience.

Hand Mangled in Saw

Campbellford—Forty-four-year old Clinton McComb of Campbellford was rushed to Belleville Hospital on Saturday afternoon, after he had his right hand badly damaged by a circular saw. Mr. McComb was sawing some boards at his home when the accident occurred.

He was taken to the office of Dr. W. W. Baker, who treated the injured man, then drove him to Belleville Hospital. Several tendons were severed and the fingers of the hand badly mangled. Mr. McComb now has his hand in a cast and will not likely be able to use it for at least a month.

HIP BRACE

Vancouver. (CP)—A doctor at a children's hospital here has invented a brace which he believes will "almost lick" congenital hip dislocation. Previously children were forced to don heavy, waist-high casts.

LUCKY BOY

Windsor, Ont. (CP)—Two-year old Randall Sisson can thank his lucky stars that he has only a slightly wounded posterior after sitting down on a crochet needle. The 6 1-2 inch needle penetrated five inches into the boy's body just missing his spinal column.

Tax on Cars Excessive Says Rotary Club Speaker

The present situation confronting the automobile industry was commenting on the present tax described Monday as "a temporary downward fluctuation in a constantly upward trend" by H. J. G. Jackson, advertising manager of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, in an address to the Belleville Rotary Club.

"While we recognize that the "trend" of the industry is up we must remember that the word trend refers to the direction of the fluctuating movement—there are ups and downs—relatively good and poor periods. It does appear that the automotive industry is going to experience one of the 'down' movements after a post-war 'up movement'."

Reasons for the present trend were attributed to changes in the general market, scarcities of essential materials curtailing production and thereby reducing buying power, and the consumer's resistance to government taxes and credit restrictions on passenger cars.

$500 On Each Car

In the matter of taxation Mr. Jackson pointed out that government revenue in excise taxes on motor cars for the fiscal years of '48 and '49 amounted to almost 33 million dollars. This was a 2,500 per cent increase over the $1,300,000 collected in '39 and '40. This huge tax bite, which claims approximately $500 on even the "low-priced" cars is far in advance of taxes on any other consumer commodity over the same period.

To meet these altered business conditions, Mr. Jackson remarked that it "may be necessary for the industry to drastically curtail production to suit the demand of the market"—a practice made necessary by the nature of the product which "cannot be stored in quantity like butter until the demand for cars returns."

No Long Luxury Claim

The speaker also pointed out that industry is preparing a public relations campaign designed to inform the government and the public about the importance of the industry.

"We plan to prove," he said, "that the motor car is no longer the luxury that it was once considered. We plan to justify our claim that the present taxes and credit restrictions are unjust."

He then quoted from editorials in the Halifax Chronicle Herald and the Ontario Intelligencer greater service in the years ahead for the citizens of this dynamic, promising land of ours?

Progressive Community

Mr. Jackson prefaced his remarks with some interesting figures of the prosperity and size of the local market and its importance in the plans of national advertisers. He noted that this city has a per capita income almost double the average per capita income for all Canada, and that there are 22.2 automobiles for every 100 of population compared to the national average of 12.3. The rate of growth of this city since 1941 exceeds that of many other progressive communities in this Dominion.

"Yes, statistics, and your fine local paper, 'The Ontario Intelligencer', prove that Belleville is aggressive, growing community."

The speaker was introduced by Arthur Bateman and the thanks of the club were expressed by H. W. Gourley.

Seven Rotarians received birthday roses, a quartet of Dr. Marshall, Art. Francis, Ken Griffith and John Deacon vied for the affections of "My Darling Clementine" against the vocal blandishments of Bob Boyce, Mac Haig Ed Bernstein, and Perc McGuire, while Harry Gourley did his best to preserve harmony at the piano.

Two proposed inter-city Rotary meetings were announced and president Court Miller urged the members to take part in these inter-club gatherings.

WEDDINGS

BEATTY—MITCHELL

A pretty wedding took place recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mitchell, Wooler, of their granddaughter, Bessie Elizabeth, to Franklin Rhodes Beatty, son of Mrs. F. Beatty, of Cobourg, and the late Mr. Beatty.

The spacious lawn with background of evergreens and beautiful flower beds was an ideal setting for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. M. Thager of Madoc.

Artistic decorations of streamers, roses and a silver horseshoe led to an archway, under which on the arm of her father the bride entered the lawn. Her full-length white slipper satin gown had a fitted bodice with a lace yoke forming a deep V at the back, long pointed sleeves and loose tunic in front of skirt. A Mary Queen of Scots headdress held her embroidered net fingertip veil in place. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses and fern with shower of rose buds.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Donna, of Brighton, gowned in a nile green taffeta full-length dress, fashioned with Peter Pan collar. She wore matching mitts and corone headdress.

Ruth Mitchell, or Belleville, as bridesmaid, wore a yellow taffeta gown similar to the maid of honor, with white mitts and lily-of-the-valley headdress. Both attendants carried cascades of gladioli in pastel shades, tied with white satin ribbon.

The little flower girl was Patricia Bate, of Brockville, gowned in floor-length yellow taffeta, with corsage of pink rosebuds and matching halo headdress.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Clifford Dalman.

Groomsman was Mr. Howard Hall, of Colborne, Ontario.

The reception was held on the lawn where the bride's grandmother, in navy blue silker with corsage of pink rosebuds, received the many guests. Assisting her were the bride's mother in dove grey crepe with corsage of red carnations and the groom's mother in copen blue crepe with corsage of pink carnations, and with a white rose. A four-tier cake graced the centre of the tea table.

After the honeymoon the happy couple will reside in Cobourg, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests were from Brockville, Belleville, Frankford, Brighton and Cobourg.

MASON—RICHMOND

The marriage of F/O Mary Pauline Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Richmond, Napanee, to Flt.-Lieut. Kenneth Charles Mason, son of Mrs. C. J. Rose, of Montreal, and the late Charles Mason, took place at Trinity United Church, Napanee, with Rev. Noble Hatton officiating. Mr. Gerald McCaul played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage, by her father, wore a gown of yellow nylon net over taffeta, ballerina length, with matching veil and mitts. Her flowers were Talisman roses and stephanotis.

Miss Grace Richmond, of Belleville, was bridesmaid for her sister. She wore a gown of cinnamon lace over copper taffeta and a flower headdress of white and pale green, matching mitts, and carried a nosegay of Johanna Hill roses and stephanotis.

Flt.-Lieut. William Harvey was best man.

PARKEE—SYMON

Of wide interest was the marriage in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, at three o'clock, on Saturday, September 8, of Jane Isabella MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred J. Symon, to Mr. Edwin Morton Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Morton Parker, of Trenton. Rev. M. W. Healy, pastor of St. Peter's, officiated at the ceremony and was assisted by the bride's uncle, Rev. David McCullough, of Toronto. Ivy with standards of white gladioli banked the choirloft and the chancel of the historic church to form an attractive setting for a lovely bride.

Mr. Stanley Hawthorne played the traditional wedding music. The soloist, Miss Phyllis Beatty, sang Grieg's "I Love Thee" "The Lord's Prayer", at the beginning of the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Carol Symon, as maid of honor; Mrs. Gavin Windler, Milwaukee, Wis.; Miss Moira Watson, Madoc, and Miss Olive Jane Piper, of Montreal.

Mr. Peter Britton, Toronto, was groomsman. The ushers were Mr. Norman Armstrong, and Mr. Andrew Little, of Trenton; Mr. Alan Mackeyand Mr. Ian Stewart, Toronto.

The bride was an enchanting picture in her original gown of Evening Star nylon tulle and Chantilly lace over taffeta taffeta, the bodice of lace fashioned with a wide portrait neckline; the bouffant skirt, accents by a petticoline, was of tulle appliqued with lace and extended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion tulle fell from a Juliet cap of lace. Her flowers were stephanotis.

The bride's attendants were identically gowned in hyacinth blue nylon net over petal pink; the bodices pleated, the skirts of billowing net. Their headdresses of matching net were caught at the side with miniature feathered doves in burgundy. They carried bohquets of gladioli florets in shades of fuchsia and pink.

The bride's mother wore a gown of ash rose crepe and French lace; her hat of violet velour with flat flowers of fuchsia and violet. She carried a purse corsage of 'mums. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of navy sheer, her hat of navy ostrich feathers and corsage of gladioli florets.

A garden reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where Mr. and Mrs. Symon and Mr. and Mrs. Parker received with the bride and groom.

Many out-of-town guests were present from Trenton, Belleville, Toronto, Troy, N.Y.; Sault Ste. Marie, Englehart, Winnipeg, Brockville and Detroit.

For the motor-trip honeymoon through the Eastern United States, the bride wore a tailored suit of emerald green with brown accessories and corsage of 'mums. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Parker will reside in Trenton.

Popular Trenton Resident Feted At Farewell Party

Trenton. — Mrs. Michael Stromeiski, formerly Magdalene Robertson, was guest of honor at a delightful farewell gathering recently at the Hotel Gilbert, previous to her journey to Toronto for Western Canada, where her husband, Sgt. Stromeiski, of the R.C.A.F., has been posted.

A representative group from the Catholic Women's League, Altar Society, Children of Mary and the Choir of St. Peter-in-Chains parish, met to give tangible evidence of true appreciation to Magdalene for the generous gift of her time and talents whenever called upon.

Presentations Made

On behalf of the societies, Mrs. J. A. Keane presented her with a corsage of roses in which was placed a substantial cheque, as a token of the esteem in which she was held. Mrs. W. Andrieshyn expressed deep regret at her leaving, and said she would be greatly missed by all, because of her leadership so generously given.

Mrs. J. A. Kerr then presented her with a handsome leather handbag, as her personal remembrance.

Following the presentations the guests assembled in the spacious dining room where tables were attractively arranged. Refreshments were served by the following ladies: Mrs. H. Forge, Mrs. F. Kennedy, Mrs. J. Scaletta, Mrs. Alma White, Mrs. C. Bissa, Mrs. C. Bernard and Miss Mary Kerr.

Musical selections by Mrs. G. Bird and an hour of warm hospitality were enjoyed by all.

Thanking the hostess and all the ladies, Magdalene also expressed the wish that they would continue in their efforts as that the hope of a new organ could become a reality. She said she would always remember their treasured friendships and have a very warm affection for her home town, Trenton.

Sgt. and Mrs. Stromeiski will take up residence in Claresholme, Alberta.

Registration For Brownies, Guides Opens

The 1951-52 season for Guides and Brownies of Belleville, opened yesterday and extends until Friday, when Guide Captains and Brownie Pack will be on hand to take registrations.

There are five Brownie Packs in the town, which meet as under:

No. 1 Pack, Queen Victoria School, Tuesdays, 4:15 p.m.

No. 2 Pack, Queen Mary School, Tuesdays, 4:15 p.m.

No. 3 Pack, Kiwanis Centre, Mondays, 4:15 p.m.

No. 4 Pack, King George School, Thursdays 4:15 p.m.

No. 5 Pack, St. Michael's, Tuesdays, 4:15 p.m.

During the past few years, the number of children wanting to join Brownies have been far in excess of the Packs formed, the major difficulty being lack of trained leaders. It was found most unsatisfactory to have so many children in each Pack, and the procedure has been frowned upon by headquarters, who state that the number of children in each Pack should not exceed 24, under two leaders. All children must be eight years of age before the end of the year, and their names will be entered on each waiting list and they will be notified in strict rotation when a vacancy occurs. The children desirous of joining a Brownie Pack should apply to the Pack Leader on the day and at the place stated above.

Guide Companies are as under:

Company No. 1, St. Thomas, Tuesdays, 4:30 p.m.

Company No. 2, Bridge St. S.S. Rooms, Mondays 6:30 p.m.

Oshawa Girl Wins I.O.D.E. Bursary

Toronto.—Mrs. O. M. Martin, educational secretary of Provincial Chapter of Ontario, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, has announced the winner of the 1951 Second War Memorial Bursary for Ontario.

The award goes to Joscelyn Ann Cayley, 40 Hillcroft Street, Oshawa, Ontario, a graduate of the Oshawa Collegiate Institute, whose father died of a lung ailment acquired during service in both world wars. Miss Cayley plans to enter the modern languages course at McMaster University, Hamilton, this autumn.

This bursary, to the value of $1,600, spread throughout the university course, is tenable in Canadian universities. Only the sons and daughters of deceased or permanently and seriously disabled men and women of the Services, Army, Navy and Air Force, of World War Two are eligible. One of these bursaries is offered annually to each province under the Second War Memorial of the National Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, to commemorate the sacrifices of Canadian men and women who gave their lives in the defence of freedom during the Second World War.

If you were a bee, you could, as bees do, use your wings as a fan to cool the house. But while bees are busy ventilating, they can't be gathering honey. So hives with aluminum roofs (ten to fifteen degrees cooler) make bees more efficient. Some day aluminum houses may do the same for housewives.

Aluminum is an ideal insulator for hives — and homes. This is one of a dozen reasons why the demand for aluminum is growing so rapidly, and why we are building new plants and powerhouses to make more aluminum. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Science against pain

Science progresses: For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for the relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of insolubility, acidity and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN.

Why take DISPRIN?

Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) it permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

DISPRIN is now available at your Druggist. Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

WASHING'S NO PROBLEM NOW!

"Mummy took Auntie's advice"

"It takes seven colours to make true white," Auntie said. "One of them is blue. That's why you must use Blue in your wash. Just swish Reckitt's Blue through the rinse. It prevents that yellow tinge and you avoid taking chances with anything that may damage fabrics." Reckitt's Blue costs so little, mummy says, "and out of the blue comes the whitest wash."

15,000 Loggers Back to Work After Long Layoff

Vancouver, Sept. 11—(CP)—Across 15,000 loggers streamed back to work in British Columbia timberlands today after a two-month layoff caused by drought and the resulting forest fire hazard.

Heavy weekend rains prompted Forests Minister E. T. Kenney to lift the forest closure, imposed July 12, at midnight last night.

The closure had affected some 8,000 woods operations in the Vancouver forest district, which takes in the southwestern section of the province and Vancouver Island.

The record drought—including one stretch of 96 rainless days—sent B.C. about $40,000,000 in lost wages and lumber production.

Loggers packed onto every available plane and ship which would take them back to work. Airline and steamship companies said the rush would probably continue for another three or four days.

There was happy jostling on boat decks as loggers searched for nooks and crannies to throw down their bed rolls and sleeping bags. They had been scraping by on unemployment insurance cheques for weeks.

Operators now are faced with the big task of cutting enough timber to supply mills before winter weather closes the woods again.

Loggers have been asked to work overtime to catch up on the huge backlog of work. The logger's union, the International Wood Workers of America (C.C.L.), said it was a matter for negotiation between companies and locals.

The number of forest fires was cut from more than 100 to 30 by the weekend rains. All were under control.

Senator Calls On Senate Again To Approve Plan

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP) — Senator George Aiken (Rep. Vt.) called on the senate again Monday to approve the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power project.

He said he believes the United States is giving rather shabby treatment to Canada — "the best neighbor we will ever have"—on this project.

Canada, he said, "desperately needs" the power that would be developed.

He said the project would be entirely self-supporting and self liquidating.

The public works committee of the House of Representatives pigeon-holed on July 26, a bill to authorize the $800,000,000 joint Canadian United States St. Lawrence seaway project, leaving it up to Canada to decide whether to go on with the job alone.

Other attempts to get the project before Congress also failed.

Ten years ago Canada ratified a treaty to build the seaway-power project but it has been stalled in Congress since then.

Flagpole Sitter Down to Earth

Young Don Buchanan of Toronto, Toronto Maple Leafs' flagpole sitter, has ended a six week vigil in his 85-foot-high cabin in the sky. He climbed down Sunday afternoon after the Maple Leafs trounced Ottawa Little Giants 5-1 in the closing game of the International Baseball League schedule.

Toronto was edged out of the league playoffs Saturday when they split a doubleheader with Rochester 5-2 and 3-5.

DIES OF WOUNDS

Ottawa, Sept. 8 (CP) — Capt. John Kenneth Heath of Toronto has died of wounds suffered in Korea, the Defence Department reported Friday in its 46th casualty list from the Korean theatre.

Heath, whose wife Mrs. Marjorie Heath lives at Montreal, previously reported to have been injured in action.

Allies Deny Communism Valuable Base

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 11—CP—Bill Ross, Canadian Press war correspondent home from Korea on leave, Monday night said "the allies have denied communism a valuable base in Korea but they have done so to the detriment of the Korean people."

The red bearded war correspondent spoke at an open house meeting of the Sherbrooke Branch No. 10 of the Canadian Legion.

The lack of consideration for the Koreans prevalent among western troops has taken from them even their pride, he said.

"We have been brutal, perhaps but not on a scale that would alienate a whole people. Rather, we have humiliated them."

Ross said he disagreed with the statements of General Lawton Collins and assistant defence secretary Pace of the United States that the attitude of South Korea toward the allies was not deterrorating.

He said the blame for the superior attitude of the western troops rested squarely on the shoulders of home.

"The army has to take the sons we produce," he said. "Ideological training for the war begins right here at home."

On a short leave in Canada prior to returning to Korea to again cover the war for Canadian readers, Ross said he detected a "spiritual weariness" among the allied soldiers in Korea.

He said that all the stories about the dullness of Korea were true. "It is not possible for our boys to overpaint the hardships and dullness of Korea, a land which suffered immense hardships under two generations of Japanese occupation and over a year of war."

He said, however, that he felt the Koreans capable of building a modern state and extolled their value of human life, personality ties and their extreme honesty.

Ross was introduced to the Sherbrooke gathering by D. G. Amaron, editorial director of the Sherbrooke Daily Record, a fellow war correspondent in Italy and northern Europe during the Second World War.

PROTEST RATE INCREASES

Brantford, Sept. 11. (CP)—This birthplace of the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, has protested the rate increases proposed by the Bell Telephone Company. City Councillors last night officially disapproved any increase in the rates.

CAN'T STAND SMELL

St. Catharines, Sept. 11. (CP) —One French perfume which, far from attracting attention, is bad enough to scare off a pigeon, may be tried here to break up the annual pigeon menace. The pigeons leave their mark on many houses and business buildings and, to keep them away, Ald. John Franklin Monday night suggested that French marigolds be imported. Pigeons can't stand their smell.

RED INDIANS REFUEL

Maintenance members of the RCAF's 421 Red Indian Squadron, now training with the RAF in southern England, go about the task of refuelling a drop tank used on the squadron's Vampire jets. These auxiliary fuel tanks are fitted on the aircraft wings and are designed to increase the normal range. In an emergency, they be jettisoned by the pilot. Left to right are: Leading Aircraftsmen K. Second Suspect In Bank Robbery Held in Custody

St. Catharines, Sept. 11—(CP) —Arthur Grandmason, 38, of Buffalo, N. Y., was arrested Saturday night on charges of robbery in connection with a $8,000 bank robbery at St. David's, Ont., Aug. 16.

He was the second suspect arrested in the case. Last Friday in Minneapolis, Minn., William Earl Miller, 35, was held by Minneapolis police in connection with the robbery.

Grandmason was taken by provincial police as he attempted to cross back into the United States over the Rainbow Bridge at Niagara Falls. He was brought to St. Catharines jail for the weekend and will face trial here today on charges of bank robbery.

Provincial police discovered that Grandmason's car registration form was being held at the bridge while he was in Canada. A watch was being put on the bridge and all police cars in the area were alerted.

Two O. P. P. constables of the Niagara Falls detachment arrested Grandmason as he started through the Canadian customs to re-enter the United States.

The arrests came after Toronto police had consulted the underworld for information as to the whereabouts of the robbery suspects. Early last week they learned the suspects had fled to the U. S.

Miller was arrested in the same Minneapolis apartment in which Norman (Red) Ryan was captured two decades ago after he had broken out of Kingston Penitentiary and held up a Toronto bank.

The St. David's robbery occurred when two gunmen forced bank teller Ann Neufeld to open the safe. When she pressed a siren button, they fled. The escape car, a stolen automobile, was found abandoned here later.

Police said Miller admitted taking part in the robbery. They said he told them he and his accomplices fled down the Niagara River in a stolen motor boat and entered the United States.

Police said Miller told them he had used his share of the loot "living high."

Three Basic Food Items Cut in UK

London, Sept. 10.—(Reuters)—Britain, since the war the land of perennial shortages, today had official cuts in three basic food items and faced unofficial rationing in a fourth.

The weekly cheese ration fell from two ounces to 1½ ounces for each member of the family.

The butter ration fell to three ounces from four.

From next Sunday the bacon ration will drop—from four ounces to three.

Coupled with the new official cuts came an unofficial rationing of milk due to dwindling of supplies in the off-season.

Butchers were the only merchants to greet housewives more cheerfully today. They served an increased ration of two shillings a week.

This has risen from one shilling and 10 pence.

Next Sunday the meat ration will rise again—for four weeks only—to two shillings and two pence.

Earlier in the year the meat ration fell to its lowest ever, 10 pence a week per head, which allowed the housewife to buy one tiny chop or two square inches of steak for each member of her family.

WESTERNERS DRAW TICKETS

London, Ont., Sept. 11 (CP)—Two western Ontario men, one a Londoner and the other a Monkton farmer, learned Monday they held tickets drawn on horses in the Army and Navy St. Leger stakes, last of Britain's classic races which will be run Saturday at Doncaster.

They are William F. Kennedy, London, and Frank McKenzie, R.R. 1, West Monkton, both of whom stand to win $15,000, $25,000 or possibly $35,000.

BANCROFT

School Pupils Given Extra Week Of Holidays

Bancroft — Pupils of Birds Creek and Monteagle and Herschel township school area No. 2 have had an extra week's holiday because school officials have not yet obtained official permission from the Canadian National Railways to bring hydro-electric power across the track running from Bancroft to Maynooth to their new three-room school.

As a result of this the painters have not been able to work overtime to complete their work and the water and heating systems are electrically controlled.

However a stationary power plant was obtained by the board over the weekend and it is expected that the new building will be opened on the 11th.

GOLD TOWN

The name of Oro, Ont., near Lake Simcoe, is derived from the Spanish word for gold.

APPLIES FOR AID

Hamilton, Sept. 11. (CP)—Hamilton has applied for aid in constructing a 500-home housing project under the new federal and provincial government housing plan. To date 25 cities have applied for aid under the plan, although arrangements have been completed only in Windsor.

Cardy Purchases Three Resorts For $1,000,000

Montreal, Sept. 11 — (CP) — Vernon C. Cardy, onetime owner of the largest chain of Canadian hotels and a prominent horseman, Monday purchased three Laurentian Mountain holiday resorts for a reported $1,000,000.

Cardy, who sold his hotel interests in several major cities to the Sheraton Hotels of Canada, bought the St. Margaret's Golf and Country Club, the Alpine Inn and Ste. Adele Lodge. He once owned the Alpine Inn.

The golf club and the Alpine Inn are at Ste. Margaret Station about 50 air miles north of here and Ste. Adele Lodge is about five air miles further south. All are in the heart of the Laurentian summer and winter holiday resorts.

The Galt, Ont., hotelman sold his interests in several hotels in major Canadian cities for a reported 4,000,000 about 19 months ago.

He bought the golf club and the Alpine from the Sheraton chain for $520,000. The price was confirmed by Sheraton spokesmen. The Ste. Adele Lodge was purchased through a syndicate for a reported $480,000 from George A. (Mickey) Wilson of Toronto. Cardy took over from the syndicate today.

Military Hero, Marshal Papagos, Voted Leader

Athens, Sept. 11—(AP)—Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, military hero who smashed communist resistance in the Greek civil war, led decisively today in Sunday's voting on leadership in the government.

Unofficial returns from nearly 60 per cent of the nations precincts made Papagos virtually sure to take command of the country with an absolute majority in parliament; he appeared certain of from 90 to 100 of the 250 parliament seats.

With 1,603 of the 3,190 precincts to report, his new royalist Greek rally party led the ticket with 36 per cent of the votes.

Unofficially dubbed "the man on the white horse," Papagos is a right-wing leader counted to lead Greece out of the political insecurity it has had since it was liberated seven years ago.

RIDICULOUS SAYS ALDERMAN

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 11.—(CP)—The fortunate position of a man with a case of beer was compared to the unfortunate one of a woman with a baby carriage by city councillors Monday night. They were investigating a regulation which prohibits carrying folding baby carriages on city buses.

It's ridiculous to stop a woman with a carriage when a man with a case of beer is allowed to ride, they said.

Science in the Corn Field

- Has Increased Yields By One-Third
- Has Cut Man-Time In Half
- Has Pushed Canada's "Corn Belt" Many Miles Northward

Massey-Harris manufactures 207 different types of time and labor-saving farm machines that are increasing food production in practically every country in the world.

In just twelve years, Canadians have written a remarkable chapter into the progress and production of corn in this country. Crossing and recrossing hundreds of corn varieties, Canadian plant experts have developed superior hybrid strains of Canadian corn that are hardier and stronger . . . mature earlier . . . and yield up to one-third more grain or fodder.

Continuous research and field testing have aided engineers in developing modern time and labor-saving machines like the big, smooth-working Massey-Harris self-propelled Corn Picker (above) that picks more corn than 15 men using old-fashioned methods. These mighty machines have speeded up the harvest and freed more men for industry in times of national emergency.

Quick to recognize advance in plant breeding and modern machinery, enterprising Canadian farmers have steadily expanded hybrid corn growing in this country . . . harvesting hardy, bountiful crops to help make all Canadians more prosperous.

CHIPS ARE DOWN

Tonight the Redmen trek to Kingston where they engage the Dimsy Lads of that city in the first game of a best-four-in-five-series Intermediate League semi-final playoff series. The teams clash here tomorrow night in the second till then see-saw back and forth struggle which saw each team win a game "rather" emerges with four wins tucked under its belt.

It's going to be a tough series, especially on the pitching of both squads. In this respect the Leafs may have an edge on our side having one or more extra starting hurlers, but with the Reds Mosier at the moment better than the others and of a firefly they stand a better than even chance to pull the series out of the fire.

Ted Williams' crew emerged from the extra-several series with Batawa with the satisfaction they had won the right to a playoff berth the hard way, and there might be a spell of poetic justice in the final outcome, at that. Forced to play 33 games in a 36-best schedule they came through with flying colors in the final four tilts, defeating the proud Brockville Messes and Smiths Falls Rejects in consecutive games before trimming the Batawa Skowsers in two stra-ight tilts over the weekend.

Billy Strahan and Johnny Mowat hurled superb baseball in the final four games, and the team as a whole combay through with near-flawless fielding and some timely chrick-cheering proved to the rest of the loop that they are a definite threat for the league championship.

Playoffs, like any other baseball games, are definitely a two-way street and the luck of the ladies of fate is an unpredictable executive sons on another loop-voting spree.

BOWLERS ORGANIZE

Rumblings and mumblings in various quarters of the city interspersed with such familiar terms as "strikes and spares" indicate the bowling set is ready-ing for their annual organized assault on the maples.

* * *

Organized with what is said to be the strongest aggregation of clubs in its fifteen years of operation, the Major "A" League pays the lid off its 1951 season on Thursday night. Included in the roster are last year's champions, Belleville Golf, Moore's Chinkers, Calhaghan's Northern Electrics, Schwab's, the CNE and Lions Bowlers. Schwab's replace the Esquire for Men team which dropped out of competition this year.

President John Bernard and his executive have organized a new system of playoff. The 32-night schedule has been divided into two halves with the winner of each of each playing off for the league title and Labatt Trophy at the end of the season. This, of course, in addition to the regular prize-money battles.

"Competition will be much stronger this year" quoth the amiable John, "and we are looking forward to the best season in years."

OTTAWA PEEWEES HERE SAT.

Walker Hardware Peewees battle with the Ottawa Flyers youngsters in the first game of their two-of-three second round OBA playdowns here next Saturday. Ottawa's youngsters are as yet to be defeated and Walkers have but one setback chalked up against them in their seasonal operations. The game will get under way at the Fair Grounds at 2.30 sharp and it should be a nifty tussle between two smart young teams. The second game is slated for Ottawa the following Saturday while the home ice will toss the coin for the third-game verse if such is necessary.

THOSE MEN AGAIN

The Hooded Horror is no more. But he is still as crafty and cunning without a facial camouflage and he will stage a return bout here when Fred Atkins here again next Friday. Don't look now but here's who the "villainous duo" are up against. None other than Whipper Billy Watson and Billy Allen! Yessir, Atchagan is a fourmose against the hoodless head and Atkins. The former Mask will appear under his own name Lew Newman, if he means anything. Along with the fourmers will be "The Zebra" and handsome Lou Sjoberg in the semi-finals opposite Billy Allen. Ist festivities will be Mayes McLean and Billy Stack. Nuff said.

BURROWS BOYS GO AGAIN

Dick Burrowes auto racing meet scheduled for Speedway Parkland next Saturday should be productive of even more thrills than the highly-successful Labor Day meet. Sunday saw a large number of drivers out getting some gruelling practice licks for the meet and they tell us there were plenty of thrills furnished by the boys in their workouts. Burrowes has been scrupulously safety for both drivers and spectators and this has paid off in the practically entire lack of accidents this year. True, cars have been turned over a time but no posts have been ripped out, gravel piles disturbed or other property damage done. It just "aint" that kind of a track. Frederick traditions point to a stellar attraction down there this weekend.

'Sugar Must Win in 6', Says 'Mob'; Gate Indicates a $600,000 Sellout

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Sept. 11—(AP)—Strong betting support for middleweight champion Randy Turpin has dropped the odds favoring Ray Robinson down to 9 to 5 today in a very brisk betting market. The price may even fall to 7 to 5.

But if you ask the guys in the fight mob—boxers, trainers and managers—you'll find them split wide apart on the outcome. And most of them believe the 23-year-old Briton should be no worse than even money against Sugar Ray in their Wednesday night return title bout at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night.

The arguments for both the champ and the ex-champ rage through the night when the boys gather over their coffee in the Broadway spots.

But there seems to be a general opinion of one thing—that the 31-year-old Harlem dandy had better nail Randy within the first six rounds. Even the pro-Robinson crowd concedes that the unorthodox invader is apt to climb all over Sugar Ray if the bout goes beyond six beats.

"Get to Get Him Quick"

The pro-Turpin following is strongest among those who have seen Randy fight in England. It includes trainer-manager Ray Arcel, promoter Johnny Attell, and manager Bill Daly.

"Robinson has got to get him quick," said Arcel, "because that guy is never going to let up on you."

Marshall Miles, manager of Joe Louis, and two ex-middleweight champions, Rocky Graziano and Jake Lamotta all favor Robinson.

Sec. Office Boom

"Robinson" was the simultaneous reply from Arcel, Attell and Daly.

The discussions are going on elsewhere, too, and the box office is booming like a new old town surrounded by gushers.

The International Boxing Club already has taken in over $425,000 and the fight shapes up as a $600,000 sellout. The Polo Grounds can seat 55,000 for the fight with 15,000 of the chairs in the $30 field ringside sections.

Choice seats in the first ten ringside rows are being peddled for $75 and $100 by some speculators.

Meanwhile the fighters themselves took things easy yesterday. Both tapered off with a little exercise. They will break camp today.

Pesky 'A's' Can Heave Wrench Into Flag-Chasing Machinery; Yanks-Bosox Play Eight in 10

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York Yankees, Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox, reigning three-cornered battle for the American League pennant today after a welcomed one-day respite.

Cleveland, trailing the pace-setting Yankees by four percentage points, has the toughest road to travel. The Indians open their final eastern swing of the year in Philadelphia with a twi-night doubleheader with the pesky A's.

Including the twin-bill with the A's, the Indians are charted to play 13 games on the road before returning home for two single games against Detroit on the last two days of the season. Thus manager Al Lopez' tribe is confronted with the difficult task of winning the pennant on the road —a feat seldom accomplished.

Meanwhile, "the Yanks, who play 16 of their remaining 19 games at Yankee Stadium, entertain the last-place St. Louis Browns in a doubleheader.

Tribe Could Slip In

The only cloud in the Yankee picture is that the Bombers are booked to play the third-place Red Sox eight games during the last 10 days of the season. If the Indians enjoy a successful home stretch they could slip home first while the Red Sox and Yanks are at each others throats. The Red Sox, 5½games behind, clash with the fifth-place Detroit Tigers in Boston while the one-two teams are engaged in twin bills.

The A's break from a double victory over Boston Sunday, have jarred both the Yanks and the Indians of late, They knocked the Yanks off the top perch three times in 24 days and they've won two out of three from the Indians in Cleveland.

The Yankees and Indians clash in a two-game series at the stadium beginning Sunday. After the series the Indians invade Boston for a pair of games and then head west.

Meanwhile, Brooklyn Dodgers resume their drive for the National League pennant by engaging the Reds in a night game at Cincinnati. The Dodgers are 5½ games ahead of the runner-up New York Giants. The Giants take on the red hot Cardinals in a twi-night twin bill at St. Louis. The Cards have won 13 out of their last 14 starts.

Redmen Withdraw From Playdowns

The Belleville Redmen will not enter the Ontario Baseball Association, Intermediate "A" playdowns as formerly announced, Belleville Baseball Association president Jack Carson stated today.

With a team COBL playoff schedule in front of them, the Redmen felt it was not to their best interest to continue in the OBA series.

Stan Musial Tops National Hitters

New York, Sept. 11 (AP) — When Jackie Robinson was asked last spring whether he thought he could win the National League batting championship, he shrugged his shoulders and replied:

"Not as long as Stan Musial is in the league. That fellow is in one class. The rest of us are in another."

How prophetic Robinson's words were is born out Monday by the averages. Musial, St. Louis Cardinals' one-man gang, is way up in the clouds with a .370 mark through games of Sunday, Sept. 9.

"Not as long as Stan Musial is in the league. That fellow is in one class. The rest of us are in another."

How prophetic Robinson's words were is born out Monday by the averages. Musial, St. Louis Cardinals' one-man gang, is way up in the clouds with a .370 mark through games of Sunday, Sept. 9.

A three-way tie is shaped up for second place in the American League batting leadership.

Coupled at .333 through games of Sunday are George Kell of Detroit, Orestes Minoso of Chicago and Ted Williams of Boston. Leading the league again is Ferris Fain of Philadelphia with .322.

England Wins First Test Match

By E. F. HITCHMAN

Toronto, Sept. 11 (CP) — The first official three-day test cricket match between Canada and England ended Monday in victory for England by a margin of 141 runs.

After the match, the "ashes," symbol of cricket supremacy between Canada and England, were presented to R. W. V. Robbins, captain of the touring English Marylebone Cricket Club, by L. J. H. Gunn, president of the Canadian Cricket Association.

The visitors left Monday night for Montreal, where they will play the last two matches of the tour. They meet All-Montreal Tuesday and the West Indians Wednesday.

Montreal Royals Gun for Fifth League Title

(By The Associated Press)

Uneasy is the head that wears the crown but the pennant-winning Montreal Royals are still the team to beat as the International League's 19th annual cup playoffs begin tonight.

The rampaging Royals will be gunning for their fifth playoff title as they clash with the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons at Montreal Stadium. In the other semi-final series, the runner-up Rochester Red Wings will play the third-place Syracuse Chiefs, also winners of four playoff championships, at Red Wings Stadium. Both series will be best-of-seven.

Southpaw Chris Van Cuyk was started the season with Brooklyn Dodgers, will attempt to get the hard-hitting Royals off on the right foot when he opposes Buffalo's Rudy Minarcin before an expected crowd of 6,000 fans. Van Cuyk rung up an 11-4 record and had no decisions against the Bisons. The young Buffalo right-hander posted a 16-12 mark and was 1-3 against Montreal.

Another estimated crowd of 6,000 spectators will be on hand in Rochester to see a duel between a pair of Methanders. Bill Miller, who annexed 16 games against 10 setbacks will draw the mound for the Chiefs. His mound opponent will be Jackie Collum, who wound up with a 14-9 slate. Miller chalked up one triumph in three outings against the Wings, while Collum whipped Syracuse twice without a reversal.

Turner Seeks Shot at Title; K.O's Williams

Philadelphia, Sept. 11 (AP)—Gil Turner looked ahead today to a possible shot at Kid Gavilan's welterweight title after decisioning Ike Williams, Trenton ace, 10, he can stand on equal footing with his elders in the boxing world.

Young Gil proved that conclusively last night by hammering Ike Williams into helpless near 2 seconds before the final bell in their scheduled 10 round bout at Shibe Park. Williams weighed 144 3-4, Turner 145.

Williams, former lightweight champion and a master of ring science, had trained hard for this one, because a victory would have given him the opportunity to try to regain his title from James Carter, the man who beat him earlier this year.

Turner Undefeated

He stayed with Turner through the first nine rounds and appeared to have built up a slight edge in a very even fight until the final stanza.

But Ike, at 32, had tired badly and was easy for Turner's two-fisted assault that started midway in the fourth and ended at 2.32 when referee Pete Tonelli moved in and declared the Philadelphia Negro unable to continue.

It was Turner's 24th consecutive victory in his undefeated career as a welterweight, 21 of them knockouts. Williams, 11 knockouts. In addition to Williams, Turner counts such stalwarts as Cliff Beckett and Beau Jack among his victims.

Seven-Team Loop May Operate In District Senior B. Hockey

Possibility of a seven-team group operating in O.H.A. Senior "B" hockey in this district this season was evident at a meeting of representatives here last night.

Teams represented were Belleville Redmen; Peterborough Petes; Peterborough Lions; Queen's University; Gananoque; Kingston Nylons and a third Kingston team, the spokesman was George Patterson, former Nylon coach.

Genoque's request to operate as a senior "B" team in the schedule and drop back to intermediate "A" was turned down by a unanimous vote. The Gan. representative immediately told the meeting his team would operate solely as senior "B" club.

Seek Another Group

A threatened break-up of last year's grouping was seen in the declaration of both Peterborough clubs to the effect they will apply to the O.H.A. for a grouping with Stouffville, Markham and possibly a Toronto club.

The statement was forthcoming after it was revealed a third Kingston club was seeking admission to the group, as well as the possibility of a Gananoque entry. The Peterborough teams objected strong to the "long hauls" from their city to the latter town, as well as a third Kingston entry.

However they were in agreement with a suggestion that Gananoque games could be cut in two and be four-point affairs.

Timmins Edges Kirkland Lake

(By The Canadian Press)

Timmins Combines kept hopes for the Timiskaming senior baseball championship alive Monday night by edging Kirkland Lake Greyhounds 2-1 in the fourth game of their best-of-seven finals series.

The series now stands at two games for Kirkland Lake to one for the Combines with one game tied. Next game will be played tonight in Timmins.

Bill Tennant, on the mound for the winners, twirled a three-hit game and Deuce Patrovich, while tagged for the loss, allowed but six safeties.

Another Brother Act For Red Wings

Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 11 (CP) — The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have developed three "brother" combinations since 1927.

The two are Larry and John Wilson. Of Larry, Adams said Monday: "He is a tremendous skater and stickhandler." And of John: "He has more ability in placing and receiving a pass in full stride than any other player I have ever seen."

Winnipeg, Sept. 11 (CP) — The experts mulled solemnly a couple of weeks ago when big Annie Sinkus predicted that this was Edmonton's year.

On Sunday the Sinkus-coached Eskimos looked like a third-place club at best in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. They had lots of promising kids, backed by a sprinkling of veteran Canadian-born players. But the big-name imports on some of the other clubs figured to slaughter them.

Even the acquisition of Frankie Filchock to the Eskimos' signal-calling didn't seem to be enough. After all, Montreal Alouettes, with a much more powerful club, couldn't make the big step playoffs under Frankie's guidance last season.

Today, the words of the place-kicking fugitive from a Toronto sports-writing job rate serious consideration.

The Eskimos are enjoying a two-game lead with five victories in six starts, the latest a convincing 31-6 triumph over the highly-touted Saskatchewan Roughriders last night.

Meanwhile Calgary Stampeders were pulling into a third-place tie, two points behind the second-place Riders. By downing Winnipeg Blue Bombers 19-12.

Two Backs Missing

Despite the absence of two of their best backfielders, Ray Enright and Roland Miles, the Eskimos held Saskatchewan to a 6-6 score in the first half and murdered them with two touchdowns in each of the final two quarters.

Chunky Normie Kwong scored two Eskimo touchdowns, while Mike Xing, George Festeryga and Jim Chambers also crossed the Rider goal line. Kwong's touchdown also booted all five converts.

An unconverted major by Bob Pelling on a single on a missed placement attempt by Red Ettinger, both in the first quarter, were Saskatchewan's only points.

Stamps Win Second

The resurgent Stampeders scored three touchdowns in the first half to stay after losing their first four starts. Like the Eskimos, they built up their lead in the last two quarters from a 6-6 halftime score.

Even the presence of import fullback Dick Huffman, freed for action earlier in the week when a court ruling released him from a restraining injunction by his former employer, Los Angeles Rams, failed to help the Bombers, who floundered in the absence of injured quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs.

Reg Clarkson plunged across for two Calgary touchdowns and Sugarfoot Anderson scored the third on a pass from Stan Heath, the former Hamilton Tiger-Cat who went for sidelined Keith Spaith at quarter. Bob Shaw kicked all three extra points.

Bud Korchinski and Bill Flis got the Winnipeg majors, both converted by Joe (The Toe) Aguirre.

Reds Rip Ray, Root for Randy

Berlin, Sept. 11 (AP) —Interest in the Ray Robinson-Randy Turpin middleweight return bout at New York next month is so great it pierces the Iron Curtain.

Russian-controlled newspapers here, which rarely give space to capitalistic sports events, are running articles about the fight.

They are rooting for Turpin and are attacking American boxing and promotion methods.

PLANS CHANGED

Brantford, Sept. 11. (CP)— Wedding anniversary plans were changed to funeral arrangements Monday for Rev. Roy, 93, who died in his sleep Sunday night. He and his widow, Effie, were married 72 years ago Monday.

Golf Heads Roll, Favorites Beaten By Darkhorses

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 11—(AP) —It doesn't pay to be a favorite in golf's national amateur championship.

If you don't believe it, ask handsome Frank Stranahan, Toledo strongboy; Big Bill Campbell, former Virginia legislator, or Bobby Knowles, French amateur champion from Boston.

They were all mentioned as possible 1951 amateur kings. Today they're on the sidelines.

The big question among the 128 contestants left in the field at beautiful Salmon Valley Country Club is what famous golf head will roll in today's second round.

Unquestionably the elimination of Stranahan was the opening day's most astounding event. The stocky pig heir, who lost the 1950 amateur to Urzetta in a sudden-death playoff, was ushered out of the competition by a weekend golfer. It was Frank's fifth futile attempt to win the national amateur championship.

Stranahan Beaten

Bob Kuntz, a 29-year-old marketing administrator for a chemical firm rallied from a two-hole deficit with two holes to play to tie the match in regulation play, and then outgamed the bewildered Stranahan in the second of two extra holes. Kuntz, of Larchmont, N. Y., admitted to having played only 11 weekend games of golf since the first of the year.

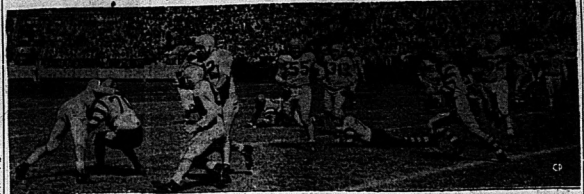
Campbell was almost slaughtered by Lloyd D. Ribger, White Plains, N. Y., 4 and 2. At one point Ribner was five up.

Bob Ecklz, Kenmore, N. Y., a 37-year-old insurance saleman whose only claim to fame is a 10-year-old New York junior title, uprooted Knowles, like Stranahan and Campbell, a Walker Cupper, came up.

Hex Hangs High

Another veteran to fall victim to the wave of upsets was Stanley (Ted) Bishop, white haired Weston, Mass., golfer. Bishop, 1946 amateur champion, received his comeuppance, one up, from Billy Joe Patton, 29-year-old lumber salesman from Morganton, N. C.

The hex hanging over favorites didn't bother Urzetta, who turned in the most workmanlike job of the day in disposing of E. Donnann, 36-year-old lawyer from Woodland, Kan. The undulating greens offered no problem for Urzetta's magic putter.



The opinion here is that it will take a good golfer, having a good day to stop Urzetta's rush toward a second straight amateur crown, a trick untumed since Lawson Little won in 1934 and 1935.

'Whipper' Hurt, In Hospital

Kingston, Ont. Sept. 11—(CP) —Kingston General Hospital reported today that William Potts (Whipper Billy), Watson, Toronto wrestler, was in "satisfactory condition" after being brought in early this morning suffering from undetermined injuries.

Hospital authorities were unable to state the cause of Watson's injuries.

RAMPAGING TIGER CATS

Hamilton Tiger-Cats continued their winning ways in the Big Four football league with a 21-2 shellacking of Toronto Argonauts in Toronto's Varsity Stadium Saturday. It was the third straight victory for 'Cats'. Here Rol Smylie (70), Argos' flying wing, is brought down, left, by an unidentified Hamilton player. The field seems to be full of Tiger-Cats as big Jake Gaudaur (22) and another visitor close in on the play. Other Hamilton players are outsides Vince Mazzo (55) and Joe Shinn (52), and inside Eddie Bevan, (31). —(CP Photo.)

Latta Drubs Read By 12-3 Score

Latta grabbed a three-two edge in the South Hastings Baseball League finals series when they defeated the Read team last night by a score of 12-3. The sixth game of the series will be played in the Fair Grounds here tonight starting at 8.15.

Latta grabbed a two-run lead in the second innings and the game went scoreless from there to the eighth. They added four more in that heat with the Read team rallying for three runs in the same round.

The winners exploded in the ninth for six runs and the victory.

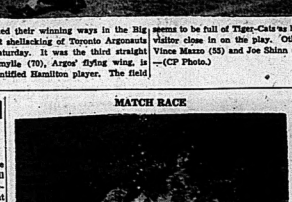
Bowling League Starts Season

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League will open their schedule on Thursday night Sept. 13 in Trenton, with eight teams again competing. In a meeting held last week, team names and captains were chosen, and the new league executive elected. In two very close ballots, Francis Murphy was elected league president, and Wayne Arbuckle secretary treasurer.



The 1951-52 teams and captains are as follows: Bobsmob with Bob Morgian captain; Crackpots with Ross Huffman, captain; Fireballs, with Jack Farley, captain; Hotshots, with Harry Hearns; Inkspots with Russ Hogg; Pinoppers, with Gene Lohnes; Rockets, with Ed Tomecek in charge, and Skeeters with Ray Sheets at the helm.

On Thursday night, Bobsmob meets the Hotshots, Crackpots and Fireballs tangle, Pinoppers meet Rockets, with Inkspots and Skeeters battling it out.

One more replacement has been made, with Elsie Couture replacing Eva Hearns in the Pinoppers. No further openings are available at present.

Baseball fans will well-remember the hustling crew from Chatham who defeated Batawa two years in a row for the Ontario championship a few years back. One of the members of the Chatham team was a hard slugging outfielder named Bill O'Rorke. The same Bill is taking over the assistant manager's job in the Bank of Montreal, replacing Bill Berscht who leaves shortly for Hamilton.

MATCH RACE

In a special three-mile match race at the Canadian National Exhibition, 18-year-old George Bevan of Winnipeg edged out Gerry Kerschner, 29, of Columbus, O., by one-tenth of a second after the pair spurted during the race and Bevan won only by an arm-length. Bevan had been second to Kerschner by about five minutes in the 10-mile professional swim the previous week. Bevan, farthest from camera, won the men's amateur swim previously. His time for the three miles was 75 minutes, 49 seconds. —(CP Photo.)

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 11—(AP) —Arthur Olfs, a golfer from Birmingham, Mich., started out in the National Amateur yesterday with a series of charts showing each hole in the difficult Saucon Valley course and how to play it. . . He consulted the chart each time he got here he drove off the tee. The stunt must have worked, since Olfs won his first match from William Hyndman. But it reminded Joe Dey, the U.S.G.A. secretary, of a guy with a more remarkable yen for information. At Oakmont in 1938, Joe observed a golfer who opened up a folded paper on each tee, studied it and stuck it in his pocket. . . Closer inspection revealed it was the description of the course printed in the tournament program. . .

Up at the Grossinger last week, Dick Turpin slipped away from brother Randy's training quarters to see a hypnotist put on a show for the hotel guests. . . Manager George Middleton watching him recalled a time when Dick had offered himself as a subject just after he had won the British middleweight title. . . Dick hauled off and put the Svengali to sleep with a right to the jaw."

Toronto, Sept. 11—(CP)—Solly Cantor and Alan McFater, both of Toronto, fought to an eight round draw Monday night in a featured lightweight bout at Maple Leaf Gardens. Cantor weighed 138 to McFater's 139.

To Defend Crown Within 6 Months Or Forfeit It

Chicago, Sept. 11—(AP)— The National Boxing Association will vote on a resolution at its closing session of a three-day convention today to make a boxing champion defend his crown within six months or forfeit it.

The NBA seeks legislation with teeth in it to require champions to face N.B.A.-specified logical contenders within the six-month limit or have their title recognition withdrawn.

"I would rather not be associated with champions who haven't the least idea of the dictionary definition of the word," declared Col. Harvey J. Miller, N.B.A. executive secretary. "It is a bad thing to have dual champions. But it's much worse to have champions who don't fight."

The N.B.A. yesterday passed a resolution urging a special tax on admissions to theatre television of live boxing bouts. The association recommended a conference with sponsors of theatre fight telecasts to work out some sort of financial return to the various state boxing commissions.

Wants Tax

Abe Greene, chairman of the New Jersey State Boxing Commission, said that he had already asked the Asbury Park (N.J.) theatre to pay the state commission a five-per-cent tax on all admissions to the telecast tomorrow night of the Randy Turpin-Sugar Ray Robinson title bout.

Teddy Waltham, executive-secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, urged that a world boxing commission be formed, operating in co-operation with all recognized national groups, to have the final say on world championship fights.

No action was taken on Waltham's proposal, but retiring N.B.A. president Archie Hindman of Hagerstown, Ind., said he would certainly will do all we can to cooperate with the British Boxing Board of Control."

For a young man who's GOING PLACES

Every young married man who is forging ahead in business or professional life has one great fear—that accident or sudden death will leave him with his unfinished work undone before he is able to adequately provide for his wife and kiddies' future.

The surest way of eliminating such fear is through ownership of an Excelsior Life "FAMILY INCOME" Policy which will guarantee his family:

★ $300.00-A-MONTH from date of death to a date twenty years after policy is issued.

★ PLUS $15,000.00 IN CASH at that time (twenty years hence) which may be used to purchase an annuity for his wife after the youngsters are grown up.

★ $15,000.00 INSURANCE PROTECTION after 20 years—if he is still living.

★ A SUBSTANTIAL "TURN-IN" VALUE at age 65, if he is living, which will add to his own "old-age" security.

Keystone of Main Street

The towns of Canada are often as distinctive as the two languages our people speak. Yet on these broad distinctions we have proudly built a united nation . . .

Wherever you live, whatever you do, your Commerce manager speaks "your language." That's his job—and the job of the men and women who work with him . . . to give you the kind of banking service that is the keystone of community progress.

You'll get good banking service at The Commerce—and you'll find the men and women who give it are good people to know.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The insurance companies may be overlooking a bet. They could get high premiums in bridge. See what they could charge for issuing a policy against your partner's wrong responses to your doubles.

A double is intended for penalty when (1) the bid is four or more in any suit or two or more in no-trump; or (2) any bid is doubled after the doubler's partner has bid. All other doubles are for takeout.

A double is intended for takeout when (1) partner has not yet bid; and (2) the doubled bid is less than four in a suit or less than two in no-trump. Except in some odd spots that need no mention here.

Suppose south started with an opening bid of one heart and west passed. If north now bid three hearts and you doubled with the east hand, it is for a takeout.

You see, the bid is only three in a suit. A double of three in a suit is not for penalty if partner has not yet bid. So, if south does not bid again, your partner in the west must bid something.

Suppose south started with an opening bid of one heart and west passed. If north now bid two no-trump and you doubled with the east hand, it would be for penalty.

True, your partner has not yet bid. But, the doubled bid is in no-trump, and it is not less than two. So, it makes no difference whether partner has bid or not. It is for penalty.

It is not always the size of the bid that decides the nature of a double. It may depend on whether the doubled bid is in no-trump. Watchout for that.

Plenty of Power As Glen Roy Wins Round-Robin

The simple single, so much favored by baseball coaches, was a social outcast just evening as Glen Roy Athletic Club blasted four home runs, a triple, and two doubles to plate 11 runs for an 11-4 victory over Howe and Hagerman in the final game of the Commercial Softball League's intermediate A round-robin tourney for the city league title.

The win left the AC's in first place with a 4-2 record while the loss dropped the Howe-Hags into a second place deadlock with Point Anne at 3-3. The Pointers and the Plumbers will meet Wednesday night at 7.00 p.m. at the Alemite Field in a sudden death game to get a competitor for Glen Roy in the best-of-three finals.

Mike Tomaso opened the scoring in the second inning with a home run to left field driving in Keith Baldwin who had taken first on an error. This smash, and Lyle Corbett's first inning double, and third inning triple, which failed to produce a run, provided the only ripples of excitement in a desultory start.

Homer Breaks No-Hitter

Don Adams put the Plumbers back into the fray in the fourth when he broke up Don Boyle's no hitter with a line drive home run into the right field fence, Don's fifth inning single plated brother Al, who had singled in front of him, to tie the game. "Widge", who had taken second on the play at the plate, stole third but was nailed trying to slither home on a passed ball.

Keith Baldwin singled and Lyle Wannamaker came out of a marathon batting slump with a tremendous home run to left field to send the AC into a two run lead in the sixth. Don Boyle led off with a homer in the seventh for Glen Roy as the butter makers went on to a three run rally with singles by Jack Hunter and Bill Corbett, and a double by Keith Baldwin.

A walk to McGregor and a double by Al Adams counted two runs when Jack Hunter caromed the ball off umpire Barnes at third base in an attempt to catch Al at third with his relay from left field.

Corbett Great at Plate

Bill Corbett completed a great night at the plate for Glen Roy when he smashed a home run to right field in the ninth with Doug Sword aboard. The blow, his fourth in five appearances, very neatly complemented the single, double, and triple he had hit earlier as he batted in the cycle.

Three more singles drove in two runs as the GR's counted four in the final frame.

Don Boyle toiled the route for the winners walking five, striking out six, and giving up seven hits. His slow ball was working to perfection and baulked him out of most of the tight spots.

Al Adams worked furiously in a losing cause, walking only one, striking out two, and giving up 15 hits for 11 runs, Poor, and at times lackadaisical, support added to his woes. He contributed a single and a double in four trips while brother Dog led the team with a home run and a single in three official appearances.

Lineup:

Glen Roy: J. Hunter lf; Sword 3b; Corbett 1b; Mallory c; Baldwin ss; Tomaso lb; Wannamaker cf; Culkin rf; Boyle p.

BLIND REFEREE

Charles Medwick of Cleveland, O., left, is completely blind, but is a top table tennis referee. He judges by the sound of the ball hitting the table; he says he only has trouble during doubles matches but the players are very co-operative. He officiated at the Canadian National Exhibition tournament. With him here is Martin Reisman of New York, U.S. National Table Tennis Champion, who was entered in the C.N.E. competition. — (CP Photo.)

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

"The big thing" in a Canadian judges' decision in the case of star tackle Dick Huffman was that the National Football League's standard player is "completely legal." N. F. L. commissioner Bert Bell said Monday in Philadelphia.

He was commenting on the decision by a Winnipeg court judge who declined to grant a permanent restraining injuction sought by Los Angeles Rams, Huffman's 1950 employers, to prevent Huffman from playing football with Winnipeg Blue—Bombers.

"The only point of difference," Bell said, "was that in the U. S. the judge held that the option had been properly executed while in Canada the judge held that it wasn't.

"The Huffman case is a Ram responsibility entirely. They can appeal and they will appeal. But from the league viewpoint as a whole it is gratifying to know that the contracts are legal."

Vancouver St. Andrews Monday night wiped out a two-goal deficit and went on to defeat Winnipeg Scottish, 4-2, for their second straight victory in a best-of-three western Canada soccer final.

St. Andrews won the opener, 2-0, here Saturday night, and now will meet the winner of the eastern final between Toronto Ulster and Montreal Italia-Canadians.

Montreal Italia-Canadians pulled even with Toronto Ulster United Monday night in the hunt for the Dominion Cup semi-finals. A 2-1 win on Monday night's encounter after losing the opener to Toronto. The deciding game will be played here tonight.

Al Balding of the Toronto Islington Golf Club played his last competitive game as a golf assistants at Toronto Monday when he won the Ontario assistant championship tournament at the Canadian Professional Golf Association 69 and 70 for a total of 147.

Paul Bellanger of Montreal Monday won the closed men's singles title in the final round of the Canadian National Exhibition table tennis tournament. He defeated Rat Sarachaman of Toronto. Audrey Perkins of Toronto took the women's closed title by defeating Huguette Parent of Montreal.

Former major league baseball star James Herman (Hank) Deberry died Monday night at his home at Savannah, Tenn. He was 56. Until the time of his death, Deberry had been active as a New York Giant scout.

Frank Clair, coach of the Toronto Argonauts said Monday there was a "distinct possibility" that two additional American players—a halfback and an end—would join the Argos in training some time this week.

Clair said that the team had to have insurance for injuries.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, September 12

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Some days when we really accomplish most we have most restrictions. Learn to think carefully before acting. This is a day of many helpful rays for the conscientious do-er.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—As with Aries, forethought and sound planning will put over day's duties in better style and prevent having to redo later. Good day generally; better with your capable help.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—The original and unique are favored but there must be common sense, wise purpose back of them. Put a workable foundation beneath bright, new ideas and they will be profitable, sought after.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Forge ahead with slated projects and tasks, but first stop to arrange the urgent. Important ones for immediate attention, then follow with others in order; day will prove more fruitful.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Tone down some of your usual exuberance that your talents and other natural gifts may register better for achievement. Day is beneficial but needs right direction, sensible conservativeness.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—As with Gemini, be as original and creative as you will, but have practicality, good sense with you all the way. Authors, reporters, all brain workers have an early "go" sign. Cheer!

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Your usual willing and evenly balanced self should have no trouble turning in a good day's work. Important you be accurate, sure about urgent details. Have faith, don't strain.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Avoid hasty, spasmodic decisions, action. Do be your efficient self and you can accomplish a great deal. Have system, don't procrastinate early in day and you will earn leisure.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Grand indications for useful, purposeful endeavors, various lines of industry, manufacturing, building, needed commodities in general. But, sensible caution is urged, too.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—A convincing day for the ambitious one, the sound planner and reasonable thinker. Capricorn is capable of all three when working true to his, or her, fine God-given nature. Forward, now!

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—A good, peppy start today can bring you to a successful finish when work hours are over. Good news in offing.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Your imagination and intuition are high and can be very helpful this rather intriguing but progressive day. Don't fear to try new, promising ideas and equipment that can advance projects.

YOU BORN TODAY: Kindly, sensitive, gracious, fond of intellectual people and activities. Can gain confidences, and keep them. Of inquiring mind, may have unusual ability to write; talent for medicine, analyzing, decorating, landscaping. Often equally fitted for mechanics. If true to natural gifts and following God's laws, you will do thorough job at whatever your life's work. Many noted journalists, actors, authors born in your sector of the Zodiac. Keep impoving, pray always for guidance.

London, Sept. 11—(Reuters)—Britain hits Iran where it hurts — in the pocket — by making it tougher for the oil country to get dollars.

A treasury statement said the British government, which lost a rich oil source when Iran nationalized the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, could no longer make dollars freely available not supply Iran with scarce goods.

"The cessation of exports of oil from Iran not only removes the justification for these exception facilities but also makes it necessary for the United Kingdom to spend large sums of dollars on replacement oil," the statement said.

Iran enjoys "exceptional privileges" which enable it to convert sterling into dollars and to get actual dollars where these are required for its trade, the statement said.

These privileges were granted by Britain because of advantages derived from her oil trade with Iran. The advantages had gone since oil supplies were stopped through the dispute over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Iran, though not a member of the sterling countries for which Britain is the banker, must ask Britain's permission to convert sterling into dollars.

Male Member Dancing Team Never Had Talent for Dancing

By JAMES R. BACON

Hollywood, Sept. 10. —(AP)— Frank Velox, male half of the world-famous dance team Velox and Yolanda, says he never had any talent for dancing.

Velox was born in Washington, D.C., son of a Latin-American mother and a Dutch father. Yolanda, his sweetheart and wife since teen-age, was born in New York City.

They met at a high school dancing party in New York and entered a dance contest as a lark. They were eliminated in the first round.

That sudden-death elimination hurt the Velox pride. With the attractive Yolanda he began a serious study of dancing. He created new steps and the two practised them.

They entered more contests and lost, but finally they won one.

They never lost after that. Because so much of their success depended on music, he taught himself to play the piano.

"I had to," he says, "to understand what the musicians were talking about."

After he learned to play the piano, he started writing songs mostly tangoes and rhumbas. He composed much of the background music for the Velox and Yolanda dance arrangements.

When the Velox family grew—they have four children now—the team temporarily retired from their world tour to stay home.

Five years ago, Velox opened a dance studio and employed seven persons. Now he employes hundreds in studios across the United States.

He hopes eventually to make more money out of the dance studios than he did on the stage. That would be quite a figure, for Velox and Yolanda grossed as much as $25,000 a week on their last concert tour.

Irving Berlin's Songs Made Millions for Chosen Charities

New York, Sept. 10. —(AP)— "Don't get me wrong," said Irving Berlin. "I'm not knocking money. But I'm more impressed with accomplishment."

Money or accomplishment, the 63-year-old composer can find satisfaction in either direction. He has written more than 800 songs, dozens of which have engraved themselves into American culture as permanent hits.

This has earned Berlin a fortune and has made more than $10,000,000 for others as well.

That much has been earned by music which Berlin turned over to various charitable organizations.

Thirteen years ago, when Kate Smith introduced "God Bless America", over the air, Berlin gave it away, with all its royalty rights, to a Youth Fund he set up. Since then, that patriotic ballad has earned $194,000.

But that's small stuff, in the Berlin book of philanthropy.

The biggest single item is "This Is The Army" the morale-pumping Berlin musical which opened on Broadway in 1942, played all over the world for three years and then was converted into a movie.

All the income from that one show was assigned to the Army Emergency Relief Fund. Since the opening night in 1942, "This Is The Army" has earned from all sources, $9,555,586.44, plus $350,000 for British charities.

Berlin provided the exact figure because he's justly proud of it. No other single war-business venture ever brought charity more money, he pointed out.

Besides all the other Berlin songs and the amount they've earned for various organizations; Berlin has given to the Army Air Force Foundation; "Arms For the Love of America", $3,000 for Army Ordnance personnel; "Any Bonds Today", published noncommercially for the Treasury Department but its recordings earned $6,000 for Ordance personnel; "Angels of Mercy", $6,000 for the Red Cross; "Give Me Your Pride, Your Poor", $3,000 for "The God Bless America Fund".

Girl Fighter Given Ear Of Bull Killed

Juarez, Mexico, Sept. 11—(AP) —Patricia McCormick today had the ear of the bull she killed—her reward for courage in the bull ring.

Patricia, blond, pretty and 22, years old, entered the Plaza de Toros to face the huge beast.

With grace and precision the Midland, Tex., girl made intricate passes to taunt the bull. But soon she became lured in their intricacies.

She stood so close to the bull that it lifted her on its horns and threw her at its feet. She was trampled, but she got up to start again.

The crowd yelled until it was near-hysterical.

"Get that girl out of there," one woman yelled.

But Patricia came back with her sword to kill the bull. Her first try missed. Her second thrust was far back, but finally the bull staggered and toppled. Patricia stood in the ring, her slacks and blouse smeared with the bull's blood.

The crowd went wild. Tolerant judges awarded her an ear of the bull—usually given only for unusually-excellent performance.

She had fought in rings before but yesterday she killed her first bull.

DRAG LAKE FOR BODY

Sudbury, Sept. 10 — (CP) — The south end of Onaping Lake, 50 miles northwest of here, was dragged today for the body of Ronald Davis of Sigwood, Ont.

The 20-year-old lowerman from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests lookout tower in Antrim township failed to report back after calling for his mail at Smith's Camp last Friday.

A paddle and a gasoline can were found floating in the lake. It was feared his canoe upset in heavy waves.

Vancouver's great boxer Jimmy McLarnin punched his way to a three-round knockout over Al Singer, lightweight boxing champion, at New York 21 years ago tonight. The title didn't change hands because McLarnin was over the lightweight limit, later rulling the welterweight division.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

Thus Mayor Crookes was being checked and double-checked during those late-winter, early-spring months. But so far council had nothing on him. Public Works Chairman Don French and his committee faced with a demand from the ratepayers for needed improvements in the sidewalks, the streets, and not aware that they were putting their fingers on the possible course of the mayor's income, decided to look into "Brown Paving", a name that had appeared so often in the books of the municipality for several years. What was "Brown Paving?" "Brown Paving" had its office in a small frame building on a side street. The manager was a big, good natured man by the name of Tom Dobson. The yard behind the office was cluttered with machines and vehicles and the materials for paving streets, rebuilding or repairing sidewalks. But who were the men at the head of Brown Paving?

The Public Works Committee, quite unaware that Lance Bradley had instructed his saws-hawks to get the proper dope on this organization some time before, put its foot down on any further dealings with Brown Paving until something more was known about it. But since The Ensign's Bill Artlet and Terry Holland had been at work on the case for some time now, they produced the required information almost before the town committee was well started.

The reporters discovered that "Brown Paving" was merely a name, eleven big brown letters painted over the name of a city contracting firm. Since Artlet and Holland were city men, with city connections, they learned that all the machines and equipment bearing the name Brown Paving and used in Emerton were under lease to three men, believed to be Mayor Crookes and ex-Councillors Bill Crait and Ed. Maker. Manager Tom Dobson and his staff of assistants were on the payroll of the parent company. Lance Bradley turned his reporters' information on Brown Paving over to the Council.

With such a valuable tip in their possession, the public works committee searched the town records from the date Brown Paving had first appeared and discovered that while this paving outfit had secured its first job from the town by tender, from then on no further tenders had even been required of it. It had simply gone on and done any work needed, put in its bill to council and had been paid by cheque signed by the chairman of the finance committee and the mayor. The total amount of money paid by council to the Brown Paving in some six years had been in excess of thirty-five thousand dollars.

Clerk Tressurer Jenners stated that all cheques had been made out to Brown Paving and cashed by Manager Tom Dobson. He produced some of the paid cheques as proof that that was so. So far so good, but where had the money gone from there? If Crait and Maker and Crookes had received their share of their profits from Manager Dobson, how could Council prove it, if Dobson refused to talk? Was there a bank manager in Emerton, who was in the know, who would divulge the secrets of a good customer? Could Crait and Maker, ex-councillors now, be bluffed into telling, if they were guaranteed that Council had no intention of prosecuting them. This was a far-fetched proposition at best, since Council was not prepared to say that the work done by Brown Paving had not only been well done, but reasonably. As a matter of fact, Council had no desire to prosecute any person at this stage of the game. Of the three men who had broken their oaths of office, two were out of council now, and it was only fitting that Mayor Crookes should follow them into retirement—and soon.

Thus while the Public Works Committee, the whole Council, endeavored to pin a breach of office on Mayor Joe Crookes in an effort to force his resignation, the other Council committees were busy with matters that pertained to them.

Chairman Charles Sager's Industrial Committee started a long dormant Board of Trade into life and action to list and advertise all available industrial sites in the town as a means of securing more industries while Civic Improvement Chairman Joe Simpson's committee asked for tenders for the complete renovation of Town Hall, improvements to the market building with special attention to accommodations for the farm folk who spent long hours there particularly on Saturdays. All these moves were receiving the blessing of radio station and newspaper.

As representatives of firms interested in starting a shoe factory and a textile mill and a box factory came into Emerton to look for factory sites, Dad Roberts became enthusiastic about it. More industries—meant more homes, more people, increased population, more readers of The Daily Ensign.

But to get back to Council, Brown Paving, and Mayor Joe Crookes. As matters stood and without the mayor knowing it, Council found itself up against a stone wall. Council had information that the mayor was one of the men who had split the payments that had been made to Brown Paving for the work it had done for the town, to the extent of thirty-five thousand dollars, but it couldn't prove it. Could Council bluff the mayor into thinking that it knew the whole story from beginning to the end? Could they make the mayor believe that no matter how he played his hand, they had the correct answer for him and that he must lose?

The night before council meeting, the members gathered in Lance Bradley's private office with the blinds drawn. They discussed the matter from all angles. What to do? Would they take the bull by the horns? Would they take the risk of having the mayor demand that they produce the proof of any charges that they were to make against him? Failing to produce that proof, were they willing to take the consequences, in all probability a suit for damages?

After much argument pro and con, the councillors decided to take a chance, run the risk and to charge the mayor with malfeasance—to demand his resignation. If they couldn't bluff him, then and only then would they know what his next step would be.

The following evening, under the heading of "other business" towards the conclusion of the council meeting, Councillor Dr. Johnson stood up to carry the torch for his fellow councillors.

Dr. Johnson charged Mayor Crookes with being one of three men who had used their office to enrich themselves at the expense of people they had taken an oath to serve, to benefit themselves to the extent of thousands of dollars. He said that he possessed the names of all men concerned, he said, now that Brown Paving was just a cover-up for a firm of city contractors who had leased Brown Paving for every split, that Brown Paving had been given contract after contract without tender, and while cheques had been made out to Brown Paving these cheques had been cashed by Manager Tom Dobson and the proceeds divided four ways, Mayor Crookes receiving his share.

"Under the circumstances and acting on behalf of this council of the town of Emerton, I demand that Mayor Crookes resign his seat," Dr. Johnson said; "if he fails to do that, council has decided to take the necessary steps that will lead to his impeachment."

"Make it a motion, and I'll second it," Lance Bradley spoke up.

The charge was made into a motion, the motion was put by the clerk and passed unanimously.

As Dr. Johnson pressed his charges against Mayor Crookes, as the motion asking him to resign was carried, the mayor's small eyes flashed angrily. He said in rebuttal that he had nothing to hide. He had always performed his duties as mayor of Emerton as he had seen fit, without fear or favor. He informed Council that he was not surprised at its actions. He had known from the beginning that the members were lined up against him, their object to get him out of the mayor's seat. As to being guilty of wrong doing he had nothing to say. He would place the matter in the hands of his lawyer in the morning. Council would know his answer at a special meeting to be held "a week from tonight".

And that left the Emerton town council members with something serious to think about for the next few days. For, if Mayor Crookes' lawyer demanded that council produce the evidence that Mayor Crookes had received town money through Brown Paving, and if such proof could not be produced, the mayor would certainly make them pay for their folly. Mayor Joe Crookes was that type of man.

At Lance Bradley's request, Reporter Bill Artlet who was present to cover the meeting, did not tell Ensign readers next day about the charges made against the mayor, the demand backed by motion that he resign his seat. But the paper's star reporter was able to make the headlines with something else, another story that had been in the making about the time council was adjourning.

"What's new?"

A BANK PULLS UP at the end of his day's run, it's just his friendly way of saying "hello". But if there is some important development in town, he expects his friend the bank manager will know about it: ... plans for enlarging the school ... the chance of a new factory opening up ...

It's part of the bank man's job to know his community. His customers expect him to know "what's new" in other parts of Canada and elsewhere, too ... business facts, leads to new markets at home and abroad for farm as well as factory.

You will find your bank manager well posted, and ready to serve you. Chartered banks work that way.

Commission Presents Plan To Transform Harbor Islands Into City for Play and Sport

Toronto, Sept. 13—(CP)—The city planning board and the harbor commission today presented a plan to transform the Toronto harbor islands into a 1,001-acre city for play and sport.

Under the plan, the islands—now a summer residential area—would be transformed to accommodate the present 300,000 visitors, the Sunnyside amusement park, 10 miles of beaches and a Henley-sized regatta course.

In their present state, officials said, the islands cost the city $1,000 a day. Under the new plan, officials hope to create a self-supporting asset.

The west of the islands which extend from the eastern to the western edge of the harbor, would be raised three feet and their entire topography changed by extensive fillings. Lagoons but only would disappear.

A four-lane tunnel under the western gap of the harbor would connect the mainland to a four-lane divided boulevard running across the islands to their eastern tip.

Seventy-four acres along the lakefront would be set aside for apartment-blocks, hotels, a shopping centre, an automobile park. Two residential areas, comprising 37 acres and 22 acres, respectively, are planned.

The East End Riverdale zoo would be transported to an 88-acre park area near Gibraltar Point, and the Regatta course, now unusable, is to be shortened from one mile, 550 yards—Henley size—with Leaway on both ends.

The plan is expected to come before city council next month.

No estimate of construction costs was given, but harbor commission chairman W. R. Bodger said the "plan is economically feasible."

He added that the islands are now "a century behind. They're in the Victorian stage. We want to bring them up to 1951."

Hollywood, Sept. 13. (AP) Lana Turner is calling it quits after three years of marriage with millionaire sportsman Henry J. (Bob) Topping.

They quarrelled several weeks ago. Topping, home, calmly on a fishing trip. Miss Turner's movie studio finally confirmed rumors that all was not well in the Topping household. It issued a statement that the couple has disagreed but that the situation might be clarified later when Topping returned from a trip.

Topping isn't back from the trip. Miss Turner's studio announced yesterday that she is taking "immediate steps to effect a legal separation." Her lawyer is to begin conferences in Chicago shortly with Topping's lawyers. They will try to effect a property settlement and details of the legal separation.

Her marriage to the tinplate heir was actually fourth, her first was to bandleader Artie Shaw. Her second and third to restaurateur Stephan Crane.

POPE CALLS UPON ALL CHRISTIANS TO FIGHT REDISM

Encyclical Letter Issued on Anniversary

Vatican City, Sept. 12—(AP)—The Pope called upon all Christians today to unite "under one flag"—the Roman Catholic Church —in fight communism.

An encyclical letter, described in an official Vatican summary as "of great importance from historical, doctrinal and pastoral viewpoints," was issued by the Pope on the occasion of the 15th centenary of the Council of Chalcedon, which outlined aspects of the divinity of Jesus Christ.

The encyclical, entitled from its first two Latin words, "Orientali Ecclesia", reaffirmed the Catholic church's doctrine that Jesus Christ has both human and divine natures, and reasserted its belief in the Primacy of the Pope, the Bishop of Rome.

The encyclical urged all Christians—but especially those of the east, the comodoles Catholics of Russia—to return to the Roman Catholic Church.

The encyclical was dated Sept. 8, feast day of the birth of the Virgin Mary. The document contains about 10,000 words.

Unite Under One Banner

It called upon all Christians "as soon as possible to unite under one banner against the fatal enemies that threaten this enemy." It asked:

"Who is not horrified by the hatred and the ferocity with which the enemies of God, in many countries of the world, threaten to destroy or try to uproot all that there is of divine and Christian?

"The scandalous conflict," it declaredon, held in 451, concerned itself primarily with doctrine on the nature of Jesus Christ.

"Divided and dispersed, Christians cannot continue to lose their strength in the unbridled hosts" of their enemies, the encyclical said. It urged all Christians to unite against "the ferocity of the enemies of God."

It called upon all Christians to recognize the authority of the Pope or the Roman Catholic church.

"All those, especially in eastern countries, who because of the inequity of the times are separated from the bosom and unity of the church, should render to it without hesitation, in the due, reverent homage to this primacy, following the example of their forefathers in the past" said the encyclical.

Such a unity, it said, would continue with the desire of Jesus Christ in His prayers at the Last Supper that "all would be one."

He was hungry, but otherwise was in good health. Powell had strayed from his way to the shore of a small lake and there waited rescue.

Canadair Ltd. To Get Huge Order for Planes

Ottawa, Sept. 12. (CP)—Canadair Ltd., of Montreal, Canada's biggest aircraft production plant, is going to get a huge order to produce some 300 American-type Jet aircraft for the R.C.A.F., it was learned today.

An announcement by the Defence Production department likely will be made tomorrow, disclosing that under licensing arrangements completed between the government and Lockheed Aircraft Company of the United States, large-scale Canadian production has been approved.

The government has been negotiating with Lockheed for licensing rights for some weeks. This is the first time such aircraft will be produced for Canada and is expected to lead to an expansion at Canadair with employment of hundreds of additional workers.

The plane, a Canadian version of the American Shooting Star, will be a low-powered Jet which the R.C.A.F. will use to train pilots in the intermediary stages to accustom them to high speed flying before they go on to final training on the speedy F-86 Sabre and CF-100 Jet Fighters.

HOTEL NOT DAMAGED

Kingston, Sept. 12— (CP) — The 160-year-old British American Hotel here was threatened today when fire broke out in a wooden shed at the rear.

Guests, who filled the 70-room hotel to near capacity, were driven out by smoke, but were able to return little more than an hour later. No damage was done to the building.

Parliamentary Restaurant Prices Boosted for Atlantic Pact Meeting

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—(CP)—Delegates to the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will eat meals in one of Ottawa's favorite spots—the parliamentary restaurant.

The restaurant, normally closed when parliament is not in session, will be opened during the N. A. T. O. sessions starting Saturday.

W. Jennings, manager of the restaurant, said its use will be limited to delegates. Newspaper men covering the meetings and non-delegates will be barred, but they can use the parliamentary cafeteria.

Mr. Jennings said no special menu is planned for the delegates. The meals will be similar to those provided for members of parliament during the session. They will include such things as roast beef, Gaspe salmon, salads, cold cuts and a variety of desserts.

But the prices will be increased. Normally a member of parliament pays $1 in the restaurant. The price is being boosted to $1.50 for lunch, tea, B. B. O. meetings. The $1.50 fee also will be charged for cafeteria price is being increased to 75 cents from 65 cents.

The restaurant will work in the restaurant and cafeteria have been screened for security purposes among the staff other employees in the centre block where the meetings will be held.

Some delegates may decide to eat in the hotel where they will stay. Rooms have been reserved set aside for their use in the Chateau Laurier Hotel, operated by the Canadian National Railways.

Hotel officials said they have no plans for serving dinner, but the delegates do not like regular menus the hotel will attempt to prepare special dishes.

So far, said the officials, no move has been made to increase the hotel's staff. One official said he believed this was because the delegates will be doing their secret work in the parliament buildings rather than at the hotel.

The night cars will transport the delegates from the hotel to the parliament buildings at the minimum walk. The Ottawa transportation commission also will make buses available should showers threaten.

Further Canadian Steps To Bolster Europe to Follow Atlantic Pact Meeting

Ottawa, Sept. 12. (CP)—The Atlantic pact meeting here Saturday falls at a time when the government has fully committed the $361,000,000 parliament has already voted for mutual aid to Western Europe.

It also comes two months before Canadian Army and Air Force units are scheduled to start moving across the Atlantic to join the anti-communist defence wall under Gen. Eisenhower.

Both the 27th Army Brigade and the R.C.A.F.'s 410 Jet Fighter Squadron are slated to leave the country in November, the former for Germany, the latter for England.

Further Canadian steps to help defend Europe are expected to materialize by next spring as a result of the Ottawa meeting of the 12 pact powers, its sequel in Rome in October and other deliberations by the alliance.

They will mean further bills for the people and further expenditures to be sought from parliament to foot them. Present indications are, however, that parliament won't get bills at its fall session for any major new developments on the defence of Europe.

The major reason is that commitment of the $361,000,000 parliament has voted does not mean all that money is spent or that goods delivered. Some of the commitments cover arms and materials that won't be ready before well into 1953.

About half of the total, however, is represented by shipments of first-line arms for three European divisions, all of them now completed.

Arms to Three Countries

The arms went to Belgium, Holland and Italy. To Luxembourg went enough 25-pounders for an artillery regiment.

Another major commitment is the $61,000,000 estimated as necessary to get Canada's peacetime N.A.T.O. Air Training scheme going on the Prairies.

Under mutual aid, too, come plans to ship platoon wireless sets, guns and radar equipment for the Canadian Army in Canada.

Outside mutual aid, however, are plans to send military forces to Europe. These, so far, include the brigade of army troops and the squadron of jets, plus a division. The bills for those movements, officials say, go to parliament as straight Army and Air Force appropriations.

Defence Minister Claxton further Canadian aid covers more than one field. Because substantially stronger forces are required in Europe, all 12 N.A.T.O. powers are considering how they can up their defence budgets. This, he said, for Canada, could mean more money for more men, more for more air training at home. It also might mean economic aid to bolster countries in a subordinate position or to build N.A.T.O. airfields, communications and barracks.

Royal Couple Will Make Platform Appearance During Brief Stopover at Station

Ottawa, Sept. 12—(CP)—The government today released a detailed itinerary for the October tour of Canada by Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip showing many a little village and town will get a chance to see the Royal couple.

The itinerary both revises and supersedes one issued Aug. 9. It gives times for every stop across Canada to be made by the Princess and her husband and shows the points at which the royal train will slow down so they may make an observation platform appearance, even though no stop is scheduled beside the track.

Besides filling in greater detail on the visit, the new itinerary contains changes from the original schedule. For example, between certain points they now will travel by train instead of plane, as originally planned.

Czech Refugees Will be Allowed To Stay in West

Hof, Germany, Sept. 12 (AP)—The United States High Commission announced today that all political refugees aboard the Czech train which crashed through the iron curtain will be allowed to remain in the west.

Twenty-five of the Czechs have asked for asylum after a spectacular flight from their communist homeland yesterday.

Eighty-six other Czechs who rode the "freedom train" to safety passengers will be returned to Czechoslovakia.

Some delegates may decide to eat in the hotel where they will stay. Rooms have been reserved set aside for their use in the Chateau Laurier Hotel, operated by the Canadian National Railways.

Hotel officials said they have no plans for serving dinner, but the delegates do not like regular menus the hotel will attempt to prepare special dishes.

ACCUSER OF COPS ESCAPES CUSTODY, BELIEVED DEAD

Harry Gross, Gambler, Star Prosecution Witness

New York, Sept. 13—(AP)—Harry Gross, missing graft trial witness, received letters threatening the lives of his wife and children before he escaped from police custody, District Attorney Miles F. McDonald said today.

The dapper, perfumed Gross fled as the mass trial of 18 policemen and former policemen, accused of accepting graft from Gross in cover up the gambler's $20,000,000 syndicate finished its second day yesterday.

McDonald made his announcement in the courtroom where the trial is being conducted. Gross was to have been chief witness.

Letters Read

McDonald read the letters, which were addressed to Mrs. Gross. He emphasized that he did not claim the letters were connected with the 18 policemen on trial, but said they indicated the frame of mind that led Gross to escape.

Gross had been under protective custody.

One of the letters to Gross' wife read by McDonald in court said: "This is to warn you that if Harry Gross testifies against . . . will never live to grow up. It can happen anywhere . . . I should know, as I'm the hired killer."

McDonald said the Federal Bureau of Investigation is being called in to help in the widespread search for Gross.

He drove off in a car last night from his Atlantic Beach, N.Y. home, having left guards, employy-handed.

It was reminiscent of the way Abe Reles guarded by six policemen as a witness in Brooklyn's famed Murder, Inc. trial, plunged out of a hotel window—to his death.

There was a suggestion that the 35-year-old Gross, too, might be dead.

Butler in Nassau county reported receiving an alert from Brooklyn authorities to watch the roads for Gross.

"Better watch for his body," they said the message reported.

The Nassau police chief's office, however, said no such message was sent from there.

Gross Is Missing

Six hours after Gross fled, a 13-state police alarm was issued for him.

The trial at which Gross was to testify has been running for seven days, but still is in the jury-pick-ing stage.

The 18 suspended or retired police officers are accused of obstructing justice in accepting graft money for Gross. Gross has admitted buying police protection at a rate of $1,000,000 a year.

When first arrested Gross was unusually calm, then suddenly he changed his mind.

He pleaded guilty and began "singing" for the grand jury.

Former Army Chief Quits 'For Personal Reasons'

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP) — George C. Marshall resigned today as secretary of defence. He will be succeeded by the present deputy secretary, Robert A. Lovett.

Marshall, 70, was appointed defence secretary one year ago today. He is quitting "for very personal reasons."

Soldier - statesman was army chief of staff in the Second World War and later was secretary of state. He sponsored the European Recovery Program which became known throughout the world as the Marshall Plan.

Upon the resignation of Defence Secretary Louis Johnson a year ago, General Marshall came out of retirement to become the first professional military man to head a U.S. military department since 1947.

He named William C. Foster, economic co-operation administrator to succeed Lovett as deputy secretary, and Richard E. Bissell, Jr's deputy administrator, as acting E.C.A. administrator, succeeding Foster as head of the Marshall Plan agency.

Claxton Expresses Regret

4 Men Uninjured When Car Found To Wreckage

Toronto, Sept. 12.—(CP)—Four men escaped with only minor injuries today when their automobile was ground to a mass of twisted metal between two street cars.

The car was squeezed to about 1.2 feet wide and nine feet high. Two of the occupants climbed out unaided and two others had to be pried from the wreckage with hacksaws and crowbars.

The car was struck at Bloor and Parliament Streets by one street-car and ground between it and a train coming from the opposite direction.

The driver, Joseph St. Coeur, 27, of Toronto, and two passengers suffered only cuts and bruises. A third passenger, George Cassis, 24, of Montreal, escaped unscathed.

swimming of the Second World War, in the restoration of Europe and in creating the great partnership of the North Atlantic Treaty. His outstanding public service during the years has made him more than ever entitled to the right to retirement, but nonetheless, it will be regretted by this country as much as in his own.

"His successor, Mr. (Robert A.) Lovett, is a man who has not only the confidence of the president and Gen. Marshall, but of everyone who has worked with him."

National Health Insurance Scheme Demanded by CCL

By JOHN LEELANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Sept. 12 (CP)—Demand for a National Health Insurance scheme was renewed today by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at its annual convention.

The convention also issued another call for price controls, the reduction of sales taxes and for a 100-per-cent excess profits tax, proceeds of which would be used for low-cost housing subsidies on food and other consumer goods.

In another resolution, the Congress asked for a federal investigation into "exhorbitant" drug prices.

The health insurance plan, the Congress proposed, should be on a government subsidized but contributory basis. It should include medical, surgical, dental and optical care, as well as payments for hospitals.

In a series of other resolutions adopted today, the Congress sought:

1. Changes in the Unemployment Insurance Act; among them those to bring the present nine-day waiting period before benefits start payments start, and the extension of coverage to hospital employees.

2. The five-day, 40-hour week with no reduction in pay, and the check off of union dues by the government for the Canadian Postal Employees Association.

A number of delegates were critical of treatment given postal employees by the government. Fowler Cameron, Winnipeg carpenter, said the employees are being "exploited" as the result of current staff reductions and service is suffering.

Old People Suffering from Arthritis Given Quick Relief by New Treatment

St. Louis, Sept. 12—(AP)—A new treatment for the stubborn arthritis of old people—against which even cortisone has had little effect—was announced today by Washington University.

Dr. W. S. Collens told the International Rheumatism Congress that the substance——derived from the liver of pregnant mares' urine—has been tested on not yet available for general use.

But he said it appears to relieve pain and stiffness and restoring normal joint movement in many cases of the ailment known as hypertrophic osteoarthritis.

The new substance was developed for the control of a painful neuralgic disorder which sometimes occurs as a complication of diabetes.

He proved more effective than anything yet tried, he said, adding that by "happy accident" he got a lead on its possible use against osteoarthritis.

The drug developed from a diabetic who reported that while being treated for the neuritic complication she had obtained relief from a point-limitation in her right hand. The doctors determined that she had been suffering from osteoarthritis.

The new substance has been demonstrated to have no undesirable side effects, Dr. Collens said.

He said it had brought complete relief of pain, reduced swelling, and restored normal movement of joints to 24 per cent of 112 cases studied. He said it also produced good results in another 44 per cent and fair results in 15.

Some patients have been free of symptoms for more than a year, he said, never having two to four weeks of daily injections. Many, however, require periodic injections.

Another report by a Canadian rheumatologist, prepared for presentation to the congress, described completion of the American work against diabetic neuritis.

The report was prepared by Dr. I. M. Rabinowitch of Montreal, who said the results "point to a definite advance" in the treatment of the neuritic and certain allied complications of diabetes.

SHADES OF "THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

Along north shore of St. Lawrence River, 400 miles east of Quebec City, lies village of Mingan Port, modern Utopia to housebound, hungry Canadians. All but two of the families in this remote little fishing village are Indians. Although all Indian families own houses, they seldom use them, preferring to live in tents pitched in their yards. Everybody shares community clay oven and here, Mrs. John Maloney, one of the few white residents, removes a tasty loaf as son Gerrard prepares to sample a slice. — Central Press Canadian.

Hasty Pees To Hold Reunion At Armouries

Arrangements for the seventh annual reunion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment has been completed, it was announced today.

The get-together will take place on October 6 and 7th in the Ridge Street Armouries, instead of at Picton as was formerly announced. Incompletion of repairs to the Picton Armouries necessitated the change of venue to Belleville.

The Regimental reunion, according to Regimental Adjutant Lieut. Angus Duffy will commemorate the regiment's fighting in the battles of Italy and Sicily.

Registration will be held in the armouries starting at 4 p.m. Saturday, which will be followed by a banquet at the Belleville Street Cenotaph which will get under way at 2 p.m. instead of the customary 11 a.m.

Attempts will be made through the medium of a draw to raise $1,000 for the regimental association scholarship fund, which was inaugurated to provide financial assistance for educational purposes to children of Hasty Pees, who were killed in action or died of wounds, a similar amount was realized last year.

Following the reunion the annual meeting of the association will be held in the armouries where election of officers will be held.

Second Swimmer To Cross Channel In 24 Hours

Dover, England, Sept. 12 — (Reuters) — Former policeman Tom Blower of Britain landed in France today after swimming the English Channel in 18 hours 10 minutes.

He was the second swimmer in 24 hours to make the crossing. Florence Chadwick, 32 of San Diego, Calif., waded ashore near Calais yesterday afternoon after 17 hours in the water to become the first woman ever to traverse the channel in both directions.

Blower, 37, turned around and headed back for England almost as soon as he touched the French shore at Calais, trying to make a non-stop two-way crossing.

But he had to give up the return swim after covering three miles in an hour because of heavy fog.

Blower, who has already once crossed the channel in both directions, stained his left shoulder bucking choppy seas on the way to France.

Early today a German—Ernst Strebel, of Wiesbaden—also jumped into the water at Calais and struck out for England, but seasickness forced him to abandon the attempt six miles out.

DR. A. HAMILTON CRAWFORD

Marmora.—It was with regret that residents of Marmora and district learned of the sudden passing this morning, that Dr. A. Hamilton Crawford had died in the E. Lawlor Nursing Home in this village at the age of 76. From 1912 to 1947 he was not only the village physician but also the company doctor for the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited, and the energy and long hours that marked his practice were a source of wonder to the many who knew him so favorably.

He began a short practice in Havelock to succeed the late Dr. W. G. Mackechnie in 1912 and about a year later moved to 1947 his work which he would have preferred to have memorialized with a village hospital, which was his fondest hope, instead because of the impracticability of the other project, was memorialized with the erection of the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena, towards which the Deloro Company subscribed several thousand dollars.

The many who have been his patients will recall his hearty cheery bedside manner and his friendly disposition at all times. On his retirement he moved to the Brighton district for about two years from which the death of his wife in June of last year, returned to the village again. His health had been poor for the past six months during which time he spent a period in Belleville General Hospital. He was twice married, his first wife, who before marriage was Helen Hay, of Peterborough, predeceased him in May, 1915. He is survived by the children of this marriage, Grace Crawford, Reg.N., Arthur, M.T., Mrs. (Dr.) W. A. Bryant, (Frances), Kirkland Lake, and Thomas, Toronto.

Later he was married to Mrs. Mary Denike, (nee McGlennan), of Colborne, who died on June 15, 1950. There were no children of this marriage.

The funeral takes place on Thursday afternoon. The body will rest in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, from 2 p.m. that day. Service will be conducted in the church by the rector, Canon J. M. Sweatman. Burial will take place in Lakeside Cemetery, Colborne.

Czechoslovakia Fails to Pay Dues To International Monetary Fund

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP) — Czechoslovakia, the lone Soviet-bloc country in the world bank and world monetary fund, posed one problem now the United States and faced another of its own today.

1. Czechoslovakia's being overdue on quota of $25,000,000 in gold or U.S. dollars, on its membership.

2. A Czech complaint about trade and currency restrictions the U.S. imposed on communist China when it entered the Korean war. The complaint seemed listed to get nowhere.

The Chinese Nationalist government, which the Czechs failed to oust from membership, also is overdue on a payment.

The Nationalists, however, made part payment of $30,000 on $3,000,000 due from them. They promised to pay the rest when they are "in position to do so."

Both the Czechs and Chinese were allowed to defer the subscription payment up to last July 25. The Czechs claim the right of a further postponement.

The Czechs charged that U.S. trade and currency restrictions against communist China are "illegal" and "contradictory to the principles of the fund."

The third day of the joint meetings found the bank management, under President Eugene Black of the U.S., enjoying peaceful relations with members while the fund management, under a new chief, Ivar Rooth, of Sweden, was having rough going.

Fund members, complaining about the fund's failure to provide them more aid, seemed pleased over a promise of a more liberal aid policy. But they complained about a management project for tying conditions to aid grants.

On the other hand, the fund appeared to have averted any argument during the governors' meetings this week about its gold policies.

Officials said members indicated willingness to let the topic go until the board of executive directors does over a report on gold prepared by the fund staff.

"The three blows in a row were too much for the little guy," said Mrs. Goolsby. "He says he wants to go where his dog is."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 12.—(CP)—Golds pushed strongly higher today in early afternoon dealings. Reports that the United States was relaxing its opposition to Canadian requests for revision of the international monetary fund policy against the sale of gold on the "free market" produced a rapid advance.

Industrials came back strongly after yesterday's reaction. Constructions showed the best gains while utilities, agricultures, steels, banks and manufacturing companies had a majority of gains. Papers, liquors, refining oils, textiles, retail stores and miscellaneous industrials were mixed. Foods weakened.

Western Oils were mixed. Actively in mid-continent, yesterday's feature slackened as about 600,000 shares changed hands in the first three hours for penny gains.

Base Metals showed little trend. A wide list of issues traded actively, Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, Noranda, and United Keno Hill added up to $1, Estella, Silver-Miller and Yukeno dipped slightly.

Cheese Box Shortage Holding Up Shipments in Many Areas

In an effort to solve the cheese box shortage which is holding up shipment of cheese from many district factories, a committee from the Belleville Cheese Exchange will view a new type fibre board box and make recommendation to the department. It was decided at the weekly cheese exchange meeting Tuesday night.

Discussion on the cheese box shortage was opened by cheese buyer W. R. McCreary who said that there was much criticism but nothing constructive being done to alleviate the shortage.

As result of the box shortage green uncured cheese are being sent to factories. This, according to Mr. McCreary would only lead to trouble with slimy cheese ends and mould conditions being already noticed on cheese.

He referred to the fibre board boxes being used in the United States and described it as being "practical and worthwhile" and a perfect container for the protection of cheese. Unfortunately, however, the federal department had belittled the box as to its suitability. The box was made in Carthage, N.Y., and Mr. McCreary thought it might be possible for a Canadian manufacturer to secure the formula and make the containers in Canada. Not accepted by Ottawa

C. N. Heath described the box as a cardboard container costing 70c each laid down in Belleville. He also pointed out the container had not been accepted by the department.

Mr. Heath said the marketing board could obtain a supply of plywood boxes, which are approved on the market in Eastern Ontario. These cost .75c but would not accommodate cheese weighing over 82 pounds.

A committee of Phil Carr, exchange president, and secretary Fred Mallory was named with power to add to their numbers. This committee will view both types of cheese boxes and make a recommendation to the exchange.

The seriousness of the box shortage was indicated by a report from Bunbury factory that difficulty in securing boxes had held up cheese shipments from the factory for three weeks.

A total of 4,388 white cheese, 1,566 colored and 1,183 specials were boarded. Six hundred and twelve colored sold for 36 1/16, the balance of the board selling for 36 cents.

London, Sept. 12 (Reuters) — The London Star today suggested a new suitor for the hand of Princess Margaret—Lord Carnegie, 22, heir to the Earl of Southesk and Chief of Clan of Fife.

PUBLIC DEMANDS INCREASE COSTS

A few hours after the Dominion Bureau of Statistics had announced that the cost-of-living index had advanced 1.3 points during July to an all time high of 188.9, Canada's prime minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, declared in an Ottawa speech that the government had no intention of imposing direct price controls at this time.

Mr. St. Laurent repeated earlier statements to the effect that he believed indirect controls would be more effective in halting the cost of living's climb than those of the direct variety which have been demanded in recent months both by various politicians in opposition and by many labor unionists.

Greater savings, increased production and deferred purchasing were advocated by Mr. St. Laurent as three ways in which every individual in the country could help to halt the upward climb of prices.

Another important point in the increased cost of living which Mr. St. Laurent did not mention is that many of the services which the public demands, both from its governments and from those who supply its necessities, are provided in response to public demand, and that all of these services raise prices; in other words, increase the cost of living.

Here is what the monthly New Letter issued by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has to say about the relationship between "services" and the cost of living:

"Every time we ask the Government for increased services we are putting pressure on Government to increase taxation which, inevitably, finds its way into the cost of goods and is reflected in a higher Cost-of-Living Index. And so the spiral climbs ever upward.

Mr. Rene Perrault, a member of the Executive Council of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in a recent radio broadcast pointed out that in the United States, federal and state taxes on automobiles amounted to about one-seventh of Canadian taxes. 'A month ago,' said Mr. Perrault, 'I saw the complete figures of similar cars purchased in St. Stephen, N.B., and Calais, Maine. The tax amounts were $96 in Calais and $676 in St. Stephen.'

Another factor entering into the relatively higher cost of living is our increased standard of living and our demand for improved consumer goods and services. We can well remember the days when it was common practice to bring a jug to the corner store to be filled with milk. Today we insist on our milk being pasteurized, homogenized, and delivered to our door in bottles which have been sterilized before filling. We insist on our bread being double-wrapped in wax paper and even being sliced. We demand better lighting in our cities, more automatic traffic signals, more parks with playground facilities, more municipal swimming pools, school buildings equipped with gymnasia, swimming pools, auditoria and even public address and inter-class communication systems. There would be a great outcry if our children had to walk more than two or three blocks to and from school, every home must have at least one radio, and our meats, vegetables, and other foodstuffs must be pre-packaged for individual purchase and wrapped in gleaming cellophane.

All of these things mentioned above cost money. Services provided by Government must be paid for by taxes. Refinements in methods of distribution must be paid for by the consumer. They all add up to relatively higher prices.

Let us bear some of these things in mind when we look at our rising "Cost-of-Living" Index."

MESSING UP YOUR CITY

(Sydney Post-Record)

Civic pride with some people apparently is akin to a taste for olives. Some people take to it naturally. With others it's something to be acquired. Some do learn to feel civic pride and behave accordingly. Others never seem to learn. Evidence of the latter breed is to be found in litter on Charlotte Street in Sydney. Such litter often actually is within tossing distance of the receptacles at street corners.

The receptacles were put there for the purpose of preventing litter on the streets. It takes no more effort to toss what you have to throw away into the receptacles than onto the sidewalk or street. No more effort, and it's much neater and more self-respecting, as well as city-respecting, to co-operate in helping to keep the city clean. The suspicion arises that those who don't mind messing up their own city are untidy around the house at home, too.

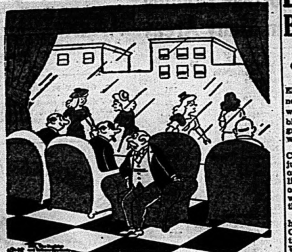
APPLES AND HONOR

The man who owns an apple tree
Set out for passing boys to see,
Should one, to snatch one, dare to climb,
Could charge the youngster with a crime
And into prison have him thrown
For taking what was not his own.

Time was a fruited apple tree
Oft made a criminal of me.
I could not honest stay I knew
When I passed by where apples grew.
I had but once at them to glance
And then decide to take a chance.



Perhaps it's stealing, but I think
At such a wrong the Lord would wink
And add, mean men should never be Allowed to own an apple tree.
I'd say, as boys, all famous men
Have nipped an apple now and then.

* * *

An apple tree beside the road
Makes boys forget the honor code.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Biologists say that blue eyes are one the wane on this earth, and that the dark eyes, brown, hazel and black, are slowly conquering. One place you might expect to find blue eyes would be the Highlands of Scotland. The myth of the red-haired, blue-eyed Highlander is widespread. But it is pure myth. The ancient Celt or Gael was apparently a small dark man. And at the gathering of the clans in Edinburgh, the overwhelming impression of those crowds of hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic Scots from all points north was one of small dark people.

Now and again you saw the odd red head, with the vivid blue eyes that go with the special quality of red hair associated with the Scots. But they are few and far between. In the Cairngorm Mountains, from which my own brindle-headed and chill grey-eyed ancestors came, I was up in the high moors watching some English and American sportsmen shooting grouse from the sod butts of trenches in which they crouch while the beaters, marching in line from far off, drive the grouse over them. In the whole day, I had seen nothing but lean, dark Highland men. Then on a bicycle down the rugged narrow road came a great tall brass-headed man, with vivid blue eyes, and eyebrows and lashes the color of straw. I thought up a question to halt him, and he dismounted beside me. When I enquired his name he said it was Olafsen. He was a Norwegian who had taken refuge in the war in Scotland, had married and settled down. The next man I met was named McCrae, an his eyes were as black as a telephone receiver.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT DRUM-MAJOR STICK

A tired eastern professional man had taken his family on an automobile trip across the continent. The children amused themselves by seeing how many different state automobile plates they could spot. One day a car whizzed by. "Step on it, Dad" said the little fellow in the front seat; but it soon became evident that the fellow was driving too fast for them. Then the little chap settled back and said with a sigh, "Gee, I wish that guy had brought his wife along with him."

The ameliorating influence of womanhood! The gals don't like to be reminded of this because the influence of womanhood is for the most part an indirest influence. The modern woman wants to be out in front with the men, leading the parade or managing it. The girl drum majors who now march in front of high school bands are symbolic of the desire of present-day womanhood.

The indirect power of womanhood is, next to the living Spirit of God, the most powerful force in the world. On the other hand, the direct influence of womanhood is very slight in comparison. Women are the world's teachers. They are the molders and conservers of life's best traditions.

The modern gal doesn't like this. She wants to be out front twirling the drum major's stick. But there's a better place than that for her if she only knew it.

Elizabeth Travels Royal Path Blazed by Prince in 1786

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth, when she visits Canada next month with Prince Philip will follow a transatlantic path blazed by her great-great-great grand-uncle 165 years ago and well trod by royalty since.

That first royal visitor to young Canada — so young that it was just a collection of British colonies— was genial Prince William Henry, third of the nine sons of King George III of England, who himself later succeeded to the throne as William IV.

Young Prince William — he had just turned 21 — visited Canada in 1786 as a captain in the British Navy's Halifax and West Indies Squadron. He was in Canada on and off during a period of three years and visited a number of centres.

Not State Visit

His visit was not in the category of a state or royal visit — royal visits as such didn't start until 1860 — but history books show that he did attend some official functions in the scattered towns of early British North America and perhaps set the pace for the descendants who followed him across the seas.

Some, like Princess Elizabeth, were heirs to the throne. Others came as members of the British land and naval forces, perhaps landing for a brief stay at one of the Atlantic coast bastions. Some returned to represent the Monarch as governors or governors-general.

From all reports, Prince William was a gay and popular young blade. He made an extended visit to St. John's, capital of Newfoundland, and delighted the hostesses of the day by attending a government ball at Quebec.

Visited Montreal

He voyaged down the St. Lawrence for a visit to Montreal and, on the way, stopped off at the tiny river port of Sorel. The people of Sorel were so taken with his stay that they promptly changed the name of their town to William Henry. Later, it reverted to Sorel, as it is today.

Prince William was created Duke of Clarence in 1789 and recalled to home waters. He succeeded to the throne in 1830 and died in 1837. Two daughters had predeceased him and his niece succeeded him as Queen Victoria.

Canada's next royal visitor was William's brother, Prince Edward, Duke of Kent and father of Victoria. Quebec's Kent House is named after this soldier prince. He also left his mark on Canada as the builder of the Halifax Citadel.

He came to this country in 1791 when his regiment, the 7th Royal Fusiliers, was transferred from Gibraltar. He remained until 1800, living at Halifax and Quebec, and, at one time, quelled a riot at Charlesbourg by addressing the rioters in French.

He visited Niagara, Fredericton and Saint John, N.B., as well as other early settlements. He was commander-in-chief in British North America when he returned home in 1800. Perhaps with vision before his time, he suggested in a letter in 1814 that the British North American provinces be united. He felt, he wrote, that there were too many legislatures.

The first official royal visitor was handsome Prince Edward, then Prince of Wales and later King Edward VII, who toured the settled areas of British North America in 1860, laid the cornerstone of the original parliament buildings at Ottawa and visited Washington. He was Victoria's eldest son.

Became Governor-General

His brother, Prince Arthur and Duke of Connaught, was the first member of royalty to come to Canada after Confederation. A junior army officer, he came in line of duty in 1869 to join his regiment at Montreal, where it had been stationed to bolster defences against the Fenians.

He returned to Canada in 1911 as governor-general, serving until 1916.

Princess Louise, fourth daughter of Victoria, lived in Canada from 1878 to 1883 while her husband, the Marquis of Lorne, served as governor-general.

George V. the Sailor King, journeyed to North American waters as a sub-lieutenant in the Royal Navy in 1883 and 1884. He landed at Halifax. He later visited Canada twice before succeeding to the throne in 1910, once in 1901 for a royal visit as the Duke of York and again in 1908 to attend the Quebec tercentenary as Prince of Wales. On both occasions he was accompanied by the Duchess of York, now the Queen Mother.

His eldest son — Edward, Prince of Wales, later King Edward VIII and now the Duke of Windsor — probably was the royal visitor, of recent years, best known to Canadians. He came to the Dominion several times, including one formal royal tour in 1919, and became Canada's first royal property owner through his purchase of a ranch 65 miles southwest of Calgary. As a rancher, he pays taxes like any other Canadian.

Princess Elizabeth's visit is the first royal tour since her parents —the present King and Queen—came in May, 1939, short months before the ominous clouds of the Second World War shouldered across Canada's horizon.

As did young Prince Edward in that early, adventurous year of 1860, the King and Queen in 1939 visited Washington and the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon, Va. Princess Elizabeth and her husband, too, will visit the U.S. capital and may pay homage at the burial place of the man who led the American colonies in revolt.

Flagstad Singing For Two Pints Beer a Day

London, Sept. 12. (AP)—Soprano Kirsten Flagstad is singing at a London theatre for two pints a beer a day.

It calls for 20 performances, beginning last Sunday, in the opera "Dido and Aeneas" at the tiny Mermaid Theatre.

Miss Flagstad told her friends a long time ago she'd perform for peanuts, or anyway beer, when they finished converting an old school hall into an opera house.

The contract entitles the 56-year-old Wagnerian soprano, who has earned up to $3,000 for a single performance, to half a pint of beer with luncheon and dinner and a pint after each show.

Miss Flagstad agrees in return, among other things, to "be obedient, tractable, sweet-tempered and helpful in every possible way, and not to brag about the Vikings."

VISITING OLD FRIENDS

Los Angeles, Sept. 12—(AP)—William Scarborough, postmaster for the south Pacific island of Niue, is visiting "old friends" for the first time. The postmaster is an amateur radio operator and has made friends, over the air, with persons all over the world.

GAVE LIFE UNNECESSARILY

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 12 — (AP)—A woman gave her life yesterday in an unnecessary effort to rescue a man she believed was trapped in his burning home. Mrs. Hessie Him, 75, ran into the building believing Richard S. Sanders, 85, was trapped. Sanders had crawled through a window to safety.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Belleville, Sept. 12—Please allow me space in your paper for a few remarks regarding the old age pension plan.

As a reader of your paper, I read a few days ago that persons getting the pension would be allowed to earn something like $240 a year. How can anybody live on such an amount? If people with means are entitled to the pension, why do people without means have to be prevented from earning more than $240 if they are able? I don't call that much justice. We should be allowed to earn what we can without objection.

A reader of your paper

Editor's note: Under the new old age pension regulations, which become effective at the end of this year, everyone more than 70 years of age may receive a pension, without respect to other income, while persons between the ages of 65 and 70 may receive a pension if in needy circumstances. For full details, prospective pensioners should write to S. N. Ashbury, Chairman Old Age Pensions Commission, Department of Public Welfare, Queen's Park, Toronto. Applicants for an old age pension can get one of the forms which they are required to fill in at their nearest post office.

TERMED MURDER, SUICIDE

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

IN THE DARK ALL CATS ARE GRAY

Ambitious young man in Canandaigua worked his way through medical school and entered general practice in another village. On his first visit home following graduation one of his recent fellow workmen heartily congratulated him: "The best of luck to you, Al!" Al didn't take it quite so heartily: "Thank you, but it isn't Al, it's Doctor now, if you please." The response to this was picturesque but not printable.

In the early years of practice it irked me considerably when people of low I.Q. called me Mister but referred to the visiting quack, cult healer or far away charlatan as Doctor, until I realized that simple minded folk were pretty credulous and so they took for granted whatever their exploiter called himself.

This same childish assumption comes up frequently in the mail. There are still a good many people who believe any one who calls himself Doctor must be legally qualified to pose as a physician or else the government would put a stop to his fraudulent pretense. Such faith is pitiful.

A reader says her daughter, 14, has bad arches. She complained of her legs and her back aching so and being tired all the time. "I took her to a foot doctor, and he advised metal arch supports, which cost $55. He said her arches rolled and that he would prescribe exercises to strengthen the muscles and she should take them night and morning. Then instead of telling her all the exercises at once he gives her one at a time and $6 each time. I think I have paid enough for the supports without paying $6 for each exercise. I'd certainly appreciate any advice..."

Rarely the use of rigid arch props may be warranted but seldom in the case of a teenage child with weak ankles, pronated feet, ankles rolling in, tired, aching feet, calves and hips.

The fitness of this "foot doctor" is conjectural. He may be a bona fide physician, though I doubt it. He may be some kind of physical therapist or technician. He may be a smart shoe salesman, complete with X-ray machine.

Five exercises for weak, pronated or potential flat feet are given in the booklet Care of the Feet, available on written request if you inclose 25c and stamped self addressed envelope. These five exercises may be identical with the exercises the "foot doctor" doles out one at a time for $6 per, a net saving of $29.75.

Just as important as exercises for the correction of weak feet in growing children is improvement in nutritional condition. The booklet tells how to do this, too.

In any case of pronated feet, in-rolling ankles, weak ankles, falling arches or potential flat feet I urge patients to consult a real physician before resorting to any kind of rigid arch props. Generally strapping of feet and ankles by the physician will give elastic support without putting the natural support (muscles and tendons) out of commission.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

They Grew Tall in the Southwest

Son, 13½, only 59 inches tall. He is very unhappy about it. Friends say injections will make him grow. (J. M.)

Answer—That's a problem to submit right now to the judgment of your doctor. Youngsters who get adequate daily rations of Calcium and Vitamin D throughout childhood seem to grow taller than those who do not. Milk, cheese, greens, peas, dried beans and nuts are the richest sources of calcium. Exposure to sunshine or skyshine (daylight) enables the growing youngster to manufacture vitamin D. Don't coddle. The less clothing, with regard to the youngster's physical comfort (not the mental comfort of some one else) the better, in any season, climate or weather.

No Pain Whatever

My husband followed your advice, had injection treatment for hemorrhoids and was cured. There was no pain whatever, and he kept right on with his regular work. (Mrs. H. S.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. But people are "sot" in their fondness for hospital, surgery and atrocious suffering. On written request any reader who provides stamped self-addressed envelope may have the pamphlet It is Stupid to Suffer From Piles.

Circumcision

We would be grateful for your opinion about circumcision or dilation for our grand little son. (S. E.)

Answer—If there is obstruction of urination or such tightness of foreskin that daily cleanliness is impossible, by all means have circumcision.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FOR THE ENJOYMENT OF OTHERS

It is good to learn as early in life as possible that the most genuine enjoyment is that which you give to others. Sole personal enjoyment has its place, but it is only secondary to that which places others first. But next to both of these is the enjoyment that is shared by all concerned equally.

The actor, or other artist in expression, gains personal enjoyment in what he does, but if it is not shares by others his own enjoyment withers. Those unselfish entertainers who go to the battle fronts, wherever located, in order to carry enjoyment to our fighting forces, give themselves personal enjoyment, and a great morale builder, for those boys so far from home.

Often it takes personal sacrifice to bring enjoyment to others, but there is no investment in the world that pays so great in spiritual dividends!

The head of a great cotton mill in the south once asked me to go with him to his institution and meet the heads of many of the departments there. I protested I was sure it would mean nothing to them, but he replied that it might mean nothing to me, but that it would mean much to them, for he said they read my brief Talks each day in their local newspaper and would enjoy meeting me. I gladly consented, and it made me happier than I had any idea that it would.

I believe we all miss many an opportunity to enlarge upon our daily happiness and enjoyment by failing to take others along with us, for solitary enjoyment leaves us so quickly, whereas enjoyment given to others, or shared with them, assures to us its happy memory.

Cities create a fine investment for themselves by creating parks and playgrounds for their children, as well as good libraries, art museums, and efficient schools. These are investments far exceeding their monetary cost. You have probably heard that famous line from the Chinese: "Enjoy yourself, it is later than you think." Why not state it this way: "Give enjoyment to others, it may be for them later than they think?"

The Days of The Tulip

By A. HENDERSON

September and October are usually considered the harvest months, when the results of the plowing, the planting, and the pruning are made manifest. Golden sheaves of grain are garnered in; golden globes of pumpkins lay scattered across the fields between the rustling stocks of corn, high-lighted by the harvest moon; while rosy McIntoshes and yellow Talman sweets hang heavy on the branch, and Dansow plums yield their scarlet juices for the house-wife's jams and jellies.

As well as the days of garnering in, these days are ideal for the thrusting forth into the good earth that they contain of flower of the spring, the tulip.

Tulips belong to the family of the lilliaceae, having flowers of campanulate or bell-like shape with six free petals, some in solid color, others in composite colors, while some are fringed at the edges and the greater variety are smooth.

Native of Old World

The tulip is a native of the old world and found from west Europe to Japan and the Himalayas. There are about 45 species with one in Great Britain. The common garden tulip, Darwin tulips, so-called from its originator, had been cultivated away from its native country in south Russia and Armenia for upwards of 300 years. The first seeds coming from Byzantium and in 1559 were seen blooming in Hewart garden at Augsburg.

In 1571 the tulip was introduced into Germany; into England in 1577 and into France in 1810 by Peiresc, who cultivated it at Aix. Since then their popularity due to their lovely and gorgeous rainbow hues has made the tulip a staple of every flower lover's garden, giving forth their exciting and lively glow. One sad fact is that the tulip has no distinct odor, depending soley on its dazzling colorings for its place among flowers.

Requires Care

Tulip culture requires care to bring forth all the beauty of which it is capable, but at the same time, can remain undisturbed for several years and still be a "thing of beauty and a joy forever." New varieties can be obtained from the seed which when planted in an unmolested spot in the garden and allowed to remain so, will blossom from four to five years, but the writer of this article has had fine blooms, quite different from the parent plant, in three years. In this way many varieties have been produced.

Tulips were first introduced into Holland in the late 16th century, and due to its favorable climate and soil, became one of the chief industries of the country. At one time, so great was the demand for tulip bulbs, that their sale developed into a sort of "black market" speculation, known as the "Tulip Mania" with one bulb, the "Semper Augustus" selling for around $5,200, and other bulbs bringing something like $12,000, while equally outrageous prices were paid for other varieties.

However, this blackmarket in bulbs gradually waned and tulips are now obtainable at prices which do not stretch the most slender purse, unduly, even in these days of the high cost of living.

Some Varieties

Among some of the outstanding varieties are the Ketterdoven, a brilliant flame color edged with deep yellow; the all-red Emperor, lovely shades of color when used in rock gardens; the purple Bishop; the beautiful all-red "Princess Elizabeth;" the rosy tinted "Philip Snowdon"; the yellow "Golden Age." The blood red "Bastigon," the white edged scarlet Cordell-Hull and the pink "Prunus" make splendid house plants, while the parrot tulips with their varigated petals, though somewhat ragged looking, are fast becoming favorites with many. Two varieties of which the "Fantasy," a shaded pinky-scarlet and the blue-mauves tulip are examples, make a pleasing contrast with their less dressy brothers and sisters, while among the double varieties one of the most attractive is the fiery "Dante."

So let all garden lovers include the tulip when thinking about that garden for after the last snowflake has melted and fields are springing green, a rainbow of color will be ample reward for any toil expended.

The first lock-canal in England was built in 1652 between Exeter and Topsham on the Exe River.

SUMMER'S AFTERMATH

A solemn bush broods o'er the peaceful land,
The birds flit voiceless in the changing trees.
The autumn lights its torch on every hand,
The golden-rod nods in the quiet breeze.
A hint of frost when sinks the sun to rest,
A mist of white when breaks the dawn of day,
And in the whisper of the mild southwest
We catch the word, that summer's passed away.

Color Tinting Will be Fashion In Hair Stylings

Toronto, Sept. 12. (CP)—A New York hairdressing expert said yesterday that the most fashionable hair stylings this autumn will have a gold-red glint.

Victor Ferrantelle, director of his own School of Advanced Hairdressing in New York and guest demonstrator at the current convention of the Ontario Hairdressers' Association Convention, had this tip for the style-wise:

"Color tinting flame auburn for blondes and deep auburn for brunettes, is the news in hair styles this season. Before the year is out, most fashion-conscious women will have turned slightly red-headed."

"Curls are out and soft shallow waves are the thing. Hair has been worn down for a number of years, but now the style is around the head in soft waves."

THE ORIOLE'S FAREWELL

Faintly I heard his whistle—
Echo of verdant June—
Oh, how my pulses quickened
My heart with his song atune!
And then on a swaying tree-top
I saw his plumage bright,
And memories of happy summers
Awoke at the thrilling sight.

But his song held a touch of sadness,
He sang in a minor key,
A farewell song to the summer,
To his summer home and me,
For today he is flying southward
And in spite of the spirit's yearn,
The joys of a long-lost summer
Will never with him return.
—Helen B. Anderson
Wellington, Ontario.

Mrs. E. Denyes Addresses W.M.S.

The September meeting of the W.M.S. of Bridge Street Church was held in the church parlors on Friday last with Mrs. Charles Hyde vice-president presiding in the absence of Mrs. F. E. Houston, president.

The call to worship opened with a hayrest song followed by a prayer of Thanksgiving. Various reports were given. The supply secretary, Miss M. Claxie reported that about 125 pounds of used clothing were contributed by the auxiliary and the Mission Band at the June meeting. Three boxes were sent directly to individuals in Japan for orphanage and personal relief work. Three large boxes were sent to Toronto to the United Church committee for overseas relief in Japan and Korea.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Broad's and Mrs. Tice's group with Mrs. Broad in the chair. Miss Muriel Jobson accompanied by Mrs. E. Bird sang beautifully "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked." Mrs. Tice read the scripture. Mrs. Broad then chose for her theme "Fruit", leading her reading on the text, "Behold a Basket of Fruit," contemplating the variety and beauty of a basket of summer fruit with all its Christian graces.

Mrs. Hamm then read about "Spiritual Fruit", and Mrs. Tice about "The Relationship to Fellowmen."

Guest Speaker

Mrs. E. Denyes the guest speaker, was introduced. She was a delegate to the Dominion Board in Toronto and also attended the school for leaders in Whitby. Mrs. Denyes gave many of the highlights of the Dominion Board meeting and introduced the new study book, "From Lakes to Northern Lights". Her address proved most interesting and helpful.

A social half hour was then enjoyed.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Rinses For the Hair

There is a common beauty weakness among many of the sisters, and cosmetic chemists are ever ready to indulge them. We refer to the yen to change the color of the hair. With some it is a madness. Many movie stars do, pro-n-o-thing acts from brunette to redhead to blonde and back again. They have the services of experts who understand the effects of chemicals, so no damage is done. No home experimenter can play that game without pouring troubles on her head.

The new temporary color rinses give the beauty-questor a chance to see how she looks with locks of a different hue. If she likes this change she can continue. If she no-likes, the color agent is rinsed away during the next shampoo and she is herself again. Fine idea, and the balance in the check book is not put under a strain as when she indulges in a permanent dyeing process.

The henna rinse has been used for many years. Sometimes it is made of the leaves, sometimes of the powdered henna. It imparts an auburn light to brown hair. Used on white hair it may produce a carroty color to the dismay of the cash-customer. Such a distressing situation calls for special conditioning treatments by an expert.

The peroxide rinse as applied by the amateur, is dynamite and light-headed women who seek to be golden girls should be warned against it. Used properly it will pep up halos that have tarnished. Use repeatedly—the shafts may become dry and julelike, so dry in fact that soap suds will flow from them like water from a duck's back, and eggs must be substituted. When the hair is over-bleached, as it was during the platinum blonde madness, months of conditioning with oil treatments will be necessary to restore the normal lights and shadows that make hair beautiful.

The camomile rinse has been used in France for years, has never been popular in this part of the world. French women used it for the purpose of giving more character to drab hair. A teaball is filled with the leaves, steeped in a pint of water, the liquid poured over the head while the hair is still wet from the shampoo.

Copper colored hair that has darkened can be prettied at any beauty shop where dyeing and bleaching treatments are given by experienced operators. Henna leaves are steeped in boiling water, strained through muslin and a small amount of peroxide is added. It is used as a final rinse after the shampoo. But don't attempt this yourself. It is no home job.

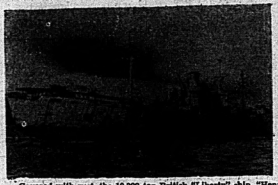
STILL SLUGGING IT OUT IN KOREA

A U.N. tank is seen returning from an Allied tank-infantry raid southeast of Kumsong in Kores. A North Korean soldier lies dead on the roadside at the left. U.N. troops are still slugging it out with bayonets and grenades as reds throw stabbing attacks into their lines both in the east and west. — Central Press Canadian.

Anti-Communist Paper Claims Women Attacked



Berlin, Sept. 12 (AP) —The anti-communist West Berlin newspaper Telegraf claims today that the city of Weimar in the Russian zone had been placed under a state of emergency after 18 persons, mostly women and girls, had been attacked and slain by occupation troops.

The Telegraf's story, datelined Weimar, was not confirmed.

The newspaper says that "eye-witness accounts" placed the blame for the slayings on Soviet Mongolian troops belonging to punishment companies stationed near Weimar.

The Telegraf claims that the women were also raped and that some had been mutilated. It said that one victim was a sister in an order of the Evangelical church.

BRITISH SHIP RETURNS TO HONG KONG

Covered with rust, the 10,000-ton British "Liberty" ship, "Henry Abbott," arrived in Hong Kong harbor after 12 months' detention by the Chinese Nationalists at Formosa's Keelung port.—The Nationalists claimed that the ship had been sold to the Chinese communists and that they were legally entitled to seize it. The British authorities contended that although arrangements had been made for the sale of the ship no payment had been received and therefore the vessel was still British-owned. The matter was settled amicably and the British were allowed to tow the ship back to Hong Kong. — Central Press Canadian.

DIPLOMATIC INTRIGUE

A bizarre story of a Chinese embassy dinner party guarded by armed men in the fear that two ousted Chinese Nationalist air officers might be "shanghied" to Formosa is intriguing diplomatic circles in Washington. Chinese Ambassador to Washington Koo gave the party July 24 at Twin Oaks, palatial embassy estate. The guests reportedly guarded were Lieut.-Gen. P. T. Mow (above), deputy commanding general of the Chinese air force, and his executive officer, Col. Hsiang Weihsian. They were wanted by Nationalist authorities in Formosa but had refused to return there to appear for judgment. — Central Press Canadian.

City Will Pay Any Deficit After Deadline

Kingston, Sept. 12 — (CP) — Mayor C. A. Curtis has been asked to provide safeguards for employees of the Kingston City Coach Lines in any adjustments resulting from the firm's decision to withdraw from the transportation field here Oct. 1.

A deputation headed by Maurice Caron of Montreal, general chairman of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Transport Workers, visited the Mayor Tuesday. Mr. Caron said the 43 drivers and 15 mechanics affected would like their position clarified. A committee on administration and legislation will consider the matter.

Buses will continue to operate after the deadline, but with the city paying any deficit on operating costs until a new transportation system can be set up.

Fair Weather For Title Fight

New York, Sept. 12—(AP) — The weatherman promised mostly fair weather tonight for the 15-round middleweight title fight between champion Randy Turpin and Sugar Ray Robinson.

Seven-Country Committee Agrees On General Plan

New York, Sept. 12—(AP)— The New York Times says today a seven-country sub-committee in the United Nations has agreed on a general plan for organizing U. N. military measures in the future to meet any aggression.

The group is the military subcommittee on the U. N. committee on collective security measures. The United States is one member. Others are Britain, Brazil, France, the Philippines, Turkey, and Yugoslavia.

Under the sub-committee's plan the U. N. would set up an executive military authority to command U. N. forces in the field, the Times says. A commander-in-chief would have supreme military authority in the field.

Although the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other regional groups are not mentioned by name in the proposal, the Times says the idea is that established regional military groups, or that individual countries could be asked to serve as the executive military authority, or unified command, as any aggression occurred.

The U. N. itself—either through the security council or the general assembly—would set political objectives and could relieve the military authority of its command if U. N. members were dissatisfied with its operation.

The recommendations must be submitted to a 12-country committee on collective measures, then go to the 60-assembly for debate.

Australia Shows Steady Declines in Wheat Sowing

Sydney — (CP) — Chiefly as a result of the rise in wool prices since 1948, Australian wheat acreage is falling rapidly, compared with the post-war peak of nearly 14,000,000 acres in the 1947-48 season, private estimates place the area sown in the new season at not more than 11,000,000 acres.

Experts forecast a sharp decline in overseas trade in wheat, Australia's second greatest export after wool. In each of the last two fiscal years wheat and flour exports were worth £108,000,000 to Austria (the Australian last pound is currently about $2.38 Canadian) but in the current year they may fall to £70,000,000.

The decline in wheat acreage has been more pronounced in New South Wales than in any other state. The total Australian acreage in 1950-51 was 14 per cent lower than 1947-48, and a further substantial decline has been shown this season. In New South Wales alone wheat acreage is about 40 per cent lower than two years ago.

The changes in wheat and wool prices are the chief factor. Compared with four years ago, wheat prices have dropped about 12 per cent, while wool prices have more than tripled.

Expect Good Yield

In recent years domestic requirements have absorbed about 80,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. The 11,000,000 acres sown this season would normally yield about 140,000,000 bushels. At present seasonal conditions are particularly good throughout Australia and another above-average crop may be harvested.

But the growing season in Australia is different to that of Canada, and it is too early to forecast accurately the harvest of late November and December.

If no more than normal yield per acre is obtained, Australia would have only about 80,000,000 bushels of wheat available for export without drawing on its carry-over stocks.

Australia however is committed under the International Wheat Agreement to supply 87,000,000 bushels during this and the next season, and much of its quota for the present I.W.A. year, beginning Aug. 1, is already sold. Australia will probably be able to meet its international commitment this year by drawing on its carry-over but the outlook for the future is doubtful.

Further declines in wheat acreages are predicted for next year's crop season unless the wool market collapses, sending more sheep farmers back into wheat. The latter seems most improbable.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 12—(AP) —Police today were trying to help a 50-year-old woman who said she had given away a bundle of old clothing—not knowing it contained her $4,500 savings.

Mrs. Freda Kraney said she discovered the loss last July 5 but had not reported it sooner because she was afraid to let her husband, Ben, know.

She had been saving the money for their old age, concealing it in a vest. When she couldn't find the vest last July, her husband—who did not know of the savings—told her he had burned it in a pile of old clothes she had given away.

Since then, she said, she has tried without success to trace the clothing.

In default of payment he will spend an additional two months and ten days in jail.

The lad was nearly strangled before the wires could be cut freeing him. After the accident Ryan disappeared and was arrested by police three days later in a swamp near his home.

On the dangerous driving charge Ryan was given four months definite and two months indeterminate; on the careless driving charge he was given 30 days concurrent; on the joy riding he was fined $30 and costs or ten days consecutive; for driving while his licence was under suspension $50 and costs or one month consecutive, and for leaving the scene of an accident $25 and costs or one month consecutive.

Beautiful Gifts Feature Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

Frankford—Over 250 guests called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bleecker in the fourth of Sidney, last Tuesday, afternoon and evening, as they were "At Home" to friends and relatives on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The gifts were too numerous and too beautiful to begin to enumerate, and certainly emphasized the popularity of this Sidney township couple. Now a successfully retired farmer, Mr. Bleecker is active in many community activities in Frankford, including a fraternal society.

Besides the guests from Frankford and the township, visitors were present from Stirling, Trenton, Ottawa and Mallows.

Among those present was Mr. George Bush, groomsman for the wedding 50 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lohnes have returned after spending a week's holiday in Northern Ontario, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lohnes, at Bruce Mines, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lohnes at Massey.

The Frankford boy Scouts held their opening meeting of the season with a fair turnout. Recreation and instruction made up the program for the evening. Three new boys, Roger Love, Glen Reynolds and Billy Milne accepted as candidates for tenderfoot Scouts.

Next week the boys plan to build patrol boxes for their corners, as well as a large locker for their troop equipment. They hope also to build a wagon with which they will be able to gather paper for storage for sale when there is a market for waste paper.

Lac. Tony Laibles, who lived for some time on North Trent Street in Frankford, is among the airmen of the district who have been searching for the missing Dr. Hebert and Bill Bastlho in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Roy Sharpe has purchased the dwelling owned by Mr. Keith Ross on North Trent Street.

The Lions Club automobile which will be given to a lucky ticket holder, has been on display this weekend at Montgomery Sales on South Trent Street.

When should a family borrow

A family should borrow only when a loan is the best solution to a money problem. For example, to consolidate debts, meet medical expenses, taxes, fuel, education, car or home repairs. Loans for these reasons are not extravagances, for the money is not used to buy goods to short supply or increase indebtedness.

SOLVING MONEY PROBLEMS

At HFC—Household Finance—we believe a family should borrow only when, by careful planning, the money problem can be resolved, and the loan repaid in an orderly manner. When a family borrows under these circumstances, it is simply "renting" money on terms it can afford. At HFC you may borrow $50, $250, $500 or more on your signature, without tangible security.

PLEASE READ THIS!

When you read the claims made by most automobile makers, you will invariably run across phrases like: "the best," "the cheapest," "terrific," etc. Now you know that they can't all be the "best", "the cheapest", or 'the most terrific."

As you have probably noticed, we have always told the truth whenever we placed an advertisement in this newspaper. If a car was good—we said so. If it was only fair, we made no false claims. If it was a relic, we even became derogatory. To our knowledge we never misrepresented an automobile.

We'll now go out on a limb and say that the new V-8 Studebaker Commander is the most terrific thing on wheels, in a price class including cars $1000 more expensive in price. We're convinced that this ONLY TRULY POST-WAR MOTOR can out-perform anything near its price, for acceleration, quietness of operation and economy. Honestly, this car can do tricks. If you feel you might like to disagree with us, ask for a ride in this new Commander V-8. We'll give the car the most critical test imaginable. You be the judge!

Flying is Rugged on Crowded Route in Northern Area

By DONALD GORDON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Whitehorse, Y.T. — (CP) — PO. Jack Thorpe of Toronto calls it a "a hops and eggs" run.

The 800-mile flight path from Edmonton northwest to Whitehorse in the Yukon is one of Canada's busiest airways. It's also one of the roughest, dirtiest and most desolate.

From Edmonton fly the sleek United States Sabre jets on patrol training operations from Montana to Juneau in Alaska. Fat, speedy, four-engine U.S. army transports fly back and forth with supplies for Alaska garrisons. Two airlines, Pan-American and Canadian Pacific — the Whitehorse as their staging area for northern Canadian operations.

And countless "shoestring" airlines equipped with aircraft ranging from surplus Lockheed Hudsons to single-engined Norsemen hop back and forth between the lonely northern air posts.

R.C.A.F. personnel are the traffic controllers of the crowded airlines. R.C.A.F. Squadron 435 maintains the supply link that makes the whole operation possible.

On scheduled twice-weekly runs, the 300-old men of the squadron carry tires, boots, supplies for the Payne and spare parts for engines, but mostly bottles and sometimes they transport addicts' machines.

They do it with 10 Dakota transports — crammed to the roof with the essential materials. They work in weather famed for its storms, ice, bumpiness and fogginess.

PO. Thorpe was captain of Air Force Flight 989 on a recent trip. In his care were 18 passengers more than a ton of freight, three crew members and the body of a three-year-old child.

He calls the trip a "ham and eggs" run because all he gets to eat during the two-day trip is greasy ham and eggs.

Makes Wireless Operator

Thorpe is 25 years old. His co-pilot, PO. Roy Phillip of Saskatoon, is 23. His wireless operator, PO. Bill Juniper of Picton, Ont., is 20. RAC. Rosaire Bourdon of Sackville, N.B., the flight engineer responsible for keeping the six-year-old aircraft in flying shape, is 22.

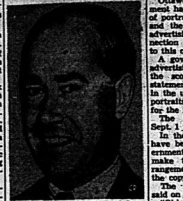
After take-off from Edmonton — usually loaded within 10 pounds of the maximum load of 32,000 pounds transports use the R.C.A.F. beam linking the Yukon base with Edmonton headquarters.

Lonely voices from the isolated range stations along the way supply accurate weather information and guide the heavy air traffic.

Flight 989 flew at 9,000 feet to Fort Nelson. Behind it was a United States transport and overhead were three American jets following the flight to pilot on the wings and air currents rocked the lumbering aircraft.

From Fort Nelson to Whitehorse Flight 989 flew at 12,000 feet to skim over the northern Rocky Mountains. It flew over twisting sections of the Alaska Highway — deserted for miles — and past the unused wartime Canol pipeline to Norman Wells on the Arctic Circle.

On arrival at Whitehorse PO. Mell Beachamp of Dwaghin, Man., checked the passenger list for the 2 a.m. return flight.



Sgt. Joe McWilliam of Flesherton, Ont., and Cpl. Stan Robatinsky handled the priority problem involved in booking 27 passengers in space for 23.

Likes Whitehorse

"Lots of people can't stand Whitehorse," McWilliam said. "Too cold. I like it . . . It's good hockey weather. We use one of the hangars to play in, Biggar-Rink than Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto."

For the return flight, the plane carried 23 passengers, a half-ton of freight — including more boots — and five pounds of mail. Two laundry jobs and more mail were loaded on at Fort Nelson.

Flight 989 touched down in Edmonton in time for dinner. Six other transports of Squadron 435 had arrived before them, back from Churchill, Yellowknife, Coral Harbor on Hudson Bay and trips east.

May Use Portraits Of Royal Visitors In Ads, Souvenirs

Ottawa — (CP) — The government has no objection to the use of portraits of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in advertising matter issued in connection with their October visit to this country.

A government spokesman says advertising matter comes within the scope of an Aug. 2 press statement setting out relaxations in the use of royal emblems and portraits on souvenirs produced for the royal visit.

In the case of portraits which have been copyrighted, the government assumes the user will make the usual clearance arrangements with the holder of the copyright.

The Aug. 2 press statement said on this point:

"Objection will not be raised to the use of Their Majesties' portraits or Their Royal Highnesses' portraits as souvenirs; but in the case of any such portraits or photographs which have been copyrighted, manufacturers will no doubt make usual arrangements with holders of copyright.

"This also applies to drawings or portraits.

Under the relaxation, manufacturers may also use reproductions of the Royal Arms, the Crown, the Arms of the Princess and the Duke and the Standard of the Princess.

They will not, however, be permitted to use reproductions of the Royal Standard, the Royal Cypher, Their Royal Highnesses' Cypher or Their Royal Highnesses' Badge.

Economic Collapse Feared By Iranians as British Apply New Financial Pressure

Tehran, Sept. 12—(AP)—Oil-rich Iran is being squeezed through an economic wringer because she cannot sell her nationalized petroleum and Britain is beginning to turn the crank with new financial curbs.

The workmen, the peasant and the man on the government payroll haven't felt the pinch yet. But business men and government financial experts fear an economic crisis early next year because of the loss of all revenues, royalties, payrolls and taxes.

Anti-British Premier Mohammed Mossedegh counts on scraping up enough money to keep his supporters happy until the elections in December, chiefly from funds banked in London.

But despite falling financial prospects and British trade and money curbs, the government still is planning to send its delayed ultimatum to Britain to resume talks on the oil deadlock or more restraining British oil technicians out of the country. The ultimatum was postponed last week.

Deputy-premier Hussein Fatimi said the note will go to Iranian Ambassador Nasrollah Entezam in Washington for relay to London. Informed sources said the step indicated Premier Mohammed Mossadegh wants the United States to act again as mediator, through W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's troubleshooter.

He got the two countries negotiating a second time last month after their first talks collapsed in June.

But the talks broke down again over whether Britons or Iranians should manage the nationalized properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The British-owned A.I.O.C. accounted for roughly 40 per cent of the national budget in past years.

The British treasury announced restrictions Monday on the use of Iranian-held sterling, its conversion into dollars, and sale of goods to Iran.

In the last week, Mossadegh has run into growing opposition in parliament over his all-or-nothing nationalization program.

If the economic storm blows up quickly, it will help the opponents who hope to unseat him before the election.

The loss of £1,500,000 monthly from oil royalties has virtually emptied Iran's treasury. In July, Mossedegh got parliament to approve the use of £14,000,000—banked in London as part of Iran's currency backing — to finance current imports.

The British order will stop trading of some sterling for dollars to buy goods from the U.S., and will stop shipment of scarce goods—trucks, machinery and raw material—to Iran.

Scrap Iron Lack Likely to Cut Steel Production

New York, Sept. 12—(AP)—Unless scrap collections improve, the steel industry may have to curb its record-shattering production pace, the Iron Age, metal-working trade weekly, said today.

The next two months will be critical, the publication said.

"All efforts to build vital inventories have failed," it reported. "There is no assurance that steelmakers will be able to continue near-capacity steel-making operations even until cold weather. Many of them are living hand to mouth right now—operating right out of cars."

The Iron Age pointed out that scrap is seasonal, that "inventories are normally accumulated during the summer, to be used during winter months when adverse weather restricts collections."

But inventories now are just about building their own, the weekly reported.

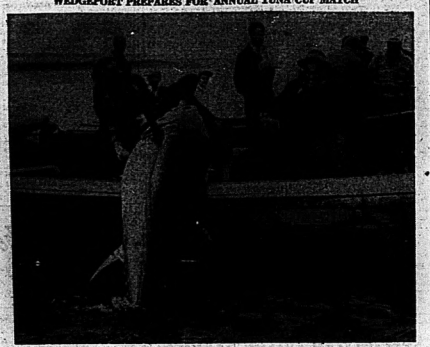
It said the national production authority's allocation of scrap to mills faced with the prospect of shutting down furnaces has helped to keep vital defense production going, "but it hasn't found, collected, or moved more scrap to the mills."

That is the purpose, said the Iron Age, of the present gigantic scrap drive, engaged in by steel producers and consumers, scrap people and government officials.

Steel-making operations this week were placed at 100 per cent of rated capacity, up a point from last week's revised rate.

WANTS NEW COMMITTEE

Saint John, N.B., Sept. 12—(CP)—Col. A. J. Brooks, spokesman for the Progressive Conservative party on veterans affairs, Tuesday night called for re-establishment of a veterans committee at the fall session of parliament.



Col. Brooks, member of the commons for the New Brunswick constituency of Royal, said a committee should be established at the session opening Oct. 9 to consider "long over due" increases in the basic pensions of veterans and in war veterans' allowances.

He spoke over a national network in the CBC's series "The Nation's Business."

CLAMP LID ON

St. Louis, Sept. 12—(AP)—The office of price stabilization yesterday clamped a lid on garbage, rubbish that garbage collected from city institutions can be sold for no more than $7,800—the price paid last year, by hog raisers.

WEDGEPORT PREPARES FOR ANNUAL TUNA CUP MATCH

Deep-sea anglers are converging on Wedgeport, N.S., for the annual International Tuna Cup Match, and for some of the most exciting fishing in the world. The Chilean team holds the cup now for the biggest catch in 1950. This shot of the Chileans boating a 810-pounder catches the thrill of the actual fishing that takes the form of the hook-fight with the deep-sea monster. The British Commonwealth, United States, Argentina, Cuba, Brazil and Scandinavia send teams to the competition.—Central Press Canadian.

Strong Back, Plenty of 'Bucks' and Luck Necessary to Good Tuna Fishermen

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Wedgeport, N. S., Sept. 12—(CP)—Somebody estimated here today that tuna cost the wealthy sportsmen about $50 a pound but this is no deterrent to what promises to be one of the best international big game fishing tournaments ever held.

Most members of the five international teams from Chile, Cuba; British Empire, United States and Scandinavia retired early last night.

In pairs, they were in a flag-bedecked fleet of 15 pot-bellied boats before dawn this morning.

Lands 923 Founder

And to shoot at they had a near world record of an "amateur" who landed a 923-pound bluefin after a 50-minute fight on Soldier's Rip fishing ground yesterday. This big fish, together with a fine selection of less weighty brothers, augured well for today's opening of the three-day world championship. And the weatherman said the day would be sunny with only a few cloudy intervals.

The man who set the example for the experts was 65-year-old Harvey Fuller, retired recreation chief of San Francisco. The only other fish he ever caught was 24-pound salmon in his native California. First man to congratulate him was Cmdr. Duncan Hodge of Montreal, captain of the British team and holder of the world title with a 977-pound tuna he caught in Cape Breton waters last year.

The five teams will fish from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. A. D. T. daily and will be judged on a scoring system that takes into account poundage, biggest fish caught and largest number caught.

Gives Catch to Guide

The fishing ground is a square mile patch of water—Soldier's Rip—made turbulent by the sea running over a shoal into deep water. This turbulence helps the bait lures by making them appear alive to the hunting tuna.

But that tuna steak at the end of the day—and this is purely theoretical because the sportsman always presents his guide with the catch—costs plenty.

The cost includes items like $40 a day for the boat, $800 for the purchase of good gear, $100 for a clothing outfit, transportation costs, at least $50 for hotel and an unestimated sum for entertainment which goes with this sport.

Incidentally, the guide sells the catch at about six cents a pound to a cannery and you buy a seven-ounce tin in a shop for about 40 cents.

But all the team members can afford it. For instance they include Antony Hulman, owner of the Indianapolis Speedway on the American team, Count F. Blucher Ahlsna, Danish newspaper baron on the Scandinavian team and Benjamin Clare, leading economist of his country on the Chilean team.

AUTRY SUED

Los Angeles, Sept. 12—(AP)—James C. Loomos, 38, a film sound technician, yesterday sued movie cowboy Gene Autry and others for $528,978. The suit alleges that the defendants were negligent in setting off a film explosion which injured and disfigured Loomos.

BOYCOTT EXAMS

Paris, Sept. 12— (Reuters) — Teachers in all French technical and high schools will boycott examinations at the end of next term to back their demands for higher pay, a meeting of the teachers' action committee decided yesterday.

Police Say Editor Misrepresented Parts of Incident

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 12(AP)—Police Chief W. D. Rayfield said Tuesday Parkman Collins last July questioned a Canadian magazine editor but charged the editor "misrepresented" parts of the incident.

John Clare, editor of Maclean's Magazine, wrote in the current issue that the police took him into custody because a woman thought he looked like communist organizer Gus Hall, target of a country-wide search.

Clare was released the same day.

Rayfield said Clare's claim that he was told his Canadian passport was no good in Mississippi was a "misrepresentation."

"His misrepresented that," the chief said. "The F. B. I. told him a passport wasn't much good for identification purposes. After all those things, can be forged. It meant nothing to us in proving his identity."

Woman Relieved Of Obligation To Repay Debt

Toronto, Sept. 12—(CP)—The estate of Mrs. Annie Merakra, who died here recently, believes she could pay a 20-year-old $4,147 bill debt to the crown, in county court Tuesday was relieved of obligation to repay the debt.

Mrs. Merakra left her $2,000 Thorold home 20 years ago when the man for whom she put it up as part of a syndicate deal disappeared. The man was Tony Mara, charged with 24 narcotics offence in 1929. When Mara failed to appear, her home was sold for $300, leaving her $1,800 in debt to the Crown.

Interest had caused the debt to grow to $4,147 by the time of her death. Counsel for the estate Tuesday asked and received relief from forfeiture.

WELCOMED TO CHAIN GANG

Hamilton, Sept. 12 — (CP)—Mayor Lloyd Jackson was Tuesday welcomed to the "chain gang" by the Lord Mayor of London, Eng., Sir Denys Lowson.

Mayor Jackson, who received the symbol of the mayoralty, a chain of office, only this week, drew a quip from Mr. Lowson at a special meeting of the Hamilton council to welcome the English Lord Mayor to this city.

"I congratulate you, Mayor Jackson," he said, "on becoming a full member of what I call the chain gang."

Korea Peace Possibilities Depend on Communist Attitude to Strafing Incident

Tokyo, Sept. 12 (AP)—Hope of peace for war-ravaged Korea today balanced gingerly on communist reaction to an Allied apology for accidentally strafing the Kaesong neutral zone Monday.

The question was:

Will the reds accept the United Nations command explanation, or will they demand the same kind of answer to 10 other red charges of Allied violations?

Chances appeared reasonably good that the reds would accept the U.N. command explanation of Monday's strafing. Sources close to the U.N. command were optimistic.

They emphasized he has no intention of being "railroaded" into admitting any communist charges that are not based in fact.

All previous allegations by the communists have been ignored or denied by Ridgway or Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior Allied truce negotiator.

A U.N. liaison team delivered the note of apology to the communists Wednesday at Panmunjon, red outpost six miles southwest of the conference city. It was assumed that the envelope contained a rejection of Ridgway's proposal to switch cease-fire negotiations to some site less subject to incidents than Kaesong.

If so, it probably duplicated the statement Sunday over Peiping radio earlier Wednesday saying the proposal was "completely unsatisfactory and unacceptable."

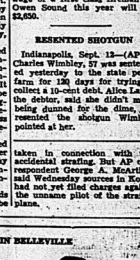
Ridgway promised the reds disciplinary action would be taken in connection with the accidental strafing. But AP correspondent George A. McArthur said Wednesday sources in Korea had not yet filed charges against the unnamed pilot of the strafing plane.

Firemen Will Receive Increase Of $350 in Salary

Owen Sound, Sept. 12—(CP)—Owen Sound firemen this year will receive an increase of $350 in salary. They had asked for $400.

Ald. Randall Browne, chairman of the fire and street lighting committee, last night read to Owen Sound city council the decision of an arbitration board which sat here May 15.

Later in the meeting Mayor E. C. Sargent again suggested that the city explore the possibility of establishing a volunteer fire brigade.



Fire protection here costs $70,000 a year while Barrie, with a volunteer brigade pays only $10,000 said Mayor Sargent.

Under the new increase, the wage for a first class fireman in Owen Sound this year will be $2,650.

RESENTED SHOTGUN

Indianapolis, Sept. 12—(AP)—Charles Wimbley, 57 was sentenced yesterday in the state penal farm for 120 days for trying to collect a 10-cent debt. Alice Laird, the debtor, said she didn't mind being dunned for the dime, but resented the shotgun Wimbley pointed at her.

Prince Philip Keen Advocate Of Team Sport

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — When the Duke of Edinburgh visits the Dominion in October, with Princess Elizabeth, Canadians will meet one of Britain's keenest sportsmen who revels in rugged recreation when he can get it.

As president of the National Playing Fields Association, Prince Philip has striven for years to encourage a diversity of team games among Britain's growing generation and himself has had a fling at almost every sport in the book, except, ice hockey.

An all-round athlete he still has a modest collection of trophies won for swimming, diving and high-jumping during his school days.

In more recent years, however, he has devoted the meagre spare time available to him in pursuit of his favorite sports, yachting and polo.

He has his own racing yachts, the "Dowsalp," presented to him by the people of Cowes, famous yachting resort in the Isle of Wight, and the dragon class "Bluebottle," a wedding gift to the Royal Couple. He is particularly fond of this craft and has sailed it himself in many races in home and continental waters.

In 1949 he presented a trophy bearing his name to the Yacht Racing Association, which has become one of the most prized awards at the annual Cowes regatta.

Rugged Polo Player

Encouraged by his uncle, the Earl of Mountbatten, the Duke likes polo. Although he has figured in several spectacular spills Philip is regarded as a rugged player, forceful in attack and possessing a fine, driving shot. He is the owner of some of the best polo ponies in the country, including three highly-bred performers, presented to him by the president of Turkey.

At Dartmouth College, where he received his early training, he was picked for the school's first soccer eleven and usually found himself playing in goal by reason of his height and agility.

Later, while attending Gordonstoun School in Scotland, he was elected to lead the cricket team. When he subsequently became president of the Marylebone Cricket Club, he captained all-star teams in special charity matches, mainly for his pet hobby — more and better playing fields for the nation.

As a spectator, the Duke particularly favors motor-speedway racing although he is also a keen race horse fan, particularly since the Princess became an owner. He makes a special effort to attend one of the major events of the Ascot fall meeting, the running of the Duke of Edinburgh Stakes, a late test for two-year-old fillies.

In season he is fond of shooting and also rounds up his friends for an occasional game of squash racquets, his favorite indoor sports diversion.

When he returns from his Canadian tour, he will have less opportunity than ever for sports diversions. He will then assume added responsibilities as royal representative at home while the King, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret are away on their tour of Australia and New Zealand early next year.

Indian Sun Dance Three-Day Event

Rocky Mountain House, Alta.—(CP) — Indian dancers did not eat, drink or sleep for three days when the annual sun dance was held in the sand hills near here.

Once a pagan feast with human sacrifices, the sun dance now is a religious festival of thanksgiving.

The Indians prayed for the end of a long rainy spell. Their own bumper crops of hay were rotting in the fields because of continued rains, but they offered prayers in sympathy for white farmers whose crops were also harmed.

The sun dance lodge was built in a natural amphitheatre among sand hills. About 100 tents and teepees surrounded it in a huge circle.

Ring of Heated Stones

The construction included a ring of heated stones for the medicine man's purification ceremonies, a waist-high barrier of leafy branches behind which were the dancers, and signposting stakes hung with medicine of native herbs.

No nails were used in the construction. Instead, green saplings were woven tight together.

A large cooking pole was raised in the main sun dance lodge as the sun dipped behind the hills. The purification and other ceremonies before it was raised were the only part of the three-day ritual which white men were not allowed to see.

Medicine Man Joshua Saiteaux led the dozen or more dancers. The dance, done to a slow, weird rhythm of tom toms, accompanied by native rattles and shrill whistles made from the wing bones of wild geese.

Motors Defeat Stewart-Warner In Ten Innings

Jack Callaghan's towering right-centerfield homer in the tenth inning broke up a four-all stalemate and gave the Belleville Motors a one-game lead over Stewart Warner in their best-of-three AA semi-finals series last night. The score was 5-4.

The game was closely fought all through with Stewart Warner grabbing a two-run lead in the second on one hit and two errors only to have Motors go in front with three runs in the fourth on Jud Semark's double, Miller's single and three consecutive walks.

Motors had a two run margin at the top of the fifth when Callaghan singled and Semark who had a life on an error, scored on another Stewart Warner miscue at the plate.

Tied in Seventh

The losers got their third run in their half of the innings on two hits, and tied up the pastime in the seventh when Doyle walked, stole two bases, and galloped home on Miller's error.

Both teams went scoreless for the remainder of the game and Stewart Warner went down in order on strikeouts in the tenth.

O'Brien popped out to third to open Motors half of the best and Callaghan drove out the winning run with his lofty four-bagger that went all the way.

Dracup went the route for the losers yielding eight hits, striking out eleven and issuing five walks. LeClair started for the Motors and gave up seven hits for three runs in five innings. Jack Reid took over and held the losers to no runs and one hit over the rest of the route whiffing nine and walking one.

Gold-Hungry Box Champs to Fight Within 6 Months, or Forfeit Title

Chicago, Sept. 12—(AP)—The National Boxing Association has left a loophole for Jersey Joe Walcott in its new get-tough policy against champions who evade title defenses.

In closing its 32nd annual convention yesterday, the N.B.A. pledged firm enforcement of its long-standing rule requiring a champion to defend his title within six months or forfeit it.

Some fighters have been dodging the rule when purses were not suitable.

However, the N.B.A. said it will listen to "legitimate or logical explanations" for failure to defend.

This will be especially true, the N.B.A. said, in the heavyweight division, which has "inherent peculiarities." This was considered a loophole for the aging Walcott who realized his dream by winning the crown from Ezzard Charles in July.

"Let's not kid ourselves," said Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois commission. "We would look silly depriving Walcott of his title within six months when he has all of the public's sympathy after striving so long to win it."

Walcott Censured

Jersey Joe, who is exploiting his new title at a good price in exhibitions, was censured for failing to keep an exhibition date at Evansville, Ind., Aug. 29, Walcott pleaded illness.

Archie Hindman of Hagerstown, Ind., who turned over the N.B.A. presidency to Dave Rochon, 33-year-old Montreal city councillor, proposed that Walcott be suspended for skipping the exhibition.

The matter was referred to the Indiana State Commission for disposition.

The N.B.A. authorized Abe Green, who was re-elected national commissioner, to notify Kid Gavilan of Cuba that he must defend his welterweight title within three months against European champion Charles Humez of France.

The NBA plans to establish a list of "suspected" boxers who appear on the verge of physical or mental disability. The list will be circulated to various state commissions as a safeguard for such fighters from the N.B.A. contends should be forbidden to enter the ring.

Whipper Watson Out of Hospital

Kingston, Sept. 12 (CP)—Whipper Billy Watson, Toronto wrestler injured Monday night in the main bout of a weekly wrestling card, will be discharged from hospital today, hospital officials said Tuesday night.

The British Empire heavyweight champion was struck down by Lord Athol Layton at the conclusion of their match, which was ruled a draw.

Layton slashed Watson across the throat with the side of his hand in a blow he calls a scimitar slash. Watson was conscious for several hours.

Morose Monkey Is Poor Clown

Calgary — (CP) — Joey is a bit of a disappointment at the Calgary zoo.

Joey, a chimpanzee, doesn't do any of the things chimps are expected to do, and zoo officials think he's plain chump, not chimp. The three-year-old seems to have a decided inferiority complex.

Since his arrival last January, Joey has fooled everybody who expected him to act like chimpanzees do. He won't be dressed up, drink out of paper cups, peel oranges or do any of the regular chimpanzee tricks.

The only thing he's worn up to now has been a slightly sarcastic expression.

He was obtained from a zoo at Kendall, Fla., and was supposed to be a trained chimp. He'll swing on the trapeze once in a while, but any chimp can do that.

Zoo officials believe the long train ride may have given him a sort of animal amnesia. But maybe he's just a cynic at heart.

Indians Stagger Out Front By Full Game; Browns Blast Bombers Twice

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

BATTLE OF THE CENTURY

Bow Bells will be hushed. The traffic on Waterloo Bridge will have died down. Covent Garden will be silent with the quarter tense, a lot of them sitting in their flats looking anxiously at the clock awaiting the magic hour of three a.m. They'll be sitting at a bit of bread 'n' cheese and washing it down with a saved-up pint or two of arf-and-arf.

* * *

Thousands of Londoners will be sitting by the wireless awaiting word from America and their beloved Randy Turpin who meets Sugar Ray Robinson in the first defence of his middleweight championship.

* * *

London and New York, too, for that matter, not to mention the rest of the British Empire and North America, will be keyed to the highest pitch of excitement as each enthusiastic heights over an international fight since Jack Dempsey knocked out "Orchid Boy" Georges Carpentier, the idol of Paris, way back in 1921.

* * *

Turpin stirred a lethargic boxing world into sudden interest with his sensational victory over Robinson in London when the former middleweight champion was knocking the best British boy the well-known cocked hat, and having a good time in the bargain. Turpin rated highly in British circles, which carry little weight in the United States, was given a chance to hold off the champion for perhaps a few rounds, but otherwise he was just another link in Sugar Ray's sensational victory chain over there.

* * *

American "wise guys" rubbed their eyes. Some of them washed their ears and asked for a repetition of the scores. Incredulity was the order of the day. Even those who had known Turpin's record in Peru, Hoboken and Broken Elbow, Arkansas.

* * *

Then the awful truth burst upon amazed Americans and slightly surprised but definitely satisfied British counterparts of the American "boys in the know—the mob—and Eddie Arcaro, the backroom gang."

* * *

Something was wrong. A superb fighting machine like Sugar Ray Robinson who had become the idol of the Parisian bistros and boulevards, Monte Carlo, Nice and other swank spots, and media that he had to be between public addresses and charity appearances, removed the well-known stuffing from an assortment of European alleged prize fighters, and clouted to the canvas by an almost unknown. And, ye gods, of all things an Englishman.

* * *

Alibi Alley started to exude reams of copy. Sugar Ray had taken too much for granted. The easy life at Paris Ritan Boulevards and near-about-town interspersed by occasional boxing flurries had taken its toll. Sugar Ray was not the fighting machine who ripped the title from an opponent in a savage bout, and who had not been defeated in over 100 appearances.

* * *

It was a hard pill for the New York boxing fraternity in particular and the American cauliflower community in general to swallow. But there were the facts. The pill had beaten their idol in no uncertain manner. There was nothing of the "Jesse-Jim referee" about the decision. It was a fair one. He whipped Robinson soundly and effectively.

* * *

Since the word got around of the rematch, interest in the fight has climbed like a jet-fighter. People, who were never the least interested in the boxing picture as a whole, found a rejuvenated interest sprouting in their mental make-ups. And the publicity hounds were quick to seize the opportunity.

Even "Uncle Joe's" boxing hirelings took time out from being fervent behind the Iron Curtain to show an interest in the fight.

* * *

Bill Puskinnottky and Ivan Uhydzamsky took up the cudgels. Each worked out editorially for Randy the Englishman and poured heaps of columnar invectives on Sugar Ray, the American boxing scene and the United States as a whole.

* * *

Evidence of intense American interest is seen in the fact that the return rematch, including television rights will exceed $600,000, the biggest "pot" since the good old days when fighters carried pouches in gloves valued at $1,000 each. Turpin, we think, will carry home enough American dollars to make him resemble a representative of the Marshall Plan. And it is hoped he does and nestling beside it, his middleweight crown.

* * *

Both fighters are in tip-top shape for this battle of the century. Turpin is said to be in superb condition. He disdained the use of headgear during training, saying he wanted to train as he will fight. He came through uninjured.

* * *

"I believe I am at my best" the British champion said in a speech that is said to be the longest since he won his title. "I never make predictions before a fight. So many things can happen. Even a novice can upset a good boxer. I will make my fight in the ring. I have no set plan of battle. You can't have a set schedule because you must meet conditions as they develop after the fight starts. I feel confident. I will try my hardest not to disappoint folks. If there is a knockout I hope I shall be in a position to watch the referee counting. I expect, when I land in London on the Queen Mary on Sept. 21st., to be carrying the title back with me." Stout fella.

* * *

It should be a beautiful scrap, win loss or draw. Both fighters are set and ready to go. May the better man win, and win it on his merits. Let's hope that nothing of a farcial nature spoils what should be the most outstanding fight in an era of boxing that is and has been sadly lacking in topflight exponents.

* * *

This corner is going out on the limb to call Turpin, despite the fact that danged pool ticket says "Robinson 13th."

Tribe Squeezes Split With 'A's', Bosox Trail Yanks by Four; Brooks Increase Lead to Six

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The weary Cleveland Indians staggered out of Philadelphia today, their waterlogged smeared, their tomahawks bent, but safely ensconced in first place in the American League race.

While Cleveland was thrashed 9-3 by the giant-killing Athletics after squeezing out an 11-inning 5-4 victory, the Yankees were struck by lightning twice.

The usually-inept St. Louis Browns stunned the baseball world by inflicting 7-3 and 6-3 defeats upon the defending champions. The twin loss left the Yanks reeling out of first place, and dropped them a full game behind the leading and idle Tribe in front of the third-place Boston Red Sox.

A former Boston pitcher and three erstwhile Clevelanders led the Browns in the slaughter. Jim McDonald pitched and batted the Browns to their first win. His ninth-inning, two-out single scored Fred Marsh, a former Indian, with the winning run.

A three-run homer by Cliff Mapes, another former Indian sent Bill Wight to the showers for Louis with the winning margin in the nightcap. The victory went to Tommy Byrne, who the Yankees last June traded to the Browns. The left hander was keyed in the sixth, but a sterling relief job by Satchell Paige nailed down the triumph.

Red Sox Close Up

It was a profitable day for the Red Sox who picked up a game and a half on the Yankees and a game on the Indians by trailing Detroit 4-3. A three-run, eighth-inning outburst enabled them to overcome a 3-1 deficit.

Elsewhere, Washington ended a nine-game losing streak with a 10-inning, 7-6 victory over Chicago While Sox. Mickey Mele's single scored Tom Ferrick with the winning run.

Brooklyn moved nearer to clinching the National-Loop flag, shutting out Cincinnati, 7-0, as St. Louis Cards held New York Giants to a split. Cliff Chambers, Redbird left hander, stemmed a three-run ninth-inning uprising to walk off with a 4-3 win after the Giants had won out a 10-5 opening victory. The Dodgers' lead is six games over the Giants.

Philadelphia Phils nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 to make it six-game losing streak, and Chicago's Cubs outslugged Boston's Braves 13-11.

Superb relief pitching by Early Wynn, who won his 6th game with an 11th-inning triple, saved the Indians from suffering the same fate as the Yankees. Twice Wynn pitched himself out of trouble with the bases loaded before he broke up the game.

The A's watched a 4-1 lead, built at the expense of Bob Feller, go up in smoke when Cleveland rallied for four runs in the eighth to take a 5-4 advantage. The fighting Philadelphia club, however, roared back with five tallies in the home half of the eighth on three hits, a couple of walks and some loose play by the Indians. Dutch's single was the only solid blow off loser Lou Brissie and Mike Garcia. Bob Hooper was the winner.

Royals, Chiefs Take Openers In Int. Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals and Syracuse Chiefs were off and running today in their quest for the International League's Governors' Cup championship.

Both clubs opened their semi-final playoff series in completely fashion last night. The flag-winning Royals received a splendid pitching effort from southpaw Chris Van Cuyk and blanked the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons 7-0. The third-place Chiefs overcame a 5-1 deficit to shade the runner-up Rochester Red Wings, 6-5 in 10 innings.

The Royals will send another southpaw, Mal Mallette, to the mound tonight. The Bisons will counter with Tom Acker.

Mallette 1-casts a gaudy 10-2 slate, but has not recorded any effective relief. Acker's standing 10-13 on the season and is 1-3 with Montreal.

The Red Wings will try to even matters in their series at Syracuse tonight. Eddie Fisher is against the Chiefs, who will start Bob Keegan.

St. Catharines Teepees (CP) — Hamilton Crewfords Tuesday night eliminated St. Catharines Teepees from the Ontario baseball Association juvenile A playoffs, winning the series, three-game 10-4. Hamilton won the best-of-three series in straight games.

Robinson Named 2-1 Favorite Over 'Champ' Randy Turpin; 55,000 to See Titular Battle

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 12—(AP)—The most eagerly awaited prize fight of recent years is scheduled to take place out around second base at the Polo Grounds tonight when Randy Turpin of England, a pugilistic upstart, gives Sugar Ray Robinson of Harlem a return shot at the middleweight title he won from him in London two months ago.

American fans have never fully recovered from July 10 when Sugar Ray, regarded by many experts as the most accomplished fighting man of the generation, dropped his 160-pound crown to the 23-year-old Turpin in 15 rugged, bloody rounds.

Tonight they will come close to packing the huge baseball park to its capacity of 55,000, weather permitting, to watch the Harlem hotshot seek his revenge.

There will be no television or radio. Audiences in 11 cities outside New York will, however, be privileged to watch it on movie screens at prices ranging to $2.50.

The two were due to weigh in at noon today at the offices of the boxing commission. Neither has had any difficulty making the weight. Turpin will scale to do 158, Robinson 157. In their first fight the Englishman had a pull of nearly four pounds.

Personal Bets at 2-1

Robinson has been a firm betting favorite ever since the return bout was set and the vast majority of American experts favor him to win, mainly by a decision in the full 15 rounds. There has been very little bookmaking around here, the reason for it known to the bookmakers, but there has been considerable manner betting at 2 to 1 on Robinson.

Those few Americans who have seen Turpin fight a time or two as well as a large group of English boxing writers and fans who are over for the bout, believe these odds to be a terrific overlay. The burning regret of Randy's supporters is that their government wouldn't permit them to bring along heavy money for betting purposes.

"Gone Over the Hill"

There was no question that Turpin, a coffee-colored scrapper of Trinidadian and Negro antecedents, gave the 31-year-old Ray a handsome going-over in their first meeting. The pictures made it clear that the American champion, while still a top tour of the continent, simply had run into a rough, rugged young customer who hadn't bothered to read the record book.

Randy, an unorthodox boxer made Sugar, for all his vaunted skill, look awkward much of the time. He was shabby, apparently weary and obviously off his timing, was in bad shape in the later rounds, lacking explosive power to cut over his left eye.

Randy is his hard enough to stop a man, and he is not easy to hit with a pattern of punches such as Robinson likes to employ. He proved in training that he is ready to go 15 rounds at top speed, and without breathing too hard. Some are convinced that the former champion will have to end him early, and good, if he is to win.

The only question among Robinson's more ardent supporters is whether their idol decisively has "gone over the hill." If he is the Sugar Ray they saw butchering Jake LaMotta to win the title, the amazing craftsman who had lost only one of his 131 fights before he met Turpin, they can imagine only one result tonight.

There is no agreement either written or oral for a third bout between the two. Ray has said, though, that if he wins tonight he will be glad to give Randy another money date with some whopping London crowds. It's said that he makes out of all his varied enterprises in Harlem.

Army General Threat for Title National Amateur

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 12—(AP)—A silver haired brigadier general from the southwest is threatening to march off with the 51st National Amateur Golf Championship right under the noses of defending champion Sam Urzetta and four illustrious Walker Cup teammates.

The big fighting World War officer, Ken Rogers of Oklahoma City, has made America's ranking amateurs get back and take notice with his brand of par-wrecking golf. While some of the top linksmen have exactly burned up the 6,979-yard Saucon Valley Country Club course, Rogers has turned in four front-nine rounds of two-under-par 34.

Rogers opened his bid for the national title by blasting Edward Ervast of Normandy, Mo., 8 and 6 yesterday morning. He went to real clif spectacular shots with a 6 and 3 triumph over John Weaver of Houston, Tex.

64 Survivors

Today, the former army brass gets a chance to show whether he has endurance to go with his tactical golfing ability. The 64 surviving amateurs play two 18-hole rounds and before the sun sets on this beautiful Lehigh Valley course, the men will have been separated from the boys.

Two dark horses look as if they may have more than a little to say about the eventual winner. Bob Gardner, a steady and brilliant golf workhorse from Los Angeles, fired the best round of the tournament, a two-under-par 34-36—70, in outstanding Lloyd Ribner, White Plains, N.Y.

The fair haired boy of many spectators is Bill Patton, 26-year-old former Wake Forest athlete who now sells lumber when he isn't swinging a golf club. This Morganton, N.C., native slaughtered Mike Dudik of Johnson City, N.Y., 6 and 5. Patton, Carolina open champion, plays what could be either best match of the day when he the best match of the day when he plays Dudik, a Walker Cup star.

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

The big fighting World War officer, Ken Rogers of Oklahoma City, has made America's ranking amateurs get back and take notice with his brand of par-wrecking golf. While some of the top linksmen have exactly burned up the 6,979-yard Saucon Valley Country Club course, Rogers has turned in four front-nine rounds of two-under-par 34.

Rogers opened his bid for the national title by blasting Edward Ervast of Normandy, Mo., 8 and 6 yesterday morning. He went to real clif spectacular shots with a 6 and 3 triumph over John Weaver of Houston, Tex.

64 Survivors

Today, the former army brass gets a chance to show whether he has endurance to go with his tactical golfing ability. The 64 surviving amateurs play two 18-hole rounds and before the sun sets on this beautiful Lehigh Valley course, the men will have been separated from the boys.

Two dark horses look as if they may have more than a little to say about the eventual winner. Bob Gardner, a steady and brilliant golf workhorse from Los Angeles, fired the best round of the tournament, a two-under-par 34-36—70, in outstanding Lloyd Ribner, White Plains, N.Y.

The fair haired boy of many spectators is Bill Patton, 26-year-old former Wake Forest athlete who now sells lumber when he isn't swinging a golf club. This Morganton, N.C., native slaughtered Mike Dudik of Johnson City, N.Y., 6 and 5. Patton, Carolina open champion, plays what could be either best match of the day when he the best match of the day when he plays Dudik, a Walker Cup star.

Leafs Open Camp At St. Catharines On September 23

Toronto, Sept. 12—(CP)—The Maple Leafs, who last year made more player shifts than any other team in the National Hockey League, are this year hoping to reap the benefits of those changes. While their victory in the playoffs last winter indicates they already have had a terrific dose of the benefits, general manager Conn Smythe says his team is "just coming of age."

The Leafs open their training program Sept. 23 at St. Catharines, Twenty-six players so far have been invited to play and the Toronto team will have four exhibition games before their league opener in Maple Leaf Gardens, Oct. 12.

Leafs open their exhibition schedule against Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League Sept. 26 at St. Catharines. On Oct 3 they will meet their own farm club, the American Hockey League Pittsburgh Hornets, at Niagara Falls, Ont., where the Hornets will be training. St. Catharines the following night the two teams play a return game. Leafs have signed Ken Laufman of last year's Guelph Biltmores.

The National Hockey League all-star game is slated for Oct. 9 in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP) —You might expect a few unusual ideas from a guy who lifts bar bells in preparation for swinging a 13-ounce golf club... and you get them from muscleman Frank Stranahan...Frank's interest in weight-lifting and diets is well known...Few people are surprised when he comes into the golf room at swanky Saucon Valley with a paper bag full of fruit and orders a glass of milk to go with it for his lunch...Still another idea is that any athlete can do better when he's tense instead of relaxed... After Frankie was ousted from the 1951 amateur golf championship he argued that keyed-up players were better for most of those upsets..."They get so tense they can't do anything," said Stranahan.

"I've noticed the same thing in weight lifting. When I'm in competition I can lift 20 pounds more than I can in practice..."

Short Putts

Charlie Coe, the 1940 amateur champ, lost his baggage through an airline foul-up on his way here from Oklahoma and it didn't catch up with him for a couple of days..."It always happens," says Charlie. "On those places you either have to check your baggage or your golf clubs and I figure I can always buy clothes but I can't play golf without my clubs."

Middleweight champ Randy Turpin: "Tucking your chin behind your shoulder is a bad habit. You don't think about getting your right up to protect your chin."

Pre-Tilt Rhubarb Features Redmen Kingston Game

Although the semi-final series in the C. O. B. L. between Kingston Dinney Leafs and Belleville Redmen is only one game old, the rivalry already has grown quite strong, due to a rhubarb that developed shortly after the Belleville team arrived in Magaffin Stadium last night.

Pat Wilson, coach of the Redmen was 'mad at the gate by Stan Scrutton of the Leafs and was informed that the Kingston executive was protesting the playing of Munroe of Napanee as a replacement for Sam Mulholland.

Stood on Rights

Hot words were exchanged even before the team dressed and continued when Bob Nesbitt, president of the league, arrived at the park. Jack Carson, president of the Redmen, stood on his rights at the meeting on Friday night last, when it was agreed that Munroe could play. The argument continued while the teams warmed up and then the Belleville players were called from the field and asked what they wanted to do, continue the series or call it off. The players decided on quitting and gathering their equipment trooped past the Kingston dugout to the dressing room.

Right away the Kingston players went into a huddle with the Belleville management trying to find a compromise and it was finally decided to allow Munroe to play and Kingston was given a replacement for Ferguson, who leaves the team next week for a winter-of hockey with the Boston Bruins. The replacement cannot be a pitcher. The argument settled, the players went back to the field and the game got under way shortly before nine o'clock. The two teams play back here tonight and Thursday night with the next two games in Kingston on Friday and Saturday if necessary.

Whip, Geohagen Hope to Tame Atkins, Newman

The "Whip" was discharged from a Kingston hospital today, and if his condition warrants it he will be here Friday night with Geohagen.

The Whip's injury was right up the Atkins-Newman alley, so to speak. They figure the British Empire champion will be weakened after his Kingston experience and he and Geohagen will be "duck soup" for their tactics come Friday.

The hoodless horror and his down-under partner have been getting away with everything but the city banks during the past three or four weeks and Watson and Geohagen are out to put a stop to their villainy once and for all.

Another "hood," the Zebra, will be here too, to add to the bad-man color of the card. He faces handsome Lou Sjoberg in the semi-final while Mayes McLean tangles with good-looking Billy Stack in the opener.

Sport in Brief

David Bochon, 53-year-old member of the Quebec legislative assembly, Tuesday was elected president of the National Boxing Association. He succeeds Archie Hindman of Hagerstown, Ind.

Rochon's hometown of Montreal was selected for the 1952 N.B.A. convention to be held in the second week in September.

Saint John Beavers, one of the teams to be expanded Maritime Major Hockey League, Tuesday night announced the signing of Phil Hughes, goalie for Toronto St. Michaels last season.

St. Mike's, Ontario Major Hockey Association winners, conquered the western Canada Major Hockey League champions and were finalists against Valleyfield Braves in the Alexander Cup series.

Coppernoll, riding Overhead, covered the mile and five-sixteenths in two minutes, 16.2 seconds. The old mark, set by Worth Silver on Aug. 22, was 2:17.1.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Freddy Glover — last year's top scorer in the American Hockey League—is shaping up favorably as third member of the Marty Pavelich and Metro Prystai line, number two with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, coach Tommy Ivan said Tuesday.

Glover, 23-year-old native of Toronto, who scored 48 goals and 39 assists with Cleveland Barons team Indianapolis Capitols last season, seems assured of a spot on Ivan's line. Ivan said general manager Jack Adams agreed after watching Tuesday's workout.

At Coldwater, Ont., a standardbred left the track in a race at the 58th fall fair Tuesday and plunged into the dense crowd. Jack McMahon and son, Lorne, of Port McNicoll and Jean Palmer, 4, of Zady were knocked down but suffered only minor injuries.

The fair broke all records for attendance and for exhibits.

WINS LACROSSE TITLE

Toronto, Sept. 12—(CP)—Mimico Mounties Tuesday night won the Ontario Lacrosse Association junior championship beating Peterborough Junior Petes 16-5 in the fourth game of their best-of-five final series.

Falls Edge Memos To Even Series

Smiths Falls defeated Brockville Memos 7-4 in their second game of the semi-final of the C.O.B.L. in the railway town last evening. Brockville loaded the bases in the ninth with the score 7-3 against them and scored three runs in that frame before the Smiths Falls team put out the fire with a double play, that was hotly disputed by the Brockville fans. The teams now have won one game each.

Canadians Win World Softball

Detroit, Sept. 12 (AP)—Both defending champions came through yesterday in first-round play in the American Softball Association tournament here.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 12 — (AP) — After years of trying, Frederic March and Willy Loman finally got together on a movie stage.

Of course, you know March, the two-time Academy Award winner and perennial movie topliner. Willy is the traveller of Arthur Miller's prize play, "Death of a Salesman."

Fred and Willy go back a long way together. Let March tell about it:

"I first heard about the play when I was in England finishing up 'Christopher Columbus.' They sent it to me to read and wanted a decision in a hurry. I was exhausted, having worked for 14 weeks on the picture, with three or four weeks to go. I read the play between scenes of the picture, which is the worst way to read anything, particularly a play with as many transitions as 'Salesman.'

"Well, I couldn't make much out of it and quit after reading the first act. Actually, they wanted my wife (Florence Eldridge) for the play and would take me, too. But I turned it down and so she decided to, also. They all thought I was crazy, and rightfully so.

Change of Heart

"Later, I had a change of heart and said I would do the play. But they had signed Lee Cobb the day before."

When March observed the play's tremendous success he figuratively kicked himself up and down Broadway for his hasty decision. After that there were discussions of his heading up the Chicago or London company but nothing came to them. A deal was set for him to appear in the film version but that fell through.

March was also supposed to enact the salesman for the record 742 times. "I'd agree to do it if I could have a few days of rehearsal with the director, Elia Kazan," he explained. "But Kazan wasn't available and I didn't want to merely read the lines of a character I hadn't been able to study. So Thomas Mitchell did the album."

March had just about abandoned hope of meeting up with his would-be friend, Willy. Then a couple of months ago, his agent wired him: "Have firm offer from Stanley Kramer for 'Salesman' on screen. March nabbed the offer and now is playing the movie version.

'Lorna Doone' Filmed, Color by Technicolor

Columbia Pictures' "Lorna Doone," immortal story of a feud to the death co-starring Barbara Hale and Richard Greene, is due Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. Romantic adventure of 17th century England, this Edward Small production was filmed in color by Technicolor. Featured are Carol Thurston Reid, Fred Clark, Bishop and Ron Raddell in the principal supporting roles.

In "Lorna Doone," Miss Hale plays the title role and Greene, a courageous soldier. On opposite sides as members of two warring factions, these two are sworn to hate each other until they discover they were born for each other's arms. Jesse L. Lasky, Jr., and Richard Schayer wrote the movie version of the immortal novel, "Lorna Doone."

'Across the Badlands'

The West's most popular outdoor action team, Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette, in "Across the Badlands," Columbia's latest cowboy thriller is the added attraction.

The picture is also sparked by Smiley Burnette's unique talents in the fields of music and comedy. He sings two of his own tunes, to the musical accompaniment of Fiddlin' Bill Russell, an oldtime vaudeville entertainer who recently was presented by the Canadian Legion.

AT THE BELLE — David Wayne and Susan Peters give lovable Thelma Ritter the good news that the wedding day is set, in 20th Century-Fox's new comedy, showing today and Thursday at the Belle Theatre, with Gig Young and Carla Belanda are starred in "Hunt The Man Down," action-packed romantic melodrama on the same program.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Defenders have no monopoly on the use of a double for takeout purposes. The opening bidder can employ that, too. And it is just as easy to spot in that spot, too.

If the bid is not more than three in a suit and partner has not yet bid, a double is for a takeout. Partner of a takeout double must bid something if no bid intervenes.

Your opening bid is one heart with this south hand:

♥A Q 8 6 4 7
♦K J 8
♣A J 6

Suppose west bids one spade. Suppose your partner in the north and your opponent in the east both pass. What should you do?

You have not a new biddable suit. You have not a rebiddable heart suit. So you have no takeout of any kind. With no suit bid by your partner, you have no assist.

The only bid left would seem to be in no-trump. But that would be dangerous without one or more stoppers in the opponents' suit. And yet your hand is too strong to sell for one spade.

In that kind of a spot, you have a swell signal. It is the word double. Used under such circumstances it is a double for a takeout. It asks partner to bid something. So, double.

If west comes in with another bid right there, your partner in the north may pass. Because a takeout double does not force partner to bid if there is an intervening bid after the double.

But, if west does not intervene with a bid, north is forced to bid something. He should then bid his longest unbid suit or easiest hearts. It is possible for him to have either or both.

You see, he may not have had enough for a true response to your opening bid. He might have been short a high card or a trick. But he could have a long suit or four or more cards in your suit.

The real purpose of a takeout double is to get some information from partner. He should pass you some ammunition.

FOUR MEN DIE

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 12—(AP) — Four men died today in a fire in a two-storey wooden building. Police said the fire, of unknown origin, broke out in the kitchen of the building. The four men had apparently retired for the night. Police said three of them were vagrants taken in by Thomas Milnes, the fourth victim.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, September 13

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Your planets in fairly auspicious aspects. Better and reasonable efforts will profit. Display patience, fortitude and tenacity; right direction counts, too.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—If careful in business and finances early, you should have no regrets later. Enjoy the blessings God has bestowed upon you, strive for more but not to excess. Remember your soul.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—May be obstacles, who hasn't them? But you are fortunate in God-given abilities, should handle these to high credit. Be not needlessly drastic in changes. Resist foolhardy risks.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Heed suggestions to Taurus now. With modesty, sincere effort and a lack of willfulness you can gain ground in things you understand. Work within your ability to operate.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Day has many meanings, possibilities, some very good, some difficult to understand. You can see haste isn't one of the ways to success, but forethought and careful study are.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Solid day for solid thinkers. Rightly allocate your efforts that you will have proper coverage, making every move worth while. Preserve health, have recreation, rest periods.

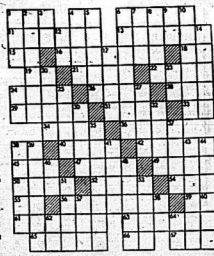
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—May be differences in opinion, you may have to give up a point or two. This often fits in with better harmony. Be a contributor to community, welfare work. Enjoy pleasures sanely.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Don't allow regrets or emotions, or little things to spoil chances of fine achievement, forward thinking. Abide by practical rules and proper deductions and expert high rewards.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)— Research, advance planning important now. Watch assets and liabilities, especially in p.m. No hit-or-miss process will do. Avoid legal entanglements where possible.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Auspicious period to finish incompleted matters. Think well before taking on problems. Create an air of dependability, trust and you can really make headway during dull times.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—With constructive attitude, and if ready to listen (and holding to smart pattern), you can have good results. Be adroit, gentle, amenable but not foolishly gullible.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Be on the job at start of business hour, ready to take full advantage of all good available. You can go forward now, in "chip-on-shoulder" manner. Work hard, play happily.

YOU BORN TODAY: The logical, systematic type. Sensible, kindly; seldom meaningly hurt another. Not a schemer. Practical rather than too sentimental, though truly a very good friend, mother, life-mate. Will go through many hardships for those you love; often not appreciated. Make able business partner, banker, financier; success in field of art. 1951 still has many advantages. Take things in stride and allot some time for fun, play with loved ones, it maintains health of all.

Fort Churchill 'Coldest Camp'

The Defence Department has compiled figures on climatic conditions in 33 military camps and training areas. They contained surprises for many servicemen.

The warmest spots are Nanaimo and Esquimalt in British Columbia where the average temperature for the year is a comfortable 50 degrees above zero. But Esquimalt has less rain than Nanaimo and rates a little higher on the popularity scale.

The driest spot used in the past by the army as a training area was at Courtenay, B.C. where the average rainfall each year is 52.59 inches. Halifax has average rainfall of 48.66 inches annually.

While not so cold as Fort Churchill, Goose Bay in Labrador and Valcartier, Que., are considered rugged in the winter due to frequent heavy snow storms. Goose Bay, with an average fall of 131.8 inches each winter, has a greater fall than Petawawa, Ont., Wainwright, Alta., and Esquimalt combined. The snowfall at Valcartier averages 123.7 each winter.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was going to take me to the movies, and he stuck his head in the living room door, saying, Come on, my dear, if you want to see the beginning of the picture.

Just a minute, William, just a second, ma said. I'm listening to the Lucky Number program. I just want to hear what tonight's code word is, she said.

Which just then the announcer said well folks, the code word for tonite is Yewreeka. Remember, even though you are thousands of miles away, if your telefone number is the lucky one, just run to your fone when it rings and say Yewreeka to the Lucky Number man, and you will receeve a 6 passenger automobile of any make and model you choose, with a check for one thousand dollers on the frunt seet, he said.

Okay, now you know the code word, let's go, pop said, and ma said. But William, suppose he calls our number?

Yee good, do you know how many telefones there are in this country? pop said, and ma said, I've got as much chance as anybody else that a meteor will fall in your back yard just because a meteor has got to fall some place, pop said, and ma said, Oh well, all rite, let's go.

Which just then the telefone rang, and ma said, William, there's the fone.

It's been there for years, pop said, and ma quick ran and answered it and came back, saying, it was Maud Elews to tell me the code word in case I didn't know it. That changes everything, William, now we've got to walt, she said.

Why the dooce do we? pop said, and ma said, Because now if the Lucky Number man tries to get me and I'm not here, Maud will have a joke on me the rest of my life. If we're late for the picture we'll just have to be late, she said.

Which they probably were.

24 DUNDAS STREET WEST BELLEVILLE

By Harry Meldrum Moore

It was late when Lance Bradley left the council chamber. He was hurrying home when he met Bert by a breathless Goldie Webster, who had a startling story to tell.

A few minutes previously he had been passing The Ensign building when he had seen someone strike a light in the yard. He had hugged the wall, and following the building he'd made out two men at the press-room door. What they were doing, he hadn't seen. After a while when the men had left, he had heard one of them boast "I always cover up my tracks before I make 'em." A second match had been struck, something had been dropped and they'd run. Goldie had stamped out what he thought was a burning cigarette and raced after them to see who they were when they came out under the street light. But he had collided in the dark with a third person, and fallen. When he'd stood up, the men had gone.

Lance Bradley and Goldie Webster hurried to the yard, went to the press-room door. Lance stooped, examined something without touching it, then warned Goldie to keep away from it, he went to his office.

A few minutes later he was back and with him was Chief Shepherd with a flashlight. Goldie watched them approach the press-room door, and moved up to hear them.

"There's enough dynamite there to level your building," the Chief said.

"Yeah," Lance said. "Yeah, there is. It was my press they were after."

He stooped and picked up a long cord, followed it to the end.

"This is the cigarette you stamped out, Goldie. And luckily you did. It was long enough to ignite the fuse, son," he explained, "in time."

Chief Shepherd turned to the boy.

"Did you recognize these men?"

"All I can say is that they were tall, they had their coat collars up."

"Who was this third man you collided with?"

"Must I tell?" Goldie asked.

"It might help," Chief Shepherd said.

"Then—then—it was Black Jack Webster, my father," Goldie said.

—The following morning Lance Bradley's mail brought him another letter from the gentleman John Palma, a letter which read:

"You're a lucky fool, Bradley. Next time we'll get you without fail. Take a tip, and get out when the getting's good. You've asked for it. You'll get it!"

CHAPTER XXVII

The vicious attempt to dynamite The Ensign building, with the serious damaging or complete destruction of the newspaper's valuable press, as the principal objective, gave the people of Emerton plenty to talk about. There had always been a certain amount of law-breaking in the town, but never anything of such a serious nature as this. And the citizens wondered about it. The man or men who had been foiled in their attempt to damage the press-room and the press, certainly had displayed boldness and audacity in striking at a building in the centre of the business section. Why had they now waited until after midnight or in the dark hours before the dawn to set their explosive, instead of in the short hour between the signing off of the radio station and midnight?

While these and many more questions were being asked, Chief Shepherd immediately placed police guard on the property until other arrangements were made by the owner.

Next morning, when Dad Robarts heard of the attempt on The Ensign plant, he was deeply concerned, and he spoke his mind to Lance Bradley for the first time, telling him that he was getting himself into a peck of trouble.

"Yeah," Lance said non-committedly, "I guess you're right."

"I think you'd be well advised to lay off," Dad continued. "You have stirred up a gang that possibly won't stop at anything."

"Yeah," Lance said. "I know. But right now I'm like the boy who has a bear by the tail. It might be more dangerous to let go than it would be to hang on."

"I don't understand."

"The clean-up in town hall not yet been completed," Lance went on, "and it won't be completed until we get Crooks out of there."

"But, you're surely not working on that still!"

"And why not? Listen, Dad, right now we have Joe Crooks on the hip. Last night, Council charged him with feathering his nest with corporation funds, and we demanded that he resign forthwith. He said he would make known what he would do at a special meeting next Monday night. So you see we are not out of the woods yet. Once we get Crooks out of there and we get the proper type of man for mayor, and when we get our hands on the persons who attempted to blow up this place, I will still have another matter to settle. I still have to find a man by the name of John Palma."

"John Palma?" Dad questioned. "Never heard of him. What's he been doing to you?"

"Plenty", Lance said, showing Dad Roberts the letter he had received in the mails that morning.

"But, you're not letting a thing like that bother you, son?" Dad asked in a tone of surprise.

"Well, not more than to the extent of fifty dollars that I have promised to pay my brother if they run him down, and bring him to me."

"You're foolish, son," Dad said.

"Possibly," Lance agreed. "But I'm going to see it through. If money will bring Palms to heel, I'm willing to spend it. This afternoon I'm going to run down to the city to see if I can get a good investigator, one who can act as watchman to help the police to get these dynamiters, and who knows but what he may indeed find John Palms for me?"

"I wish you luck, son," Dad said. "But I still don't think you should pay any attention to what this man Palms says about you. He's a rotter or he would come and tell you to your face what he thinks of you."

"He's a rotter all right," Lance said. "I'll never be content to let him get away with it."

Chief Shepherd dropped in when passing to say that he had picked up Black Jack Webster the night before, but it was plainly apparent that in his advanced state of intoxication, his presence in the Ensign just the previous night had had no connection with the attempted dynamiting. But he had locked him up anyway, to sober him up and then send him on his way. The Chief also said that he had questioned Goldie Webster at some length relative to the two men he had seen on the premises the night before, but Goldie was sticking to his original story.

Lance Bradley spent that afternoon in the city and when he returned late at night he was accompanied by a big square shouldered man in a grey suit who answered to the name of Ed. Carruthers. The two men rode together, but separated upon arrival, Carruthers to a hotel, Lance Bradley to his home. Carruthers was in and out of the office during that day and at night Chief Shepherd removed his guard from the Ensign building. Then Carruthers, with few private ever knowing anything about it, took over.

During that week, when the Emerton councillors were wondering what Mayor Crookes would have to say at the meeting, the following Monday night, reports were reaching Lance Bradley that the mayor and ex-councillors Craft and Maker had been seen on different occasions at the office of Brown Paving. It was evident that Craft and Maker had come to the assistance of the mayor and they were either helping him to destroy evidence that would convict him of wrong-doing, or they might indeed be cooking up an alibi that would absolve him of all blame, that would put the member of council on the spot.

So with considerable trepidation the Emerton councillors gathered at the town hall that evening shortly before eight o'clock, stood around in groups, wondering what the mayor was going to do. Since the previous meeting, not one of them had been talking to Mayor Crookes, not one of them had seen him except at a distance and at such times he had been with Craft and Maker.

Eight o'clock, when Council meetings were usually well started, came, and Crookes was not in his accustomed seat at head of the table. Indeed, Crookes was not in the hall at all.

Johnson Parker, who had been invited to council by Lance Bradley just in case the councillors required someone to put up an argument for them, was standing over Clerk Jennors, with the minute book open before him. They were conversing in low tones. In a back seat Reporters Artist and Holland relaxed while waiting for the big story to break.

At ten minutes past eight o'clock on the big round clock on the council chamber wall, Chief John Shepherd walked into the hall with a letter in his hand. The Ensign reporters followed him up the aisle.

"This is probably what you're waiting for," he said, and turned away again.

High Army Officers Declare Collapse of Duplessis Bridge Caused by Explosives

Three Rivers, Que., Sept. 13—(CP)—Two Canadian army engineering experts said today they believe strands of wire around a section of a steel girder of the Duplessis bridge were used to set off an explosion that caused its collapse.

Major-General H. Kennedy, federal government engineering consultant, and Brig. D. K. Black told a two-man commission investigating the collapse of the bridge last January 31, that some "external force" was responsible for the tragedy. Four persons lost their lives while crossing the St. Maurice River span and another man was drowned when the tractor he was using to recover a submerged automobile crashed through the ice.

The army officers examined the debris of the $3,500,000 structure before testifying. Major-General Kennedy said he estimated that 25 pounds of high explosives were used to cause the collapse. Brigadier Black said he considered that ten pounds of explosive would have been sufficient to crack the steel.

Both said that "no better place could have been chosen for the explosion" than where it was placed near pillar No. 2 of the structure. This spot was readily accessible for such an act they said.

Before today's session reconvened Judge Rene Lippe and Commissioner Lucien Dansereau, appointed by the provincial government to head the inquiry, examined piece of steel to which a strand of wire was attached. They apparently were checking theories advanced by Premier Duplessis and a Dominion Bridge Company engineer that sabotage caused the bridge failure.

Robert Eadie, the Dominion Bridge Company chief engineer last week suggested that burns on a section of a steel girder might have been caused by explosives.

Bookie Ditches Police but Now Back in Custody

He told the Federal Bureau of Investigation that he was not a fugitive seeking to avoid testifying, but had simply strolled out of police custody at his home, Tuesday night for "a walk in the sun". He was arrested at the track yesterday while police were hunting for the bookie, who has estimated he paid out $1,000,000 a year to protect his $20,000,000 gambling ring.

The F.B.I. turned the handcuffed gambler over to the Brooklyn district attorney, who sped here to retrieve his star witness in the $1,000,000-a-year police bribe trial.

Facing 65 years in prison on gambling charges, Gross had been freed on $25,000 bail pending sentence and his testimony against 18 accused policemen.

Chatting and amiable after being picked up at the race track, Gross said he could not understand all the fuss over "just a bookie case".

"They'll parlay this thing into a three-ring circus," he added.

Gross said he got tired of having the police around and just walked out, got into his Cadillac, and travelled 180 miles.

He called three letters, threatening his life and his family if he testified, the work of cranks but said they upset his wife.

TRIO IN CUSTODY AFTER ROBBERY FOILED AT BANK

Sharp-Shooting Banker Outguns Gunmen

St. David's, Ont., Sept. 13—(CP)—Earl Gilson, 27, of Niagara Falls, Ont., has been charged with attempted robbery of the Imperial Bank of Canada in this Niagara peninsula village.

Two other men taken into custody yesterday after three would-be robbers fled in a flurry of gunfire from the bank are under police guard in hospital at St. Catharines, seven miles from here.

Gilson's capture climaxed an eight-hour manhunt through woods and underbrush south of St. David's. He was found at a hydro construction camp on the outskirts of Niagara Falls.

Meanwhile, George Dabald, 27, and Boyd Englehart, 29, both of Niagara Falls, were in St. Catharines hospital with bullet wounds police say they suffered when they traded shots with sharpshooting bank manager A. T. Minnis. They were arrested soon after the holdup near a highway on which their automobile had careened out of control.

The raid on the bank in this little Niagara peninsula community was the second in a month. Three bandits escaped with $6,000 Aug. 16, and two suspects have been arrested in connection with that holdup.

Three would-be robbers walked into the branch yesterday just before closing time, brandishing revolvers and shouting: "this is a stick-up."

Teller Joan Cornell ran to the vault at the rear of the bank and tripped an alarm.

One man poked a gun through a teller's wicket and told Ann Neufeld to "put 'em up". Another man went to the manager's office and rammed the muzzle of a sawed-off shotgun through the glass of the door.

Minnis, who had been on holidays at the time of the August holdup, pulled a .32-calibre colt revolver from his desk drawer and blazed away at the intruder. The shotgun crashed out, sending a blast of buckshot into the ceiling.

Miss Neufeld, who broke up the first robbery by tripping her alarm signal, turned in a second alarm.

The would-be thieves turned and fled. Minnis and ledger-keeper Roger Hoffman followed them to the street, firing as they ran. Carl Slingerland, a storekeeper, also helped to shoot at the men fleeing down the street. Some of the shots hit a tire of the get-away car.

During the excitement, the bank manager's wife, who lives above the bank, suffered a heart attack at her apartment door and tumbled downstairs. She was taken to hospital.

Czech Airline Flights Across West Germany Barred, No Reason Given for Action

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 13—(AP)—The allied high commission has barred all Czech airline flights across west Germany, high commision officials disclosed today.

Officials gave no reason for the action.

An American official said the United States, Britain and France had concurred in the joint action, effective last Tuesday midnight.

Asked whether the decision had anything to do with the case of William Oatis, AP correspondent, sentenced to jail by the Czechoslovaks on spy charges, he answered "no comment."

The U.S. Congress has voted to recommend that commercial relations with Czechoslovakia be severed until Oatis is freed.

President Truman was quoted Sept. 1 as saying he was "determined to take whatever measures are necessary" to obtain Oatis' release. He told a press conference that the Oatis case would never be closed until Oatis is out of jail. He also told the Czech ambassador that Oatis' imprisonment was a hindrance to better U.S.-Czech relations.

The ambassador, Vladimir Prochazka, told reporters that his government will not yield to American economic, political or "propaganda" pressure.

Last December, the U.S. high commission restricted Czechoslovak airline flights across the American zone of Germany. The action was taken after numerous violations of flight regulations by Czechoslovak planes carrying delegates to a "peace conference" in Warsaw.

However, there have been no recent charges of any further violation which could account for the ban announced today.

Delegates Arriving in Ottawa For Approaching NATO Talks

Ottawa, Sept. 13 (CP)—By train and by plane, in steadily increasing numbers, representatives of foreign countries are arriving for meetings of the 12-Nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Some of the advance guard has already arrived and the flow of delegates will continue until shortly before the meetings open Saturday at 3 p.m. EDT.

One of the leading delegates scheduled to arrive today is Hon. Paul Van Zeeland, Belgium's foreign minister and president of the N.A.T.O. council. Mr. Van Zeeland, accompanied by the Belgium delegation, is due to arrive by air at 3:50 p.m. EDT. He will be followed by delegations from Luxembourg and Denmark.

Among the first delegations to arrive was one from Portugal, headed by P. Cunha, minister of foreign affairs.

The meetings, due to continue to Sept. 22 are to be held in the closely-guarded centre block of the parliament buildings where unprecedented security arrangements have been put in force. No one without a pass is allowed to enter the buildings. All except the formal opening meeting will be in private.

The United Kingdom delegation, headed by Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, and the Italian delegation, headed by Prime Minister Gasperi, are expected to arrive Friday. No time has been set yet for the arrival of Foreign Minister Schuman of France.

State Secretary Acheson of United States is due to arrive Saturday shortly before the meetings start.

Among other countries to be represented are Holland, Norway and Iceland.

The Canadian delegation will consist of External Affairs Minister Pearson, Defence Minister Claxton and Finance Minister Abbott.

Their principal advisers will include A. D. P. Heeney, undersecretary of state for external affairs; Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom and member of the NATO council of deputies; Jean Desy, Canadian ambassador to Italy; H. O. Moran, assistant undersecretary of state; C.S.A. Ritchie, also assistant undersecretary; and R. A. MacKay, head of the defence liaison division in the external affairs department.

From the defence department there will be Ralph Campney, parliamentary assistant to Mr. Claxton; C. M. Drury, deputy minister of national defence and Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the chiefs of staff committee.

Mr. Abbott will have his deputy, Dr. W. C. Clark, and assistant deputy, Robert Bryce.

From the defence production department the advisers will include Max Mackenzie, deputy minister; and H. R. MacMillan, Canadian representative on the NATO defence production board.

ALASKAN AIR GROUP GROUNDED AFTER ACCIDENTS

'Morale Reasons' Given By U.S. Navy Official

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP) — A naval air squadron in Alaska has been grounded by the navy for "morale reasons" after a series of recent air crashes there.

Word of the action was given to Representative Hugh Mitchell (Dem. Wash.) today in a letter from Francis P. Whitehair, Under Secretary of the Navy.

Whitehair said a special board of inquiry is investigating the accidents.

Mitchell recently asked that the navy ground all navy Privateer bombers pending a check into the circumstances of four crashes in the Alaska area. The crashes claimed a total of 45 lives.

Whitehair informed Mitchell that three of the crashes involving Privateer bombers were suffered by patrol squadron 9.

For "morale reasons," he said, this squadron had been temporarily grounded by the commanding officer of the Alaskan sea frontier.

A navy air squadron in the Alaskan area presumably would be used to patrol the ocean area between Alaska and Russia.

In addition to the navy crashes, nine other craft have crashed or vanished in the Alaskan sector since July. Several were air force planes. The toll of dead or missing is close to 100.

Missing Man Thought Carrying Sum of Money

London, Ont., Sept. 13. (CP)—Spurred by the family's fears of foul play, police throughout the province Wednesday were put on the alert over the disappearance Saturday night of John Ross Elgie, 28, deputy reeve of West Nissouri township.

His sister, Mrs. Freeman Brock, said, "we are terribly worried for fear something has happened to him. He sometimes carries fair sums of money and there is a rumor circulating that he had quite a bit Saturday night."

Other members of the family said he sometimes carried large sums of money in his pocket and that this might be known.

Labor Transfers Part of Project, Gregg Announces

Intimates Ottawa Ready For International Troubles

Halifax, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Labor Minister Gregg said today that advanced planning for a national registration is going forward rapidly.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, Mr. Gregg said the registration plans are being made "so that one might be completed at short notice if the situation should demand it."

The government, he said, has acted on several important recommendations of the national advisory council on manpower, which a few months ago expressed belief a national registration was not needed at this time.

A plan has been inaugurated to step up the training of skilled workers for the armed forces and for defence production. An interdepartmental committee is working out a plan whereby employers engaged in essential activities will be given preference when the men and women who apply for work at National Employment Service offices are referred to jobs.

"No Obstruction"

"I can assure you too that in other departments of the government, similar efforts are being made to make certain that nothing will obstruct the fulfillment of Canada's program of preparedness," said Mr. Gregg.

He referred to the cost of living, one of the top issues at the convention, and reiterated the government's view that price and wage controls would not be effective at this time.

"It is still our belief that inflation can be stopped without a maze of government orders, an army of government officials and the resulting imposition of restrictions which bind and chafe the individual citizen, and thwart the exercise of his democratic rights and freedom," said Mr. Gregg.

He added:

"These beliefs are based on the assumption that most Canadians will play their full part in the struggle. I believe they will do that.

"What is needed above all else is individual restraint and greater production. Restraint on the part of the consumers when tempted to buy non-essentials regardless of price. Restraint on the part of businessmen, so they may be slow in translating a market opportunity into an increased price for their goods. Restraint on the part of labor in its collective bargaining proceedings that it may not seek and impose all that the traffic will bear.

In the midst of this restraint there is the need for greater efforts for more production on the part of us all."

The major cause of inflation was the robust demand for goods and materials. It followed that inflation could be stopped if the demand were met.

"It can be met if we can increase our production to the point where the needs of preparedness and the needs of everyday life are satisfied," said Mr. Gregg. "Perhaps it cannot be done. I think it can be done, and I'll tell you why I think that way—we have accomplished miracles of production before.

"In the Second World War, this country did more than anyone dreamed it could. There is no reason why we cannot do it again, even though there does not exist the patriotic fervor of all-our war."

VACATES DEFENCE POST

Unexpected resignation of General George C. Marshall, U. S. secretary of defence, has been attributed to "very personal reasons." He will be succeeded by present deputy secretary, Robert A. Lovett. — Central Press Canadian.

Proximity Fuse, Out of Mothballs, May be Major Weapon in Korea

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—A super-secret weapon, developed in the Second World War, became so enmeshed in military secrecy that few people knew how to use it when the Korean war broke out.

The curiosity of a civilian scientist finally broke the secrecy and increased the use of the killer-gadget in Korea. It now may be a decisive weapon in turning back any new red offensive against United Nations' forces.

Dr. Louis N. Ridenour, Jr., a radar expert in the war, pulled the weapon—the proximity fuse—out of mothballs.

The fuse is an electronic gadget that can cause artillery and anti-aircraft shels, rockets or bombs to explode within a few feet of their target.

The fuse, screwed into the nose of a bomb, has a tiny radio which sends out waves which bounce back from a target to a receiver. As the bomb nears its target, the echo-waves "trigger" the bomb to explode.

(Virtually all the preliminary work on the proximity fuse was done in Canada with research centred at the University of Toronto.

(Sir Henry Tizard, British scientist, brought the fuse problem to Canada in 1940 and it was turned over to Arnold Pitt, assitant professor physics at U. of T. who studied it with other colleagues.

(Later the Carnegie Institute at Washington started on the proximity fuse and the work was merged with Canada's research. Armed with the Canadian information, the U. S. completed and perfected the fuse.)

Last fall, Ridenour was curious why the armed forces were not using more proximity fuses even though there was a large stockpile in the far east.

He doubted the claims of some experts that they were unnecessary or ineffective.

As a result of his curiosity, a joint mission was sent to Korea last December to study the problems.

This mission discovered the fuse had remained such a secret that airmen, artillerymen and others didn't realize its effectiveness as an anti-personnel weapon—although the fuse had been a deadly weapon in the Battle of the Bulge in the Second World War.

One officer said: "Some artillerymen didn't even know the fuse could be used in certain shells." Comparatively few had been trained in the use of the fuse.

The mission briefed the services on the potential value of the fuse as a killer of enemy troops.

The result: the army now is using 17 times as many proximity-fused shells as before. The air force, which had used none, now is using hundreds of them in anti-personnel bombs.

East Berliners Net, Carry Off West Policeman

Berlin, Sept. 13 —(AP)— East Berlin communist police, guarding the street barriers isolating the Soviet sector from the west, today kidnapped a West Berlin policeman on the sector border.

West Berlin police headquarters said Inspector Leopold Wittke was examining a new communist barricade when he was dragged off into the Soviet sector.

The new barrier, erected during the night, reduced to 26 the number of streets still open for east-west crossing within the city.

West Berlin authorities believe the communist aim is to channel traffic over a few streets so they can control it easily. The reds claim that "smugglers" have been hauling raw materials and valuable scrap metal out of their zone to West Berlin.

HORNET STING FATAL

Rye, N.Y., Sept. 13 — (AP) — A single mornet sting yesterday caused the death of 28-year-old Charles Pilger. Dr. David M. Spain said Pilger, stung on the back of his hand, had a rare allergy to the poison of the sting.

Total of 18 Years Given Three Men For Shopbreaking

Windsor, Sept. 13. (CP)—A total of 18 years in penitentiary was given three men, one from Toronto, when they appeared Wednesday in County Court on charges of shopbreaking with intent and carrying firearms illegally.

Peter Tornowsky, 36, of Toronto, was sentenced to five years for shopbreaking and an additional two years for being armed with a revolver at the time of the breakin.

Louis Balog, 36, no fixed abode, received six years for shopbreaking and Donald Atone, 21, no fixed abode, was sentenced to three years for the shopbreak and two years for carrying a revolver.

FAILED IN THREE ATTEMPTS

Brussels, Belgium, Sept. 13 — (Reuters)—Police said today that a 70-year-old farmer made three suicide bids within 90 minutes yesterday — and failed at all of them.

They said Desire Melangreau of Bossu cut his throat, slashed his wrists and threw himself down a well.

The report said he made a slight scratch on his neck, missed the vein in his wrist, got stuck in the narrow well mouth.

Two Arctic-Coast Indians Trade Trapper's Life for Army Career

Edmonton, Sept. 13 —(CP)— Two young Indian trappers from Canada's far north have traded a life of tramping along trap lines for an army career. But they figure they've done their share of marching. They want to be army truck drivers.

Then, they boarded a Canadian Pacific Air Lines plane— fare paid by the Canadian army — and flew 1,500 miles to Edmonton for final processing at the recruiting centre.

They said a moving force in their decision to join the army —they thought it over all summer after last winter's poor trapping season— was Canon C. R. Montgomery, head of the Anglican mission in Aklavik where the young trappers were educated.

Canon Montgomery, who went to Aklavik from Africa after the Second World War, is a brother of Britain's Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery.

Francis said joining the army was "Freddie's idea." But you could see he liked the idea for he was quick to add, "it will be an easier living than trapping."

Confessing to a desire to drive trucks—neither has driven before although there are trucks in Aklavik—they hope to join the service corps.

The trap lines they left behind on the Arctic coast will be worked by their families.

The army here first heard about their intentions in a letter from Canon Montgomery. Ten days later a medical-dental team, on a tour of northern outposts, declared Francis and Freddie fit for army duty.

"We will do all we can to keep them together for the time being," said Capt. D. A. MacLeod officer commanding the Edmonton manning depot.

He took the new recruits on a city tour, then to a dinner in a downtown cafe. Their biggest thrill came when they climbed into the cab of a railroad locomotive.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 13. (CP)—Synopsis—Cool moist air pushing eastward from the Western States will enter the central and southwestern sections of the province early this morning. Accompanying this cool air is a narrow band of showers which will pass across the province during the day. This band of showers will be followed by rapidly clearing skies and somewhat lower temperatures.

Orwell Ashley Escapes Fire But Store, Contents Damaged

The flames badly damaged the apartment, burned through the ceiling of the adjoining grocery store and caused extensive damage to the grocery stock and contents.

Mr. Ashley, who lives alone, told firemen he was awakened by the crackling of flames outside the apartment about five o'clock. He ran west and into his store to telephone the fire department, but already the phone wires had been melted. Minutes later he attempted to re-enter his apartment to get clothes but flames barred his entry.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the fire apparently started on a verandah between the garage and grocery store, where a quantity of grocery stock was piled. The flames ate their way up over the verandah roof and into the apartment before being noticed.

The flames were mounting into the air when firemen arrived on the scene. Fire Chief Vance immediately radioed a second alarm bringing more equipment.

The Ashley apartment was badly damaged and its contents destroyed. The ceiling of the store and the roof of the garage were also damaged. Fire loss was estimated at about $2,500, but no estimate has been made of the smoke and water damage to grocery stock.

Laborites Hit Use of Judges In Labor Rows

Toronto, Sept. 13—(CP)—Two sections of the Canadian Bar Association stood opposed today on the question of whether judges should be appointed to labor conciliation boards.

The British Columbia sub-section on civil justice yesterday protesting the use of judges on boards and royal commissions.

Later in the day, the industrial relations section supported judges on boards. They have earned the respect of management and labor, its resolution said."

The issue may be decided tomorrow with a vote of all members at the final sessions of the annual meeting here.

At the association's annual meeting in 1950 at Washington, a resolution was passed calling on the country to halt the appointment of judges as chairmen or conciliation and arbitration boards.

Large Attendance At Napanee Annual Fair

District fall fairs are turning to encourage the work of junior a senior boys and girls work and judging section of which was on Wednesday afternoon was no exception. A fine display of calves from the Calf Clubs, special exhibition of work done by the girls in the school and home all tended to provide the large crowd with enthusiasm for this work, so capably carried on by Cliff Ashton, agricultural representative for Lennox County. Other features of an annual fair are the exhibits of livestock and the yields of the rolling fields and these were in abundance. At the conclusion of the afternoon program, a livestock parade of the winning animals took place and the urban dwellers marvelled at the splendid stock and the fine condition they were in.

In the livestock parade Carl Martin showed the best heavy draught team in the show; Earl Nugent the best light draft and Ralph Aylsworth the best agricultural team. Lorne Aylsworth had the champion Holstein bull with John Finn showing the reserve grand champion. This champion cow was also shown by Vanalstyne and Finn who also took the honors last year. Warden Clarence Milligan showed the best shorthorn bull, while Gladden Clement had the champion Ayrshire bull, cow and calf.

In the jersey calf club Don Aylsworth was high man in the senior class and Bud Hawley in the junior section. A number of finals followed the livestock showing the work of the garden and home club the girls' clubs, boys' and girls' calf club and the boys' tractor club. Also shown the proper and wrong way to take care of livestock on the farm and these were found instructive as well as amusing. One boy was shown cleaning his calf, while the other calf was quite docile and the caretaker sleeping on a pile of straw.

Good Racing

Naturally the horse races before the grandstand was the chief point of interest to the visitors in attendance. The program a free-for-all and 2.22 class were given and the winners of each class proved much the best of the field. Turnabout, who has been racing with success around Thorncliffe and Western Ontario, was an easy winner of the new class. Jimmy Allen, son of Peterborough, has his colt in fine condition and he simply romped to victory. The same was true in the fast class, when Ruth Harvester, a free-for-all placed and ably driven by Albert Defosse of Trenton, made every heat a winning one in all three heats. The track was not especially good but the racing was interesting. Results in Victorian Order of Nurses and the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans, Belleville Branch No. 201.

BLIND REPORTER DIES

New Britain, Conn., Sept. 13 — (AP) — Arthur F. Sullivan, 56, veteran blind reporter who covered his beat with the aid of a Seeing-Eye dog and took his name in Braille, died yesterday. Sullivan worked on the New Haven Evening Register and later joined the Bridgeport Herald. He wrote a column entitled, "As Seen by a Blind Man."

Resist Temptation Of Becoming 'Carbon Copies'

Murray Bay, Que., Sept. 13—(CP)—Reconstruction Minister Winters appealed to Canadians today to resist the temptation of becoming "mere carbon copies" of Americans and to build up a greater tourist trade by a more distinctively Canadian culture.

He suggested there was too great a display of the United States flag in Canada and that Canadian publications feature too many American news items and news pictures.

American tourists he told the annual convention of the Canadian Tourist Association in a prepared speech, come to Canada because to them it was a "foreign country." Yet too often they are disappointed.

"We all too often go out of our way to greet Americans with shows of what they expected to leave behind them. We have, in fact, been ingenious in devising ways of making them feel at home whereas what they want to feel is away from home."

By an "over-display" of the American flag, Canadians gave the impression of "trying to curry the favor of the American tourist," Mr. Winters said.

"This must surely repel the average American while at the same time it discourages the creation of a Canadian atmosphere.

"We sometimes offer our guests American meals with American names, and build copies of American wayside restaurants in which to serve them.

"We tend to feature American news items and American news pictures, and often fail to give domestic developments the attention they deserve.

"Let us resist the temptation to offer mere carbon copies," Mr. Winters said. "Our relationships with the United States are enough in themselves to assure our friends a welcome."

Cherishing the differences that mark off the two countries "can be made one of our greatest tourist attractions."

Congress Attacks Govt's. Refusal to Initiate Controls

Halifax, Sept. 13 — (CP) — Trades and Labor Congress of Canada delegates today attacked the federal government's refusal to put direct price controls into effect.

The discussion came as the T. L. C.'s annual convention debated a resolution, subsequently adopted, calling for price controls and "condemning" the country for "indifference" towards the living standards of Canadians.

The resolution asked for a rollback in consumer prices, establishment of a prices board and imposition of a 100-per-cent excess profits tax.

The attacks on the government were listened to by Labor Minister Gregg sitting on the convention platform after delivering an address in which he reiterated the government's reasons for not putting in direct controls. He said inflation could be beaten if all sections of the economy exercised restraint.

Claims Govt. Not Friend

Douglas Hamilton of the Toronto district Trades and Labor Congress said the present administration is not a friend of labor.

The only solution, he said, is to engage in "direct political action" by defeating liberals.

"They've lost the confidence of the people when they attempt such important issues as price control and the cost of commodities," said E. J. Small, Toronto machinist.

Joe Berry, Toronto chemical worker, said labor is prepared to make sacrifices these days but they should be made by all. Instead speculators were sending up prices by creating false shortages.

"The two great dangers to democracy are communism and unrestricted capitalism," he said.

Harry Yeo, Toronto chemical worker, charged there is "callous" indifference on the part of the government, which was "catering to a small minority of manufacturers."

E. King, Vancouver office worker, said it is "plain bald untruth" for the government to say direct price controls will not work. They had brought down the cost of living in the United States.

Max Swerdlow, T. L. C. organizer in Montreal, said higher living costs are knocking out the benefits received from wage increases.

"Workers have got substantial wage increases in the last year," he said, "but it is questionable whether their economic position has been improved."

British Ships Cease Delivering Cargoes to Iran

London, Sept. 13 (AP) — British today stopped British ships from delivering any cargoes to Iran.

Board of Trade spokesman disclosed vessels carrying "certain scarce materials" to Iran have been diverted.

This, he said, was in line with a British treasury statement which earlier this week cancelled financial and economic concessions to the Tehran government.

Breakdown of the Anglo-Iranian talks for settling the oil nationalization dispute brought about the British squeeze on Iran.

U.S. Discloses Pilotless Bomber Being Readied

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP) — The U.S. air force disclosed today it is forming its first guided missile squadron, equipped with a new "pilotless bomber" type of weapon apparently intended for tactical use in warfare.

An announcement said the bomber squadron is being formed at the Guided Missile Centre, Cocoa, Fla., Oct. 1 and that it "will be the first operational unit of its kind in the air force."

The squadron, the announcement said, will be equipped initially with the 'Matador, B-61 'pilotless bomber, now in production by the Glenn L. Martin Company, of Baltimore, "Md."

The squadron will train at first as part of the air research and development command but later "it will be made combat-ready by intensive unit training under the supervision of the tactical air command," the announcement said.

Today's disclosure followed closely recent statements by President Truman and several Senators regarding creation of "fantastic" new weapons.

An air force spokesman described the missile as being similar in appearance to the swept-wing XB-51 Martin jet fighter, but smaller.

It is powered with one jet engine.

There was no information immediately available on the size of the bomb load which the missile could carry.

There have been persistent reports in recent months, however, of the perfection of compact atomic bombs which could be carried in comparatively small craft.

The missile is launched from the ground rather than dropped from the belly of a large plane, and has been done in the past during experiments with earlier models.

BOMB SPOTTER

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 13.—(AP) — An atomic bomb spotter, named the Radiation Lampshade, was announced by the General Electric Company today. It is a small robot which will tell civil-defence workers just how high up and where an A-bomb exploded in their area.

CONTROLLING EDUCATION COSTS

In Toronto within the last few days, members of the city council and various ratepayers associations have been aroused at disclosures about the way in which the Toronto board of education has been spending money.

According to charges which have been made public and are to be investigated, at least $50,000 of the Toronto school board's disbursements have been made illegally. Among these disbursements were such items as a trip to Paris for a couple of the trustees at a cost of $4,954. There were also such disbursements as paying for teas, dinners, corsages and gifts for retiring trustees.

Toronto, as is well known, is not only a large city but an extremely wealthy one. In an economic sense at least, its title, "The Queen City," is not an empty boast nor a mere expression of civic pride.

It is extremely doubtful, however, whether any substantial number of Toronto's civic taxpayers are in favor of paying for trips to Paris for board of education members.

While there is not anything to suggest that Belleville's school board members are contemplating any trips to Europe at public expense, the Toronto imbroglio highlights a situation that is common to all Ontario municipalities and that has been worsening from decade to decade.

This situation is that the municipal council, which must raise most of the money for school purposes, has no control over how this money is spent.

For the ultimate citizen to answer, as they invariably do, that they must face the ballot boxes, too, is not very satisfactory to a good many taxpayers, nor to the members of most municipal councils. It is easier to spend money than to collect it, just as it is easier to point with pride to a new school building than it is to explain why the tax rate is going to rise another five or six mills.

Many thoughtful and informed men in municipal politics, such as Councillor Victor Ryan of the neighboring town of Trenton, have advocated that each municipal council should have at least partial control over the spending of the municipality's board of education.

Successive provincial governments have been asked to take some action in this connection, but as nobe has done anything, when Hon. Leslie Frost and his colleagues get around to considering the Hope report on education, they might be well advised to give some thought to the cost of education to the civic taxpayer.

A NICE, HUMANE WAY

(Hamilton Spectator)

They laid Old Jim away the other afternoon — under a green aching elm. The birds were singing, the day was fair, and all of it was the way Jim and his late owner would have liked it to be.

Old Jim was an Ontario farm horse, his years 32, which is quite a respectable age in equine circles. When his master passed on in 1941 he made provision in his will that Jim, and Dick his team-mate, be retired for the remainder of their days on a neighbour's pasture. They were to be fed and treated kindly and given decent burial when their time came.

That testator was a humane one who loved his faithful horses; for what can be closer to a tiller of the soil than the patient comrades who accompany him day after day, year after year, as the three of them traverse the furrows and the share turns over the good earth? Sowing and reaping, spring and harvest, by the sweat of their face, so do they come to know the timeless truths.

This farmer wanted to be sure. He wished to be certain that his horses wouldn't end up hauling a junk wagon, perhaps, over hot urban paves; go to the knacker's yard for fertilizer, or in the chopping table of a mink ranch. Thus it was that Old Jim and Dick enjoyed their Eden among the clover.

Dick remains, and he is going to be a lonely old fellow, it is to be feared. But that elm will be shady when the sun gets hot — and Jim may somehow be close and even hear the other's whinny when storm clouds lower or the first frost invites the barn's warmth and the long white days to come.

They were happy, these two, in their declining years because the man who owned them had a heart of kindness —something which Tennyson prized higher than Norman blood or coronets.

TWISTING THE LION'S TAIL.

(Ottawa Journal)

WHAT'S WORTH DOING

"Whatever's worth doing is worth doing well."
Old counsel my father would frequently tell.
"Your shoe lace you've shined, but the mud on the heels
A very poor job of shoe shining reveals.

Don't expect to play ball till your mission is done.

Remember this always, each task is a test.
You fail if you slight it. So give it your best.

There may be some purpose you don't understand.
But that is a question you needn't decide.
In the way that you do make sure to take pride."

WHEN IN DOUBT

No parlor is complete these days without a doleful discussion about the moral degeneration of us North Americans. Never was so many people confident that they were going to hell on a bobsled.

The magazines have abandoned their features on wonderful children and the secrets for happy marriage. They are concentrating on the mental climate of millions of people. They are finding the outlook dark.

The biggest thing in the newspaper business is a gloomy editorial in the Cleveland Press. It speaks of the "moral deterioration" of America in pretty much the same terms as it might speak of dry rot in the foundations of a chicken house.

Everywhere you go you find average people engaged in soul-searching and self-analysis. There is a terrible hunch that something is very wrong.

I listened to two sermons on church broadcasts Sunday. One man talked of the terrible end. One man talked of the terrible decay of family life; the divorces, the broken homes, the juvenile delinquency, the thirst for easy pleasures. The other talked of the corruption of material things; the greed, the wicked economy of half-wars, the purple fog of intellectual pride, the decline and fall of idealism.

It is all pretty frightening. It is all pretty real. The human spirit seems in a kind of vacuum, waiting to know what to do and what it purpose. Everyone asks questions about it. There were eight questions made in the Cleveland Press' editorial. No one gives any answers.

Words, Voices

I am one of those who think that we are in moral decline. I agree with the editorial writer of the Cleveland Press. It comes down to one giant indictment question: "Can We Tell Right From Wrong?"

It surprises me only that we're bearing up as well as we are. I am amazed that people are able to keep any sense of balance in a world of tilted mirrors.

Consider every influence on our lives.

Our newspapers pander to children's delinquency. In the big mass circulation and newer of individual intellect, speak editorially of one, solid chant, rarely do the news in any kind of focus. That is the right wing press. The left wing press is a hopeless thing.

Our radio—the eunuch of mass communication— is dedicated to shrilling little tunes, better what may. Its one contribution to so-

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Our sleeping dreams prove to us that we have far greater powers of invention than we are aware of in our waking hours. For example, last night I had a dream in which I was in a comedy team with Bob Hutchings and Tony people, professors, doctors, scientists. And for some reason we were all listening very intently to a radio musical program.

Suddenly there was a jazz presentation of all the sweetest and gentlest songs ever written, "When You and I Were Young Maggie," "Darling Nellie Gray," "Trifling to Me Only With Thine Eyes," were only a few of the tender masterpieces that were torn to pieces by the most sensational jazz band I ever heard.

It was a big band, there must have been forty pieces. One after another their setting, without pause, all the sweetest old tunes I know, and when at length they took the "Holy City," and began dishing it up with bebop interpretations, I glanced about my fellow-guests in this, my dream, after all, and they were fairly shrieking with delighted approval.

From the "Holy City," this lyrical jazz band of what really was my own creation went on to "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," and "Only the Lonely Heart," and so great was my consternation at the hot licks this incredible band was giving these compositions, that I was at the point of getting up to turn the radio off. At that minute, it went into "God Save The King." And if you ever heard that noble tune really jazzed, you would know what jazz can be.

I woke up, sweating. And as I say there, I realized that there probably isn't a modern band in the world that can dish it up the way my dream band can.

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

With all present-day talk about democracy, the hard, unpleasant fact remains that for the past fifty years the race has been headed in the direction of increased authority. Hitler fought a war to make the world safe for democracy, and in the end he had less democracy than when he started. The Czar and Kaiser were succeeded by Stalin and Hitler, in our own country, basic democratic freedoms have apparently had to be surrendered in order that we might prepare ourselves to withstand totalitarianisms. Our lives are regimented now as never before. We talk democracy, yet all the time we walk as fast as we can toward totalitarianism.

The first thing of which we should remind ourselves is that totalitarianism spoils the spirit of men. It will spoil and finally ruin the spirit of America if we allow it to continue. The second thing we need also notice is that the willingness to be subject to others, the docility with which men obey directives, is clear indication that they have lost something of real value out of their inner lives.

But we should not give up hope. One of the best indications of the growing improvement in the spiritual life of people in free nations is the annoyance they have begun to manifest here and abroad toward the imposition of a few higher-ups to manage them.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE BOLD WITH PRAISE

Intelligent and sincere praise works miracles with the morale of a person. Every worker wants to feel that his efforts are appreciated. That is one of the joys of work. Pat a horse on the nose and he will work harder, and travel faster. Pat a dog, and he will be a dog of a lover. Praise is a kind of universal fuel—and its cost is nothing.

Praise is the most valuable commodity in the world. Twenty-one hundred Kipling's "English Flag," and Kipling replied: "When you privide the flag, which is praised by the general, he cannot presume to thank you for it. He can only better next day." And that's the way it is. There is no more explosive or shell-honest praise.

There should be no respecter of persons when praise is to be meted out. It belongs to all who earn or merit it. And no one who waits for the praise he deserves will ever react happily to it. The chances are that the larger he is the more he appreciates simple praise, and the humbler the direction it comes from the more it is appreciated, for it is that much more genuine.

Public performers and contributors demand praise. This thing of praise than anything else. The playwright and his actors are never quite sure if you like them the essential boost for success. Authors, too, often criticize upon the play, and ten to one it will die before it has even opened to the world.

Praise—what would an actor, musician, public speaker, poet, or writer, do without it? Many a human being has gone to his unhappy grave for want of just a little praise in life!

Be bold with your praise, and be sure that it is its genuine. If you are an employer, a little praise to the worthy will return to you in spiritual dividends out of all treasured known! We can be very bold with our praise whenever it is deserved. And there is a reaction in the heart of the one who receives praise that is wonderful up, pleasantly, and with a happy satisfaction. The good news of appreciation is the more part of his human frame! And he closes his it day ahead!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene. Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed.

COSMETIC CARE OF THE TEETH

A pleasing personal appearance is an asset of considerable worth to a good many persons in social, business and professional life. It is one of the factors I computed in arriving at the appraised valuation of $1000 for every tooth that is functionally efficient. Although personal appearance is a minor factor in comparison with good digestion, good nutrition and good health or vite and longevity, it is still of sufficient importance to warrant the trouble and expense of saving every tooth that good dentistry can save, or if one or more teeth must be extracted, then immediate replacement with a suitable denture.

If an individual goes along for weeks or months with one or more vacancies not filled with dentures there is an inevitable wasting, shrinking, atrophy, of the entire facial structure, with sagging of cheek, drooping of mouth and the formation of lines, all of which combine to give the characteristic look of age and decrepitude. Of course, the loss of just one or two teeth, even back teeth, may not produce this haggard look as soon as the loss of many or all the teeth. But neither plastic surgery facelifting nor other artifice can restore a semblance of the youthful look that went with a set of well made complete dentures give the face.

These are some of the reasons why one embarked upon a career should regard at least 28 functionally efficient teeth, natural or artificial, as requisite for success and happiness in work and teeth because about half of all Americans never out from one to all four third molars (wisdom teeth)—an observation from which you may draw your own conclusions.

Is this lack of wisdom teeth attributable to the modern way of machinery instead of our own grinders (molars) now wearing most of our daily food (most of the calories are derived from white flour and white sugar)?

Are we physically inferior to our forebears? In many ways we are, in others we are. Or perhaps it would be nearer the truth to say some of us are inferior, and some of us are superior to our forebears. The more I think about it the more at sixes and sevens I find myself. My cogitations usually end up with the hope that we can make enough people to supplement the typical American menu, white flour and white sugar diet with enough vitamins and minerals to retard, if not arrest, the physical degeneration which lowers the vite and shortens the life of the poor peak who gets most of his daily calories from refined white flour and refined white sugar.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Make a Face and Hear Better

Just a year ago I sent for your pamphlet, Tinnitus and Deafness. I studied the instructions for the face-making exercises, carried out the exercises twice daily, and am happy to report that (1) my hearing has improved more than I thought possible; (2) the head noises now scarcely bother me and, most important of all, (3) the long-suffering Mrs. says I'm home more any more. (— C. K.)

Answer—Thank you. The pamphlet available to any reader who asks for it in writing (no cellophane, please) and inclosure of stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hair Grows Again

Will hairs tweezed out grow again? (Mrs. J. M., N.D.)

Answer—It makes no difference whether hairs or scalp, eyebrows, beard or hair on body are removed by chemical, scissors, razor or tweezer, they continue to grow as before. The only way to destroy hair is electrolysis or electrolysis which is tedious and painful if there are more than a few hairs to be destroyed.

Go Barefoot

Have had corns since I was a little girl. How can I get rid of them? Are loose shoes or tight shoes the cause? (Mrs. W.)

Answer—Either friction (perhaps from shoes which are ill-sure (usually from tight shoes) may cause corns. Send 20c and inclosed addressed envelope for booklet, Care of the Feet. Go barefoot as much as possible.

Barilko Search Hits a Snag

Kapuskasing, Sept. 13—(CP) The hunt for Bill Barilko and Dr. Henry Hudson hit a snag Wednesday when the Hudson's Bay Company post at Rupert's House, key air point for the two in their flight August 26, was quarantined for smallpox.

Two members of the R.C.A.F. who established a radio station there Sunday are now isolated along with the Indian inhabitants.

Search officials here said Wednesday night that small aircraft used to scour the immediate area around Rupert's House for the missing Toronto hockey player and the Timmins dentist, could not be based at the trading post. The planes would operate from Moose Factory, 85 miles to the southeast.

When Rupert's Maple Leafs open their training camp Sept. 23 at St. Catharines, defenseman Barilko will be listed on the training roster. He tired the overtime goal that won the Leafs the Stanley Cup last season.

West Europeans Express Regret As Marshall Quits

Paris, Sept. 13—(AP)— West European newspapers expressed both regret and worry today at the resignation of George C. Marshall as United States defense secretary.

From the other side of the iron curtain, there was no comment as yet. The Soviet Morning Press in Moscow reported the secretary's retirement briefly. Both Marshall and his successor, Robert A. Lovett, have been targets of sharp criticism in the Soviet press.

The independent socialist newspaper Combat said that "Marshall quit because he lost the battle for Europe, the battle for the priority of Europe over Asia in the order of the importance of the definitive objectives of American policy."

The right-wing newspaper L'Aurore took a similar view.

In west Berlin, Communist ex pressed regret but indicated faith that Lovett's appointment meant no change in U.S. opposition to red aggression.

New Remedy For Poison Ivy Reported

New York, Sept. 13—(AP)—A new remedy for poison ivy, made of the magic metal zirconium, was reported today by the National Lead Company at the closing session of the 12th International Congress of pure and applied chemistry.

Zirconium is a white metal, nearly twice as heavy as iron. It is one of the secret new metals for atomic reactors. For poison ivy, the zirconium, with a carbon compound, is mixed in cold cream.

The story behind the therapy is that a National Lead Company official several years ago planned to take his son on a vacation. The boy got poison ivy so bad that the trip was threatened. The official asked his chemists to make something for the poisoning. They immediately produced a metallic cream, forerunner of the zirconium, and it so nearly cured the ivy in two days that the boy went on his trip.

Several years work resulted in the zirconium ointment. With its use most of the misery of poison ivy is gone in a couple of days.

POOR CATCHES

Halifax. (CP)—A total of 4,062 Atlantic salmon were caught in Nova Scotia rivers and streams up to Sept. 1, according to provincial returns. The best week's catch in the famed Margaree River in Cape Breton was a record 178 salmon.

Relief Promised From Hot Spell

Toronto, Sept. 13 — (CP) — A west wind bearing cool air and showers moved into Ontario today and promised to relieve an unusual hot spell resulting from strong southerly winds bringing warm air from the tropics.

Along with this information, the weather bureau included the fact that noon temperatures in Ontario today averaged about 20 degrees but "will drop."

Windsor, one of the first points the west wind reached, bore out the forecaster's prediction.

The temperature there dropped from 70 earlier today to 62 around noon, with the prospect of falling further during the afternoon.

The cool air from the west, said the bureau, will spread across most of Southern Ontario by tonight.

N.Z. Butterman Perturbed Over Ottawa Decision

Ottawa, Sept. 13—CP—William Marshall, New Zealand's top butterman is conferring with government officials, seeking clarification of Canada's position on New Zealand butter sales.

The head of the New Zealand Dairy Products Marketing Commission kept mum on his talks, but informants said he was perturbed over the Canadian decision to cut a prospective order for 10,000,000 pounds of New Zealand butter to 5,000,000.

The subject of butter imports from New Zealand has grown into a controversy with an exchange of letters between the Prime Ministers of both countries.

Govt. Stepped In

New Zealand has maintained it had negotiated to sell the 10,000,000 pounds to private trade in Canada, when the government stepped in, setting itself up as the sole authority empowered to make imports and allocations.

Canadian Government negotiators, empowered by the cabinet to buy 10,000,000 pounds of butter to offset a possible shortage next winter, said they would have purchased more from New Zealand, but that the price was too high.

They made up the difference by buying 7,060,000 pounds from Europe. In addition, private trade in Canada purchased 4,500,000 pounds from Europe before the ban went into effect.

This makes a total of 14,500,000 pounds to be imported by Canada, considered sufficient to fill the possible gap next winter. Canadian officials have made it clear they're not interested in importing more butter.

European Price Lower

They say they obtained butter from Europe at about 61 cents a pound. The butter from New Zealand, they said, cost 58 cents a pound, plus a tariff of 5 cents, making for a total landed-down price in Canada of 63 cents. They believed British butter from New Zealand for 42 cents a pound. New Zealand officials have stated the Canadian officials' figures were erroneous but would give no figures of their own.

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department, charged with butter purchases, has decided to offer the 7,000,000 pounds of European butter to the trade immediately on arrival, expected within a month or so.

The department likely will offer the butter to the trade at 61 cents a pound, switching it for Canadian butter which it will purchase at 63 cents a pound and after.

An official explained that while the department is confident that European butter could be stored for long periods, it was taking no chances. Canadian butter now retails for about 70 cents a pound.

Underwater TV Used to Locate Missing Sub

London, Sept. 13—(Reuters)—Underwater television was used to find the British submarine Affray which went down in the Channel April 16 with her 75-man crew, the admiralty announced last night.

This is believed to be the first time that underwater television has been used.

The Affray sank because of a defect in her snorkel underwater breathing apparatus. She was found 288 feet down, June 14, after a widespread search by ships and planes.

The Admiralty said portable television equipment, similar to that used for outside broadcasting was used.

In June, viewers in the captain's cabin of the salvage ship Reclaim saw various parts of the Affray coming into view on the screen.

"The climax was when they read the name Affray on the screen," the admiralty said.

Iran to Launch Loan Drive Of $60,000,000

Tehran, Sept. 13 (AP) — Iran will launch a 2,000,000,000 rial (about $60,000,000) loan drive next week in an effort to relieve economic difficulties stemming from the crisis over nationalization of oil.

This was disclosed today by Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi, who said the money would be used to meet the government's payrolls.

Fatemi said Iran would protest Britain's action restricting use of Iranian-held sterling and stopping conversion of Iran's pounds into dollars. Iranians say the British step was taken to put a financial squeeze on Iran and compel the government of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to come to terms over the future of the $1,000,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Iran has delivered an ultimatum to Britain via Washington giving them two weeks to reopen oil nationalization talks or move British technicians out of Abadan, site of the Anglo-Iranian refinery.

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. The "pain cry" should send instant attention. The cry for attention, even due to gas or stomach upset, should be quieted by proper feeding. Try Baby's Own Tablets at once. As one Toronto Mother reports—she finds they work every time. "I am the mother of two children. Have given them prize babies, and Baby's Own Tablets have been my only medicine in raising them to the healthy children they now are. As soon as they start crying I give them a tablet and it puts them back to sleep. Tablets used in a very short time free fever disappeared and the coming teeth were easy."

Equally effective for constipation, upset stomach, colds, simple fevers and diarrhoea attributed to "colicky" spells after baby's teething. No "dopey" stuff — no dulling effect. Get a package today. Sickness often strikes in the night. 30c at drug stores. Money back if you are not satisfied.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

To take present to her employer's engagement party?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been invited to my boss' engagement party. I have never been to an engagement party and I don't know if I should buy a gift. If I should buy a gift, for what do I should I buy it, and what kind of gift should it be? Should the gift be sent to the house where the party is going to be, or should we bring the gift with us? (I have met the bride-to-be, and she is a very kind person.)

Firstglnar

It is not customary, and it is generally not considered necessary, for a guest to give an engagement gift. Relatives, perhaps some intimate friends, sometimes give engagement presents, but usually not casual friends. However, if you find out that engagement presents are the custom in your community, you and your husband may jointly take an engagement present with you to the party . . . under the circumstances, it should be something simple and not expensive, a present for the bride-to-be, something for her personal use or an item for her trousseau.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have recently become engaged, and would like to know the proper procedure about showing my ring to our relatives and to my friends. Is it up to me to show my ring to everyone, or should I just wait until they ask to see it? If they know that I am engaged, isn't it up to them to ask to see my engagement ring?

Pat

"The natural thing to do" is the proper procedure here. That is, it is natural, and of course proper, for a relative or friend, either an intimate friend or a quite casual friend, who knows you are engaged and knows or observes that you have an engagement ring to ask to see it. And if the relative or friend does not ask to see it, it is natural for you to ask gaily if they would like to see it . . . "Oh, Sallie, look . . . my engagement ring!"

Everyone is interested in romance, and in an engagement ring which is the shining symbol of romance . . . and it is quite proper for you to "please your public" by showing your ring to all interested. But be gay and high-hearted about it, not shifty, not giving the impression given by so many engaged girls that no one before them ever had an engagement ring. Have fun showing it . . . "I'm so happy, Betty, and I just can't wait to show you the engagement ring Bob gave me!" Don't be at all bothered by the pros and cons of propriety about this, the question as to whom it "up to" . . . just be joyous about your happiness and your ring, and show it to all those who you know would naturally be interested.

Don't write reply to reception invitation on card enclosed with wedding gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper for me to send our acceptance to an invitation to a wedding reception (following church wedding) on the card to be enclosed with our wedding gift? For example: "Our love to you both, and best wishes. We're looking forward to coming to your wedding on the tenth."

(Maria B.

No, this is a careless and discourteous way to accept this important invitation. a very shoddy procedure indeed. Replying to the invitation is one thing . . . sending your wedding present is quite another thing. Your reply to the wedding invitation is the business of the bride's mother . . . it is she who must keep track of the acceptances and the regrets,

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Now you must feed your teeth.

Numerous among those who stand at beauty's wailing wall are the finicky eaters. They don't like this, they won't touch that, they limit the diet to a few favorite dishes, thereby depriving themselves of certain food elements, vitamins and mineral salts that are necessary for vitality and well-being. The child whose mother provides him with a balanced diet, who partakes of everything that is set before him, is likely to have stronger muscles, a steadier nervous system, more normal development generally than the stubborn kid who puts on a rebellious performance every meal.

Vitamin A is a good friend.

In a booklet published by the American Dental Association some time ago, and approved by the United States Public Health service, is an interesting chapter entitled "What foods do for teeth". It is especially necessary for mothers to have this information as baby teeth need attention the same as those that come later.

To build strong teeth that can resist decay the child must eat certain foods, others need to exercise the teeth; coarse foods to clean them and massage the gums.

Milk is rich in calcium and a quart a day is the minimum amount for a growing child; the adult should have at least a pint a day. Milk is the greatest known source of this mineral though it is also found in cereals, eggs, some fruits and vegetables.

Phosphorus is also supplied by milk as it is by eggs, pecans, beans, meat, oatmeal and whole wheat bread. When a child does not get enough of this valuable substance the enamel of the teeth is often faulty in the grooves where the cusps are formed.

Vitamin A is a good friend, is supposed to help guard against infection, so the diet should include butter and spinach. If a child refuses to eat spinach it may be because it is overcooked and watery, does not appeal to the eye. A small amount of water will steam it, the cooking should not exceed five minutes, salt and butter should be added. Vitamin D will contribute; it is found in cod liver oil.

Vigorous chewing keeps the gums healthy so one should have raw apples, bread crusts, cabbage hearts, carrot sticks, celery. This rule applies to adults as well as the small fry.

Every member of the family should have a dental examination every six months. Caries will be caught young, tartar removed, pain and money will be saved in the long run.

BACKYARD GEYSER

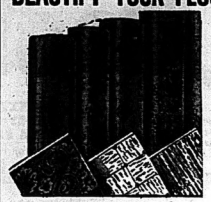
Rotorua, N.Z. (CP)—Residents of this thermal region are used to unexpected phenomena, but were mildly surprised when a geyser appeared in the backyard of a suburban home. Grey mud was buried into the air for 30 minutes and then the geyser subsided into a boiling pool four feet in diameter.

Fashion Flashes

THE UNION of hat and neckline has been nicely effected by several designers. Brown velour is used for a pretty beret with a corlla back, and it has a veil edged with a deep band of turquoise blue sheer silk that wraps to the back and fills in the neckline as a scarf. The hat has four wedges of the silk set in the top.

SMART TRICKS do magic in adding to basic dresses. Black silk crepe for a simple dress with dolman sleeves and deep V neckline. The basic design becomes ready for "after five" by adding an accordion pleated apron that buttons onto the ornamental buttons on the belt belt.

STILL AROUND is that useful garment, the reversible coat. A new version offers one side of black brocade, the other of snow white fleece. Full length model hangs full from collarless neckline where it closes with one button.



READILY ACCEPTED as the ideal dress for general wear in spring and autumn, there are several new versions of this useful design. Beige sheer wool with double breasted shiny black buttons on bodice to below the waist, and a black patent leather belt is the color theme for a coat dress with scarf-filled cardigan neckline, full sleeves gathered into tight cuffs and curved flange pockets. Skirt is pleated around the back to the sides.

A NICE CHANCE in the neckline is the dress with a neckline that is demurely arranged for general daytime use, but that may be unhooked or unbuttoned to a glamorous low for later-day wear. Taupey brown silk taffeta for a dress with a slight stand-away casual collar, which unhooks to open into a deep portrait neckline.

FRANKFORD

Canadian Legion Holds Meeting

Frankford—The regular semi-monthly meeting of Branch 337, Canadian Legion was held in the club room, Monday night, with a good turnout on hand. Comrade George Montgomery, 1st vice president, presided, calling the meeting to order with a period of silence in tribute to the fallen comrades.

Two veterans of the Old Country, Messrs. Holmes and Bentley were welcomed, with the comrades standing to give them a hearty handclap. It is hoped that they will shortly become comrades of the branch.

The building committee in charge of the kitchen project, reported that work has been going ahead satisfactorily, although a little more volunteer help would be appreciated.

A communique from Comrade Lewis, District D.V.A. representative, and member of the Belleville Branch was read. A committee consisting of three pensioners of the Frankford Branch was appointed to meet with other branch representatives, at which time the subject of increased veterans' pensions would be presented in person to Hon. Mr. Follwell, M.P.

An invitation from the Trenton Cribbage Club to enter teams was read, and it was decided that in view of plans to form a cribbage club within the Frankford branch, this would be left to individual members as to whether or not they wished to enter a team or teams.

The coming Royal visit to Trenton, was discussed, and it is expected that Frankford branch will send approximately fifteen members to assist Trenton branch in their duties for the day.

It was revealed that the Frankford band had been in contact with members of the band at s old.

IVANHOE

Mrs. Fraser Howes Honored by Friends With Many Gifts

Ivanhoe—A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at Ivanhoe town hall on Friday evening to honor Mrs. Fraser Howes, the former Thelma Mullett, on the occasion of her recent marriage.

Mr. Blair Neal acted as chairman for a short musical program. An address was read by Mrs. John W. Wickens and the presentation of a tri-light floor lamp and coffee table was made. The chairvari group presented the happy couple with a half dozen silver knives and forks.

After Mr. and Mrs. Howes had expressed their thanks and appreciation all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Music for dancing was furnished by the Sherwood Reid Orchestra. Refreshments were served.

Thelma has always taken a keen interest in all community and church activities. She is well liked by both young and old and her many friends here, wish her and her husband many years of health and happiness.

connection with sponsoring the band. The branch seemed quite in favor of the project, and have appointed a committee to meet with members of the band at a special meeting next Tuesday night. If it is entirely satisfactory to the committee, they will present it at the next Legion meeting for approval, at which time it is hoped that representatives of the band will be present as well.

TAG DAY

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15th

Where The Money Goes!

He wondered where his money went
And how his kindly gift was spent.
He'd never followed, day by day,
The dollars which he gave away.
And so they said: "Let's trace them down
And go with them about the town."

They led him to a crippled child
Who looked at him and bravely smiled.
He gazed on doctors, kind and wise,
Restoring sight to little eyes.
He saw health start to glow again
On faces that were white with pain.

A brave boy stepped across the floor
Who had not walked alone before;
In haunts of misery and strife
He saw the day of happier life.
"But few of these," said they, "would live
If men like you refused to give.

If but one crippled child should smile
You'll count your sacrifice worth while."
When asked to give, recall these scenes
And understand what giving means.

Canadian Singer Popular Star of London Musical Show

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP) — When the musical "Carousel" closes its triumphant London run in mid-October, some of the glamor of day-to-day acting will go out of the life of Vancouver-born Edmund Hockridge.

He'll stay with the show another five months after that, but the company will be on tour in the provinces instead of playing in hallowed Old Drury Lane's Theatre Royal.

"It's Britain's No. 1 theatre, to my way of thinking," the tall, 22-year-old Canadian said in a back-stage interview. "Playing a lead here is an honor that many actors cherish for a lifetime. That goes for me, too."

The theatre oozes history. First built in 1667 and twice remodelled it still embraces part of the old structure fashioned by Sir Christopher Wren, including 15-foot-thick walls. It was originally built on orders of Charles II for Nell Gwynn, and Nell's old dressing-room is still used as a storeroom.

Another historic touch is that Hockridge now occupies the dressing-room once used by such celebrated actors as David Garrick and Ivor Novello. And when Hockridge moves out in October, the room will be taken over by American singer Mary Martin, opening the Broadway hit "South Pacific."

Hockridge took over the lead in "Carousel" last December. Since then he has played in more than 200 performances, usually to packed houses. A baritone, he brings to the character of Billy Bigelow a vitality and brutal arrogance that breathe life into the part of a "barker".

Colorful Principal

Dressed in thick yellow jersey, green and yellow tartan pants and slotted "kerchief neckie, Edmund loves fights and sings his way through a three-hour performance.

Two other Canadians in the cast of this Rodgers-Hammerstein musical are singer Robert Burns of Toronto, and dancer Matt Winsten from Winnipeg.

When "Carousel" finally folds, after a tour of England and Scotland, Hockridge hopes to visit his mother's home in (3715 Wilmington Road) Vancouver.

Hockridge first came to London in 1940 while in the Canadian army and from then until his discharge in 1946 had roles in British radio. Then he went back to Canada to work with the CBC, but British broadcasting claimed him again last autumn.

Edmund now has a home in Beckenham, Kent and an apartment on the Isle of Wight, to which he, his English wife Eileen and his seven-year-old son, Ian, retire thankfully for an occasional break.

He has been approached by Covent Garden Opera Company with the possibility of a lead in a Benjamin Britten opera, "Billy Budd". "Present commitments rule that out, but he hopes a later offer may be made.

"Still, there's plenty of time for opera when I'm older," he says. "I'm happy with more energetic parts at the moment".

Industry Growth May Cut Quebec's High Birth-Rate

Quebec. — (CP) — Quebec's phenomenal industrial growth in ten years may result in a decrease of its traditionally-high birth-rate.

Quebec statistics bureau says this is the latest edition of its year book drawing attention to the fact that 80 years ago two-thirds of the province's population was rural and today more than two-thirds of Quebec's people are urban.

The Quebec government by loans and programs to make farm life easier is trying to maintain the interest of rural folk in agriculture and stem the march toward the city.

The Roman Catholic church has turned its full attention to the problems involved in raising large families in the city. It also encourages the movement of settlers to new lands in northwestern Quebec.

The bureau notes in its population analysis that the largest families are still found in rural localities and the highest percentage of childless marriages occur in cities.

The bureau says its study shows that Quebec has maintained an astoundingly high birth-rate despite the urban character its population has taken on.

But, it says, "even if it is still high . . before long, the birth-rate will decline in this province as elsewhere."

Quebec already has lost to New Brunswick its record of having the highest rate of natural increase among the Canadian provinces.

French in New Brunswick

Quebec statisticians say New Brunswick's increasing French element accounts for its natural increase of 24.5 per 1,000 people compared with Quebec's figure of 21.4.

Comparative figures and graphs show the birth-rate in rural areas is highest, somewhat lower in urban centres of 30,000 or less and lowest in large cities.

The proportion of childless marriages also increases with the size of the city. Most recent figures —for 1948—reveal that in Hull nine per cent of married women were childless and in Montreal the figure was 15.8 per cent.

In rural villages married couples averaged 7.67 children per family. In towns of 30,000 or less, the average was 6.82 and in cities larger than those the Digby fishermen use.

Even though their boats are smaller, our Nova Scotia fishermen have to have about $500 worth of gear to go scalloping. "The rough bottom of the bay of Fundy is hard on the wire rings of which the nets are made," Mr. Kinloch says in the departmental "Trade News."

"Some times they last only a couple of weeks. The fishermen have to have rubber gloves to 'huck' the scallops, for which they use a sharp knife. A good day's catch runs about 500; it is about 400 or 500 pounds of meat."

Able to Swim

"Some fishermen have a theory that the scallops can sometimes see the drags approaching and are able to escape by swimming clear. They move around by the simple process of opening and closing the valves of their shells, which propels them forward by letting water in. An attempt made by deep-sea diver to pick scallops by hand off Grand Manan Banks failed when he found that they swim out of his basket as fast as he could put them in, Mr. Kinloch states. He also says that some Digby fishermen believe the scallops migrate.

The main body of the scallop is not eaten, the only edible part to our way of thinking being the thick muscle which joins the upper and lower shell. Sometimes the discarded body and entrails are used for fish bait. In Europe, however, they eat the whole thing and as they almost always cook fish with the heads on.

Fast Frozen

Scallops appear, when obtainable at all, in cellophane packages, packaged for quick freezing. Canned ones have disappeared altogether in recent years. Whether fried in deep fat, creamed or made into scallop stew, they are a delicious treat.

Like a tree, the scallop registers its age by grooves on its shell, a new one being formed every year. Some of them reach the ripe old age of 15 years. For some reason, Bay of Fundy scallops grow faster than those in Northumberland Strait.

In addition to all the lore gleaned from generations of scallop fishermen, constant patient, scientific research has been carried on by the Fisheries Department for many years in connection with the food habits, life history and favorite habitat of this mollusk. Also, diseases that attack them have been under constant study. It has been discovered that they feel on plankton and other small marine foodlife retained from the water which passes through the valves. The finest beds are found where there is a rapid flow of water.

EARLY RAILWAYS

Flanged wheels running on edged rails were first tried on early railways in Britain in 1789.

Scallops Still Topic for Study

Do scallops migrate? What part of a scallop do you eat? What gear do you have to have to fish for them? Could a deep-sea diver catch them, and if not, why not?

Going straight to the fishermen of the Digby scallop fleet for the answers, Canns Kinloch, assistant director of information, Fisheries Department, Ottawa, has dredged up a lot of information about this still mysterious and little-known bivalve.

Still Rare Dish

High priced and delicious, scallops are still a rare dish in many parts of Canada, though they are encountered more often than in former years when most of the catch went to Boston gourmets. Americans now have a big scallop "bank" of their own, discovered in the 1920's and fished by scalloping craft much

In spite of Quebec's ranking it still shows the greatest volume of births in excess of deaths. In 1948 the surplus was 81,000, close to one-third of Canada's natural increase.

Ontario, though more populous, recorded 61,000 more births than deaths.

Experts Find Pig as Smart As the Horse

Dr. Carl J. Warden, who heads the animal laboratory at Columbia University, is prepared to admit that man is smarter than the pig, but he questions whether the horse can make the same claim, says the Scientific American.

A series of tests designed to rate the intelligence of various animal species showed the pig well up in the list. "I suppose the fact that the pig stands so high", says Dr. Warden, "will come as a surprise to most people. Perhaps we have thought of the pig too much in terms of ham and bacon."

Dr. Warden defines intelligence as the capacity to learn. It seems to vary according to the ratio of the weight of the brain to that of the spinal cord. In fishes, he noted the brain weighs less than the cord; in the cat it weighs four times as much as the cord; in the monkey the ratio is eight to one, and in man, 50 to one.

"We can say that the mammals, the animals that suckle their young rang highest in intelligence", Dr. Warden says. "Among the higher mammals the order is: (1) the primates, including the monkeys and man; (2) the carnivores or meat eaters, which include the dog, cat, fox, lion and tiger; (3) the ungulates or grazing animals, among which are the elephants, horse, pig, cow, deer and zebra."

* * *

To learn how well theory compares with reality, Dr. Warden and his associates devised a series of intelligence tests to which various animals were introduced through hunger, to submit.

In one test the animal was required to learn to step on a series of plates which, if operated in proper sequence, delivered a pellet of food.

In another, called the "delayed response" test, the experimenter placed food in one of a group of three identical cans—while the animal looked on.

The animal was then taken from the room for varying lengths of time and was returned to see if it could remember the can with the food in it.

A third test presented the animal with four boxes, each with an open door and a closed door. All four boxes looked alike, but in three the back doors were locked from behind, while in the fourth the back door could be pushed open so the animal could obtain the food behind it.

When, by trial and error, the test animal identified the proper door, the boxes were switched. It was really a test for stupidity, because the dullest animals always went to the door which was correct in the previous attempt despite the fact that the boxes are always switched at random between successive tests.

What are the most intelligent animal species. Heading the list, after man, come the chimpanzee with gorilla, orangutan and gibbon following in the group of primates. Next come the domestic dog and cat. Dr. Warden tested one German shepherd that could carry out nearly 100 acts at a verbal command.

* * *

"Among the grazing animals the horse is commonly thought to be the most intelligent," Dr. Warden declares. "Actually the evidence seems to indicate that the horse ranks below the elephant and the pig.

"I believe the elephant belongs at the top of the list, and I doubt that any comparative psychologist would disagree with this rating. Although the elephant has not been tested in the laboratory because of its size, we know that it is a docile and skilful beast of burden throughout the Orient, that it can be trained to do fairly complex circus tricks.

"In comparing the pig and the horse we are on less sure ground. On one complicated test of intelligence level the pig stands relatively high.

"On the whole, however, think we must wait for further experimental evidence before assigning comparative ratings to the horse and the pig."

By acquiring the ability to develop culture and to transmit it from one generation to another by means of language symbols, man has far outstripped his fellow creatures in the evolution of intelligence. "Man is the only animal that evolved the capacity and mechanism of culture", Dr. Warden observes.

Destructive Power Atomic Weapons 'Truly Fantastic'

Washington, Sept. 13. —(AP)— Chairman Brien McMahon (Dem.-Conn.) of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee said today the destructive power of America's atomic weapons stockpile is "truly fantastic".

McMahon told a press conference he believes "we have made really remarkable progress in the development of atomic weapons. McMahon said progress in the atomic program has been remarkable. He declined to say whether he was referring to new weapons.

"The destructive power in the atomic stockpile today is by any standards we have previously known truly fantastic," McMahon declared.

He declined comment when he was asked whether there was any relation between what he had said and President Truman's statement last week that the United States has developed fantastic new weapons which could destroy civilization.

Preliminary Hearing Starts For Mrs. Roy Thompson, Accused of Slaying Mate

Peterborough, Sept. 13—(CP)—Preliminary hearing of Mrs. Lilian Thompson, 36, charged with murdering her husband Roy Thompson, has been adjourned to Sept. 18.

Mrs. Thompson was charged after her husband was fatally shot on the night of Aug. 25. He was a successful scrap metals dealer in Peterborough and a veteran of the Second World War, during which he rose from the ranks to gain a lieutenancy.

The hearing was adjourned after a discussion between the defence and the crown on the admissibility of a statement Mrs. Thompson is alleged to have made to police the night of the slaying.

Constable W. G. Scott told the court that he had investigated the scene of the slaying. In his presence, some questions were asked Mrs. Thompson by Dr. Herbert Young, the coroner, and answers given. The officers had written the questions and answers down in a notebook.

Dr. Young testified that he told Mrs. Thompson that whatever she said might be used against her, but said that she was not told she would be charged with anything.

Thomas Gardner, who knew the slain man, said he believed Thompson had had something to drink the night of Aug. 25. William Jamieson, a neighbor, told the court he had the same belief.

Neither actually saw Thompson take a drink.

Jamieson testified that Mrs. Thompson had come to his front door on the night of the slaying in a hysterical condition. Mrs. Thompson used the words: "I've shot him."

Earlier in the hearing, Constable Scott described how he entered the Thompson home on the night of Aug. 25, found a part bottle of whisky on the kitchen table and an empty gin bottle on the kitchen floor. On the kitchen table was a box of 32 calibre shells—with one missing from the box.

The officer said he went to the Jamieson house about 10 P.M. where Jamieson gave him a rifle he found in the Thompson house. There was a spent cartridge in the breech, said Constable Scott.

New Catechism For Quebec School Children

Quebec, Sept. 13—(CP)—Roman Catholic school children in Quebec Province now have a new catechism text including, for the first time, religious instruction on employer-employee at schools —has been in preparation since 1942 and is sanctioned by many bishops and bishops of Quebec.

It has 902 questions and answers, compared with 508 in the old text used for more than 60 years. The simplified text will be taught in grades three to six. Under a section pertaining to the duties of "inferiors and superiors" the catechism deals with the social doctrines of the church.

The employer, the catechism says, must "respect the personality of association and the labor agreement of his employees, pay a family-size wage and facilitate the performance of employees religious duties."

Employees must respect "the person and property of their employers, work conscientiously and comply with their collective agreement."

Approves of Unions

The catechism says the best way to "assure justice and charity" between employers and employees is through "catholic associations or syndicates."

Each group may "suspend work" to solve their difficulties after all other means have failed.

The catechism adds citizens must "love their country, work for its prosperity and defend it at the cost of their life."

Citizens must "respect legitimate authority, obey just laws, choose conscientiously their governors and accomplish all the duties of a citizen."

"How do citizens choose conscientiously their governors?"

"By voting for the candidate they judge the most able to assure the common good of all citizens."

Those in authority "must respect the rights of all, make just laws, administer justice properly and distribute equitably taxation, grants and public charges.

FOUR POLES TELL OF PERILOUS ESCAPE FROM RED TYRANNY

Eugine Lorens, left; Miss Nalejwine, Stanislaw Ziemba, and George Drzesniak, escaped from reds

Climaxing two years of planning and a perilous 450-mile flight across Baltic Sea from their red-dominated homeland, three Polish youths and 20-year-old Polish girl arrived safely in Quebec City aboard an Italian liner. A terrifying escape story liberty-loving quartet told of their flight on August 12 in single-engine plane, they had stolen from Warsaw airfield. Dodging gunfire from guards below, plane took off safely, only to go into dizzy spin, due to breaking of heavy overhead door. They managed to secure door before plane crashed. Perilous flight for freedom ended when they landed three hours later in Sweden. — Central Press Canadian.

3,000 Additional Workers Will be Required by Canadair

Montreal, Sept. 13 (CP)—Canadair Limited will begin immediate work on the department of defence production's order for T-33 jet trainers for the R.C.A.F., with the hiring of 3,000 additional workers, the company announced today.

With other defence contracts recently announced and for which employees are now being hired, this will raise Canadair's work force to approximately 15,000.

Awarding of the contract to Canadair by Ottawa followed a recent announcement that the Beech United States Air Force T-36-A, newly designed advanced transport trainer, was going into production for the U.S. Air Force at Canadair's plant in suburban Montreal.

The T-33 contract marks the company's third important defence assignment within the last two years, which includes mass production of the F-86 Sabre jets for the Royal Canadian Air Force. Coincident with the announcement of the T-33 contract, the 100th F-86 Sabre today moved off the Canadair production line.

The T-33 will serve in the R.C.A.F. training program to bridge the gap between the Harvard trainer and the two operational jet fighters with which R.C.A.F. squadrons are equipped. This will ensure a continuing supply of trained pilots to meet the nation's defence needs.

All phases of production, from tooling and parts manufacture, through final assembly and flight, the company said, will be handled in Canadair's plant No. 1. This is the largest unit in the company's 40 acres of covered factory space where Canadair 40-passenger, four-engine luxury liners were turned out for Trans-Canada Airlines, British Overseas Airways Corporation and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

Dual Control Craft

The T-33 is a development of the famed P-80 Shooting Star, which distinguished itself in Korea by flying half of all U.S.A.F. flight sorties against the enemy. The two-place ship is equally efficient in its own way, and can readily be used to teach gunnery, bombing, rocket attack and high speed tactics.

Designed by Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, the T-33 is a two-seat airplane with dual controls and duplicate radio and flight instruments, adaptable to both day and night training operations. Its fully pressurized cabin permits operation at high altitudes. The T-33 is also the standard Jet trainer for the United States Air Force and Navy.

Powered with centrifugal flow Turbo-Jet Allison J-33 engine, the T-33 develops 4,600 pounds of thrust at sea level. Including tip tanks, it has a fuel capacity of close to 700 gallons.

A 14,500-pound aircraft, the T-33 has convention type wings with a wing span of 38 feet 10 1-2 inches, and an overall length of 37 feet 8 1-2 inches.

Three Migs Shoot Down F-51 Mustang

U.S. Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 13 —(AP) — Three Russian built MIG-15 jet fighters shot down six American propeller-driven F-51 Mustang today in the fifth straight day of aerial battles over northwest Korea.

The downed Mustang was part of a flight that had been bombing a rail target deep in 'MIG-Alley.'

The five day score now stands at two MIGs destroyed, one probably destroyed and two damaged, against one F-84 thunderjet lost yesterday and the F-51.

Plans to Ally Huns With West Nearing Fruition

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—The big three foreign ministers hoped today to wrap up by nightfall a "contract" proposal to bring west Germany into the western defence line-up.

The way was cleared last night when State Secretary Dean Acheson met the British foreign secretary, Herbert Morrison, pledged support to the companion plan, devised by France, to make use of German troops in a European army.

Pressing for a wind-up of their conference before Friday, Acheson, Morrison and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France called a morning session to iron out their remaining differences.

The latest warning from Moscow against rearming the Germans, sounded yesterday in a Soviet note to France, was ignored.

Some details of the political settlement will be left for the allied high commissioners to negotiate with the Bonn (western German) government, but the outlines already have been accepted by the three powers.

Left for consideration by the big three were these other issues: U.S. plans to set up military bases in Spain, Italy's plea for revision of the peace treaty which limits Italian armed forces, the threat of red China and other far-east problems, and joint action to protect western nationals behind the iron curtain.

The "contractual arrangement" to be offered Bonn is a substitute for a formal peace treaty such as was signed with Japan. It gives west Germany virtually complete sovereignty, abolishes the allied high commission with its veto powers, and changes the occupation armies into defence forces. Bonn will be expected to contribute troops to the European army.

The foreign ministers devoted the entire night session to the French plan for the European army. Responsible officials said Acheson and Morrison gave it the endorsement of their governments as the most feasible way of employing German manpower without reviving a German national army, which France opposes.

Canada's Exports For July Show Huge Increase

Ottawa, Sept. 13 — (CP) — A sharp climb in sales to Britain and the United States boosted Canada's total exports in July to a record $376,500,000, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

Shipments to the U.S. jumped almost $50,000,000 to $203,900,000 from $169,900,000. Exports to Britain doubled to $74,700,000 from $33,200,00.

This bright turn in Canada's foreign trade picture provided a 47.8 per cent gain over last year's $253,700,000 worth of exports and helped boost the seven-month total for 1951 to $2,114,700,000—a half-billion dollar increase from $1,-604,300,000 last year.

It was the first surplus in a six-month pattern of trading deficits.

BUSY BERRY PICKERS

St. John's Nfld. (CP)—Despite poor weather, berry-pickers have been swarming all along Newfoundland's south shore in September. Many report good financial returns for their efforts.

Lovett Assumes Office As U.S. Defence Secretary In General Marshall's Place

Washington, Sept. 13—(AP)—Robert A. Lovett began today to "get on with the job" of United States secretary of defence, which he inherited from his partner in government service, George C. Marshall.

Because the two men—the 56-year-old banker and the 70-year-old general—had worked together so long, it seemed probable the policies and personnel of the vast military establishment would undergo little change.

Lovett, talking to reporters after President Truman had announced Marshall's resignation, said the general wanted no fuss about his leaving and that "we get on with the job."

"That we will do," said Lovett.

Senate leaders pushed aside routine rules in an effort to speed the necessary confirmation of the appointment. Generally, both Republicans and Democrats lauded Lovett.

In the four years of its existence, the unified Department of Defence has four chiefs. James Forrestal served first, from Sept. 17, 1947, to March, 1949, when he resigned because of broken health and took his own life. Louis Johnson became the second defence chief on March 28, 1949, then was ousted by President Truman in September, 1950.

Marshall, then 69, was appointed to succeed him. He came back to work, after twice retiring, with the understanding he would remain only until last June 30.

Although the thinking and policies of Marshall and Lovett are of a pattern, their modes of operations are different. Marshall preferred to deal "through channels," army-style. Lovett has a habit of popping into an office personally, unannounced, bearing his own message.

Defence College Training Ground for High Posts

Kingston, Ont. (CP)— Brains that would run vital jobs in any new Canadian war effort are being sharpened and broadened here in a school where secrecy is a passion and nobody gets marks, good or bad, for anything.

It is the National Defence College. Since 1947, it has been turning out men who would go to senior jobs not only in the armed forces but in government and industry if war came.

The latest class graduated Aug. 25. Another enters Sept. 6. Both comprise more than 50 men.

Behind the towering walls of old Fort Frontenac, they come for a year at a time to study and consider not one particular realm of Canadian defence but the whole broad picture—strategically, politically, economically and otherwise.

The school is an important effort to find the answers to the complexities of modern war. It is Canada's parallel of the United Kingdom's Imperial Defence College and the War College in the United States. Its aim is to fashion the cogs for a top-level war machine that could function with a minimum of delay, confusion and friction.

The students are near the top of the ladder in the forces, departments of government and, occasionally, industry. All are marked as "comers". When they leave, they say no report, no marks, nothing but the right to put the initials N.D.C. after their names. That is coming to mean more and more where it counts most.

Or High Rank

The army's representatives, for instance, are usually at the brigadier or colonel level. One graduate, Brig. T. G. Gibson, now is Deputy Chief of the General Staff. Another, Brig. Paul Bernatchez, soon will be a major-general.

The first commandant was Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds who left here to become Chief of the General Staff. The present one is Air Vice Marshal C. R. Dunlap, R.C.A.F. He will be succeeded by a naval rear admiral. The directing staff includes senior officers of the three forces and the External Affairs Department.

Each course includes the two main fields—academic and travel. For 13 of the 50 weeks, the students fly through the United States, U.K. and Canada, including the Arctic. They spend two days at United Nations headquarters. They get lectures and chances to talk to outstanding men in government, industry and other fields.

Academically, the classes break up into syndicates of six or seven men, changing from time to time. Each syndicate gets a room, an introduction to the library and secret documents—and a problem.

The first problem involves the set-up of the Canadian government. It is a trial run. From there on, each group finds itself grappling with complex problems to which there can be no absolute answer.

Broad Solutions

For anywhere from ten days to five weeks, a syndicate will wrestle with a problem, assign individual tasks, then build up a broad solution and finally present this to the whole school. The other students proceed to try to tear the solution apart in discussions that may last two days.

Each syndicate has one or two members of the directing staff assigned to it. But they don't teach or mark or correct. They explain the problem, stimulate discussion, keep things going.

The courses are interspersed with lectures—roughly, ten a month—by leading figures in government, the military, private firms, labor, the press.

Over the whole activity, there is a heavy layer of secrecy. Nobody outside here without a special screening. Numerous secret documents come their way but from the first security is promised to them.

Out of all this come men who, by general agreement of superiors, are broader, sharper and brighter for having done what Gen. Simonds once called "rubbing their brains together."

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was looking at the Skeets Kelly comedy on the television, and pop said, it's nearly 8 o'clock my dear. Isn't there something on the radio at 8 you wanted to listen to? he said.

Well yes there is, but I'm looking at this Skeets Kelly picture, ma said, and pop said, But for Pete sake, I was under the impression that you dont like those moth eaten slapstick movie comedies.

I dont really like them, William, in fact they bore me to places, ma said. That's the sad part, she said, and pop said, By golies, I'll say it's the sad part. Do you really mean you're deliriously looking at a television show you dont like, when you could be listening to a radio program that you actually want to hear? he said.

I'm afraid that's just what I'm doing, William, and it makes me feel like a deserter, ma said. But I cant help it, she said, and pop said, Yes gods, is there any law that limits your freedom of action in your own home?

I've finished sitting your sleeveless sweater, and I haven't started anything eits yet, ma said, and pop said, Can we possibly still be on the same subject?

But of course, ma said. The television has got me accustomed to looking while I'm listening, so now the only time I can listen to the radio is while I'm looking at my knitting needles weaving in and out, she said; and pop said, Then if you really want to hear the radio program, I can only suggest that you unravel my sweater and watch your fingers pulling out the yarn.

Now William, I hope I'm not that silly, ma said.

And she kept on watching the Skeets Kelly comedy and shaking her head to prove she wasn't injoying it.

OIL ON THE LOOSE

Alberta oilmen fighting to tame that oil will at Edmonton, which is spewing 5,000 barrels of oil per day, have a pet as well has all markings of "Atlantic No. 3" which caught fire in Leduc field four years ago. Well was down to 3,000-foot level and nearing completion when it "lost circulation" and went wild. Pressure tossed four 60-foot pipe lengths into the air, six derricks crashed and crews are constructing artificial lake to flood the well. — Central Press Canadian.

New York Pigeons Admired

The pigeon is normally a bucolic bird that rises with the sun on the farm. He energetically flutters through an outdoor day in the fresh air and sunshine and then retires at the decent hour of sundown to the barn, tired and happy, writes Robert K. Plumb in The New York Times.

Sundown is just about the hour that Times Square pigeons get up. It's fully midnight before the city pigeon is ready on his feet. And city pigeons don't fly much.

Times Square Pigeons

Most any afternoon the stroller can see Times Square pigeons a hundred or so of the old gang, asleep in the shade of the statue of Father Duffy at Broadway and Forty-seventh Street.

They're resting. Out-of-towners sometimes try to feed Times Square pigeons in the daytime, though the birds are protected by a four-foot railing. Visitors usually get little more than a "withering" glance from a beady and red-rimmed pigeon eye if it's before dark. No tricks, no coos and none of your country-pigeon stuff.

When the sun goes down and the lights in the big signs go on and the evening traffic builds up it's different. The Duffy Square cowboy takes interest. Last night, within half an hour, Times Square pigeons were observed to eat the following, offered by passers-by:

One frankfurter and roll, a sack of crumbled dry bread, four sacks of peanuts, a bag of popcorn, a chocolate candy bar, an ice cream sandwich, a paper cup of soda pop and something that looked like a box of pemo.

East, West Side

East Side, West Side, pigeons are all around the town. There are about 50,000 pigeons in Manhattan, according to the only available estimate, that of George Bailey of Huntington, L.I., a pigeon expert. It seems like more because they concentrate in places where people do.

Pigeon fanciers hate city pigeons. Well-bred pigeons learn bad habits from the city "bums", as fanciers call them. On many occasions city pigeons have been able to convert homers and racers that stopped to rest in New York City to their own way of life. City birds teach panhandling. They fly up to their nests, behind a sign or on a window ledge, and they fly down again when the eating looks good. And some of these "bums" used to be racers. But if the city pigeon's life is anathema to fanciers people who expect their birds to race 1,000 miles at a clip—the life of the homer is just as much anathema to the city bird, all the evidence indicates.

Yet Handouts

City birds depend upon "handouts" from New Yorkers for there is little natural food available. You rarely see a dead pigeon in New York because rats, cats and dogs eat the carcasses, he added. And you never see a really young-looking pigeon because the pigeon grows pretty big before he can leave the nest.

New York City pigeons are well protected by the State Conservation Law. It's illegal to poison, shoot or otherwise destroy them. If the health department decides pigeons have become "a menace to public health" in any locality, a special pigeon-trapping permit may be issued. The permit is hard to get.

The peregrine falcon (duck hawk), another European import, is the pigeon's chief enemy in New York City barring man. Falcons live atop many of the city's tall buildings and often swoop down for a pigeon pie lunch. A falcon never has been sighted in Times Square. New York City pigeons were pressed into the nation's service once, in World War II. A governmental agency ordered a shipment of rye grain. Parasite-ridden kernels in the shipment contained an essential raw material for a medicinal ergot, used to stop blood flow. The problem was to separate the parasitic and the healthy grain.

New York City pigeons were called in. That is, a pan of the grain was placed on window ledges. The "bums" ate the good grain, rejected the bad. They did a pretty good job for a while, too. Then they sort of lost interest and went away. Back to Duffy square, to Battery Park,

$252 MILLION PIPELINE SCHEME WOULD CARRY ALBERTA GAS TO EASTERN CANADA

The Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board of Alberta is considering applications from five companies seeking permits to pipe that province's natural gas to other parts of Canada and the U.S. The only all-Canadian project being considered by the board is that of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., whose proposed $253 million pipeline scheme would carry Alberta gas eastward to Montreal. The 2,240-mile line would be the longest in the world and, as the route on the above map indicates, would serve Canada's most densely populated and industrialized areas. Lateral lines would run off the main line to serve Southwestern Ontario and the Ottawa-Hull area. —Central Press Canadian.

Canadian Visit Recalls Romance of Royal Couple

London (CP)—A tall young woman of 26 soon will arrive in Canada for a coast-to-coast tour with her husband. It will be their first visit to the Dominion and they've left their two children at home.

Probably Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, feel—like so many parents—that Prince Charles, at 2½, is a little young for travelling. And Princess Ann, at one, is still a baby.

But it's a safe bet that the two will keep in close touch with their children during the five-week tour. Perhaps they will record their voices to send greetings home. That's what the seagoing Duke did the weeks he was away.

In their happy marriage Princess Elizabeth and her husband have set an example for hundreds of young couples just starting out. Elizabeth on more than one occasion has expressed her views on what constitutes the ideal family life.

For instance about three years ago she took time out to lash at their rising divorce rate.

"We live in an age of growing self-indulgence, of increasing materialism and failing moral standards," she said. "I would go so far as to say that some of the very principles on which the family and therefore the health of the nation is founded are in danger."

Britons still like to recall the fairy-tale wedding four years ago when the pretty girl they took as her husband the tall blond member of the Greek Family of Greece. He gave up his rights to the Greek throne to become a Briton and her husband.

Prince Philip of Greece, then 26, was the son of the late Prince Andrew of Greece and Princess Andre. He was Elizabeth's childhood sweetheart. In fact, so the story goes, at the age of 13 she announced firmly that one day she would marry Philip.

Actually, their romance blossomed in wartime. And when Elizabeth accompanied the King and Queen on their South African tour it was known that she wrote to him three times a week.

For months rumors of the pending engagement crowded out other news in British papers. Then it was announced July 10, 1947. And Prince Philip—known in private life as Lieut. Philip Mountbatten—gave his fiancee an engagement ring containing a large diamond and two smaller diamonds set at the side in platinum.

From then until the big day—Nov. 19—Britons were taken up with a round of pageantry such as hadn't been seen since the more affluent pre-war years.

It took 30 girls two weeks to complete the bridal gown of ivory satin with its 15-foot train. Canada gave the Princess a wild mink coat and some silverware. Treasures poured in from the four corners of the world.

Now Britain's most-talked-about young married couple live at Clarence House in the heart of London and are raising two youngsters who are just as full of mischief as other children. Princess Elizabeth and her husband like to entertain, frequently hold small semi-formal dinner-parties to which guests are invited by phone the same day.

Elizabeth's favorite menu? lobster soup, chicken Maryland (pieces of chicken dipped in egg and breadcrumbs) and fresh fruit trifle served with ice cream.

Egyptian Women Follow the West

Toronto — (CP) — Although there are some exceptions such as polygamy and child marriage, women in Egypt are almost as western in outlook and action as Canadians, says Madame Amb. Mitarachi who arrived in Canada recently from Egypt.

Mme. Mitarachi, an attractive middle-aged Egyptian, is an active member of the Alliance Committee in Alexandria, an organization devoted to social work among women and children.

In Egypt the city dweller is better off than the country women, she says. As an instance of this she tells of rural women who consider childbirth as just another chore. They leave their work in the field, have their baby then hoist it on their back and proceed with their work. In the cities there are good maternity hospitals.

However Middle Eastern women have progressed considerably since they peered at the outside world from veiled eyes. Socially, educationally and in the arts they have made great strides, particularly the upper class of women, many of whom speak English and French fluently.

Women graduate from French convents, Jewish and Protestant schools as doctors, lawyers and scientists. They serve as social workers and are gradually extending the variety of other occupations open to them, she says.

There is only one amateur dramatic group in Alexandria, Mme. Mitarachi said, but it gets the best in the professional theatre. The Greek dramatic group produces some of the classics. There is an excellent theatre which was left to the government by a wealthy Egyptian.

Celery Precooling Cuts Losses

Ottawa— Considerable quantities of celery are lost annually, because owing to moisture loss while in storage, wilted, rubbery and otherwise damaged stalks have to be trimmed from the celery.

Tests made at the Dominion Experimental Substation at Ste. Clothilde, Quebec, show that much of this loss can be controlled by water precooling. This consists of placing freshly harvested and crated celery in a bath of circulating ice cold water for about twenty minutes. The precooled celery is then placed in storage immediately.

Celery treated in this manner was examined after ten weeks storage and compared with celery which was placed in storage while still warm. The non-precooled celery required trimming to an extent of about ten pounds whereas the precooled celery required less than one-half a pound per crate in order to produce fresh, crisp, attractive celery heads.

In addition, the actual loss in weight of the celery in storage was reduced by precooling. This amounted to a saving of about five pounds per crate. Thus, the total saving through precooling amounted to something in excess of twenty per cent by weight.

The explanation for the reduction of moisture losses by precooling concerns the principles of evaporation, storage experts of the Department of Agriculture say. It is generally known that warm water evaporates more quickly than cold. Celery contains a large proportion of water which can evaporate through the leaves and stalks. Rapid chilling reduces evaporation losses, thus preserving the fresh, crisp condition of the celery in storage.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

Councillors and reporters closed in on the clerk's table. Jenners tore an end off the envelope, unfolded the piece of paper enclosed, read the message and smiled.

"Here you are, gentlemen," he said. "This is Joe Crookes' resignation as mayor of the town of Emerton."

The Councillors sighed with relief. Dr. Johnston stopped Lance Bradley on the back.

"Our luck worked, Brad!" he chortled. "And good riddance to bad rubbish, if you'll pardon me for saying so."

The smiling councillors took their places around the table; Dr. Johnston took, in set words, pro tem, with full authority, nominations for candidates who desired to fill the vacancy by Crookes's resignation would be held the following Monday night at seven o'clock.

Next afternoon there was another history-making headline on the front page of The Daily Eagle, above an interesting story describing how council had forced Joe Crookes to resign. Lance Bradley read the story with a sigh of relief. He hoped that that was the end of that. Crookes, Craft and Maker, the big three of Emerton's board of management had been ousted from office and the police constable chief who undoubtedly had been working with them, was now wearing the overalls of the working man. The mess at the town hall had been cleaned up. There were no more words to counter. No, he was wrong. The men who attempted to dynamite his building were yet to be found, and then, there was that man John Palms.

For John Palms' letters were really getting Lance Bradley down. They were getting under his skin, unnerving him. An embarrassed, inexperienced businessman, he had yet to learn to take the bad with the good, to learn to maintain his sense of humor no matter what happened, no matter what people said, or wrote about him.

Managing Editor Gordon talked to Lance Bradley as he would have talked to his son, if he had one. He explained that anonymous letters were to be expected in a newspaper office.

"No person can print a good newspaper or do anything worthy no matter what it is, without receiving a mixed of criticism and abuse," he pointed out.

"That's all right for you to say shuh," Lance argued. "But are any of these letters addressed to you —do you get them?"

"Not yet," Gordon grinned. "Maybe I better touch wood."

"That's just it," Lance said. "Now, if you get one a week—"

"I wouldn't read 'em. I'd burn them as fast as they came," Gordon said.

"But of one thing Lance Bradley was certain. His reporters, the police, the post office inspector, were all looking for the mysterious John Palms; now and one of these men must eventually locate him. He had no worries about a second attack on his property. This man Carruthers he had brought from the city was on duty every night, he was well armed, vigilant and highly recommended. But those Palms letters cut like a knife. It was like rubbing salt in an open wound. A few days passed and there was a third letter, a few more days and a fourth letter. There was no stopping them, there was no stopping the people from reading them, or when they would end.

In a growing state of desperation, a desperation brought on in part by a dangerous condition of health of which he was not yet aware, Lance Bradley thought seriously of taking sufficient action from the bank to tide him over the years, to run away from his business from Emerton, to hide away on some island in the South Atlantic where he might spend the remainder of his days in peace and tranquility.

And then he thought of Dad Roberts and Robert Bickford. What would they think of him if he did a thing like that? How could he go away and leave them when they were so contented and happy in the knowledge that he would be with them throughout the evening of their lives, an evening that might well be too short now? And what the leading men of Emerton, Johnson, Parker, and Dr. Brown among others who were now looking to him for leadership, as the one man above all others who could give the town a leg up the ladder towards citihood, think? And what would Goldie Webster think of his foster father, the man who, when the chips were down, had shown himself to be a coward, the craven who would seek safety in flight? And all for what? He couldn't quit because some no-account person was using the only means that his perverted brain could find to annoy him, to pester him, could he!

And as he argued with himself, Lance Bradley began to wonder if he wasn't losing his mind. Of late he had been suffering from pains in his head, but on Dr. Brown's advice he had secured glasses. Yet those pains continued. Dr. Brown had given him medicine and some advice that Lance had not taken. The doctor had advised him to take a long holiday, to get himself away from business for a while.

And then something unexpected happened and it appeared to be the very thing needed to put back the right into Lance Bradley.

One night his car was stolen from its garage at the Jackson Motors back of The Eagle building, and despite the efforts of police, radio station and newspaper, the car was never seen again.

But that one incident more than anything else made Lance Bradley decide that he must never run away from his business or his town. He must stand fast and face the music no matter how discordant it sounded. And he might, even do a bit of man-hunting on his own.

He had been filing the Palms' letters away as they were received. That afternoon when Dad Roberts was in the johnroom, Lance spread these letters on the desk before him and carefully studied them. And as he examined them he arrived at one obvious conclusion—that all the letters had been written on the same typewriter, but—that the machine was old, some of its letters should be replaced.

From that day on, Lance Bradley took more than a passing interest in typewriters. But although he was working in the right direction, and what he learned was to help, was to be used as evidence he was to fail in finding John Palms that way. For Palms, by his own carelessness, was to trap himself. Meanwhile in his search for "the" typewriter, Lance was getting back to himself.

Then Stub Rose asked him one day if this was not a good time to match Goldie with the famous Tex Burdell.

"Are you sure you're not rushing him too fast, Stub?" Lance asked.

"No, I don't think so, Chief. Goldie's about as good now as he will ever be. I'm taking him to the city for a return bout with Peever. Care to come along?"

"Sure," Lance said.

"If Goldie takes Peever a second time, then he takes on Tex Burdell," Stub said. "After that —well he's through, as far as I'm concerned—"

"You sound as if you'd been talking to Milly," Lance said.

"Yes Chief, I've given her my word."

"And I agree," said Lapce.

CHAPTER XXVIII

If all the build-up that Goldie Webster received in the sports pages of The Eagle did him any harm, he didn't show it as he quietly plugged along at his work in the composing room. But to Milly Brooks, at the Want ad. desk in the front office, chatter about Goldie was anathema, and she told Stub Rose so. But Stub asked her to bear with him a little longer. After Goldie's bout with Tex Burdell, he would cease to be the trainer and manager and Goldie must of necessity hang up his gloves since there was no one else to handle him.

But while Goldie was diligently training for Burdell—the bout was being advertised for Emerton town hall, Friday, August 4,—while his fellow employees were planning to put their last dollar on him to win, Whitey Michels was offering odds of two to one in the pool rooms around town that the bout would never take place.

It was morning and Lance Bradley was in the composing room, watching Goldie as he made up a page of that afternoon's paper. Goldie was doing a man's work now and drawing man's pay.

Presently up the stairs from the press-room appeared the squat figure of Sergt. Broadfoot of the Emerton police force. Approaching Goldie he stopped to say:

"The chief wants to see you at his office, Goldie."

"See—me?" Goldie stammered, face whitening.

"What's Goldie been up to now?" Lance asked.

"Whitey Michels is in the hospital. Brain concussion."

"So—what!" Lance asked. Broadfoot shrugged his shoulders. "The chief thinks, Brad, that Goldie knows something about it."

Lance turned to Goldie.

"Okay, son, let's go. On the way over to the police station. You can tell me what happened."

They followed Broadfoot down the stairs and across the yard. As they did, Goldie Webster told his story.

Late the night before he and Milly had been in the south end of the town. They had met and passed Whitey Michels on the street. Some time later they had dropped into a small restaurant to have a cup of coffee and a sandwich. They had been barely seated before the waiter had told him that he was wanted in a back room, pointing the way down the hall. Not anticipating any trouble, yet wondering who wished to see him and why, he had told Milly to wait and proceeded to the room shown to him, opening the door. The moment he had stepped inside, and closed the door behind him, he knew he had been trapped. Standing there was Whitey Michels with a gun in his hand. Whitey had called him a lot of dirty names for running out on him; had married that it was his intentions to make him, to shoot him in the arms, so that he would never box again.

"I pleaded with him, dad, begged him not to shoot me, but he just stood there, snarling like a dog, a mad dog. I was getting more desperate every moment he abused me. At last I decided that it was probably better to be shot than to be scared to death, so as I pleaded with him, I eased myself towards him, hoping to close the distance between us. When I thought I was close enough, I leaped at him, his revolver misfired, and I knocked it out of his hands. And then, Dad, I hit him. I hit him with everything I had.

Fishermen Meet Stiff Opposition In Tough Battles With Bluefins

By JACK BRADLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Wedgeport, N. S., Sept. 13—CP—The battle of the bluefin continued today with the score against the lunar; but it was not one-sided.

On yesterday's first nine-hour session of the three-day eighth annual world big game fish tie, steely-walled fighters cut combining dideos, snarled lines, broke lines and leaders and hooks and frayed tempers before the Scandinavian team led the scoring.

It wasn't until the last two hours and in hazardous pea-soup fog that the day's kill of three was landed.

Preliminary morning conditions were right and less than half an hour after the fleet of 15 cape island boats arrived at turbulent Soldiers' Rip fishing ground a tuna struck. It seemed the predictions of an active day were to come true.

Hani in Nipe

But like eight who followed and many more who cut acrobatic dances over and under the bait, the big fish eluded the wiles of the sportmen and their shrewd Acadian guides.

Scoring is based on poundage, biggest fish and most caught.

Second, Chile, last year's champs, 726 2/3 points with a fish of 560 pounds, caught by Joaquin Edwards of Santiago, after an hour and 40 minutes.

Third, British Empire, 663 2/3 points with a fish of 597 pounds caught by Mal. Cyril H. Frisby, R. V., London stock broker, after 53 minutes.

Cuba and United States went scoreless.

It was Kyvagaard's first fish in these waters but he is present Scandinavian champ with a fish of 823 pounds taken from Danish waters.

Mal. Frisby's catch was his fourth in four days so "I'm going out with my fingers crossed."

The weather for today forecasts more fog but otherwise the conditions should be good. Fog is a bad hazard because the big fish in a cluster on the mile square patch of tide rip and sometimes yesterday they were all out of sight of each other and had to some intricate manoeuvring.

The victory was the winners second in a row and they took the finals series and title by four games to two.

The Mounties started slowly, behind 3-0 at the end of the first period and 5-4 at half-time. They went ahead 8-6 in the third period and lengthened the lead in the final session as Peterson, the rugged Mimico forward, scored five goals.

Except for Peterson 'no Mountaineer scored more than one. Singles went to Don McPhail, Pop Chard, Bern Pritchard, Ken Lytle, Bud Shocks and Scoop Hayes. For Peterborough Vitarelli and Harry Wipper each belted two. Thorpe, Don Ashbee, Slater, Fowless and Hildebrand each scored once.

Squires scored two runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings to add to a singleton in the third, and secured the winning tally in the eighth. CNR grouped their scoring in the middle of the game, getting two in the fifth and sixth and the final counter in the seventh.

Garvin collected three hits for Squires with Jones, Nolan, Bobin and Finnegan getting the others. Grant, McCann and Tracey picked up the loser's threesome.

Robinson TKO's Turpin In 10th Round To Regain Middleweight Crown

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"WE 'AD IT"

There's woe in Whitehall and the grass on 'Ampstead Heath is bowed with sorrow. Even Mayfair was mute and Soho silent. London Sgs. was dumb with disappointment and sadness for their beloved Randy Turpin bowed to the master-fighter Sugar Ray Robinson in New York last night, losing his briefly-held middleweight title by a 10 round technical knockout.

According to ringside reports Turpin was good throughout the fight, but Robinson in superb condition vindicated his followers statement that he was out of condition when Randy mashed the middleweight battle crown from his head in London.

So it looks, mates as though we 'ad it. But Randy will take more than a defeat back 'ome with him. Gold along for the trip will be approximately 200,000 Americans "iron men". You figure it out in quids, we can't. That's many pounds more than Turpin ever seen and probably will ever see again.

So that's that. We picked a loser again and now to sit back and read and listen to the "I-told-you-so" bleats from the experts south of the border. For all that, Robinson fought and won a magnificent fight. A fine champion, he fought only a world title-holder should, a tasteplessing departure from the majority of the heavyweight fiascos that have been foisted of late on the boxing public.

ALL EVEN!

The Kingston Dixney Leafs are no different to any other team in the COBL insofar as balloon ascensions are concerned. Stan Scrutton's laddybucks can blow higher than the proverbial kite at times and last night was no exception, due to the enjoyment of one of the best crowds of the season. They booled the ball around aplenty in the seventh when the Redmen plastered it all over the lot for five clouts and eight runs.

* * *

Vern Geyer's mighty home run was the longest ball hit this season clearing the centre field fence easily. Fitzpatrick and Johnny Dean came up with brilliant performances in the field, while the whole squad as a whole turned in a fine fielding performance.

* * *

The Leafs looked like anything but championship calibre after the sixth and the Redmen made merry at their expense. They paraded three pitchers, Lenard, Richards and Ferguson in a futile effort to halt the Red's big bat.

* * *

Billy Strahan suffered a bruised tendon in a leg in the fourth inning as he was injured trying to field an infield clipet. He was taken to hospital but his injury was discovered not as serious as first thought and the young right-hander will likely be there again tonight.

* * *

Johnny Mowat did a fine job of relief hurling stifling the Leaf bluguons in the afternoon contest. The teams go to Kingston tomorrow night and again Saturday in the four-of-seven series.

BLACK HAWKS HERE

A lot of hockey-minded youngsters in this village are going to get the thrill of their lives in the first week in October. To the ever-growing list of kids with such names as Gaudaur, Howard, Lumley, Richard, Kennedy and other National Hockey League stars are something they never dreamed of if they are fortunate and have a dad who will take them to see a major league tussle, seen from a seat situated far from the ice.

* * *

In any event October will give hundreds of kids of the city and district the opportunity to not only see National Hockey League stars in ice action but meet them, hear them, and perhaps, so to speak, face to face.

* * *

For on October 4, 5 and 6th the Chicago Black Hawks will be in the city for a brief stay prior to the opening of the National Hockey League. Brought here under the aegis of the Belleville Hockey Association, the Hawks will go through practice paces in Memorial Arena on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 4, play an inter-club game on Thursday night, practice again on Friday morning and remain until Saturday.

During their stay here the Hawks will visit the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville General Hospital, Albert College and the public schools of the city. They will mount and chat with the boys and mingle with them at every opportunity.

* * *

While here, the Hawks will be transported in and about the city on a Rawson bus, thanks to the generosity of Freddie Rawson.

* * *

One of the highlights of the Hawks' visit will be the father-and-son banquet being tendered at Tobe's County Gardens on the night of October 3rd. A special dinner will be served and fathers will be able to take their sons along to meet the Hawks, enjoy top-flight entertainment and hear first-hand some of the experiences of major league players.

* * *

Guest speakers at the banquet will be Ebbie Goodfellow, former Detroit Red Wings star defenceman and now coach of the Hawks, and President Bill Tobin of the Hawks' organization. As a special memento of the occasion every guest will be presented with a miniature hockey stick autographed by Hawk players and officials.

* * *

It should be a great night for young hockeydom of the city. And last we forget, there will be draws for special prizes for the young guests. It has been suggested, and a good suggestion at that, that those adults who intend taking in the dinner, and do not have a son, give another puck-conscious kiddie the chance to enjoy himself for at least one night in his life, by taking him along as a private guest.

* * *

Climaxing a highly successful inaugural season the peewee softballers of the city enter the playoff battles for the city championship on Saturday. Boots'n Teevees, Eastern Ontario champs will sit on the sidelines awaiting a winner of the Rotary, Kinsmen and Boyce's, Gourley's semi-finals playoffs.

* * *

Rotary will meet the Kinsmen at the Firemen's Park next Saturday morning starting at 9.30 while the Boyce-Gourley's game gets under way at 2 p.m. The winners of these games will play off in a sudden death affair for the right to meet Boots for the city title and the Halloran Trophy.

Daily Double Pays $1300.85

Vancouver, Sept. 13 (CP) — Six persons yesterday held winning tickets on the largest daily double of the 1951 racing season here—$1,300.85.

The exhibition park double paid off on Trace Band in the first race at Fleet Street in the second.

Fleet Street, four-year-old colt ridden by Jose Martinez, produced the large payoff. The Sandrock farm entry won its maiden race to pay $149.85. It went to the post at 70 to 1 odds.

Bloody, Tired, Pride of Harlem Unleashes Savage Attack In Dramatic Ring Comeback

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Sept. 13 — (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson was middleweight champion of the world again today, a proud champion of a proud division, after having fought perhaps the greatest battle of his career in stopping Randy Turpin of England in the 10th round of a savage brawl at the Polo Grounds.

Two months and two days after he had lost the crown to the 22-year-old Briton in London, the pride of Harlem came back, bloody and tired, to unleash an onslaught which beat Turpin to the verge of insensibility and forced referee Ruby Goldstein to open the short-time title holder further punishment with only eight seconds to go in the final, pulse stirring round last night.

The largest crowd ever to witness a fight in this country outside the heavyweight division — 61,370 — packed the huge ball yard and poured $767,000 into the coffers of the International Boxing Club to watch the peerless Negro score the 129th triumph of his 138 fight career.

The gate was expected to go at least a million dollars with movie and theatre television rights contributing a minimum of $225,000. When all of the returns are in Robinson will appear to pick up about $240,000, his richest purse, for his 30-minute workout and Turpin about $200,000.

"Not Have Stopped It"

In his dressing room after the fight Turpin declared the referee should not have stopped it.

"I was perfectly keen," Turpin said. "There were only eight seconds to go in the round and I was covering up. I heard the count clearly and you notice I got up well before the finish."

Robinson said he didn't want to take any chances of the referee stopping the fight after his left eyebrow had been cut.

"It was do or die," said Sugar Ray, "he hurt me several times but not in the 10th."

But before the disaster struck him, what a fight the young man from old England had put up. Robinson has said he will be glad to meet Randy again in London, and the next time there should be less will be a procession of chartered planes from this side to watch the pair try to execute another.

Until the 10th, Sugar Ray had done no better than break even against the rugged, powerful young "tooth fighter" from England's carnivals.

Turpin started slowly and gradually gathered his strength until, just before the end, it appeared he almost certainly would grind Robinson down. He was jarring Robinson with his awkward, jumping left jab, making him wince with the force of his short blows in close. He was forcing the fight. Men around me were saying "goodbye Sugar."

Turpin, slammed into the canvas with a right to the jaw, rose shakily at the count of nine, fell into the nearest ropes, and took a brutal beating. Robinson, blood streaming from a cut over his left eye, was trying with everything he had to finish his stubborn foeman.

The avenging Sugar Ray, in his desperate haste, was missing some shots. Turpin — 10-viously was aware of his predicament, and was evading some part of the furious fusillade. But others of Ray's shots were crunching home, and Goldstein had no way of knowing that one of them might not be the one to send Randy home a badly damaged young fighter, or worse.

Opens Cut on Sugar Ray

Through the ninth round Goldstein had scored it 5-4 with Judge Joe Agnello and put it down 5-4 for Robinson, Judge Joseph Barnard 5-3-1 in Sugar Ray's favor. This scorer agreed exactly with Goldstein as that big 10th round came around.

There had been rugged round after rugged round in which the two battlers had met furiously, dug into each other's vitals, without either scoring any real advantage.

In the second round Robinson sent Turpin to one knee momentarily with a right to the jaw. There was no time for a count before the Briton was up slugging away furiously. Again in the third chapter Robinson bounced Turpin against the ropes with a clean right, but it only brought Randy back fighting the harder.

By the time the eighth round came around, Turpin's youth was beginning to pay the inevitable dividend. Robinson, 31, looked a little tired. Randy won in the eighth by a fair margin, the ninth by a wider one.

Then came the 10th, and with one of the very first blows of the round Turpin slashed open an inch-long cut over Robinson's left eye, right through the eyebrow.

Robinson suddenly began to fight like a catamount, and from the numb Goldstein took mercy on Randy, there was no doubt the title would not be going back to England.

Not a Golf Star Left to Twinkle National Amateur

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 13—(AP)—If anyone had told you that seven Walker Cup stars would be on the sidelines after three days of competition in the 51st national amateur gold championship, you'd probably have recommended a doctor.

But that's just what has happened.

Oklahoma City's this man, Charley Coe, is the only big name left in the tournament. With the exception of bespectacled Harold Paddock Aurora, O., linkeman, all of Coe's Walker Cup team mates, Frank Stranahan, Willie Turnesa, Bobby Knowles, Jimmy McHale, Sam Urzetta, Dick Chapman and Bill Campbell, are on the sidelines.

In fact, there are so many strange names teeing off in today's round of sixteen, seven golf experts can't tell a contestant without a program. Lightning only struck once in this superriddled tournament, it flashed seven times.

Yesterday, defending champion Urzetta, usually a picture of consistency, fell apart like a youngster and was eliminated, 2 and 1, by a 29-year-old Mamaroneck, N.Y., lad in five strokes. This came shortly after McHale of the host Saucon Valley Country Club bowed out.

Before the tumult and shouting was over, out went Chapman, British amateur champion from Pinehurst, N.C.

Browns Renew Leafs Contract

Toronto, Sept. 13—(CP)— St. Louis Browns of the American League Wednesday exercised his option and renewed a working agreement with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League for 1952, it was announced here.

Jack Cooke, who recently purchased the Leafs, made the announcement which ended speculation whether the option—in effect for one season—would be renewed or whether the Leafs would tie in with another major league club.

The agreement brings together two owners widely known for their promotional talents. Bill Veeck of the Browns and Cooke of Toronto. Veeck livened season's proceedings with such ideas as using a midget batter and Cooke used give-aways and a flag-pole sitter to boost attendance. Leafs finished fifth this season.

Graziano Next On Robinson Treasure Trail

New York, Sept. 13—(AP)—Another million dollar fight production was in the making today with middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson versus Rocky Graziano, the pride of Italy, the likely result.

That's not expected to come off until next year, maybe February in Chicago, Randy Turpin, a strong 23-year-old Briton, will have to wait until June for another crack at the title he held for such a short time.

Taxes, and plenty of them, will keep Sugar Ray out of the ring until '52. The $240,000 he got for his 10th-round K. O. of Turpin makes about $500,000 Robinson has earned this year.

In the works for Robinson is the Chicago battle with Rocky and then maybe a charity show-for the heart fund—in Miami a month or so later.

Turpin in June

Any return with Randy will have to wait for June. And if they ever get together again it probably will be London. White City Stadium during derby week—late May or early June.

Some of the Englishmen talk of a 100,000 crowd for such a bout. The British no doubt find it hard to believe that Randy was whipped decisively just as Americans couldn't get over the shock of Joe Louis' loss to Randy in London last July 10.

Randy is going to have to shell out plenty in taxes too. And the British tab is a lot stiffer than Uncle Sam's. Randy made $20,000 for his first fight with Robinson and close to $200,000 for last night's effort.

Redmen Defeat Kingston 11-4 To Even Semi-Finals Series, Explode for Eight Runs In 7th

An eight-run explosion by the Belleville Redmen during the seventh of their fourth inning, blew the lid off their tight baseball contest with the Kingston Dixsey Leafs at the Fairgrounds last night as they copped the win by an 11-4 score.

Until that point, the game had been a see-saw battle and Kingston had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the frame. The win for the Reds drew them into a 1-1 tie with the Dixseys in their best of seven series with the third game scheduled for tonight on the same diamond.

Strahan Hurt

The Redmen started things off in the Belleville seventh with a run by Fitzpatrick's single, a sacrifice and Johnny Deane's double. Billy Richards, in the meantime was holding the visitors at the bats paths completely until the top of the fourth when Gilmour bounced a grounder between Buchanan and Fitzpatrick scoring Lund. Then Strahan took the throw which was too late and was spiked in the tendon of his ankle, necessitating his removal from the game.

Mowat made a hasty entrance into the game and proceeded to load the first sack with Reed and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Somehow Lund got home with a run but Mowat steadied to retire the side without further damage.

The homesters added a pair in the fifth in much the same manner as their last get the initial counter. The main difference being that Gilmour was on base after being struck with a pitched ball. Fitzpatrick had previously singled and both runners were placed on Dean's double.

Kingston struck back in the seventh on three hits and Belleville's only miscue as well as a base on balls. Scridden and Ferguson singled and Rank reached base on Garson's boot of his hard ground ball. Carnegie walked and Gilmour's single drove in a pair before Allen fanned to end it.

Exploded in 7th

This set the stage for the big frame. Fitzpatrick got things away to a good start with a single to centre. Munro forced him at second but went to second himself on Allen's bad throw to first. Vern Gaylor then connected with one of Leonard's fast ones and drove the ball over the fence for dead centre field. It was probably the longest hit ball in that park this year. Johnny Deane banged out his third double of the game and that was all for Leonard.

Billy Richards, who relieved, was no more fortunate than his predecessor and would only retire on max in five, so he was lifted for the second time and Lorne Ferguson was called in.

Fitzpatrick greeted him with a screaming single to centre and the eighth run when Ferguson committed the balk in the act of the inning by throwing Munro's bouncer over first base. Dean, the thirteenth batter, ended the hour of the frame by bopping out.

Fitzpatrick and Deane held the homesters to a single hit per a triple and three singles while Dean garnered three base-hangers. Carson had a pair of singles and Mowat doubled for the other extra-base hit.

Gilmour was the only favorite to connect twice, one of these being a very scratchy claw off of Strahan.

All the Redmen played very defensively, in direct contrast to their previous evening's performance. Special mention should be given to Buchanan, Fitzpatrick and Reeves for standout plays.

The Leafs, on the other hand, had an off night, booting the ball no less than eight times, seven of these in the infield.

Sport in Brief

Thirty-five thousand fight fans jammed—and in Chicago - even fought—their way into 15 movie houses in 11 United States cities Wednesday night to see the theatre television broadcast of Rocky Marciano-Turpin fight.

Outside the fight arena they were the only persons to see the battle for the world's middleweight championship.

The International Boxing club, the promoters, banned broadcasts by radio or television of the round-by-round accounts of the bout.

Most of the movie houses doubled their prices with minimum charges varying from $2 to $2.60.

Art Houtteman, former Detroit Tigers' pitching ace, will be released from the United States army this weekend.

Officials at Camp Pickett announced several days ago that Houtteman would be given an medical discharge for a disability incurred prior to his induction last fall.

About 80 players will be fighting for positions when Guelph Biltmores of Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League open their training camp here next week coach Alfie Pike said Wednesday.

Pike said that despite a holdover of 11 players from last year's team and some promotions from Biltmore Bees, every position on the team would be open for competition.

Frank Tyndall, coach of the Queen's University senior football team, Kingston, Wednesday had 46 candidates working out for practices on the 1951 edition of the Tricolor squad.

Five players are trying for the quarterback spot. Favorite is Don Griffin, veteran halfback for the Gaels. Others making bids for the spot are Norm Dyson of Toronto, Emil Vhrynyck of St. Catharines, Al Poutanen of Sudbury and Walter Miller of Ottawa.

Trotting Stars Seek Rich Purse

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 13 (AP) —A world record will be in jeopardy tonight when 11 of the fastest trotters in the land tangle in the $50,000 Roosevelt two-mile trot at Roosevelt Raceway.

The star-studded field is headed by Star's Pride, a four-year-old bay son of Worthy Boy owned by E. Roland Harriman of Boonton, N.Y., and L. B. Sheppard, Hanover, Pa. Star's Pride will be coupled in the betting with Florican, owned by Harriman.

With such speed in the race —four times, around Roosevelt's half mile oval—racing secretary Walter Gibbons predicted a new mark of around 4-15. The present record of 4:17 was set by the great Proximity in winning the 1948 race.

Dennis Hanover, winner of the 1948 Hambletonian, is the 5-3 second choice behind the entry, Gilmour's single drove in a pair before Allen fanned to end it.

Plumbers Beat Point Anne 4-3 Meet AC in Finals

Pat Miracle, Point Anne's perennial pitching star, who's doled out such a heavy helping of surprises in last year's Commercial Softball Leagues playoffs, almost did it again last evening before Howe and Hagerman's Plumbers eked out a 4-3 win in 10 innings.

A walk to Lum Carson and a single through the box by Don "Widge" Adams, in the bottom of the tenth, broke up the ball game and put the Plumbers into the Commercial League A finals against Glen Roy Athletic Club. The loss ended Point Anne's softball campaign for the season. The Plumbers climbed aboard Miracle's offerings in the first inning for three hits and two runs. Jack Whitbaugh opened with a single and was held up as Don Adams flied out to right field. Dick Fitzpatrick slashed a single into right field to plate Wardhaugh and then scored on Williams' double to centrefield that drove in Adams and then to first. Henn struck out to end the frame.

Rally Cut Short

Point Anne down in order in the first two innings staged a rally in the third that looked as though it would win the game. Elliott opened with a single through short and then Lorne Marcelle and Gerald Horwood were safe on bunts—Horwood reaching first on Carson's bobble. With the bases loaded and no one out Strahan struck out the first and Murney Green walked to force in Elliott. Mike Wales lined out to Howe who tagged back of second base and Miracle scored after the catch.

Umpire Bill Cook gave Umpire Cy Young, ruled that Miracle left third base before the catch and called him out to retire the side. Then the debate began. Point Anne claimed Miracle had tagged up until the catch was made, and umpire Young contended he hadn't. As usual the umpire prevailed but the decision loomed larger and larger as the evening wore on and neither team scored.

In the eighth, an error, a sacrifice, a passed ball, and a single by Tom Fitzpatrick accounted for the Plumbers third run.

Point Anne roared back into the contest in the ninth with a walk, a single by Pete Green and an error on an overthrow at first, counting two runs and tying the game.

The Plumbers snatched the win in the bottom half of the tenth after going down in order in the ninth.

Carson Claims Victory

Lum Carson toiled the distance for the winners walking two, striking out four, and giving up six hits. Pat Miracle walked two, struck out eight, and surrendered eight safeties for the loss.

Best at the plate for the winners was Jack Whitbaugh with a triple and two singles in four trips. Lorne Marcelle had two singles in four trips for the losers.

As handsome a pair of laddybucks as ever turned semi-agers cardiacs afluster, Whipper Billy Watson and Timmy Geohagen will pool their brawn and brain against those ruffy-tuffies Fred Atkins and Lew Newman (nee the Mask) in a team match at Memorial Arena tomorrow night. The Atkins-Newman duo have been having things their way aplenty through the medium of their everything-goes system, and the master-minds feel something should be done about it. So they come up with the Whip-Timmy team, a formidable combination at that. The "Zebra" another rasslin' "hood" will be here to do battle with Lou Sjoberg while Billy Stack stacks up against Mayes McLean.

Crystal Gazers Lopez, Stengel Predict Flag for Yanks, Tribe; Bosox Edge Half-Game Closer

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Managers Al Lopez of Cleveland and Casey Stengel of New York, recovered from Tuesday's ordeal at the hands of the revenge-bent second-divisioners, were beating their chests today and all but predicting the American League pennant.

Lopez was especially confident as his Indians moved on to Washington for a night affair after a day's rest.

"We're in first place and we all feel we're there to stay," he said.

Stengel, who admitted the Yankees "were awful" in dropping a doubleheader to the tail-end Browns Tuesday, predicted his team will regain the lead.

The Yankees fell into second place when Cleveland split with the sixth-place Athletics and took a full-game lead.

"We're not through by a long shot," Casey said. "We'll get back to the top."

Edge Tigers 2-1

While the Indians and Yankees were taking things easy, Boston's third-place Red Sox edged out the Tigers 2-1. The triumph moved them to within 2½ games of the tribe.

Bill Wight won the 10th inning hurling duel from Detroit's Ted Gray when Johnny Pesky slammed a one-out triple and scored the deciding run on Clyde Vollmer's long fly.

In the only other American League game, Chicago's White Sox blanked the Senators, 3-0, with six hits for his 13th victory. Orestes Minoso drove in two of the victor's runs.

The New York Giants' faint flag hopes were kept alive when Cincinnati slapped a 6-3 defeat on the National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers. The loss cut the Brooks' margin to 5½ games. The Giants were trained out of their scheduled game in St. Louis and will play the game off this afternoon. The Cards also have a game tonight against Boston Braves.

Brockville, Sept. 13 — (CP)— Brockville Memos Wednesday night beat Smiths Falls Royals 13-7 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Central Ontario Baseball League semi-final series. Belleville and Kingston are matched in the other half of the playoff.

Levys Win Two, Tourneys Ousted

Detroit, Sept. 13—(CP)— Toronto Levys qualified for the semi-finals in the National Softball tournament yesterday but Toronto Ace Queens were eliminated from the women's competition when they dropped two games in a row.

Both Toronto teams won their opening games Tuesday night.

Levys lost their first game of the tournament 6-0 to the defending champions, Clearwater, Fla., Bombers, but stayed in the hunt by blanking Houston, Tex., 2-0.

The Ace Queens bowed 4-3 to Fresno, Calif., and 6-3 to Cleveland.

Schroeder Scores Surprise Victory Over Aussie Star

Los Angeles, Sept. 13—(AP)— Whether he wants to or not, Ted Schroeder of California may be drafted for duty with the American Davis Cup team.

That was the opinion of many today as the surprise laden Pacific southwest tennis tournament swung into another quarter-final stage featuring Frank Sedgman, Australia's No. 1 Davis Cup player and 1951 American champion.

Sedgman was booked to meet the man he succeeded as the U.S. title, Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., in one quarter, and dramatic rivalry bloomed in another match between Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Herb Flam of Los Angeles.

But main tennis talk centred on Schroeder and his well-earned triumph, yesterday over the No. 3 Aussie Cup star, Ken McGregor.

Durable Ted, always the competitor, defeated McGregor before a wildly cheering gallery, 6-4, 0-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2. It was more Schroeder's play than the score itself which gave rise to the Davis Cup talk.

Schroeder was cautious with answers about his availability.

"I have to work for a living. I don't get paid for playing tennis the time off to train and play in the cup matches," he said.

Fight Should Have Gone on-Turpin Referee Right-Robinson, Experts

By TED SMITS

New York, Sept. 13 (AP) — Should referee Ruby Goldstein have stopped the Robinson-Turpin fight with eight seconds to go in the tenth round?

"No", says Randolph Turpin, the dethroned middleweight champion.

It was a comparatively dull fight up to the 10th and then everything happened. First off Turpin opened a cut over Robinson's left eye from which blood gushed forth, soon staining both fighters.

Robinson waded into Turpin with machine-gun rights and lefts to the head and body. Turpin fell to the canvas—the second time in his career he has been knocked down—but bounced up at nine.

Then Robinson cornered him on the ropes, and with Turpin's hands down and the Englishman defenseless, the Harlem Negro pounded his foe. Turpin never went down.

"He Was Dazed"

"He was dazed," said Goldstein afterwards. "Then I stepped in to fight he started to go to Robinson's corner. He kind of fell right in my arms. I started him to his own corner."

No one in Turpin's corner made any protest, said Goldstein.

But afterward in his dressing room Turpin declared:

"The referee should not have stopped it. I was perfectly keen. There were only eight seconds to go and I was covering up. The doctor will confirm them."

Ringside observers thought he was badly dazed and taking terrific punishment—but it is true that a few minutes later he appeared fresh and calm, and posed with a bright smile alongside Robinson.

Beaten by "Ghost"

There are no clocks at outdoor fights such as are common indoors, and this absence might have had an effect on the decision, although Goldstein said his only thought was whether Turpin was in danger of being hurt seriously.

One shrewd London newspaperman, Tony Horstead, of the London Sunday Dispatch, said "Turpin was beaten by the ghost of Georgie Flores."

Flores was the fighter who died Sept. 3 of injuries inflicted in a Madison Square Garden fight with Roger Donoghue. Horstead implied that as a result, referees want to take no chances with fatal blows.

Ringside comment included:

Harold Mayer, London Empire News—"unquestionably it was the right thing to do. Turpin was beaten by the hands of Robinson when Ray went cracking."

Bruce Barnett, London Sporting Review—"The referee didn't know how much time was left. He had stopped fights and it was certainly the right thing to do."

Turpin's explanation of the punishment he took on the ropes was simple.

"I was saving myself," he said. "I didn't have to clinch. He wasn't hitting me much. I thought I could wait out the round and then get him in the next one."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Priorities do not give you the right to the first bid in every deal in bridge. An opponent is likely to start first with a bid. That first bid in any deal is known as an opening bid.

An opening bid of one in a suit makes certain guarantees. It promises a hand that contains better than average in all important items. Such items are high cards, sure tricks, tricks, and the suit.

A high card is an ace or a king or a queen. There are 12 high cards in a pack. There are four players. So, each player is entitled to an average of three high cards in a deal.

Sometimes a player gets less than his average. Sometimes he gets more than his average. To have more than his average, a player must have at least four high cards.

So, an opener guarantees a minimum of four high cards. If this is so, what about the other players in that deal? It is more than likely that each of the others will have less than four high cards.

This puts an opponent of the opening bidder into a dilemma. Must he wait for an excess of high cards? If he does, he will use too many chances to enter the bidding.

So, a defender must be permitted some kind of a bid that will not require many high cards. There is such a bid. It is a non-jump defensive bid (simple overcall) in a new suit.

Thus, if you are partner of a simple overcaller, be warned. Assume that such a bid does not show many high cards. Any bid you give him in answer thereto must be based on expecting few high cards in his hand.

Suppose an opponent starts with an opening bid of one heart and your partner sticks in a bid of one spade. Assume that your partner has enough tricks for his bid, but do not bank on the high card kind.

When it is your turn to reply to his bid, pass with this hand:

♥K 8 7 2
♦K J 6 4
♣A J 9 5

Any bid you make may strike him in a suit of which he has no big cards. Eloquent word, pass.

HOSPITAL FACES DEFICIT

Brantford, Sept. 13 (CP) —The general hospital here faces a $96,166 deficit for the period Jan. 1 to Aug. 25, the board of governors has reported. Failure to meet the budget was attributed to the rising cost of living, plus higher salaries and wages which the hospital now pays.

TRYING TO GET WIFE UP

Whitby, Sept. 13 (CP) —Byron LeBarr testified Wednesday before he was fined $10 and costs for beating his wife: "I was trying to get my wife out of bed to clean up the house. She threw an alarm clock at me. We've had three or four clocks broken this way."

ENCOURAGING SALES

Cornwall, Sept. 13 (CP) —"Encouraging sales" was the report of a butcher who has started to sell horsemeat in West Cornwall. He said yesterday that there is a good demand for horsemeat steak and roast, which are currently selling for 30 cents a pound. The meat is shipped here from an abattoir near Ottawa.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 13 — (CP) —Anticipating 427 more students in September of 1952 than are at present registered, Stamford township's public schools are facing the prospect of having classes on shifts, R. WHY WE SAY By Pete Hoffman Bob Morgan

. . . Not for war
Bowling is one of the oldest sports in the world. A full set of bowling equipment was found in one of the tombs in Egypt. At one time, though, bowling was forbidden in England because it was too frivolous and did not prepare the individual for war like archery and hunting. The word is from the Latin "bulla" for bubble because of the appearance of the ball.

"All The Difference In The World" Says This Woman After Using Syntona

Ended Stomach Disorders, Pains in Arms, Limbs and Back. Now Free of Headaches. Sleep Better. "Can Eat Things I Couldn't for Years Before."

Thousands of mmen and women suffering from stomach, kidney and liver troubles, intestinal disorders, backache, rheumatic pain or nervous, rundown condition say Syntona Herbal Compound has given them the best relief they have known in years. Perhaps never before has a medicine of this kind been so widely acclaimed as has Syntona in the past 15 years. It is a reputation justly earned, because Syntona contains 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots and is a medicine you can rely on to help you.

Here, for instance, is the experience of Mr. James Crobie, 213 James Street North, Hamilton, Ontario, who says:

"For quite a number of years I was having trouble with stomach disorders. I would get gassy cramps, a sour feeling, and soon add fatigue and my head would ache. I felt tired and nauseated, got dizzy feelings and had headaches. More recently I began to have rheumatic pains in my arms, limbs and back and I couldn't get my pressure down.

"I had read about Syntona doing me times and mentioned it to my wife but I had tried so many things that I felt discouraged and had little faith in anything. However, I finally decided, 'Well, I would try it, and it has made a big difference in the world. I can eat things now that I couldn't eat for years, my system is cleared up and I am free of that sick stomach feeling, headaches and dizzy spells. Also, the rheumatic pains and backache are gone away and I can get my full night's sleep now.'

T.L.C. Reconsiders Decision to Leave National Body

Low-Rental Construction Plan Asked by Congress

Halifax, Sept. 14 (CP) — The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada decided today to reconsider a decision reached only Tuesday, to withdraw its continuing co-operation with Canada's other central labor bodies.

By a narrow vote of 117 to 118 the reconstruction motion squeezed through. The committee session delegates adjourned for lunch, and the issue was to be dealt with as the first item on the afternoon agenda.

Voted to Pull Out

On Tuesday, the congress voted to pull the T.L.C. out of a continuing committee set up between it and the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and the independent Railway Association. That action was taken on the suggestion of the congress executive and today's vote to reopen the question constituted a defeat for the TLC leadership on the point.

Making the new national action Tuesday, the Congress had launched a bitter attack on the part of the American Federation of Labor, its big affiliate in the United States, in withdrawing from the joint committee with the congress of industrial organizations.

The congress-subsidized, low-rental housing construction program was also demanded earlier by the congress.

Housing Crisis Acute

Declaring the housing crisis is growing more acute, the TLC proposed the program be undertaken by federal government in co-operation with provincial and municipal governments.

The homes should be "financed by the national credit" and distributed by "those who can not afford the exhorbitant building costs of today."

The Congress asked also:

1. Strict control of rents as part of the proposed housing plan;

2. Federal aid for slum clearance;

3. Top priority for home building.

Italy Moves Closer To Diplomatic Break With Czechs

Rome, Sept. 14. (AP)—Italy has moved closer to an outright diplomatic break with communist-led Czechoslovakia.

Italy has called her consul-general home from Bratislava and ordered the Czech consul in Milan and consulate in Milan by tomorrow.

A firmly-worded announcement by the ministry said "a long series of offensive actions" by the Czechoslovak had made it "practically impossible to operate" the Bratislava consulate.

The "offensive actions" at Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, are said to have included:

1. Frequent police detention and interference with the Italian consul-general himself;

2. Constant and rigid surveillance of the consulate under the guise of a police guard;

3. Intimidation and interference with employees of the consulate, and

4. Refusal of normal service—even medical treatment.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP)—Syrupsale: Skies are beginning to clear in southwestern Ontario this morning after the night's rain and fall, but the sun will once again be hidden from view for northern residents of the province as the storm centre over Hudson Bay continues to harass this region.

Prospects this morning are favorable for a very pleasant weekend in all forecast regions. Temperatures in the mid-70s in the south and mid-60s in the north are indicated.

Govt. Apologizes To N.Z. for Action On Butter Deal

Ottawa, Sept. 14. (CP)—The Canadian government has publicly apologized to New Zealand for its action on butter import controls which resulted in New Zealand losing opportunities to extend butter sales in Canada.

Trade Minister Howe issued a statement last night placing part of the blame on the government's officials, but at the same time making clear that New Zealand's butter prices were higher than those prevailing in Europe where Canada purchased most of her imported butter supplies.

The statement followed discussions between the trade department and William Marshall, chairman of the New Zealand Dairy Produce Marketing Commission. Informants disclosed that the statement was drafted with Mr. Marshall's help.

It disclosed that when the government slapped on import controls on butter last year New Zealand was in a position to offer butter in Canada at prices not appreciably higher than the Canadian government's regular.

Order Reduced

Previous reports disclosed that New Zealand had hopes of selling 10,000,000 pounds of butter in Canada. Later the Canadian government purchased only 3,000,000, giving orders for the remaining 7,000,000 to European sources.

New Zealand offered butter at 65 cents a pound, delivered, Canada got butter from Sweden, Denmark and The Netherlands at from 60 to 61 cents a pound, duty paid.

The statement said Canada was bound to buy butter on a competitive basis, without discrimination, in line with the intent of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade of which she is a member.

Informants previously disclosed that one of the reasons why Canada refused New Zealand butter was the fact that New Zealand sold butter to Britain for 42 cents a pound but offered it to Canada for 63.

Last Big Herding Western Horses Say Cowboys

Calgary, Sept. 14. (CP)—Some 325 horses were trail-herded to the corrals of a Calgary slaughterhouse yesterday.

Art and Fred Galasneau, Hanna, Alta., cowboys, said it was the roundup, said it was likely the last, big overland herding of horses in the Canadian West.

Johnny Powell, sales manager of the packing plant which eats horse meat as feed for dogs, cats and mink, also predicted the gradual disappearance of the horse.

"Within two years horses will be very, very scarce," he said. "No one seems to be raising horses any more." The reason is that one horse will eat as much grass as ten cattle.

Mr. Powell estimated there are only about 500,000 horses left in Canada. In four years, 550,000 had been slaughtered for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Association alone.

Pilotless Plane Bearing Bombs New U.S. Weapon

Fantastic 'Matador' Already in Production

Washington, Sept. 14—(AP)—The United States Air Force has created itself a bundle of problems along with its new guided missile, one of the "fantastic" new weapons mentioned earlier by President Truman.

Some of these problems are so complex as keeping an enemy from taking over guidance of the missiles. Some are as prosaic as forming personnel organizations.

The "Matador," yesterday's and a flying, guided bomber called the "Mazador" and designated as the "B-61 pilotless bomber," and its production, the air force had notified Congress, are intended used for steering the clipped-wing missile to its targets.

However, official photographs showed antenna customarily used for reception or transmission or for radar beams, which could show the control station the missiles' location in flight, and (2) activate the mechanism of the missile.

The public announcement that such a missile is ready for combat implied also that the air force had solved what it believe it can retain control of the missile over great distances.

Developers of the missile are known to have given great attention to the problem of warding off an enemy attempt either to jam the radio frequencies over which the guidance signals are sent, or to seize actual control of the missile by use of greater power at the same frequencies. If this should be done, the enemy might either divert the missile from its intended target or actually turn it around and head it back.

The announcement that the first pilotless bomber squadron will be formed at the Cocoa, Fla., missile centre on Oct. 1, may explain in part why officials have been talking of expanding the air force far beyond the present 95-wing goal. Some of the organization may provide operational wings of guided-missile outfits.

Percy Bengough Again Heads Labor Congress

Halifax, Sept. 14. (CP)—Percy B. Bengough, Calgary, was elected for his ninth straight term as president of the 500,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Ontario Vice-president, William Jess, Toronto.

In another election Rea Green of Halifax was re-elected secretary for the next convention of the British Trades Union Congress.

Joseph Knight, MacArthur of Toronto, president of the Ontario Provincial Federation of Labor, and Stephen Hughes, union official from Kapuskasing, Fred Ibsen, Halifax carpenter, and Nelson Cox of Brantford, barbers union officer.

TYPISTS IN DEMAND

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP) — Stenographers and typists are in demand here and employment officials say most employers ask for girls already trained. However, the experienced applicants are mostly married women.

Former Premier Leads Drive To Unseat Mossadegh In Split Over Iranian Oil Policy

Tehran, Sept. 14. (AP)—A campaign to unseat Premier Mohammed Mossadgh in the fight over Iran's oil-nationalization policy today was gathering momentum both inside and outside the country.

Said Zia Ed-din, a former Conservative Premier and pro-British head of the inactive National Will Party, reopened his party headquarters and rallied supporters last night in a speech denouncing the premier.

Zia Ed-Din, a favorite of the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, is the man considered most likely to succeed Mossadegh if a fight led by 14 opposition deputies in the Majlis (Lower House of Parliament) succeeds in unseating the premier.

Britain, hopeful that Mossadgh can be ousted, twisted an economic noose tighter about Iran by ordering ships already at sea with cargoes of "certain scarce materials" to change course and head for other ports.

A Board of Trade spokesman in the order was in line with the British government's decision to suspend all export licenses and other benefits it gave Iran before Mossadegh won an oil-nationalization program that last week gave the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company operations at Abadan.

The British announcement earlier in the week cut off its guarantee of Britain and the United States dollars to Iran. The move will make it difficult for Iran to get raw materials from other sources.

Loss of oil royalties and British tugrolls for refinery workers contribute to Iran's shaky financial position.

Although Mossadegh was unable to get parliament's approval for a new agreement with the British in the hope that W. Averell Harriman would relay it to the British.

It the British reject the ultimatum, Mossadgh threatens to expel 350 remaining British oil technicians.

Zia Ed-din, 62, told his supporters that the Mossadgh government leaders follow a creed "of instigating disorder, causing the killing of their political opponents."

He promised free speech, more equitable taxation and land reform. But he did not name supporters questions about oil nationalization directly. "Oil has been a bad issue—nothing can be done without parliamentary approval," was all he would say.

Many deputies who oppose Mossadgh do not oppose nationalization. They are fighting the way the premier has been trying to carry it out, charging that he has made enemies of the British and the United States.

Economic Co-operation Plan Seen Emerging from Meet Of NATO Chiefs in Ottawa

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 14 (CP)— A broad general agreement on the need for greater economic co-operation among countries of the North Atlantic community emerge from meetings here of the North Atlantic Treaty Organizations.

The two sessions which will bring together many of the leading civilian and military figures, is expected to ensure a pattern for closer integration of the north Atlantic community.

Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson told a press conference yesterday that it is hoped a resolution will be adopted, outlining in general terms the need for closer co-operation over the long haul. At the same time the meetings will discuss ways to meet the immediate threat of inflation.

There is, said Mr. Pearson, a feeling among member-nations of N.A.T.O. that inflation may be as dangerous a weapon as bombs.

The important co-ordination of the defence programs of the Atlantic countries is expected to be facilitated by the appointment of the N.A.T.O. council of deputies to the main N.A.T.O. meeting.

The deputies, under the chairmanship of C. Spofford of Washington, will meet in secret today in the railway committee room of the commons to put the final touches to their report.

Meetings Saturday

The council meetings will be opened today in the railway committee chamber. An inaugural ceremony at which Foreign Minister Van Zeeland of Belgium, chairman of N.A.T.O., will make a statement, will be open to the press.

Mr. Pearson said the conclusion of the meetings Thursday the discussions will be in private in the council committee room. Labor-late security arrangements have been made to assure the secrecy of the meetings and for the protection of top secret documents.

Pearson, said the discussions probably will cover,

1. Survey of the international situation at present.

2. An analysis of the defence programs of the member nations with consideration of the progress they can do.

3. The impact of the defence programs on the economies of the countries.

4. Consideration of ways to improve economic and general co-operation among the nations.

Mr. Pearson announced Greece and Turkey to the organization.

He expects a decision may be reached on an admission of Greece and Turkey and on a resolution calling for greater co-operation. Decisions on other matters, such as the rearmament of Germany, likely will be left for a meeting of the council in Rome in December.

The importance of the meetings here is attested by the strength of the delegations being sent by the member nations, accompanied by many well-known military figures.

Dean Secretary Acheson will head the United States delegation. Also coming from Washington is Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the United States chiefs of staff, and representing the standing group of N.A.T.O., the top military branch of the organization.

The United Kingdom is sending Hugh Gaitskell, chancellor of exchequer, and several leading military men.

Robert Schuman, France's foreign minister will head the French delegation. He will be seeking help for Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi, Italy's foreign minister coming is M. P. Dupong of Luxembourg.

Belgium, Denmark, Ireland, The Netherlands, and Norway picked their foreign ministers to head their delegations. The top delegate from Portugal is Dr. Antonio De Oliveira Leite, minister for the presidency and deputy prime minister.

Premier Yoshida Hints Opposition To Arming Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 14 (AP) —Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, the cigar-smoking statesman who guided Japan along the road to independence told his people today he will refuse to rearm this country.

The 72-year-old Yoshida's stand was revealed in some quarters as indicating that he would step out of office as soon as the United States-Japanese security pact becomes law.

He instructed his countrymen to keep faith with the western world.

Yoshida made his remarks at a press conference only three hours after he returned from San Francisco, where he and Japan once again take its place among the countries of the world.

Asked whether he would have to rearm after the security pact goes into effect, Yoshida answered in almost inaudible tones.

An Associated Press Japanese reporter said he heard Yoshida say:

"That's up to Japan. But as far as I am concerned I won't carry it (the rearmament program) out."

The Japanese news agency Kyodo quoted Yoshida as saying, "I am not thinking to rearm."

Czechs Unhappy Over West's Ban On Aviation

Say Air Traffic Completely Thwarted

London, Sept. 14 (Reuters)—Czechoslovakia today accused the United States, Britain and France of "discriminatory and arbitrary action" against Czech aviation in western Europe.

Jack Pelikan, Czech delegate to the International Air Transport Association conference here, said the three countries had acted "further discrimination" in 1951, in manner "which plainly manifests the intention of completely frustrating Czech air traffic to western Europe."

He said the banning of all Czech airline services over western Germany by the Allied high commission, the mSept. 10 prevented flights to Paris, Brussels and Amsterdam.

"This means four air connections with western Europe have been cut off," he said. He added the action would have a disastrous influence on the development of air transport between central and west Europe.

He said the action was dictated by the U.S. of "exploiting their influence on other countries, especially those under military occupation in western Germany and Britain and France." He said that the latter, often against their own interests, should exercise a "greater degree of caution against Czechoslovakia and its air transport."

He said that last November American occupation authorities prohibited flights between Prague and Zurich and Prague and Rome, and continued:

"Since April 1951, the American occupation authorities, together with the French and British, have acted toward the traffic of the Czechoslovak Airlines in a manner which is contrary to all usages in international air transport, and which plainly manifests their intention completely thwarting Czech air traffic to western Europe."

He said Britain had previously stopped air transport between Prague and Berlin, and on Sept. 10, the occupation authorities withdrew permission for the Czechoslovak Air Lines, Prague and Amsterdam air routes.

"The only grave grievous to this" he said, "the French authorities announced that permission would be withdrawn from Czech aircraft to fly over the French zone of the occupied Germany;" thus completely cutting all transport between Czechoslovakia and France of July 27, 1946.

France Eaters Scene

Paris, Sept. 14. (AP)—France today announced all air traffic with Czechoslovakia, a foreign ministry spokesman said today.

The decision has been placed on the suspension, which became effective yesterday.

The spokesman explained that since Czechoslovakia airline pilots owned by communist ground fire. For the first time in six days there were no reports of jet battles.

The U.N. foot troops captured a mountain peak on the eastern front after getting reports that the foe was fleeing.

But die-hard north Koreans repulsed a U.N. attack on another mountain to the west.

Towering Peak Captured After Stiff Battle

Tokyo Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 14 (CP)—United Nations infantrymen today weathered a towering hot shell-and-mortar-resisting communists north of Kumsong in the bloody "battle of the hills" ground on in eastern Korea.

On the other end of the peninsula, six Russian-type T-34 tanks and two self-propelled guns were spotted south of Yongchon. They were immediately attacked by U.N. artillery, mortar and tank fire.

An Allied briefing officer said they were dug in, and apparently destroyed by the defenders of Kumsong by the reds.

In the air war, Allied planes roared through Korean skies on close-support missions for the U.N. ground troops battling those red supply lines.

One marine Corsair fighter was downed by communist ground fire. For the first time in six days there were no reports of jet battles.

West Germany In Defence Lineup Aim of Big Three

Foreign Ministers Discuss European Defence Problems

Washington, Sept. 14. (AP)—The big three foreign ministers said today negotiations will be pressed "as rapidly as possible" to bring West Germany into the European defence lineup.

The big three—the United States, Britain and France—also announced a decision to make a "new and resolute effort" to reach an agreement with Russia on a final post-war settlement with Austria.

Five-Day Conference

A communique, issued near the close of a five-day conference, said that Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France "found solid grounds for confidence in the growing strength and unity of the free world."

They announced "sympathy" for Italy's proposal to revise its peace treaty setting a maximum of 200,000 men for Italian armed forces and said "this question will be the subject of further conversations between the interested powers."

The Big Three said they have agreed on instructions to the high commissioners for West Germany on negotiating a peace contract with the West German republic.

The guiding principle of western policy "continues to be the integration of the federal republic on a basis of equality within a European community."

Find Lost Boy, 3, With 15-Year-Old Girl in Auto

Hamilton, Sept. 14—(CP)—A 15-year-old girl has been picked up by police and charged in connection with the 36-hour disappearance of three-year-old Danny Schultz from his north-end home. Police Chief A. J. Chamberlain said she will appear in juvenile court on a charge of being an incorrigible.

The break came in the case minutes after Mayor Lloyd Jackson had called for a city-wide search by police and volunteers for the boy.

The girl told police that she had met the boy near his home around noon yesterday — three hours after he had been put out in the back yard to play by his mother.

Police said that she took him to a corner store to buy some candy. In the store she walked with him to Van Wagner's beach, leaving there around 10 o'clock last night to find an unlocked car parked in a service station in the vicinity of the beach. There they spent the night together.

This morning the girl started to walk back to the beach with the youngster to wash. On the journey, they were spotted by Constables William Allen and Arthur Owens and picked up.

The officers took the young boy to his mother, Mrs. Agnes Schultz, foot, and delivered the girl to Central Police station where Det.-Sgt. Stanley Gaylord questioned her.

Frost to Seek Alberta Oil, Gas For Ontario Use

Toronto, Sept. 13—(CP)—Premier Frost announced today that the Ontario government is sending a geologist to Edmonton in getting natural gas and oil from Alberta.

Mr. Frost's announcement came after a conference between Ontario and Alberta officials.

His statement said in part:

"Ontario is interested in getting natural gas and oil from Alberta, . . .

"Ontario consumes more than 135,000 homes as well as hundreds of industries, . . . which are natural gas consumers. If the gas can be serviced from Alberta it would be one of the important effects in northern Ontario.

"It could be done by all-Canadian pipeline and there would be no reason why oil might not be brought to the lakehead and there refined for Canadian use.

Older Workers Less Likely to Have Accidents Than the Younger Ones

St. Louis, Sept. 14—(AP)—Evidence that older workers are less likely to have accidents than younger ones was offered today by three Ohio State University researchers.

Dr. S. L. Pressey and two associates said this was shown in a study of records of a large department store and of an industrial firm. Each have some employees in ages into the 60's.

They told the International Gerontology Congress here that this and other factors demonstrate the fallacy of the idea of workers' in business and industry.

They said their surveys show that the average age of seventy-per 100 employees is "less in the older group and most in the younger."

Also, they said, average days of disability increase only slightly with age—from 2.1 days for men over 31 and 3.2 days for workers into 60's.

The researchers offered this profile of the elderly worker;

"As an extra, he is available for part-time work. He is more likely to win promotions. As a factory worker, he appears less likely to be discharged or leave because of dissatisfaction or family circumstances. He is absent less and has a better attitude than the younger.

"He is less likely to have accidents and not much more subject to illness."

They added that while older workers were laid up a little longer when they did, older workers were still only a little more frequently than younger workers in the two years surveyed.

At the same meeting, Doctors Irving Lorge and Jacob Tuckman of Columbia University declared:

"Many reasons have been given to explain the reluctance of employers to hire older workers. It is claimed that older workers are slow, increase production costs, have a higher accident rate, are a poor investment. There is very little evidence to justify these complaints."

Veteran of S.A. Work to Conduct Sunday Services

Major Morgan Flannigan of Toronto will conduct Sunday services at the Salvation Army Citadel. He will be accompanied by Marshall Fry and Corps. Secretary Major Whittingham, both termed "Modern Miracles of Grace."

Senior Major Morgan Flannigan has served for 37 years as an officer of the Salvation Army. He is at present the public relations representative for Toronto and district, which includes 12 counties in mid-Ontario.

Appointments in the Salvation Army have taken Major Flannigan, chiefly in public relations work, to such centres as London, Windsor, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Regina and Edmonton.

The major served as a chaplain with the Canadian army during World War II, and he saw service on the west coast, also in the United Kingdom and on the continent, finishing up in Germany in the Canadian occupational zone.

Of particular local interest is the fact that Major Flannigan was the first civilian aboard the ill fated Noronic, and gave direction to the service the Salvation Army was able to do in connection with this sad happening.

The Ontario Department of Highways will take over the Foxboro-Frankford road, it has been announced by Elmer Sandercock, MPP, for Hastings West.

Decision of the highways department to take over the highway road was made at a recent special meeting of the Hastings county roads and bridge committee which was attended by Hon. George Doucett, Minister of Highways.

Blind Prevention Important Phase Of Institute Work

An ounce of prevention is worth a thousand pounds of cure in the case of threatened blindness, the Canadian Institute of the Blind believes. This is one of the most important phases of the work and in Hastings County, 115 persons have registered for prevention of blindness with three new cases having applied recently.

In addition to this, supplementary aid was necessary for emergency needs of fuel, cash and clothing for twelve blind persons in this locality. Christmas gifts were given to all persons registered. Six children from the county are attending school at Brantford, and one person attended the summer camp at Ancaster. To provide these services as well as rehabilitation, social services and employment. The sum of $4,500 must be raised, and the Institute is appealing for this amount to carry out the work in the city and the county.

The utter helplessness which many feel when they lose their sight is the most devastating effect of blindness. Without the services of the Institute that helplessness would be their lot for life. Through its services, persons who might send a contribution, blind people all over Canada can learn to make the most of the dark world that is their's.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 14 —(CP)— Stock market prices continued steady advance today in early afternoon dealings.

Industrial issues met profit-taking Tuesday after more than two weeks of uninterrupted advance. Recovery began Wednesday and yesterday the exchange's index resumed its record-breaking climb. Prices gained steadily except for a slight hesitation in the final hour.

Trading was again heavy and volume for the first three hours was 2,789,000 shares.

Papers gave the market it's strongest lift. Ten issues traded for gains up to $2.25 while two showed fractional losses. Agriculture and liquors were firm while utilities, constructions, foods, refining oils, banks and miscellaneous industrials turned mixed. Steels, textiles, manufacturing companies, miscellaneous industrials and retail stores weakened.

The western oil index added more than a point to reach another record high. Central-explorers, Davies Petroleum, Highwood, Jupiter, Gridoil, Leduc Consolidated and General Petroleum posted the best gains. Anglo-Canadian, Devon - Leduc and Canadian Collieries slipped moderately.

Base metals were irregular. Consolidated Smelters led the gains with a jump of $3. Castle, Falconbridge, Quebec Copper, Steep Rock and Walte Amulet were strong. Estella, Fenimore Iron, International Nickel, Quemont and United Keno Hill eased.

Senior golds were mixed. Junior issues showed gains and losses in balance. Prospects were trendless and holding companies weakened.

Shriner's Tag Day Helps Do This!

Over 200 crippled and underprivileged children from Belleville and district had a big day recently as guests of Belleville Shriners at the Belleville Fair. Shriners' work among the crippled children is one of the more touching examples of welfare work and many a crippled child has been made to walk again due to costly treatments and equipment being paid for by club members. Above is a shot taken at the fair showing Shriners Clarke T. Rollins, Jack Bush, and Kenneth Vivian with their charges of the day. To assist the Shrine Club in carrying on its work among the crippled children a tag day is being held Saturday — be generous.

Recruit Germans When European Army is Formed

Paris, Sept. 14 — (AP)— The French foreign ministry said today recruiting of Germans for western defense will begin only when the framework of a European army has been established. It said that under no circumstances can there be even the nucleus of a German national army.

The foreign ministry issued the statement in denying a report in the newspaper Figaro that Foreign Minister Robert Schuman had consented to the immediate raising of German contingents under the authority of the Atlantic organization.

A government spokesman at first told a reporter Figaro's report from Washington was correct. But a few minutes later he telephoned to say the information was wrong and the foreign ministry would issue an official denial.

A ministry statement said "the recruiting of German personnel will not begin only when the organs of the European defence community begin operation, and at no other time."

By "the European defence community" the statement referred to Premier Rene Pleven's plan for a unified western European army in which Italians, Germans, French, Belgians and Luxembourgers would be united in a single military organization. The army would be under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Toronto, Sept. 14 (CP) —Two cats and a dog which died in suburban Leaside from poisoning during the last two days are believed to have become infected when they attacked dying rats. Expects to Win If Car Can Get Enough Water

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 14 (AP)—If he can get enough water Jack Brause expects to win the battle of the ancient suites.

Rube De Launty and his 1911 Stoddard-Dayton came in at the end of a tow rope.

De Launty said the rain had conked out his motor.

Brause, who picked up a lead of an hour and 45 minutes between Cleveland and Buffalo, said his only trouble was getting enough water.

The first thing he did when he arrived in Buffalo was to load up with 40 gallons.

De Launty and Brause are automotive experts who work for the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

"HOT" AND "COLD"

It is an open secret that the so-called "cold" war has been warmed up considerably in the last few years but how far the defrosting has gone depends on your state of pessimism. Some contend that there has never been a cessation of hostilities while authorities just as accessible to the founts of official information have predicted that there cannot be another war "because Russia doesn't want one and neither do we."

However, developments during the last few months would seem to indicate that the ice pan under the "cold" war is beginning to slop over. The Korean stalemate and the Russian bluff for peace has been called and General Van Fleet is even daring the Chinese to come on and make a fight of it. President Truman publicly scolded the Czech ambassador to the United States and demanded action on the release of imprisoned correspondent William Oatis. Czech planes have been advised that the Allied occupied area of Germany is out of bounds and that henceforth will be closed to navigation.

Closer to home, Canadian military officials have been hosts to all the top brass from the United States who somehow found Canada a "restful vacation spot" this year. Other prominent visitors have included just-retired, U.S. Secretary of Defence, George C. Marshall. The Canadian government announced this week that an order has been let to a Toronto firm for the production of 200 air raid warning sirens, and it is known that the Canadian and American governments are jointly ringing the Arctic frontier with a net of radar stations.

The United States Congress, which only 18 months ago turned down an Air Force request for 72 groups, has now, unanimously, approved a 96 group air force and given the air-minded militarists almost fifty per cent of defence appropriations. Canada is shipping her 27th Brigade to Europe this autumn, and already has equipped three foreign divisions abroad, one each in Italy, Greece, and Holland.

The swelling volume of air force activity in the Belleville area indicates that the strength of the RCAF is being built up and that considerable flying time is being logged.

Standardization of the lowly, but essential carbine, is being pushed with Britain, Belgium, and the United States each advocating their own calibre.

And now, Mr. Lester B. Pearson, Honorable Milton Gregg, has called for "national registration" along lines established in the late, lamented, conflict.

It would seem obvious that such a total of well directed activity must be for some purpose and the only conclusion available is quite obvious. If the obvious is true, then it might behoove the people to alert themselves for the coming struggle. The "cold" war is past. Let us begin to shore up our spiritual, moral, and mental reserves, before all the refrigeration of the "cold" war is gone and the perishable goods of freedom are threatened.

TORTURED TOOTSIES

(Sudbury Daily Star)

Punishment applied to the collective lower bottom of the shoe industry might be the means of eliminating the atrocities that are offered to women in the name of style.

The accepted definition of a shoe is "a covering for the human foot," but some of the creations put out by the industry (at nearly $20 a pair) cover very little of the foot, and in fact seem designed to separate the toes from the heel as far as practicable from the human anatomy.

Women who wear these pieces of misshaped leather do not hesitate to admit the torture they cause, nor do they hesitate to furtively slip them off their feet in the subdued light of the theatre, or under the concealing cover of a table cloth.

Evolutionists claim that the horse originally had five toes, but as their method of walking changed they had less use for five toes, and their feet evolved into a horn-encased hoof.

We don't know how many thousands of years will elapse before the female of the human species walks around on a hoofed foot, but Nature certainly never intended human feet to perform the "step and still" contortions that are required when wearing some of the so-called modern shoes.

The effect of unnatural walking on the internal system is a subject frequently discussed by members of the medical profession, but suffice for us to say that we hope the extreme is never reached where a corkscrew replaces the familiar "shoe horn."

VAST TRIBUTARY

The Missouri River, largest tributary of the Mississippi, is itself 3,047 miles long and 3,000 feet broad at its mouth.

A survey in the States reveals that the life of a motor car has been doubled in the past 25 years. If the same could only be said for the drivers!

JUST FOLKS

RABBIT FARE

Last spring I vowed that I would not Feed rabbits any more.
I'd leave them to my neighbor's plot
For green stuff to explore.
No longer would I pay the bills
For tulips, white and red,
And hyacinth and daffodils,
That rabbits might be fed.

With faith in God's sweet sun and rain
I planted beauty rare,
But when the springtime came again
My patch of ground was bare.
Where I had hoped for tulips gay
That should by all be praised,
I learned when came the month of May
'Twas rabbit fur I'd raised.

The autumn catalogs are here
Enticing me to buy,
And now the planting time draws near,
But still in doubt am I.
Should I the old mistake repeat
(Since I'm not one who kills)
Or choose to let the rabbits eat
My neighbor's daffodils?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BLINDED BY LIGHT

We all read some time ago of the, Nazi soldiers who were imprisoned in an underground storehouse through an explosion and how two of them lived there for six years. When they were released, one was blind and incidentent; the other had a heart attack and died as soon as he saw the light.

This is a circumstance so tragic that one writes in-discomfort as he thinks of the agony these men endured. But we cannot help reflecting on the fact that the man who had a heart attack when he saw the light was not the first person who has had such an experience. Many of us have been ready to drop over dead as soon as we saw the light—that is, as soon as we knew the truth about ourselves or about some friend we trusted, or about a society or institution the validity of which we never doubted.

Sudden exposure to light has a way of causing heart attacks—not medically speaking but psychologically, emotionally, and spiritually speaking. It is an awful experience to come face to face with our own lives and to realize what we really are. To be disillusioned is a terrifying and dreadful experience.

Yet no matter how disillusioned about ourselves and others we may be, let us always remember this: God created man—including ourselves and the people we dislike—in His image and after His likeness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

By a great stroke of fortune, I was given a day's fishing for salmon this week on the Dee, which is the navy river north of the Dee in Aberdeenshire. It was the wrong time of year for salmon. And the weather was terrible. Once an hour, the clouds, egging this old fool on, circus tents over the highlands, let go a deluge of rain. The river started to rise. It changed from crystal clear to an opaque grey.

And then I got fish. I had not seen a salmon, though I had waved the big fly rod hour after hour every pool the local experts indicated to me. So, wet and happy, we went back to the tiny hotel at Glenkindie for supper.

The soup was good Scotch broth and when the next plate was laid before us, it was salmon, garnished with tomatoes and lettuce.

One look at it served to prove that it was not the lovely pink salmon of the Scottish rivers. It had an orange tint.

Here was a fine situation. To be on the banks of a famous Scottish salmon river, and to be eating canned salmon.

My friends were amused.

"A Canadian," they protested, "takes all the salmon but the best boats in the Strathdon, and then is given tinned Canadian salmon for supper!"

I doubted the look of it. We asked the glum and unamused Scottish waitress to bring in the salmon tin from the kitchen.

Which seems to me a bigger insult than ever.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOOD

Goodness permeates all life. The ideal of the mother for her boy is that he should always be a good boy. It is declared in the Bible of Oliver Cromwell is written this sentence: "He who ceases to be good, ceases to be good." And this is what Thoreau once wrote: "Goodness is the only investment which never fails."

One of the significant lines in the New Testament about Christ is that one that "He went about doing good". So outstanding were the deeds of goodness that distinguished William E. Stead, the noted English writer and editor, that Sir Robert Hudson described to him as "that good man Stead."

We have policemen in our cities to try and keep people good rather than bad, but goodness is something that is inherent in the man or woman. It's planted there at birth. We early learn the distinction between good and bad being bad. We are happy when we have done good and unhappy when we have been bad.

"Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you" is as Golden a rule today as ever, and one that assures goodness to all concerned. Goodness is a combination of kindness, consideration for the rights of others, patience, tolerance, and an abiding faith in the goodness of God and of our fellowman.

Boerwell, in his life of Dr. Johnson, quotes Johnson as saying after a very happy evening, of conversation, "We had good talk." You can imagine that that talk was on a high standard, instructive, enlivening, and profitable.

Being good is a static condition. Doing good is stepping ahead, achieving, and setting an example. It is well that we are conscious of the good we do, or that we do, unconsciously. Good is something we distribute, and which is a part of what we are, so that we scatter ourselves.

McCallum Calls Phillips' Claims Selfish Criticism

Toronto, Sept. 14. (CP)—Mayor Hiram McCallum Thursday night said that Alderman Nathan Phillips' criticism of amalgamation was a selfish criticism and had acted without sufficient information and regard to effects of amalgamation on the people in the city. Mr. Phillips, a mayoralty candidate, said council was handling the subway without having directed to do so by the citizens.

Mayor McCallum said Premier Frost initiated the move toward amalgamation of the Metropolitan 11 of whom oppose it. The premier Mr. McCallum said, called the mayors of the Metropolitan to Queen's Park and asked them to seek a solution to a problem which "was being aggravated by the exceptional growth of the metropolitan area."

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed. Mix

TONSILS LARGE AND SMALL

It has been too long since I edse) and this time it will probably be worse.

The boys had still holds out against the operation and asserts that I advise not to take the tonsils out under any circumstances.

Mother says it is driving her crazy and begs me to write an article stating that infected tonsils are no good so that her husband can read it and come to his senses.

I shall not.

Let father remain conservative. Let mother go crazy. Let the doctor gnash his teeth and call me names. I am concerned only about the welfare of the boy.

It is the first place, the notion that the nephritis was caused by the "poison" given off (into the blood stream) by the infected tonsils is wholly theoretical. It has not been proved that kidney inflammation is so produced.

In the next place, the probability that the boy will have a recurrence of the nephritis if the tonsils are not removed is no greater than the probability that the boy will die on the operating table or, possibly later if he is subjected to tonsillectomy.

Besides there is a safe alternative for tonsillectomy available in enlightened communities—in fact, the only treatment I would consider if I had infected tonsils and my doctor were of the opinion that removal, eradication, disinfection, sterilization, draining or cauterization of the septic focus was necessary. This safe alternative for the dangerous, but also fatal operation which is still popular among the ever-ready operators in backward communities, is a scientific, rational, sensible procedure called the non-radical, antrocious blind rule-of-thumb treatment of infected tonsils.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Plantar Warts

My chiropodist began by using the shaving method plus mild drugs. Then changed to using nitric acid. This caused a good deal of discomfort but finally cured the warts on the soles. Not until after the treatment was completed did I learn that they had told of removal of warts by X-ray treatment, and quick cures with no discomfort. (Mr.)

Dr. has cured plantar warts for both my son-in-law and my son, and in several other instances of which I know where people consulted him through your suggestion. He gives one shot of some kind of bacterial vaccine, I believe, and that's it. The warts go away and stay away.

Answer—Then you, Warts is on the way out. Hence one sometimes pretty painful and hard to cure. Any treatment does not always succeed. Neither does one of more injection, although both methods seem to bring about disappearance of the warts in many instances. We must remember old A. J. Coincidence. Announces Simple Method to Detect Hidden Cancer

Chicago, Sept. 13 (AP)—A specialist said today a "revolutionary method" has been devised for detecting hidden cancer as much as five to seven years before it reaches the large tumor stage or causes suspicious symptoms.

When internal cancer advances to the stage of causing distress, only a small percentage of sufferers can be saved from death.

The detection of this dangerous visual cancer is done by cytology. This is a method where scrapings of other areas of the body are scraped or swabbed, and the surface cells obtained are examined under a microscope.

Dr. J. Ernest Ayre of Miami, Fla., director of the cancer cytology centre there, said the procedure is so simple and painless that every doctor's office can become a cancer-detection centre.

In a paper to the annual assembly of the United States and Canadian chapters of the International College of Surgeons, he said:

"Cancer of the uterus, cancer of the lung, cancer of the prostate, cancer of the larynx and throat and other forms can be diagnosed with great accuracy by using the cytology test.

"In cancer of the cervix and lungs, cytology offers earlier diagnosis than any other known method.

Bank of Nova Scotia Review Recalls When Money Scarce

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

If you walked into a bank today and asked it to change $5, you would be rather surprised if the bank said:

"Sorry, we are out of change."

Yet, 100 years ago or so, such a reply would not have been surprising.

For one of the problems of the time, for banks and business was to get hold of enough bills and coins to carry on day-to-day transactions. All sorts of strange coins, including doubloons and Spanish dollars, crossed the counters in an attempt to meet the shortage. Banks, while sharing the problem could at least alleviate it by providing a common place for valuation and exchange.

This situation is recalled in the current monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which tells about the beginnings of the institution in 1832, as a sort of forerunner to the opening in Toronto Sept. 25 of the bank's new 25-storey executive office building.

One of the problems of getting started all, even though the necessary capital has been subscribed, was to get enough notes and specie; though they were obtained in time from New York.

And, in the early years, the agents at Pictou wrote to head office at Halifax, 100 miles distant, to say:

"Gather All Sterling

"Gather all the sterling money you can for me and I will make the person going down with a sled call for it as soon as sleighing is good. Change is so scarce I find you never have sent enough of it here, for which you have suffered more severely than you are aware."

The review comments:

"This problem, of course, was that of all young and expanding colonies—the heavy import needs which tended to drain off cash as rapidly as it was earned—but it was complicated in Nova Scotia by the bewildering array of gold and silver coins of different weights, fineness, and degree of baseness."

Incidentally, this shortage of a suitable medium of exchange, to which the review draws attention, is considered by many to have been a major factor, down through the ages, in the slow increase in the distribution of goods and consequently for the slow increase in standards of living.

Only in recent years do we seem to have got the problem under control, at least in our internal problems—where central authorities see that there is enough money in circulation to allow transaction of that country's business. We still have a way to go in an international sense.

Inscription in Lobby

The review prints the inscription which appears in the lobby of the new executive office building, which reads:

"The Bank of Nova Scotia, erected in 1951 and dedicated to the men of vision and integrity who in the year 1832 founded this bank in the city of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and to those who throughout the years have guided its destiny, served it faithfully and nurtured its growth westward to the Pacific, northward to the frontier outposts and south to the islands of the Caribbean."

The bank's charter was closely modelled on that of the Bank of New Brunswick, established in 1820, and which was amalgamated with the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1913.

It remained within the Maritimes until the 1880's, when a branch opened in Winnipeg in response to the lure of the "north-west." But, from the first, due to far-flung maritime shipping enterprises, letters and advices flowed in from New York, Boston, London, Liverpool, Jamaica, Barbados, Martinique, Bahia, Pernambuco, "Demerary," Leghorn and Naples.

And, despite Canada-wide expansion, the review says:

"Still, in a very real sense, Halifax is its 'home-town,' just as the home towns of many of its officers, though they may be stationed as far away as Vancouver, San Juan, London or New York, are the cities, towns and country areas of the Maritimes."

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED

Brantford, Sept. 14 (CP)—A police car going 85 miles an hour couldn't overtake racing motorcyclists Burwell Durham and his brother Roy. "Speed like that is suicide," commented Crown Attorney C. C. Slemin, as Magistrate R. J. Gillen fined the brothers $50 apiece.

Theatre Guild Members Hear Drama Adviser

Plans laid at two preliminary meetings during the summer bore fruit recently as the newly-formed Belleville Theatre Guild held its first regular meeting in the chapel of Albert College. An air of excitement pervaded the whole gathering for many of the members were seeing realized for the first time a dream of many years standing. It is the hope of the founders of this movement are in any way fulfilled this city will take its place alongside Ottawa, London and many other centres in the struggle to give to the legitimate stage its rightful place in Canadian life.

President Presides

Guild president Mrs. W. J. Doyle wasted very little time before introducing the speaker of the evening, Mr. Edgar Stone, drama adviser to the Community Programs Branch of the Ontario Department of Education, who took as his subject "Drama as Recreation". Mr. Stone, who has had a long and distinguished career in the theatre world, gave a most interesting and stimulating address, interspersed with many amusing reminiscences, all of which gave his audience considerable food for thought, as well as encouragement in the new project they had undertaken.

He soon made his listeners realize that the study of the drama in all its phases is an extension of one's education. It develops self-expression, gives pleasure to others and opens a new vista to the individual. He reminded the members that they were joining a theatre guild for the pleasure that was in it and urged them not to take it too seriously. He made it very clear that in a dramatic club all are the same level—there are no stars. At the end of his talk Mr. Stone kindly consented to answer questions and members drew on his fund of experience to guide them during the coming year. The thanks of the meeting was expressed by the president.

To Meet Regularly

In her introductory remarks Mrs. Doyle reminded the members that regular meetings will take place on the second and fourth Tuesdays at which under the guidance of Mrs. W. Jardine a full program of instruction in all phases of the theatre will be presented. In addition it is proposed to have an "Invitation Night" early in the new year, at which three one-act plays will be presented. A play selection committee was named and at the next meeting the three plays chosen will be read. Casting for these plays will be undertaken at a subsequent meeting of the Guild.

Ever Heard of the Animal Farmer?

During the fall, the western pika cures grass into hay before storing it.

Unlike most other animals, the pika carefully gathers grasses and spreads them to dry in the warm autumn sunshine. When they are fully cured, he stores them in a dry, easily accessible place for winter feeding.

Nature has its oddities. This series of advertisements is designed to acquaint you with some of these unusual features.

Robbins, of Belleville. The Rev. J. G. Hornby officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Harry Deacon, and the soloist, Mr. John Deacon, sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Robbins when she and her husband, Mr. Robbins, represented Toronto at the coronation of King George VI. She carried a cascade bouquet of Starlight roses with mauline, stephanotis and adiantum.

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE W. M. S.

On Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors, the monthly service of the Tabernacle United Church afternoon auxiliary of the W. M. S. was conducted by Mrs. F. R. Harback.

A reading from the Scripture lesson of 1st Corinthians 13 was given between each stanza of the opening hymn particularly in love and corresponding to the theme which was "Giving out love and only love," read by Mrs. Harback, from Dr. E. Stanley Jones' book, "The Way to Power and Poise."

The choice thought for the day were "With love, anywhere will be heaven." Silent prayer for the missionaries at home and abroad, was offered. Mrs. F. Izard brought news of the Chinese missionary work in Canada, saying that "in 1950 some 1714 Chinese came to Canada. In many cases wives were re-united with their husbands and homes were established; young men came to fathers and to brothers, and young women came to Chinese Canadian homes. There is a challenge before us as these Chinese people become one of our own."

Mrs. A. H. Fisher read of the Japanese Canadian work as well as the work of the year as the W.M.S. missionary sees it. Reports were also read and that 64 calls had been made during the holidays, was reported by Mrs. G. F. Lent. Plans were made for a thank-offering meeting to be held in October.

A hearty welcome was extended to Mrs. M. P. Duff, who was present and presided at the piano.

Women's Institute

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

The September meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Will Hanna with over 30 members and visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Don Donohoe conducted the opening exercises and Mrs. J. L. Donohoe read the correspondence which included a letter from Stirling Fair Board explaining why our tender was not accepted The October meeting will be Mrs. Percy MacMullen. Mrs. Clarence Bulmer, Mayor of Quinte W.I., will give "Highlights from the Guelph Conference".

Home Economics

The program was arranged by Mrs. Stanley Irven on "Home Economics" and her assistant, Mrs. Allan McDonnell, presided. She gave a few remarks taken from a previous report of Mrs. Moore, of Belleville area, based on the theme, "What Home Economics is to Ourselves at Home".

She also read an appropriate poem by Grace Nowell Crowell, entitled "As long as there are homes where men turn at close of day and where children and women stay".

Mrs. McDonnell said "Home Economics" is ourselves at home. It is the wife and mother in the home doing all that she possibly can to make the family healthy, congenial with each other and always satisfied in the thought and care that goes into the making of that home.

Institute members must also study the needs of their own community and suit their program to meet those needs. Each meeting must be interesting, educational and varied.

The members must be active and up-to-date. Non-members should be encouraged to attend the meetings and assist wherever possible. We should never forget our new Canadians, they may not speak our language but they will appreciate kindness. Many of them are skilled women and we may learn much from them.

Mrs. George Heasman led in the rendition of "Home Sweet Home".

Mrs. Jack Donohoe read a poem entitled "The Shiftless Man" by Edith Mosher.

ACCEPTS RESIGNATION

Washington, Sept. 14 (AP)—President Truman yesterday accepted the resignation of Irving Florman as ambassador to Bolivia.

Canadian Girl Cannot Resist Lure of Stage

London, Sept. 14. (CP)—Back in London for the first time in 14 years, Canadian actress Frances Doble, has fallen once more for the spell of backstage life and the smell of grease paint.

"I had absolutely no intention of returning to the stage when I landed here," she said in an interview, "but this part sold itself to me."

Miss Doble left her mother's home in Montreal late July and travelled 13 days by cargo boat to get to her son's 21st birthday party.

She had scarcely set foot in Britain, however, before the lure of the English stage reached out once more.

It was here that she made her name in the 1920s and 1930s, playing with such distinguished artists as Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Toronto-born Raymond Massey, Sir Seymour Hicks, Ivor Novello and Edith Evans.

Now she's making a comeback in what is said to be one of the most dramatic parts of her stage career. This is in a melodrama called "No Strings" which opens Sept. 20 in one of London's "Little Theatre groups", the new Lindsay theatre, Notting Hill Gate.

"It's really thrilling to be back", said the dark-haired, intense Miss Doble in an interview.

As the dramatic lead in "No Strings" she comes in for some rough handling. One of her problems at rehearsal has been how to simulate being knocked out without raising too many bruises.

It was not long before she learned that she still has the stage in her blood. Now she plans to stay in the theatre if she can get parts to suit her personality.

Since her last spell in London, Miss Doble has had a varied career. In 1940, she got out of Paris one jump ahead of the Germans after making anti-Nazi broadcasts. She then spent nearly two years in California writing news broadcasts for relay to Burma. She has just finished a historical novel and has started on a romance involving one of Canada's oldest French houses—Beleury, at Ste. Therese, near Montreal.

She spent much time in Spain during the Civil War and hopes that her stage work will leave her time to write a Spanish romance.

Miss Doble was married in 1929 to Sir Anthony Lindsay-Hogg. They were divorced in 1934. Their son, William, is a lieutenant in the Royal Army.

CROPS OFF THREE FINGERS

North Bay, Sept. 13—(CP)—A railway handcar and an airplane were used to take three-year-old Morris Devost to hospital yesterday after he chopped three fingers from his left hand while playing with an ax.

The accident occurred in a lumber camp, 31 miles north of here, owned and operated by his father, R. Devost.

The child's condition today was reported "very good" by hospital authorities.

Toboggan slides for pigeons

When we put an aluminum roof on our Kingston, Ont. plant, we knew it would have many advantages for the people inside; but, frankly, we did not consider the pigeon population outside. They landed on the shining surface . . . slid . . . liked the sensation . . . made it a pastime.

Providing toboggan slides for pigeons is no part of our programme. However, the aluminum roofs which now dot the countryside do illustrate the rapidly growing demand for aluminum. To match growing markets like this, we are building new plants and powerhouses in Quebec and British Columbia. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd (Alcan).

Several Listed As Witnesses Leave Hearing

Whitby, Sept. 14—(CP)—Several persons listed as witnesses at a police commission inquiry into the police force were called during Thursday's opening hearing because the commission refused to let the complainants' lawyers take part.

The inquiry was adjourned late Thursday until today after some of the complainants refused to testify. Judge J. F. MacRae, commission chairman, called the adjournment "so that there will be no indication that we are trying to cut this short."

He had said earlier:

"I don't think we need the services of solicitors at this time in any shape or form. Commission members will help witnesses to make themselves understood."

Constable Bruce Killen testified that Chief Ron Love reduced a charge of speeding at 70 miles an hour to one of going 40 miles an hour. The constable said the change was made at the request of Cpl. Jack Scott of the provincial police, "a friend" of the accused person.

Took Bicycle Away

Another officer, Constable Robert Crozier, told of being on foot patrol one night last year with Sgt. M. Banks when they passed a bicycle leaning against a wall. Crozier and Banks pointed at the bicycle, said it would just fit his little girl, and rode away with it.

"Two weeks later, the chief called me to his home and told me the owner of the bike had found it at Banks' home in Pickering," Crozier said. "Nothing more was done about it."

Crozier was dismissed from the force several months ago and then reinstated.

Banks gave the commission this explanation of the bicycle incident:

"My granddaughter was staying with me and I said to Crozier that I would like an old bike so she could learn to ride. He said he might be able to arrange it.

"Shortly after midnight he told me there was a bicycle leaning against the iron railing of the library. It couldn't be ridden. I got the bike from Crozier. I was most surprised when Don Bryant later told me it was his girl's bicycle."

STEPS UP PRODUCTION

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 14.—(AP)— The Swedish newspaper Tidningen reports that Russia is stepping up atomic-bomb production by working a dozen uranium mines in Polish Lower Silesia, and shipping the ore to Russia by express.

St. Laurent Says Preparation Only Way to Deter Aggressor

Toronto, Sept. 14 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said last night that nations would have to be more willing than they now are to acknowledge common obligations before law could take the place of war.

He told the Canadian Bar Association at its annual dinner that the rule of law could only be established by the acceptance through the greater part of the world of common principles to which well-ordered nations should conform.

"But if we are to establish the rule of law among nations," said the prime minister, "we must have sufficient force to uphold the law."

An aggressor who is a world power might be deterred by the sight of powerful forces in the "hands of those who genuinely want peace," said Mr. St. Laurent.

But in the final analysis the deterrent effect of power depended upon the willingness to use it.

Extended Tve Readily

The prime minister felt that the legal process had been extended too rapidly in international affairs.

In forming the North Atlantic alliance, the western nations were following a legal process to which the Soviet Union had agreed in the San Francisco charter.

Everywhere in the free world would feel happier and more secure if the will of the United Nations were followed everywhere in the world, he continued.

Since it was obvious that the surety did not exist, force must be mobilized in support of the will of the United Nations.

The prime minister admitted that the mobilization of force in support of the law was a fragile foundation on which to build a genuine rule of law.

But the United Nations with its constitutional veto was not a sufficient guarantee against aggression.

"There is only one way to restrain an aggressor . . . " he said. "That is by being prepared, if the worst comes to the worst, to use force."

Negro Residents Want to Set Up Vigilante Groups

Johannesburg, Sept. 14 (Reuters)— Driven to action by increasing gangsterism, violence and terror, law-abiding Negro residents of Johannesburg's outlying African townships are seeking official permission to set up vigilante groups.

Already a vigilance committee meets weekly in one group of townships a few miles west of here. Four-man African patrols appointed by this committee nightly walk the streets until dawn.

They search suspicious-looking Africans for weapons and call at illicit drinking dens to see that no drink is sold to young persons.

The committee keeps the township clear of known criminals by punishing Africans who harbor them.

Families which harbor a criminal are ejected from their homes and boycotted by the community —a punishment more feared than imprisonment.

The committee has also ordered all women and children to be off the streets by 8 p.m.

In the nearby township of Moroka, a similar movement is brewing. The ward committee is seeking permission to form its own corps of vigilantes.

"If a vigilante guard of our own is formed, we should not be afraid to name criminals and hand them over to the police," said one member of the committee. "At the moment we have no protection against reprisals by thugs if we name them."

Welfare workers, African and white, see the breakdown of African family life as the main cause of the terrifying crime wave among city Africans.

In their own rural environment, African children are rigidly disciplined. But in the towns it is usual for both parents to work, and thousands of children run wild in the appalling slums.

They form bands of "Tsotsis," a word once associated with youth and high spirits but today denoting criminal associations.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON OF THE WEEK

Let's Shake Hands with God's Friends

By ROY L. SMITH

Church quarrels and religious differences are not something new. They have appeared in the Christian church within five years after it got under way, and some serious splits were averted during that first half century by the Christians agreeing to work together in spite of their differences.

Gentiles Once a Problem

Christianity started out as a movement inside Judaism. All the Christians were Jews who obeyed all the Jewish ceremonial laws and rites.

Then Gentiles, moved by the story of the life, teachings, and person of Jesus of Nazareth, began knocking at the door of the church seeking membership. Everybody was in favor of admitting them, but the strict Jewish believers among the Christians insisted that they must first become Jews in order to be Christians.

This is an easily understood concern. Those Jewish Christians had been trained all their lives to believe that God was going to save the world through the agency of the Jewish nation. It was for this very purpose that the Jews had been preserved through all the centuries. Now, if all the ceremonial purity and "holiness" of the Jew, which had been achieved at such a cost, was to be tossed lightly aside, where would this "liberality" end? Surely, they said, it is not asking much that the Gentiles should become Jews.

Antioch, the Hot Spot

In the Asia Minor city of Antioch the church had filled up with Gentiles. The new converts were living highly respectable lives, and in all practical matters they were a credit to the church. But visitors from Jerusalem had reported back to the mother church that they had not submitted to the Jewish rites. The Jerusalem Jewish Christians wanted to welcome them into the fellowship, but how could they surrender their life-long convictions to do so?

But the issue had to be met in Antioch. If it were allowed to go by default there, it would soon appear—perhaps in a virulent form—in half a hundred other places over the earth. The solution that worked out for Antioch must be one that could be applied universally.

Each Conceded Something

In the conference held in Jerusalem, at which Antioch was well represented, a settlement of the problem was worked out on the basis of concessions on the part of all parties.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 16:

"The Larger Fellowship of Christians", Luke 9:49-50; Acts 11:23-30; 15:1-35;; I Corinthians 1:10-13; II Corinthians 9:1-15; Philippians 1:15-18.

The Jews agreed that they would not insist upon obedience to the ceremonial law, and the Antiochians agreed that they would adhere to an abstemious and strict manner of life, completely aloof from the paganism with which they were surrounded.

One has the feeling, as he reads the story of this Christian solution of an age-old problem, that the same spirit applied to the life of the modern church would save a vast amount of divisiveness which is the shameful sin of the Christian world.

Narrow Roads, Longer Snakes

Two friends became engaged in a violent argument one day over rattle snakes. One of them declared that he had killed many a snake that stretched clear across the road. The other loudly declared that rattle snakes did not grow that long. Then it developed that the short-snake disputant was thinking of the prairie rattlers and the wide wagon roads of the west, while the other was thinking of narrow roads through the logging camps and the long rattlers of the woods. As one man lengthened his idea of a snake and the other widened his idea of a road, they gradually began coming together.

There could be a great coming together of Christians if all were willing to concede a little, change concepts a little, and be content with emphasizing the great major fact of Christlikeness in daily living.

REDUCTION IN REVENUE

Sarnia, Sept. 14—(CP)—J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Lambton West said Thursday that an increase in cigaret taxes has brought about a reduction in revenue on cigaret taxation.

In a telegram to the flue-cured tobacco marketing board he said revenue from cigaret taxes for May June, 1951 was 13 per cent lower than for the same period in 1950. Taxes in 1950 were 21½ cents a package of 20; in 1951 taxes were raised to 24½ cents a package.

HANDICAPPING CONSTRUCTION

St. Thomas, Sept. 14 (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett said Thursday that the steel shortage is handicapping highway construction projects, including the four - lane super highway planned across western Ontario.

Making his annual visit to Elgin county court house to discuss road problems with county officials, Mr. Doucett said that his department could obtain much of the steel it needed by paying "six to four times the standard price.

"But we don't feel justified in doing that," he said.

MARMORA

Work of Blind Institute Outlined by Sec. Timmins

Marmora—The work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was outlined to the Marmora Women's Institute at their well attended meeting on Sept. 5, by the secretary, Mr. H. W. Sabine on Tuesday evening by P. L. Timmins, C.N.I.B. secretary.

Congratulating the local organization on its many successful activities, he said it was a privilege to speak to any branch of the W.I. because it is a public spirited organization. The C.N.I.B. is a charitable and a private philanthropic agency with two main services for the blind—that of rehabilitation, and that of amelioration.

Big Program

It constituted a big program as there are 18,000 blind people in Canada. Newfoundland's division of that work is the oldest, being in force before Confederation. There are 123 persons coming within the limitation of the National Institute in Hastings County.

The organization he represented was interested in the blind from the cradle to the grave. The number of blind babies in Canada is increasing and the Institute gives guidance to the parents of pre-school blind children. Naturally the blind child develops more slowly, than the sighted child.

Mr. Timmins pointed out that the Ontario School for the Blind at Brantford is run by the government. The Institute provides clothing for those attending there, which is essential, it is being a boarding school. The field for life work for the blind is still strictly limited but it is broader than before so the Institute has a program of Employment service.

Opportunities For Blind

Since World War 2 the opportunity is furnished for the blind to fit into various industries to prove what they can do. "More than 1,000 blind persons are working at jobs which we provided or have found" said the speaker. Sixty per cent of the blind, however, are 50 years of age and over and, therefore, they come under the amelioration side of the Institute's work. The teachers get them to think of their four remaining senses. Many blind cannot master the Braille type. Many are now learning to read the Moone type, which is simpler.

Following the talk for which the speaker was heartily thanked, the session decided upon the suggestion of the speaker to hold a house-to-house canvas for funds and a Saturday evening meeting instead of the tag day held in previous years.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Harold F. Nayler in the customary manner. The roll call "Something I Loved About Grandmother," brought some fine response.

Woodlot Contest

The financial statement showed a fine balance on hand. A letter was read from the Department of Lands and Forests calling attention to the woodlot contest which they are holding this month. Three "thank-you" letters were also read by the secretary Mrs. E. Brady, Mrs. E. C. Prentice reported for the Library Improvements Committee in which the I.O.D.E. is working with the W.I. co-jointly.

The members of the Institute were urged to take their part as desired in the two nights show "Going Places" which the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring on September 20 and 21.

It was announced that an afternoon tea and bake sale would be held by the Joint Library Improvements Committee on September 22.

Annual Grant

By motion the annual grant of $75 was again voted to Marmora Public Library. The address of the evening came at this point. At its conclusion Mrs. J. L. Hickey gave a pianoforte solo, preceded by Mrs. Charles Sopha with a well prepared paper on Agriculture and Canadian Industries, and the solo "Home Town" by Mrs. I. R. Rundle.

The committee in charge served refreshments.

Motors Defeat Stewart Warner, Enter Fmals

A six-run rally in the top of the seventh inning put Belleville Motor Car in the lead to stay and they went on to defeat a game, but outplayed, Stewart-Warner nine by a score of 11-8 at the Alemite field last night.

The win gave the Motormen their best of three set in two straight games and entitled them to advance into the finals against Cleaner Combines for the Labatt Trophy.

Loose fielding featured the contest on a very wet and sloppy field and both teams encountered difficulty in going after the ball. No less than 16 errors were made, 10 of these by the Alemites.

Upper Classic Romp

Stewart-Warner broke fast from the wire with four big guns in the initial frame. Doyle started things rolling with a bloop single over the pitcher's head and moved to second on a sacrifice. Dusseberry flied out, but Lewis reached base on an error. Taylor banged out a double to left and Boyd Upper climaxed the scoring with a hit that circled well over the rightfielder's head for a home run.

They added their other tally in the third on a single by Lewis and three consecutive errors by the Motormen.

Belleville Motor Car kept pecking away at the Alemites' head, gathering in a lone counter in the first and fourth and a pair of runs in the third.

Then came the big seventh. Trailing by one run, Semark drove a hit to left and rolled off the field under the cars and before the ball was retrieved, he had crossed the plate. Then three errors, a walk, and a lone hit by Thompson swelled the run total to six before Hatfield fanned to end the frame.

They added one more in the eighth when Semark doubled and scored on a pair of errors. Walsh with a pair of triples, and Semark who hit a double and home run, led the winners at the plate. Thompson, Miller, Hatfield and Bone each picked up a single.

Dusseberry clicked for a pair of doubles in a losing cause. Pipper, who homered, and Taylor with a double picked up the other extra-base hits. Doyle, Lewis, and Hammett, who pinch-hit, each connected for a single.

Belleville Motor Car: Thompson cf; Miller ss; Hatfield 3b; Bone c; Semark 2b; Walsh lf; Callaghan 1b; O'Brien rf; Reid p.

Stewart-Warner: Doyle 3b; Page 1bi Dusseberry 2b; Lewis ss; Taylor cf; Upper c; Watson lf; Shaw rf; Drecup p; Hammett replaced Shaw in the 8th; Butcher replaced Drecup in the 8th, Barnum batted for Doyle in the 9th; Tebworth batted for Page in the 9th.

An official of the International Boxing Club said Thursday the I.B.C. plans to investigate the BBC's radio account of Wednesday night's Randy Turpin-Ray Robinson middleweight title fight.

Harry Markson, Manager Director of the I.B.C., said the boxing club had refused permission for the BBC to broadcast a blow-by-blow account of the fight.

The BBC broadcast a round-by-round account of the bout compiled from news agencies reports.

A spokesman for Theatre Network Television, Inc., estimated Thursday that 100,000 persons were turned away Wednesday night from theatres carrying telecasts of the Robinson-Turpin fight.

He said the 14 theatres in 11 cities carrying exclusive telecasts of the championship boxing event, not seen on home TV, had capacity attendance of 45,000. He declined to estimate gross receipts but with most theatres charging at least $2, they probably exceeded $70,000.

Piracy Aboard Hockey Galleon Says Maritimer

(By The Canadian Press)

A spokesman for Sydney Millionaires of the Maritime Major Hockey League said Thursday night "piracy is rearing its head" in the scramble for players for the league's 10 teams.

He made the remark after receiving a letter from an oldtime Sydney player who had been offered "an outlandish sum by a New Brunswick club."

(Moncton Hawks and Saint John Beavers are the two New Brunswick clubs in the six-team league.)

The Sydney spokesman said the salary offers of the club concerned was placing the entire league in jeopardy. He declined to name the team.

He said a complaint would be sent league president J. E. Hudson of Halifax and, if no action was taken, would be carried to the Maritime and Canadian Amateur Hockey Associations.

Red Sox Loom As Flag Threat; Yanks Drop Three In Row; Indians Beaten

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

RECIPROCATION, WOT!

You must at least admit, that when the Redmen take it into their collective noggins to do anything, they do it well. Wednesday night they lambasted the daylights out of a trio of Kingston Disney Leaf hurlers for 12 solid base clouts and an 11-4 victory, and last night they reversed the position and waved futilely at a Leaf hurler's slants while his mates pounded out 13 clouts for an 11-4 win.

* * *

What has developed into a Central Ontario Baseball League cliche, could have been used last night. "You wouldn't think it was the same team," or in this case teams. Wednesday gleaming the Leaflan balloon soared skyward in an eighth innings scene, and last night the Reds cut the moorings on their diamond zeppelin so early as the first inning. In fact some of the pewsiers who braved the threatening weather and parked in the roofless "Coliseum" (with apologies to that venerable ruin), had hardly parked their kits and up their tonsils when the Reds initialled their kits and up it went while four Leafs flattened out across the pay base.

* * *

And so it went (I mean the credit and lots of it must be given to "Babe" Silnson, the Leafs flinger. The "Babe" fashioned a neat four-hitter and was in complete control all through the game. Fourteen patsies sat in the one and one in the outfield tells the story of the futile waving of the Red bludgeons.

* * *

But that water is under the bridge. The Reds go to Kingston tonight and with last night's game and Manager Sandy Mowat doing the flinging, should even the series. The fifth game will also be played in Kingston Saturday and the sixth if necessary, here on Sunday.

* * *

WHITE WINGS AWAY ON SUNDAY

This Mikel Trophy which started out to be an emblem of the yachting championship of the Bay of Quinte but which this year became, indirectly, a race for the champion many times than a diamond championship, and like the proverbial family chicken has come home to roost.

* * *

It seems that the veteran yachtsman Maurice Callaghan held the trophy during its past four dominant years, and promptly lost it when it was challenged for, in a revival of bay sailing this year.

* * *

Now the punt-skippering Callaghan, who won the bauble at a race-meet here three weeks ago, will place the pewterware up for competition on Sunday, when the last leg of the season gets under way.

* * *

The races will be sailed over the same course as that of the previous one starting off the government dock. Three classes, the keel-boats, including punts, International dinghies, and the "small craft" event will vie for honors and trophies which will be formally presented at a special ceremony to be held in the EMCS "Quinte" at a future date.

* * *

Unfortunately, a record of elapsed times for the season has not been kept. Next year, a sailing official said, these times will be recorded and the skippers having the lowest will be awarded trophies.

* * *

A fall entry of boats from both ends of the bay is expected for the final race of the season. The RCAF boats will be in attendance and it is believed that the "Canswaspy," a sleek, fast yacht, and Senator Fraser's new boat will also be entered.

* * *

THIS SHOULD BE IT!

It will be a mighty two-man combination that will oppose the hated twosome of Lou Newman, the Unmasked Marvel, and Fred Atkins, in the four-man tag team wrestling feature bout in the ring at the Memorial Arena tonight. The team of rugged Yukon Eric and Timothy Geohagen will pool their powerful forces against the Newman-Atkins pair to end the latter outfits rough-shod rule of the Atkins pair to end the latter outfits rough-shod rule of the team battling of late. Eric and Geohagen each are rated with the top wrestlers in the world. Lined up together, it seems impossible that any other alliance could stand up against them.

* * *

In the semi-final, Lou Sjoberg will oppose The Zebra. Bill Stack will take on Mayes McLean, the ex-Mask's manager, in the first bout.

* * *

AUTO RACES ON SATURDAY

What looms up to another thrill-producing auto race meet is scheduled for the Speedway Parkland near Marrzyville tomorrow afternoon. An outstanding card of city and district drivers has been arranged by promoter Dick Marrowes and all the thrills that have marked this outstanding summer sport all season will be here.

* * *

The Labor Day meet produced the best driving ever seen in this district, and local throttlers excelled themselves in a splendid exhibition. The track, says Burrowes, is in excellent condition, in fact it has been all season, and present prospects indicate another fine afternoon of this spine-tingling entertainment.

* * *

The first race will get under way at two o'clock or thereabouts and Speedway Parkland will be a fine spot to spend Saturday afternoon if you like your sports fare garnished with thrills and occasional spills.

OTTAWA PEEWEES HERE

Walker's Hardware smart little team of baseball peewees will seek the first step to an eastern Ontario title at the Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon when they face the Ottawa peewees in the first game of a best-of-three playdown series. The Ottawans are undefeated and the Walker kids have dropped but one till all season, so tomorrow's game should be a thriller. The second game is slated for Ottawa next Saturday afternoon. Game tomorrow starts at 2:30.

Along peewee softball lines, the city championship starts tomorrow with the first game at Firemen's Park at 9.30 a.m. between Rotary and Kinsmen and the second at 2 p.m. when Boyce's face Gourley's. The winners will meet for the right to play Booth's Teevees for the city title.

Bosox Edge Browns 5-4 in 10; Bombers Bow to Detroit 9-2 As Senators Blank Tribe 1-0

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York's dreams of a subway world series are not so bright today.

Brooklyn Dodgers, streaking six games ahead in the National League, are just about "in." But New York Yankees whose ball park is just a dime away, are showing signs of cracking up in the American League.

On paper the Yanks' expected to encounter little difficulty in hanging up their third straight pennant because of a long home stand, but they are failing to take advantage of the schedule.

The Yanks have played horrible baseball of late. It began Tuesday when they dropped a doubleheader to the tail-end St. Louis Browns. The Yanks rested Wednesday but the layoff did them no good.

Virgil Trucks and the Detroit Tigers turned on the heat Thursday night as they whipped the Yanks 9-2 yesterday. The Yanks remain one game back of the front-running Cleveland Indians, who dropped a 1-0 decision to Washington's Senators. The third-place Red Sox beat St. Louis 5-4 in 10 innings to climb within 3½ games of the top.

Giants Lose

Brooklyn pulled six games ahead of the second-place New Yorks without lifting a bat. The Giants dropped a 6-4 decision to St. Louis Cardinals in a unique day-night twin-bill. The Cards lost the night portion of twin-bill Sox beat St. Louis 5-4 in 10 innings to climb within 3½ games of the top.

Mickey Mantle started the Yanks off in grand style by belting Trucks' first pitch for a home run. But the Tigers, aided by shoddy fielding, nicked Ed Lopat for single runs in the third and fourth and sewed the game up with seven runs in the fifth.

Trucks allowed seven hits as he chalked up the 100th victory of his major-league career.

Lemon Loses

Bob Porterfield shut out the Indians on three hits in outpitching Bob Lemon at Washington. The Senators scored the only run of the game in the third inning on a two-base error by Bob Avila and Mickey Vernon's single.

Jlom DiMaggio tripled with two out and scored the Red Sox' winning run in the 10th against St. Louis on a hit by Johnny Pesky. Ned Garver was the loser and Ellis Kinder the winner.

The Cards scored their six runs in the second against the Giants on two singles, two walks, a sacrifice, error and a hit batsman in the sun. Monte Irvin drove in three runs for New York. Sal Maglie was the loser and reliefer Dick Bokelmann the winner.

Chiefs on Brink Of Final Round, Win 3rd Straight

Syracuse Chiefs are on the brink of entering the final round of the International League's Governors Cup playoffs today.

The Chiefs made it three straight over Rochester Red Wings last night in their best-of-seven semi-final round, coming from behind to post a 7-4 triumph.

Rain interrupted the other semi-final, between Montreal Royals and Buffalo Bisons. The Royals lead two games to none.

Jack Robinson will pitch for the Chiefs tonight while lefty Fred Hahn will try to pitch Rochester back into the series. At Buffalo, Bob Alexander will pitch for Montreal against Tom Acker or Tom (no-hit) Simpson.

The Wings piled up a 2-0 lead over Syracuse but the Chiefs came back with a run in the fourth and sewed it up with four more in the fifth. Gene Markland climaxed the uprising with a two-run double. Gene Costello, third Syracuse pitcher, was the winner and starter Bob Habenicht the loser.

Taxes Shrink Turpin's Purse To $37,000

London, Sept. 14—(AP)—The pounding Randy Turpin took from Sugar Ray Robinson in New York Wednesday night is nothing to the shellacking he'll get from the local income tax collectors.

Maybe he doesn't know it yet, but young Randy put his glamorous new middleweight crown on the line for not much more than peanuts.

By the time the commissioners of inland revenue—Mr. Blockenstaff to the rueful Britons—have applied their tight formula on him, Randy's cut of $37,078 probably will have shrunk to little more than $37,000.

The trouble is the 23-year-old former bricklayer has put himself squarely in Britain's richest class by swapping punches with Sugar Ray twice in 64 days—and the ritzy class is fair game to the commissioners.

Income tax in Britain really gets going for lower incomes at the basic rate of about 48 per cent. But Randy, who already had fought five times this year before first meeting Robinson, passed that stage long ago.

The surtax in Britain starts at the £2,000 level and rises steeply from an extra 10 per cent to a slashing 50 per cent above that, and as for everybody getting over £20,000.

Turpin got £10,000 for winning the title from Robinson in July so most of his purse for losing it again comes in the highest bracket.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

National Amateur Narrows Down To Unknowns

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 14—(AP) A poker faced suburban New York lawyer tries his golf case against a youth young enough to be his son, and a portly 40-year-old realtor plays a smiling-red haired Texan today in the battle of unknowns for the 51st national golf championship.

An almost unbelievable wave of upsets that sent all nine Walker Cup team players to the sidelines narrowed the semi-final field to 39-year-old Joe Gaglardi, Westchester county, N.Y., lawyer; 16-year-old Tommy Jacobs of Monticello, Calif.; well rounded Jack Benson, Pittsburg real estate dealer, and north Texas state teahers college's, golf captain, Billy Maxwell.

Young Jacobs, who still has peach fuzz for a beard, played some of the four day old tourney's most sensational golf yesterday in eliminating Edward P. Martin, Winchester, Mass., probate court officer, 4 and 2.

he became the youngest player in the national junior champion47 years to reach this tournamade several great recoveries agment's semi-final round.

Kingston Takes 3rd Game 11-0 Reds 'Spot' Em Four in First But Fail to Hit Foe Hurling

By Geo. H. Carver
(Sports Editor)

Among many other things the Redmen have a Damon-Pythias streak in their baseball makeup they demonstrated that last night when Grey showed the Kingston Disney Lassie that there too, hat a balloon and they blew it higher than a kite to prove it.

In fact they went one better than the Leafs. The Scrutton crew blew its top in one disastrous inning Wednesday evening, but the Reds were off to a good explosion in the first last night and from there until irreparable damage was done, it was a slow leak.

They lost the pastime by an 11-0 score which puts the Leaf saddles one game up in the COBL best-of-seven semi-finals series. The fourth and fifth games are to be played in Kingston tonight and Saturday.

Called in Eighth

A High wind and rain which clipped the pastime in the eighth helped in the Red defeat. Then of course there was one Rebel Stinson, a righthander, who not only had our side nibbling at his hand but in between the four hits he allowed forced them to peck to the infield for easy outs, and fig out early. Stinson was the perfect command of the situation throughout striking out nine fellers and leading his kicked to first.

The only time the Leafs went off the beam came when Georgie dropped a third strike and made a bad throw to second in an effort to nip the runner coming in from first. Otherwise the Scruttoneers performed like veterans after.

Three Errors in First

And they were timely clouters, too, beside taking advantage of a parade of Redmen hurlers, three of them coming in the opening act. They pounded Billy Strahan for 10 hits for nine runs in the four and one-third innings he toiled and touched "Cuffer" Noakes for three hits for a pair over the rest of the eight-innings route.

The Leafs took unto themselves a four-run lead in the first innings off three hits, a walk and three costly errors. They backed up for a fresh start in the second, scored two in the third one in the fourth and had two more across for four hits in the fifth before the "Cuffer" was rushed in to quell the disturbance, with two out.

"Cuffer" promptly retired the side but the run-hungry Leafs attacked his delivery for three hits and two runs in the seventh to complete the rout. Noakes set them down in order in the seventh and eighth, then came the rains and the operation was over.

The high wind had the ball doing aerial didoes when high flies were put to the outer garments. The Leafs profited by that law says too putous was recorded by a Leafian outer gardener.

Not Hit in Clutches

The Reds had runners in scoring position but four times during the horse-collar parade. They had men on second in the first and third and runners on first ring wistfully from the hot corner in the third and eighth. But their batting eyes were not in the game and nary a clutch clout boomed out into the ozone.

The Leafs fattened their batting averages with Gilmore pacing the pack with a triple, double and single, Eric Rank bobbed up with a pair of doubles and a homer with Ferguson contributing a two-baser and a single. Every Leaf hit safely with the exception of White.

Johnny Mowat's triple in the eighth was the best the Redmen could do and the only other clouters to the weak-hitting cause were Fitzpatrick, Buchanan and Vern Geyer.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 14—(AP) Don't be too surprised today if a relief pitcher comes in the middle of the national amateur championship, turns his opponent over his knee and begins administering corporal punishment in a parental manner. . . after what already has happened to the favorites, nothing could be too surprising and today's matches send two seasoned fathers against brash kids young enough to be their sons. . . Joe Gagliardi and Jack Heiser are parents of five and four children, respectively — the oldest in each family being 14 . . . Their opponents are 16-year-old Tommy Jacobs and 22-year-old Billy Maxwell. . . Come to think of it, Benson did remark that he merely came to the tournament to get away from his kids.

Scorecard Trouble

A golfer from McMurry College in Texas has a hard-luck story that tops anything heard here this week. . . Not being interested in army life, the kid applied himself diligently to the books all last year. . . When the draft board demanded proof that he was in the top two-thirds of his class, McMurry did one better and reported that he was in the top half. . . "Sorry," came back a letter from the board, "top half won't do. The law says top two-thirds' . . . It took an appeal to state headquarters to straighten out the affair.

The Whole Town Plays

Joe Railley, Columbus, Ga., sports scribe, isn't particularly impressed by the fact that Tommy Jacobs is a good golfer at 16 . . . Fred Hawkins, who has been prof at Columbus, has turned out the Key boys, Jack and Billy; 16-year-old Cecil Calhoun, who beat former college champ George Hamer in the southern amateur this year, and Hugh Royer, Jr. 14, who shot a 79 in the southeastern. . .

Sedgman, Trabert Survive Rugged Singles Play

Los Angeles, Sept. 14 (AP) — The newly-named 1951 American Davis Cup team gets another rigorous test today when young Tony Trabert of Cincinnati tied up with a former cup star, Ted Schroeder, in the semi-finals of the 25th annual Pacific Southwest tennis tournament.

Trabert is the lone cup team member out of the five entered who has survived play thus far. In Schroeder, he faces an experienced veteran who may be added to the American team before it heads for Australia in December.

The crack Australian team also has but one man left—Frank Sedgman, its top man.

Sedgman got something of a scare yesterday but finally got his game going to whip stubborn Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., champion, the man he succeeded as the U.S. singles champion.

It took Sedgman five sets to subdue Larsen, 6-1, 5-7, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Earlier in the bitterest encounter of the day, Herb Flam of Los Angeles netted a player who made the team, Victor Seixas of Philadelphia 8-6, 4-6, 8-6, 2-6, 7-5.

Trabert earned his semi-final berth by whipping Harry Likas, San Francisco, two days ago 6-0, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2. Schroeder upset the No. two Aussie, Ken McGregor, the same afternoon by a 6-4, 0-6, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2 count.

Just to list the fallen Davis Cup members, they are, Seixas, Budge Patty, Billy Talbert and Hamilton Richardson. Dick Savitt, the sixth member of the team did not compete here.

Toronto Peoples Win National Softball Title

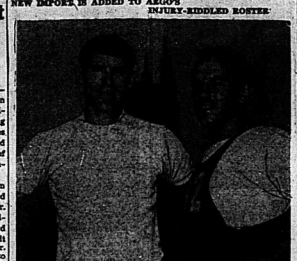
Calgary, Sept. 14—(CP)—Toronto Peoples proved their right to the Canadian softball championship title here last night with a whooping 17-7 victory over Vancouver Girodays.

The game, which consisted of less than 800 turned out to watch the Toronto squad earn their third straight win in the best-of-five series against the western Canada champions.

Chuck Leeson, who went two innings for Vancouver, was blasted for 10 hits, including Bill Kelly's homer with two on. Harry Hall took over in the top of the third and gave up 11 hits.

Murray Dowey pitched three-hit ball up to the end of the seventh and was tagged for three singles in the eighth, while striking out 10 and walking one.

Varsity Good Says Masterson



Orillia, Sept. 14—(CP)— Bob Masterson, coach at the University of Toronto Blues, thinks he'll have a good squad this year.

He said Thursday that the Blues would probably have as strong a defence as any team in the intercollegiate senior league.

"Al Dancy and Ray Yakasovich are good line-backing centres," he said. "Our halfbacks are bigger and faster than last season and our line will be considerably stronger."

The varsity squad is training here.

NEW IMPORT IS ADDED TO ASCO'S INJURY-RIDDLED ROSTER

In an effort to aid his injury-riddled Argonauts, Coach Frank Clair, left, has "injected" Ed (Catfoot) Cody, right into squat to replace Ulysses Curtis, who is sidelined with torn cartilages in his side. The new halfback who has four pro football with Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers behind him as well as "All Big Ten" selection when he starred at Purdue University, isn't as big as halfbacks go, standing only 5 feet 8 and weighing in at 165 pounds. But he comes highly regarded as a defensive halfback, specializing in pass defence.

Ti-Cats Expect Tough Battle Against Improved Roughriders

(By The Canadian Press)

Carl Voyles, coach of the unbeaten Hamilton Tiger-Cats, thinks that any similarity between the Ottawa Rough Rider team that took a pre-season pasting from the Tiger-Cats and the present Ottawa team, scheduled to tussle with the Cats in Hamilton Saturday, is purely coincidental.

Voyles scouted last Sunday's Rough Rider-Alouette game in Montreal during which the Riders swamped the Montrealers 33-8. He said last night the Ottawans have improved 100 per cent.

"Saturday's game may be one of the toughest in our schedule," he said.

The Big Four game in Hamilton is one of six senior grid games set for this weekend.

Als in Toronto

Montreal's three-time-loser Alouettes will be in Toronto Saturday to take on Toronto Argonauts, winners of one game, losers of two.

In the western, Edmonton Eskimos, leaders in the western senior provincial union, go to Calgary for a whirl with the Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers travel to Regina for a tilt with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Toronto's Balmy Beaches are set to host tonight to the first-place Sarnia Imperials. Then they will hop a train for Windsor to meet the Royals Saturday afternoon.

There will be changes tomorrow in the Argo team. Coach Frank Clair said last night that powerful punter Joe Krol would sit out Saturday's game with Alouettes because of what Clair termed Krol's "poor performance" last Saturday against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The Toronto plungers have a new import to show off. He is halfback Ed Cody, late of the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers said to be a pass-defence expert.

Eakies Meet Stamps

New faces will appear also among the Alouettes. Al Stevenson and George Hall will take place in the Montreal line. Stevenson played with the red-and whiters two years ago and is getting back into action during an army leave. Hall is an American who was cut from the Ottawa Rough Riders.

The armchair quarterbacks say that Edmonton Eskimos are going to find the Stampeders a mean team to trifle with. Two weeks ago the Edmonton outfit took two games from the Stamps—but by the narrow margins of 16-17 and 5-0.

The Stamps are said to have improved since then. Last week they beat Saskatchewan Roughriders 9-7. And tomorrow they will have Royal Copeland back in their lineup. He is a former

Pronto Don Sets World's Record For Two-Mile Trot

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 14 (AP) —Pronto Don from the Hayes Fair Acres stable of Timpnin, Ill., rushed up the stretch Thursday night to win the $50,000 Roosevelt two-mile trot at Roosevelt Raceway and set a world record of 4:10 4-5.

It was a repeat victory for the six-year-old which won the rich trot a year ago. Hanson Hanover, owned by Harrison Hoyt of Bethel, Conn., led most of the way only to fade under the stretch drive and wind up second —where he finished a year ago.

The old, world mark of 4:17 flat was set in this same race by Proximity in 1948, Seldom in harness racing history has a horse clipped 6 1-5 seconds from a record such as the flying Pronto Don did Thursday night with the masterful driving of Bennie Schue.

Turpin Fourth on Robinson's List To Retire as Bricklayer in 1952

By JACK HAND

New York, Sept. 14—(AP)— Britain's Randy Turpin must wait in line for a third title bout with Sugar Ray Robinson if the middleweight champ's manager, Gen. Gainford, has the right dope.

Gainford's master plan for the Harlem sugar dandy calls for a mid-December charity defence for the benefit fund at New York's Madison Square Garden. After that it will be Rocky Graziano in Chicago or Detroit, Laurent Dauthuille in Paris and then Turpin.

A third Robinson-Turpin scrap in London next June is in the works with Jack Solomons, British promoter, trying to set it up for White City Stadium. Nothing is definite yet but it's a natural after the sell-out crowd of 61,370 that bulged the Polo Grounds to pay a $767,626 gross gate.

Robinson, wearing dark glasses and a patch over his slashed eye, met the press yesterday in his private office in Ray Robinson Enterprises, Inc. in Harlem. He wasn't quite as definite in his plans as Gainford.

Fight For Glory Fund

"First I'm going to devote a lot of time to my favorite charity the Cancer Research Damon Runyon Fund," he said. "I'll get back in training in November and fight for the benefit fund around Christmas time. After that my plans are not definite."

Maybe Sugar Ray will change his mind when he gets hold of his $348,491 share of the big gate, but he says he'll retire in a year.

"I know I've showed up in everything," he said. "I used to see an opening and bang the guy. Now I can't always make the move I want."

Turpin, unmarked by battle although he was stopped in the 10th round, also repeated his plans for retiring in 1952. Although he's only 23, he said he'll go back to work as a brick-layer's laborer after next September come what may.

Counting his share of the $200,000 movie money, Turpin will get $207,975 for the workout. Income taxes will bite heavily into both purses.

The sturdy Briton will not fight again this year. After a couple of days at his Grossinger, N. Y., training camp, he'll see the sights of New York. Then he'll sail home on the Queen Mary Sept. 21. After a "holiday" he'll make a few appearances in the carnival boxing booths to oblige an old friend.

Big-hitters for Smiths Falls were Marcel Legris and Mac White who both made three hits in five times at bat. One of Legris' smashes was a triple.

Fifth game of the series will be played in Brockville today. The sixth in Smiths Falls Saturday.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

So you want to be a good bridge player. Then know your opening bids of one. An opening bid of one shows values not promised by a defensive bid (simple overcall) of one.

The player who first bids one for his side promises five tricks. That is true of an opening bid of one. It is just as true of a simple overcall of one. Each shows the same number of tricks.

But there is quite a difference between those two kinds of one bids. The difference is in the number of high cards and sure tricks they show.

An opening bid of one shows five tricks, four high cards, two sure tricks. A simple overcall (defensive bid) of one shows five tricks, two high cards, one sure trick.

Thus, the opening bid shows four high cards and two sure tricks; the simple overcall shows only two high cards and one sure trick. The simple overcall shows only half as many high cards and sure tricks.

So what? There are more chances for freedom in the responses to an opening bid of one. On the other hand, fewer bids are found in answer to a simple overcall.

You see, high cards are no-trump tricks; a simple overcall of one does not promise more than two no-trump tricks.

Consequently, partner of the simple overcaller has fewer chances of responding in no-trump. Because, it would take more tricks to make up the one the opener does not have.

You have this north hand:

♠A 9 5
♥8 6 3
♦K J 4 2
♣Q 7 3 2

Partner in south starts with an opening bid of one heart. You have enough high cards for a second response of one no-trump. But not if partner's one-heart bid was a simple overcall.

With his simple overcall, partner may have only two high cards. Then, your three high cards are not enough for a no-trump response. Not by a couple of high cards.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 14—(AP) — Victor Mature, who thought he had escaped the title, again finds himself in the "beautiful-hunk-of-man" category.

Thanks to chest-baring roles Mature got stuck with that tag in pre-war years.

Returning from the war an older and a wiser man, he sought to make his mark as an actor, wearing shirts and coats. He accomplished it in "Kiss of Death" a crime subject.

"Even the critics who hated my guts liked me in that one," he admits.

That Chest Again

Then he played Samson, the biceps-bender who was taken for the big haircut by Delilah in the Biblical epic. He was back in the loin-cloth league again. Now he's again in the ancient times, portraying a Roman soldier in "Androcles and the Lion."

Mature is reconciled to his fate. "Samson wasn't exactly bad for me," he remarked, indicating this was an understatement. "How can you go wrong in a picture that is going to poll in $17,000,000?"

Publicity-hep Mature added that such pictures aren't bad for putting an actor before the public.

At any rate, Mature is accustomed to the caprices of his film bosses. After scoring his hit in "Kiss of Death," he was signed to a new contract. His first picture under the new deal was "Moss Rose."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook in according to the stars.

For Saturday, September 15

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Unusually benefic for promotional ideas, literary work, advertising, construction, engineering, military matters. Your capability for charitable causes, community endeavors should do much.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Another fine day for you clever folks, you who love research, to link out deep problems. Be yourself, don't pretend around, get into worthy endeavors in which you can achieve.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Start urge better than ordinary effort, carefully laid ideas, prearranged plans with extra thought. In your rush to get on, don't neglect those who helped you along the way.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Slightly less favorable aspects than Taurus and Gemini now but you who work hard, be consistent and set within reason can make good headway. Vigorous, honest campaign will reward.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Fine influences for getting business and government matters. Hold to the straight and honorable for best gains. Tone down haste; curb selfish desires.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Active day, growing better as it progresses. Concentrate on one top objective at a time and accomplish more. Interest yourself in national affairs, the plight or unfortunates, it's natural.

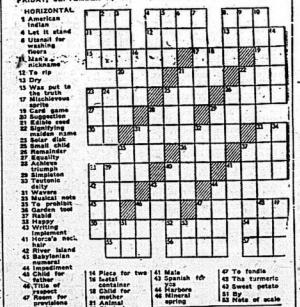
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Make schedule conform to necessary conditions. Reasonable caution urged in money matters, expensive commitments. Keep up to minute on current matters, do today's chores now.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio) —Don't underestimate your opponent, or your possibility of falling where you thought you were tops. Never be too sure, but always have faith. Check, ask advice. Some dull spots.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Lay plans early, get the jump where you can. Maybe others have same thought. If you are trying for anything, try hard, it really pays. Avoid susceptibility to gamble.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)— These are serious times when each must do his, her share. But never let extra work get you down, that's what any enemy wants. Seek right recreation, friends, fun for free time.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Things may tighten a bit. Means doubling effort, doing better, having sturdier will. Keep the forward movement permanent.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Preliminaries should be accurate, to the point, that's a big step towards starting right for success. Avoid being drawn into questionable schemes, risky deals. Don't strain health.

YOU BORN TODAY are decisive but fair, keen, and innatey honest, clean of habit and respect others to be likewise. You take most of your worries from trying to keep others in line or up to certain standards. Could do well in any field requiring intelligence, consistency. Music, art, journalism, secretarial work, decorating should appeal to you. Fine memory, versatile on whole; good company. Be less exacting of the-and-that of events and humans. Seek happiness in refined, congenial companions.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"I lied with my right—don't ever tell Stub that I did. Well, I hit him so hard that he went backwards over a table and landed on his head on the other side. I picked up his gun and put it in my pocket—it is now in my room at the boarding-house. Before returning to Milly I had a good look at Michels—he was bleeding a lot, and he was out cold.

"When I went back to Milly, she said: "W—happened, Goldie? You're white as a sheet—there's blood on your hand!"

"Nothing much happened Milly" I said, "but I think we better go somewhere else for our coffee and sandwiches from now on. As we were leaving, I saw the waiter heading for the back room."

And that was the story that Goldie Webster repeated to Chief Shepherd a few minutes later. The chief jotted down a few notes on the pad on his desk.

"Drop that gun into this office when you're going back to work after dinner, Goldie," the Chief said. "I'll check and see under whose name it was registered." Then, turning to Lance Bradley, "Do you know, Brad, there's no telling where this is going to lead. How do we know that someone didn't hire Michels to murder Goldie off as part of a plot to get even with you. This might indeed be the work of the dynamiters, the men who stole your car or that other man we're after."

"John Palmer!" Lance asked, and the Chief nodded. "But to get back to this Michels, Chief, how does it look?"

"Well, Brad," the Chief drawled, "as long as Michels does not die from the effects of Goldie's well-aimed blow, there will be nothing to worry about as far as you and Goldie are concerned. Michels pulled a gun on a man, which in itself is a serious offence, and I'll see that he's well punished for that. But if he dies, I'm afraid that our friend Goldie will have to stand trial for manslaughter. I can't see any other way out of it, much as I would like to help."

"Have you anything to report on the man who tried to dynamite my place," Lance asked.

"Not a thing, Brad," the Chief said. "But I'm beginning to think that once we get our hands on your friend, John Palms, we may find the solution to the whole thing."

On the way back to the office, Goldie asked: "What is manslaughter, Dad?"

"If you kill someone accidentally, that is manslaughter, son Lance explained. "If you kill him deliberately, that is, you mean to do it, it is murder. On a charge of manslaughter such as you may face, Johnson Parker might get you off since you acted in self-defence. But if you can't prove you did, then you might go down for a short term—a year or two."

"Hmmmm," Goldie said, "does not look good, does it Dad?"

And then he broke down and cried. "But I only did it to self-defense, Dad," Goldie said through his tears. "He tried to shoot me."

"Look son," Lance soothed him, "I'm just as sorry about this as you are. It's not a nice thing to have hanging over one's head. It's at best a bad mess, but The Ensign must print the facts about it—we can't make flesh of one and fowl of another in our business."

"You mean to put this in—in the paper, Dad?"

"And, why not?"

"No, no, Dad, not that, please!" Goldie pleaded.

"Well, son, we must face it together. Goldie Webster, foster son of Lance Bradley, the publisher, is the way it must read in the paper. Michels may die, in which case you'll have to take the rap like a man. If he recovers, and while there's life there's hope, Chief Shepherd will deal with him for threatening you, for pulling a gun on you. Meanwhile the Chief will pull in that gun, and he may have other charges to lay. Indeed, Goldie, there's no telling what you may come out of this. But as the chairman of the Public Safety Committee with a certain amount of authority over Chief Shepherd, I don't want to see you get a raw deal. I interfered with him in discharge of his duty or that I had this matter hushed up just to keep me and my foster's son's names out of the paper."

And so despite Stub Rose's protestations that publishing the details of the man that Goldie was in would spoil the gate at the youth's coming bout with Tex Burdell, The Ensign printed the Whitey Michels-Goldie Webster story on the front page of that afternoon's paper.

But despite Stub Rose's prediction that publication of the details of the Goldie Webster-Whitey Michels affairs in the paper was not a wise thing to do, it made Goldie look more like a hero than a blackguard, and instead of spoiling the gate for the boxing bout, it only set everybody buying tickets to see the brave youngster in action against the best in the country.

Even Dad and Mother Roberts came to Goldie's defence. They hoped that Michels would recover and that the law would put him away for a long, long time.

Whitey Michels did not die. In a few days he was out of range, and in a few weeks he could have been on the streets had the police not taken him to jail and then to court. For having an unregistered revolver in his possession Magistrate Henry fined him $50 and costs and for drawing a gun on a man, he was given three months. Since he couldn't pay his fine, he was taken away for four months.

Training at the Y for his coming bout with Tex Burdell, Goldie took a good natured ribbing from the boys for not doing a better job on Michels when he had the chance. But the ribbing the boys gave him, was nothing to what Stub Rose said. Stub complained that Goldie wasn't training worth a hoot. He was punching like a man who was afraid of breaking his hands or seriously hurting any one. Stub pleaded with him to get in there and punch, but to all of Stub's pleadings Goldie appeared to be slow, indifferent, and Stub wondered if the boy's recent trying experience with Whitey Michels had any bearing on the way he was training.

Lance Bradley was not at the town hall that night to see his foster son in his important bout with Tex Burdell. Lance and Mother Roberts were at the bedside of Dad Roberts in the General Hospital, for late that afternoon Dad had suffered a heart seizure while at work at his desk, and Dr. Brown had had him rushed to hospital.

Tex Burdell was resting easier when Lance and Mother Roberts left him shortly after ten o'clock that night. When they reached home, Lance turned on the radio just in time to catch Ted Wilson's announcement that in the main bout at Town Hall that night, Tex Burdell had defeated Goldie Webster in a rather one-sided uninteresting bout.

With a sort of "I-told-you-so" expression on his face, Stub Rose had bumped over his typewriter in the newsroom, next morning. As far as he was concerned, Goldie Webster was all washed up. Goldie was all through.

Out in the composing room, Goldie Webster was going about his work in a dream. He felt ashamed of himself, for he had let the gang in the business down, and they were not apt to forget it for a long, long time to come. He knew he could have done better—made a better showing—for after all Tex Burdell hadn't been so awful good. Goldie was down, and not even Lance Bradley who came to sympathize with him, to ask him for the details, could distract the gloom that had settled over him.

"I guess I'm all through, Dad," Goldie said miserly. "Guess I shouldn't have dragged Stub into such a mess."

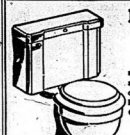
"Did Burdell hurt you, son?" Lance asked.

"No, not once. But I couldn't get going, something seemed to be holding me back." He didn't say that every time he cocked his lethal right to level his opponent, he could see Whitey Michels lying on his back in a pool of blood.

Stub Rose flayed Goldie Webster unmercifully on his sports page in that afternoon's paper. He called Goldie a ham actor, and said that it would be a good thing for boxing when Goldie hung up his gloves and took up checkers.

And when Lance Bradley read Stub's outburst at Goldie, headed Stub to his office.

"Did you write that?" Lance asked, pointing to the item.



"Why—why yes," Stub confessed.

CAMPBELLFORD

Socialist Govt. in New Zealand Is Described

Campbellford — Vernon Rout, teacher at the Campbellford High School, gave Rotarians a very interesting and informative talk on socialism as practised by the Labor government in New Zealand. He spoke at the Monday luncheon of the Rotary Club here.

Mr. Rout was introduced by Marian Art Loucks as a native of Auckland, N.Z. and a graduate of the University of New Zealand. He came to Canada with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, and after getting his wings, stayed on as an airline with the New Zealand Embassy in Ottawa.

At the outset, Mr. Rout said that New Zealand has on many occasions been a political laboratory, where new ideas of government were tried out.

Made Many Promises

Toward the end of the depression the Socialist or Labor government swept into power by a 2 to 1 majority. They came in with a promise to spend the 17 million pounds surplus of the previous government. The saving policy of the former regime had proven bad for business, and the people soon followed suit and began to spend money more freely once the Labor government was in power.

This plan found limited approval and after about 14 years, the government fell.

For this the speaker ascribed several reasons. The first of these was overcontrol. The excessive income tax took away any ethics to work and free enterprise, bringing stagnation to industry. The control of imports created a lot of red tape and confusion. A board controlling all imports limited the choice of goods offered to the public. The shortening of the hours to 40 per week had an averse effect on labor. Instead of giving 40 hours, labor in general worked half the time and loafed the other half. This put the cost of living up tremendously and increased prices. There was less dissatisfaction with the free medical service than with other services, but that too brought evils. One doctor claimed for 125 patients in one day. Abuses were prevalent and costly. However, this is a situation that has been improved.

Communists became predominant in the compulsory unions. Mr. Rout said he had been at meetings of labor where a communist group's proposal was put as follows: "All faithful members say Aye, all Tory scabs say No." Then if a courageous objector said no, he was maltreated.

In summing up Mr. Rout said that over-control had defeated the Socialist government.

We in small towns seldom realize the power of Communism, but we should know of its deadly effects. Communism outlawed and driven underground is more dangerous than in the open. The answer lies in each of us realizing his own responsibility in taking part in the government of the country. "Only in this way can we protect our liberties," concluded the speaker.

Transportation Problem Discussed At School Meeting

Campbellf. l — The regular meeting of the East Northumberland District High School Board was held in Colborne High School recently. Chairman H. N. Haggarty presided over the meeting. Other members included: A. K. Loucks, Douglas McMaster, A. E. Hennessey, Fred Spence, Andrew Kemp, W. O. Graham, Gordon McCubbin, Vincent Farrell, D. H. Meyers and W. Roy Loucks.

Mr. A. K. Loucks reported on the Management Committee's meeting for hiring a teacher of mathematics in Campbellford High School.

The meeting was attended by Mr. Wm. Dunk and Mrs. Cope of Seymour East, who requested that the board give attention to the transportation provided for pupils from U.S.S. 2 and 3. A letter signed by a number of residents of Seymour East, wherein complaints were brought to the attention of the board were brought before the meeting.

Principa's of schools within the district reported on their respective schools, indicating their requests and showing the enrollment as of the start of the school term. These are: Campbellford 351, Brighton 119, Colborne 77, Warkworth 80, Woodlee 52. This is a total of 590 pupils, an increase of 24 over the corresponding date in 1950.

Accounts totalling $4,006.96 were passed for payment.

The board decided to request advice from the Department of Education concerning the Board's liability as it would apply to passengers other than school pupils riding on a contracted school bus. It was also decided to ask one of the bus operators, Mr. Kenneth Ames of Campbellford to change his route. It is the wish of the Board that he travel from Stanwood to Allan's Mills, then south past Union School, thence to Petherick's School thence to Shea's School and on to Campbellford. It was also decided that a second route be established to serve adequately the remaining schools in Seymour East.

Conducted by D. H. Meyers, seconded by Mr. Kemp, that all bus owners be requested to file with the Board copies of their insurance covering transportation of pupils was carried.

Well-Fancied Shot Wins Last Classic Of Racing Season

Two B.C. Men and Montreal Resident Win Sweep Draws

Doncaster, England, Sept. 15—(Reuters)— Talma II, well-fancied 7-1 shot owned by France's Marcel Boussac, today won the Doncaster, six furlong St. Leger, last classic of the flat-racing season.

Praise du Bois, owned by the wife of the Aga Khan, started at 15 to 2 and Medway, owned by Peter Bartholomew, was a 40 to 1 outsider.

Sylphi Nephew, owned by Lord Milford, started as favorite at 13 to 2 in the 16th running of the classic.

Talma II's win, one of the easiest in the history of the St. Leger, carried home the money to many last minute gamblers from late betting lists as the price tumbling down from last night's 100-8 to today's 7-1, making him second favorite.

The chestnut colt tracked the early leaders, gliided from the turn Johnstone took him to the front six furlongs out. Tnd there he stayed.

$36,000 Won In Sweep

Montreal, (CP)—J. E. Walker, of Vancouver, today was holder of the lucky ticket in the announcement of the pending nuptials. Miss Payton, however, apparently unconcerned, Thursday night she stepped out with Tone on a tour of Belleville night clubs.

Neal was waiting for them when they returned to her home.

"I don't know exactly how it started," she said. "Tone and I were talking. Tone did not strike first. I didn't say anything and neither did Francis."

"Tone tossed a right at me," Neal maintained. She ducked, and Tone's fist hit his left hand as he flew backward 10 feet and struck. I rose from like a cat."

His version had Tone as the belligerent and himself as a responsible bystander in the act of advantage in age and condition.

ASKED TO VACATE

Toronto, Sept. 15—(CP)— The Toronto Board of Health, in a report served eviction notices Friday on four firms who operate shacks in the $150,000 property at Malton aircraft hanger.

Ordered to vacate the hangar by Sept. 1 were the British American Oil Company, the Ontario Pulp and Paper Company, Canada Packers Ltd., and the Ontario Hydro Commission.

MOVIE TRIANGLE BRAWL LEADS TONE IN HOSPITAL

Loser in Fight Over Buxom Blonde

Hollywood, Sept. 15. (AP)— After Francis E. Tone, the loser in a fight over a buxom filmland blonde, was still in a state of seemcons at a hospital today.

Tom Neal, the movie muscleman who admitted the beating, struck back by his story that Tone started it. But the blonde, Barbara Payton, denied it and said that Tone "is not the sort of man who would strike anyone first."

This much, however, is definite: The wedding of Neal and Miss Payton, scheduled for today in San Francisco, is off—probably for good—as the result of one of the fiercest and most lopsided fights in Hollywood annals—on or off the screen.

Tone came out of it with his patrician nose shattered, a broken cheek bone, and a concussion. Police Chief William Parker has announced that investigation, no charges have been filed.

Neal, 33-year-old former amateur boxer with shoulders built on a full-back, scaled 180; Tone, 46, weighed 155. All blows but the first, Parker said, Tone's were delivered by him.

The fight took place the day after Miss Payton obtained her final decree of divorces from her husband, Franchot Tone. Events leading up to it were as follows:

Dating Tone Steadily

Miss Payton, 25, had been dating Tone steadily since about a month ago. Last year she figured in a child-custody battle between Tone and his former wife (Jean Wallace. Tone testified that he had been "completely unnerved" Miss Payton in the nude.

Then along came Neal, Exit Tone.

A whirlwind courtship was climaxed by the announcement

Crucial Storage Problem Looms for Western Wheat Growers, Record Crop Grown

Ottawa, Sept. 15. (CP)—A crucial storage problem looms over prairie fields as man and the weather combine to make things tough for the Western grain grower.

Though prospects are that Canada will harvest a record wheat crop—valued at more than a $1,000,000,000—the Bureau of Statistics has forecast that prairie downpours may slow harvesting and cut quality.

The second strike against the farmer may be swung by a continuing lag in shipping. Despite the fact that the government has appointed a transport controller, grain shipments from the lakehead has not been boosted. The shipments problem has spread to the eastern seaboard and a slowdown in the transfer of grain to overseas countries.

These dismal threats hover over prospects of harvesting the biggest wheat crop in history. The bureau's September report on its second estimate of crop production, a record wheat crop of 379,358,000 bushels. That was only 2,400,000 bushels lower than a preliminary estimate made a month ago of 381,700,000.

The latest forecast, based on information gathered in August-by-mail returns, is 100,000,000 bushels greater than the 461,584,000 bushel crop of 1950. It is higher than the previous record of 367,000,000 in 1928.

Commenting the general trend, the prairie output was forecast at a record 548,000,000 bushels, better by 2,000,000 than the previous record of 545,000,000 in 1928 and about 120,000,000 greater than last year's 427,000,000.

Harvesting of this big money crop, set to yield from 25 to 30 bushels an acre, is being delayed by wet weather, which if it persists, will cause "significant losses in the quality."

It made no mention of the quality.

A variety shipping problem, but in a previous report on supplies, it showed that western country elevators on Aug. 31 had 54,237,000 bushels of wheat in storage—almost triple the 19,157,000 on Aug. 31 a year ago.

Forecasts indicated that grain was being moved at about 1,200,000 bushels a day. Though it had not been publicly announced, it had been hoped that when transport controller Roy Milner was appointed, this would be boosted to 2,000,000 bushels a day to meet the wishes of the Canadian Wheat Board.

So far the boost has not been made. Officials, meanwhile say there is little use doing so, until eastern ports are cleared. Canadian authorities have made representations to British officials to step up deliveries of wheat from Canada.

However, Britain is believed to have enough supplies for her needs. Her storage capacity now is believed filled and consequently there is a tough row down on the shipment of wheat from Canadian points.

One well-informed source suggested that the road to solution of the problem for Canada is to get other wheat customers quickly — countries which have the storage capacity and are willing to buy wheat from Canada and take delivery immediately.

But such a solution is only a remote possibility. Meanwhile, it appears likely that the prairie farmer will have to get set for a tough harvest ahead of him.

During the Second World War, when a similar situation developed, the farmer turned every storage means available, even community halls and hockey arenas. They may have to do this again.

TLC Urges New Wage Drive To Offset Higher Living Costs

Halifax, Sept. 15. (CP)—A new wage drive aimed at offsetting rising cost of living was urged by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada Friday for all its union affiliates representing 500,000 workers.

The advice opened the prospect of a general wage campaign by about 80,000 Canadian union men, as the wage-conscious executive of the one 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor recently decided to go after a new round binged on the cost of living.

The T.L.C. action came as the prospect arose that the unions of this congress representing about 100,000 rail workers might strike Sept. 21 unless a settlement is signed after government arbitration of last-year's rail strike, blocked run until Oct. 31. The key question of trying to get the contracts opened for cost-of-living clauses likely will be discussed at a meeting of Canadian chiefs of these 15 unions at Montreal next Wednesday.

Friday the congress hung the axe to its affiliates on the cost of living, declaring increases should be sought to "compensate for the exorbitant increases in the cost of living and thereby protect the standard of living of their members."

While delivering its admonition, the congress did not attempt to set up any machinery for wage proceedings. It took action on a suggestion from Bob Brown, Toronto International representative of the Printing Pressmen's Union, that T.L.C. "zone councils" should be set up to coordinate wage drives regionally.

Aside from wages, a further recommendation to all unions was that, in their next negotiations, they press hard for closed shop—under which only union employees could work in contracted firms—and for the checkoff of union dues by employers. Both wages and closed shop played a prominent part in the T.L.C.'s deliberations today, and it called for a reduced hours week and for government action to make lowcost housing available.

The housing resolution demanded:

1. A Dominion-wide, low-rental program of home building financed by the national credit, and with the three levels of government co-operating. It should house those in the low-income brackets who cannot afford today's rents.

2. Strict control on rents as part of the housing program.

Further Arrests May be Expected In Alleged Thefts

Toronto, Sept. 15. (CP)—Police indicated today that further arrests may be expected in an investigation of wholesale thefts from the Stromberg-Carlson radio plant here.

Probing an alleged theft ring among employees at the plant, where between $20,000 and $30,000 worth of radios have disappeared, police yesterday arrested two workers and Alfred (Cam) Ecclestone, 40, well-known softball player.

A brother obtained Ecclestone's release on $10,000 bail. Also arrested were Jack Ecclestone and Wilfrid McLean.

Police said the radios appear to be secretly removed from the plant and taken to sales outlets to be sold at greatly-reduced prices. A number were recovered.

Ecclestone's brother, William, said his brother Cam had obtained two radios on a "wholesale" basis but had returned both of them.

"Maybe the police think they were all in cahoots", said William, "but I'm sure the facts will prove otherwise."

The brother gained wide prominence in 1936 when he pitched a no-hit, no-run game in the Intermediate "A" softball "World Series" at Chicago. Three nights ago he hurled for Stromberg in an Ontario amateur softball playoff game.

3. Immediate priority in the building situation, the Congress asked for repeal of the 10-per-cent sales tax and for some reduction in the scale of income taxation. There were:

4. Tax-free exemptions to $3,000 for married and $1,500 for single taxpayers from the existing $2,000 and $1,000, and increasing to $400 from $150 the exemption for each child.

5. Exempting family allowance payments altogether.

6. Allowing "reasonable" deduction on workers' expenses for tools an atransportation in connection with their employment.

SIX CONVICTS BACK IN CUSTODY AFTER ESCAPE

15 Alabama Outlaws Still at Liberty

Speigner, Ala., Sept. 15—(AP) —Six of 21 convicts who made a daring break from Draper last night were back in custody today. An intensive search went on for the others.

As an aftermath, prison director J. M. McCullough announced the firing of two lower guards, who, he said, could have prevented the break if they had been at their posts.

Three of the escaped convicts were captured at Selma, Ala., within a few hours after their escape. Two others were run down by dogs. Another was taken on a train near the prison.

Those picked up at Selma were Robert Cottrell, serving a two-year forgery term, Donald Phillips and Neal Michelson.

Warden R. B. Reeves said the ringleader was Frank Green, a convicted murderer, who grabbed the guard at the front inside gate and overpowered him. Green was serving a life term.

Reeves said he had taken the gun to let him put some papers in the guard's desk outside the gate, Reeves said.

Reeves said Michelson helped Green overpower the guard. The guard, W. C. White, who was beaten, is in a Birmingham hospital.

They ransacked the prison arsenal, then rounded up five other guards and locked them in a cell office together with two prisoners, Reeves added.

The escapees left cell doors along the main corridor, they sped off in prison trucks.

Others captured were Alton R. Dabney, serving a 20-year term for assault, and Norman McClain, given two years for grand larceny. They were run down by prison guards at Porter Creek, about two miles south of Draper.

Among those still missing was one of Alabama's most notorious convicts, 33-year-old Leo Self, who had five life sentences against his record. He was serving a 20-year robbery sentence.

Farmers Given Sound Advice On Fertilizers

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) —The Ontario Department of Agriculture had some timely advice for farmers Friday.

For improved fall pasture, it recommended a quick-acting nitrogen fertilizer applied as early this month. It suggested 125 pounds of ammonium sulphate or 75 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre.

For quick growth of pasture in early spring, it suggested application of 200 pounds an acre of granular cyanamid in the late fall.

It added that grasses respond to phosphates as well as to nitrogenous fertilizers, depending on the two, applied in the fall, not only will give the pastures a good start in the fall but a boost in early spring growth.

Ammonium phosphate 11-48-0 applied this autumn at the rate of 100 pounds an acre would give good results.

Build Up Strength, NATO Is Warned By Van Zeeland

Restore Armament Balance, Belgian Premier Urges

Ottawa, Sept. 15—(CP)—The military power of the 12 member nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is still far below the level of communist armed might, Foreign Minister Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium said today.

"A balance of that kind is . . . the only way in which war can be avoided," the Belgian vice-president of the North Atlantic Council, declared in opening the seventh session of the council.

Speaking from the floor of the House of Commons, he delivered the brief address to the 300 delegates first in English and then in French.

He stood at the head of a long table at which sat the leading delegates from the 12 Atlantic Nations—including State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison of the United Kingdom and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France.

In seats ordinarily occupied by members of the commons sat the principal advisers to the main delegates.

Big Press Attendance

Newspaper men on hand for the Belgian's address overflowed the enclosed regular press gallery into the diplomatic and ladies' galleries.

The Belgian diplomat said N. A. T. O. was created to catch up to the military strength of "the adversaries of our common civilization." It had been making the greatest possible effort in the 30 months since it was organized to this end.

"It is by restoring a balance in armaments . . . that the real chances of peace will endure," he said. "We are still a long way off our objective."

He paid tribute to what N.A.T.O. members had already done and to the "profound personality of General Eisenhower" through whom "the Atlantic army is slowly coming to life and being."

He gave the United States and Canada credit for the assistance they have given but declared it would be unjust not to recognize the results obtained by the European countries themselves. However, still more was needed from all members.

Danger Imminent

Deeply conscious of the imminence of the danger, we feel the critical moment approaching at which the scales of fate will turn either towards peace or war."

That is why N.A.T.O. was a bit impatient to see itself with overwhelming strength. That is why "we continually turn an eye on the delays, on the difficulties and on the enormous task which remains to be accomplished."

At the end of his address, Mr. Van Zeeland praised Canada as a country "whose generosity, courage and devotion to the cause of western civilization we all admire." Later he linked Canada with the United States as the basis for N.A.T.O.'s preliminary achievement.

But he put his stress on calling for a greater rearmament effort

Thomas Bata Offers Engineer A New Home

Batawa, Ont., Sept. 15—(CP)— Thomas Bata, a Czech shoe manufacturer here, has offered Francek Jarda, Czech locomotive engineer who drove a train loaded with passengers out of communist Czechoslovakia, a home and a job in Canada.

Mr. Bata said Thursday night he read an account of the train ride to freedom in a Toronto newspaper and decided that Jarda "sounded as if he had the right ideas about democracy."

He sent the engineer a cable offering him, his wife and two children a new life in this eastern Ontario village.

Jarda drove the locomotive into the U.S. zone of Germany Tuesday.

Short Change Act Failed to Work On Store Clerk

St. Catharines, Sept. 15 (CP) —Thursday three men tried to work a short change act on Loreta Newman, clerk in an east end confectionery store, but failed.

Friday two men walked into the confectionery store, pulled out a gun and said to Miss Newman:

"You thought you were pretty smart yesterday, didn't you? But you won't be today. Give us all the money and let's have no fooling."

Miss Newman opened the cash register, took out all the bills and threw them on the floor. When the bandits stooped for the money she grabbed a bottle of pop.

She threw one bottle after another at the thugs. They ran to a waiting motor car and speedaway—without the money.

Tension Increases On Picket Lines In Tobacco Strike

Hamilton, Sept. 15 (CP) — Tension increased in the picket lines of striking Tuckett Tobacco Company employees today as police reserves officers were brought through the company gates. There were no incidents reported.

The office staff had embarked in cars at Stoney Creek, Ont., this morning and were driven through the picket lines under the eye of four provincial police. Pickets said that police had checked the list of employees first.

Although no comment came from the company, the union said that tightening of security had been responsible for the police escort.

Meanwhile John Cleland, president of Local 269 Tobacco Workers Industrial Union, prepared to go leave for Montreal where a joint policy meeting of 3,000 striking Imperial Tobacco employees is set for tomorrow. The head of the Hamilton tobacco local was hopeful that the talks would provide a key to end the five-week-old strike.

BRUDA MAY WIN

Toronto, Sept. 15—(CP)—The Globe and Mail says today that Turk Broda, goalie for the Toronto Maple Leafs, may be a Progressive Conservative candidate in the next provincial election.

In a newspage story the newspaper says that he may contest the riding of York West. The York West seat now is held by Charles M. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP)— Synopsis: The sun rose into clear skies over southern Ontario this morning, but it failed to show itself to northern residents owing to the extensive cloud cover over these regions.

It will play hide and seek today, with clouds which will gather this afternoon in the southern sections of the province. These clouds will produce scattered showers and occasional thunderstorms.

On Sunday it will put in an appearance over all regions of Ontario prevailing a pleasant termination of the weekend.

UN Ready to Bomb Manchurian Bases if Reds Unleash Air Force

U.S. Fifth Air Force Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 15—(AP)— The first powerhouse punch in Korea by the big Jets and bombers of the communists are reported to have massed in Manchuria might unleash allied air might against Manchurian air bases.

That, in effect, was suggested today by the commanding officer of U.S. Fifth Air Force and by highly-placed sources in Washington.

The communists restrictions do not permit me to attack airdromes across the Yalu River (boundary for Korea, China and Manchuria), said Maj.-Gen. Frank F. Everest.

"But I would assume that if the United Nations forces were attacked in force in the air, these restrictions would be lifted."

In Washington, it was understood at the top military level that, if enemy jet-made aircraft or troops, the allies would retaliate by going after the Manchurian bases and pursuing red planes north of the Yalu.

These officials said they anticipated no political difficulties with other U.N. countries should retaliation be necessary.

Russian-type MIG-15 jets now enter north Korea in groups up to around 60, tangle for only a few minutes with American jets, then whoosh back across the Yalu, the privileged allied jets stop at the river.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, before his dismissal from his commands, frequently had deplored the existence of the Yalu sanctuary for privileged sanctuary.

The fact that allied airmen have been cited at the restriction has been an open secret for months.

The reds are reported to have built up an air force in Manchuria about equal to U.S. air power in Korea. Top defence chiefs in Washington are known to fear a Pearl Harbor type of air attack.

Dash-for-Freedom on Train Planned By Czech Engineer Months Ago

Straubing, Germany, Sept. 15 (AP)—Men who risked death to help Francek Jarda unfold the secret story behind their dash last Tuesday from communist Czechoslovakia in a train captured at pistol point.

The engineer who raced at Tull throttle was already marked down by security police for arrest.

Anti-communist friends stood by to help him and his handlers in the four-car train, ready to shoot it out if the communist conductor or two soldiers and a policeman among the passengers tried to interfere.

Thirty-one Czechs from the train have been granted political asylum by the U.S. Army commissioner's office. Seventy-seven who were involuntary passengers on the amazing dash through the Iron Curtain have been back to Czechoslovakia.

Jaroslav Konvalinka, 41, who brought his wife and two children, aged 4 and 5, on the freedom train, was the locomotive engineer who first conceived the escape plan months ago. He had identified himself earlier here as Francek Jarda, "for reasons of safety."

The train leader was Karel Truska, 31, former station master at Asch.

They left a 20-day for last Tuesday when Konvalinka was assigned to pilot the Prague-Asch express. They had already confirmed that a train was free across the border from Asch during the mid-day.

Thirteen miles from the Czech-West German frontier, Truska climbed aboard the locomotive, waved a pistol at the communist fireman, and forced him to lie down.

Thirty-Six Years With Railway Subject of Talk

Newton Thompson, charter member of the Belleville Y's Men's Club and past International president, was the speaker of the evening as the local club opened its fall meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday night. Enthusiasm ran high as members and visitors assembled under the chairmanship of president Bryson Leslie, and accomplishments of the past season as well as plans for the months ahead, indicate that the club is carving a solid niche of service in the Y.M.C.A. and the community.

The club voted a sum of money to be supplemented by individual contributions to aid victims of the Kingston, Jamaica hurricane. Projects at the Moira Lake camp were also given support. Honor will be done the Y's Men's Pee Wee ball team at the next meeting of the club, when Ted Wooding has been tireless in his efforts for these youngsters during the summer.

Railway is Subject

Commending the Y's Men on their work, Mr. Thompson, took as his topic "36 years with the Railway" in which he drew illustrations of discipline applicable to railroading and to life. Paying tribute to the opportunities which made him a railroader he stated there was no other work which he would wish if he had his choice to start over again. He discussed the functions and duties of the president and the various vice-presidents, the general superintendent and the division superintendents, the yard masters or chief clerks, and indicated that all are guided by the rule book which contains the answer to any problem which might arise and along with the time table is the guide for every railroad man.

It is inexcusable for any railroad man not to be familiar with these regulations. With such an organization, he continued, it is possible for the president to keep in touch with the safe and satisfactory operation of the railroad. The speaker used the illustration of the make-up and dispatch under running orders of 20 car, million dollar freight. Only the strictest observance of the rules of railroad with absolute knowledge of the accompanying symbols make possible the safety of the run and the arrival without incident at the destination. Every engineer takes his life in his hands when he starts on such a run so that his strictest observance of rules is mandatory for his own life as well as his personal safety of duties.

Continuing, the speaker reminded the members that they were guided by a framework of living directed by chosen officers. The success of a local club or the international organization was dependent on the adherence of members to the rules set forth.

Bible Is Guide

"In life", he added, "the Bible was the guide for personal living illustrating that personal life was different to the organized life as is club or organization member but indicated that the President was God who lived within each individual as a Spirit, whereas the organization president lived removed from the individual by the very many things that are and moved and had his being." When man did the spirit departs from him.

Because we are personalities, the speaker concluded, we have a will of our own by which we say what we want to do and no one can make us do otherwise.

The speaker was introduced by Y's Man Ralph Bailey and thanked by Y's Man Howard Cole.

Announcement was made that some fourteen members would attend the regional meeting at Orillia, September 15 and 16th. Past president, Jerry Hyde, is up for the office of District-Governor. Bud Trill will lead a forum on World Outlook.

Plans are already underway for the annual Radio Auction to be held in November and for the sale of Christmas trees.

Princess Elizabeth, Philip To Leave Trenton by Plane

Trenton, Sept. 15. (Special)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will fly from Trenton to Toronto on their tour of Canada, and not proceed by train as formerly planned, Lieutenant Governor Ray Lawson's office in Toronto announced today.

Previously, train arrangements which called for departure from Trenton at 4 p.m. Tuesday, 5 p.m. and stops at Cobourg with slowdowns at Oshawa and Port Hope have been cancelled.

The Lieutenant Governor's office received word of the change from the Royal tour committee, Ottawa.

Former plans called for the Royal train to arrive at Trenton at one o'clock and leave for Toronto at three.

Mayor Ken Conch said this morning that the Royal entourage would arrive by train at Trenton at 2:30 p.m. and leave by air at 4:30 p.m.

While up to 50,000 people are expected to line routes and swarm into the Trenton Air Station, Mrs. Conch, Mrs. Elizabeth and Prince Philip, the Trenton Royal visit commission have planned to receive the Royal couple and handle the influx. Arrangements are virtually complete to accommodate the largest crowd ever to flock into this town and the adjoining airport on the afternoon of Oct. 5th.

Present at the meeting in the town office on Thursday night were Chairman L.I. Gardner, Thomas McNeil, Frank Sherman, R. Smithrim, O. W. Larry, Mayor K. J. Conch, Police Chief J. Taylor, F. J. Aziz, A. J. Wheeman, Hugh Taylor, N. H. Banfield, Phil Flagler.

Discussing the procedure for the press during the visit, it was decided to call a meeting of the press members and photographers would come under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Philip.

The question of publicity was discussed and it was concluded that the Royal visit publicity would be "Local Area" in scope, and that the publicity should be kept to be informative to the public concerning details of the visit. Correspondence will accompany no one with the efforts being made to stabilize the conditions in the hope that every precaution is taken to prevent advantage of visitors in Trenton. As an indication of this, as will appear in other commission directives, it was outlined that prices for food stuffs, seating and car parking will be capped as far as possible. Publicity of the publicity committee Phil Flagler made the suggestion that information booths might be established for the information of the public, and to assist the normal traffic avenues will be blocked by the police.

Decorations will come under the chairmanship of O. M. Newton, with sub-committee including Dennis Cummer, W. Thompson, Ross Burtt, A. Cheesman, E. Smithrim and D. Sutherland.

Couch Reports

Mayor Couch reported on the proposed room accommodation. Mrs. Mick Kerr has volunteered her services and is having a survey made of room accommodation available for the use of a listing of private rooms. It is proposed that a central register be established to assist visitors unable to locate through normal sources. All listings will be closed September 22.

F. J. Aziz accepted the chairmanship of the catering committee. He will make a survey and review the intentions of the proprietors of restaurants. A request will be made requesting all those who intend to open temporary booths to sell foodstuffs make application to the chairman. There may be a license fee required for the operation of such establishments and a temporary license issued by the department of Health. Every effort will be made to hold prices of food down. September 25 is the closing date for applications.

Problems of seating and car parking accommodations was dealt with. The Trenton Recreation Commission is the only group which has indicated its intention to provide such accommodation, which is to be at Bain Memorial Park. The commission anticipates that it will have 700 seats available and car parking space for 2,000 cars. It was proposed that they charge $2 for seating admission, and 50 cents for car parking, but the opinion of the committee was that $2 was too high and it was recommended that $1.50 per seat was sufficient.

School Children Placed

It was recommended that school children be accommodated at the North Trenton school for pupils of that school and school district to the north, and at St. Peter's property for the children on the west side of the river and at Dr. McQuade's hill for the children of the east side. Such accommodation will provide washroom facilities for children. Frank Sherbert was delegated to convey such plans to Mrs. Cochrane, who is the president of the Teachers' Association, and who will be in charge of this phase. N. H. Banfield, who is looking after the accommodation of out-of-town school children has been in contact with the school inspector and is requesting immediate response as to the number of children from the Prince Edward County district that will be coming to Trenton. It is anticipated that school children will come from as far north as Madoc. The general public accommodation will not require too much special arrangement, but ropes will be placed along Dundas Street from the west side of the C.N.R. tracks to Gilmour Hill.

First aid arrangements will be co-ordinated between the groups under the supervision of Jack Hallett, D.C., and the RCAF. Dr. McQuade, M.O.H., is to be contacted to act as a liaison officer between the other Trenton doctors for the day.

Chief Taylor outlined precautions to be taken and the closing off of the traffic.

It was decided that, in addition to the Lions Club band and the Legion, Bells will be rung, for which will probably be at the air station, efforts should be made to secure the services of additional ring bands. Bandmaster Cooper of Trenton will contact the Kinsmen band of Belleville, Citizens band and bands at Peterborough and Cobourg.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will leave for their tour of Canada Sept. 25, will do their best to satisfy the thousands of Canadians who wish to see them, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said today.

Two human beings could not a visit every town in Canada in a four-week tour, he said, but added:

"During the hours of daylight they will probably be on view to appear in the observation car at the rear of their train to see crowds which are likely to gather at the stations on their route across the country."

Asked to comment on a report that Princess Elizabeth may alter her program to visit Duncan, B.C., the spokesman said:

"Neither the Princess nor the Duke of Edinburgh can visit Duncan with the tour arrangements."

Many Canadians have written to the Princess asking her to visit their towns and villages during the tour. Some have complained of omission and have appealed to the Princess to see if the schedule cannot be widened.

Faulty Switch Cause of Blaze

A faulty switch on an electric stove which failed to shut off the current when turned was blamed for a minimum fire damage Friday evening at the home of Garnet Lindsay, 3d Concession Sidney Township. Cupboards in the kitchen were scorched and smoked as result of the blaze which was extinguished by the family before the arrival of the Belleville Fire Department which was called.

POLICE BLOTTER

Three stolen cars were reported to city and provincial police over the night, one of the cars being taken from a service station lot in Belleville, one from Trenton and one from Picton.

Mrs. Aldeen Eggleton, R.R. 2, Holloway, reported that her car had been taken from the Regent service station lot on Dundas Street. She had left the car for her husband to pick up but the vehicle was missing this morning. The car had not been locked, it was stated.

A Hillcrest woman complained that an auto robe had been stolen from her car, the vehicle having been parked at the rear of a local hotel.

Provincial Police reported a minor accident had occurred between a highway transport and a milk truck. No injuries were reported.

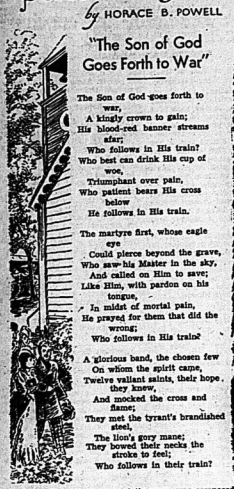
To see Canada--
go through this door!



It's untrue to this country set out to find true Canadian atmosphere, certainly one of the first places he should go is the nearest drug store. For Canada's pharmacies — from Newfoundland to British Columbia — have a character all their own. It's really a blend of many things: The prescription department, stocked with the latest products of medical science. The shelves of bright, attractive merchandise. The friendly summertime drinks . . . often with the familiar soda fountain inviting you to refreshment. The every present spirit of courteous service.
And the pharmacist himself is essentially a product of North America — where one finds a larger number of skilled professional men than in any other part of the world. The scientific career he selected is a typical Canadian opportunity. And he, in return, has contributed a proud service which has helped to make this country one of the healthiest on earth.
Get better acquainted with your pharmacist. Trade with him — he's a man you can rely on.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"The Son of God Goes Forth to War"

The Son of God goes forth to war,
A kingly crown to gain;
His blood-red banner streams afar;
Who follows in His train?
Who best can drink His cup of woe,
Triumphant over pain,
Who patient bears His cross below
He follows in His train.

The martyre first, whose eagle eye
Could pierce beyond the grave,
Who saw his Master in the sky,
And called on Him to save;
Like Him, with pardon on his tongue,
In midst of mortal pain,
He prayed for them that did the wrong;
Who follows in His train?

A glorious band, the chosen few
On whom the spirit came,
Twelve valiant saints, their hope they knew,
And mocked the cross and flame;
They met the tyrant's brandished steel,
The lion's gory mane;
They bowed their necks the stroke to feel;
Who follows in their train?

Great religious and patriotic festivals and anniversaries have inspired the writing of many of Christendom's finest and favorite hymns.

Dr. Sabine Baring-G. uld wrote his hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers" for a Sunday School marching song. "God of Our Fathers" was turned out by the Rev. Daniel C. Roberts in 1875 to be sung at a festival celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of American Independence.

"The Sun of God Goes Forth to War," one of the most popular of the 57 hymns of Bishop Reginald Heber, eminent English churchman, was composed to satisfy a desire for a song appropriate for St. Stephen's Day.

The second stanza of the hymn, published above, tells the story of the stoning of Stephen as found in the Bible in the seventh chapter of the Acts of the Apostles:

"And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.

"And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep."

Bishop Heber was born in 1783 and was only 40 years old when he was consecrated Bishop of Calcutta and sent out for a missionary career in India. His work abroad was cut short by death, three years later.

All of Bishop Heber's songs — including his precious missionary hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," and his hymn to the Holy Trinity which is almost as well known — were written during a five-year pastorate which he served, beginning in 1807, at Hodnet, England. Theywere published by his widow in 1857, a year after his death, in a collection entitled "Hymns Written and Adapted to the Weekly Church Services of the Year."

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

ST. GALLEN

(Article 37)

St. Gallen, Switzerland (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — It just occurred to me that I have been staying the better part of a year in St. Gallen without mentioning it except in isolated cases. It is probable that not many Canadians have heard the name before. Since it is perhaps overshadowed in Switzerland by more famous cities such as Geneva, Zurich or Basle.

It is tucked off in the northeastern part of Switzerland and so is out of the way of most traffic. Nevertheless it is well known throughout Europe as the centre of the textile industry, which, although it has declined somewhat in recent years, still plays an important role in the life of the city. Of this I shall have more to say later.

The city was founded in the seventh century by an Irish monk named Gallus, who built a small monastery on the site of the present cathedral. Down through the ages it became famous as a centre of learning, starting at the time of Charlemagne and continuing until the late Middle Ages.

Built in a long narrow valley, and on the sides of the two hills, the city is shaped something like a shoe box. From the sides of the hills one can see the Lake of Constance and the Austrian border some 20 miles away. It is situated over 2,000 feet above sea level so that the university here has the reputation of being the highest one in Europe. Sometimes the clouds come floating down the valley and cover the upper parts of the city completely, so that often I have literally walked home on the clouds.

No Two Cities Alike

No two cities in Switzerland are at all alike. Perhaps I can say that St. Gallen is relatively rural and conservative. Several times I have seen farmers leading a cow down the main street, which is quite good for a city of 70,000 people. Imagine that in so many people from St. Gallen have settled there. The people here had a good laugh on Zurich, for I told them that the only Zurich I knew in Canada or America was a little village in Ontario.

And finally St. Gallen is the location of the world-famous Children's Festival, which has just taken place, and which I shall describe in a subsequent article.

CHANGE IN TOUR ROUTE SUGGESTED

The by-passing of several Eastern Ontario municipalities by the forth-coming tour of Their Royal Highnesses, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, while unavoidable due to the rigidity of their schedule, is nevertheless disappointing. The opportunity to see the heir apparent to the British crown will not likely be presented to Canadians again for some time, if ever.

A proposal, therefore, that would give thousands of Belleville and district residents an opportunity of seeing the Royal pair, without lengthening their timetable in any way, merits serious consideration. It has been proposed that the Royal party leave their train at the C.N.R. station in Belleville and motor along Bleecker Avenue to Bridge Street and along Bridge Street to No. 2 Highway and thence to the Trenton air station. Such a route would afford the citizens of this city a chance to see the visitors, without, in any way, endangering their tight timetable or creating serious traffic conditions along Front Street or at the Front Road.

As their itinerary stands now the Royal train will make a divisional stop in Belleville of 15 minutes, and then will proceed to Trenton Junction where the party will disembark and travel by car back to the air station. After a brief stay they will again traverse the same route on their return to the train, or pick up the train at Trenton. The detour proposed, while it would eliminate one of the drives through Trenton, is in no way taken away from the reception which that community has planned.

There is also much to recommend the idea from the standpoint of providing the Royal couple with a pleasing and delightful view of the finest scenery in Eastern Ontario. There would be no need to tarnish the route with decorations for its natural beauty is such that any artifice would be only displeasing.

Their Royal Highnesses have expressed the desire to make their journey an "informal" one, and have repeatedly stated that they would like to visit with as many of the Canadian people as possible. The suggestion which has been put forward complies in every respect with these sentiments.

ARE CIGARETTES OVERTAXED?

According to a Canadian Press dispatch from Simcoe, the Norfolk County Council is "unanimously" supporting the demands of the Ontario Flue Cured Tobacco Marketing Board for a reduction in the sales tax on cigarettes.

Fred. Cunningham, who is the reeve of Windham Township and a director of the tobacco marketing board, claims cigarette sales have decreased 17 per cent since the recent tax increase forced cigarette prices higher.

Mr. Cunningham estimated that by the end of the current year the federal government will have lost about $20,000,000 in revenue through the drop in cigarette sales.

Throughout the district in western and southwestern Ontario in which tobacco is an important source of farm income, growers are holding protest meetings. The growers and their spokesmen purpose meeting Finance Minister Douglas Abbott on September 20th to state their case.

When cigarettes were selling at 35 cents per package of 20, the government was collecting approximately 23 cents, or about two-thirds of the retail price, in taxation. Since the price has been raised, it may be assumed that the government is still collecting about two-thirds of the retail price in taxation.

Whether cigarettes are regarded as a necessity, a luxury, or a curse, it is scarcely to be argued that taxation on any such scale as that at present levied is reasonable. If Mr. Cunningham is correct, or nearly correct, in his estimate that the government is going to lose $20,000,000 this year through decreased cigarette sales, it is not even expedient.

In the United States, cigarettes are taxed by both the federal and state governments. In spite of this double taxation, which does not apply in Canada outside Quebec, the American smoker buys his cigarettes for less than half the Canadian price.

If any particular class of taxpayers is entitled to consideration when the government undertakes to make changes in its taxation schedule, surely the cigarette smoker should not be ignored.

RIGHTS OF WOMEN

Down through the years those opposing equal rights for women have been fearful of the results. They foresaw the danger of women becoming too assertive and demanding a bit more than equality. Despite the last remaining strongholds of male domination on the continent, this attitude has cropped up again — and not without a bit of reason, comments the Windsor Star.

Evidence is that men were forced loans to put proper floors in their igloos, to avoid the springtime mud. But it was stipulated both husband and wife had to sign for the loan, and the Eskimo men objected. It made the women too important and they began interfering in the prerogatives of men. As usual, regardless of equal rights, the women had their way and got their floors. We hope this won't lead to too many disputes in igloos where harmony previously prevailed, just because the women got uppity.

ZINNIAS

From the gardens to the rooms
Come the sturdy zinnia blooms,
Unresentful of the hours
God has set for all the flowers;
Glad to live and glad to toil
Whether rich or poor the soil.

Bronze or yellow, pink or red,
Whether small or massive head,
In their labor taking pride,
Living peacefully, side by side;
Never envying blossoms rare
Sheltered with a tenderer care,

What a lesson in the fall
Faithful zinnias teach us all!
Asking favors none to give;
Grateful for the chance to live;
Suffering as must often we;
Autumn's zinnia's glad to be.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE HAVE TO STAND STRAIGHT

God has made the universe—something so immeasurably vast that the mind of man cannot comprehend it. Yet, singularly enough, God does not seem to be interested in morons.

When a moral question is at stake, God does not count noses to see how many are on the side of right. He often gives the victory to mere handfuls of undistinguished folk who defy the pretensions and wrath of multitudes. Often in human history one man has stood against a nation, it has often been said that one man and God constitute a majority.

History bears out this contention.

Jesus said on one occasion, "Where two or three are gathered in My name, there am I in the midst of them." This means therefore that two or three Christian believers may be doing more for world peace by their prayers and genuine piety than the U. N. is doing with its hurrah, and, frequently, with moral compromise.

Our hopes are centred in the U. N. But let us never forget that not as an individual has to stand straight morally, so the U. N. will have to do the same. Right and wrong sometimes rise above the code of nations and the character of international agreements.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

A HERO'S DEATH

For well over 30 years I lived with the idea that Robinson Crusoe was having a wonderful time on his island and wished I were there.

Mention that magic name and I could see him in his outlandish coat of goat-skins, Poll, his parrot, on his shoulder, patrolling the white coral beach or his own green isle, picking grapes and bananas from the trees for his lunch, master of himself and his private paradise.

You can imagine my bitter disillusionment, then when a friend of mine—aged 12—loaned me his copy of the immortal yarn the other day and I looked at Robinson Crusoe with the pouchy, jaundiced eyes of an adult. A little bit of romance curled up, went "Whoop, Whoop," and died.

I've a hunch that if Daniel Defoe's classic had come out this year the critics, to a man, would have found poor Crusoe a mass of neuroses with schizophrenic tendencies, a guilt complex to end all, and, altogether, ripe for the psychiatric couch.

Who could time? Oh, no, Robinson had 28 long years of selfpity upon his 'horrid island,' as he called it, before he was rescued, lately about his shortcomings, brooded and moaned, and wrote in his diary forever wringing his hands. In his own words he often had "a sad fit of it."

Even in his more contented moods, I now discover, poor Crusoe was in a constant state of "meditations, apprehensions and reflections." He was, I believe, the reflectionist par excellence, and the bare bones of his wonderful saga are fleshed with some of the tiresome nonsense that man or boy ever endured.

All Is Worry

Any adult who retains from boyhood an evergreen memory of the life and romantic, surprising adventures" of Mr. C. would be well-advised to leave it that way. He needs no more than unhappy ment, man to man, is no fun at all.

For one thing, Robinson, being a worrier, had no appetite what-ever for his life. Until the very end he regrets that he ever left home and a comfortable, middle class existence which he judged to be the best state in the world.

He thinks often every sixth page, it seems) of the ideal way of life in which a man might prudently and smoothly through the world and comfortably out of it". A bolt of a way for a man on a desert island to look at things, if I may say so.

Almost nothing happens to Crusoe that he doesn't sit right down to fret about it and, more, to ponder in his endless, lonely way, the midst of fighting two hungry cannibals, he pauses long enough to say, apologetically, "There was no room for reflection now" for which this reader muttered to himself, "Good. Get on with the scrap."

I wonder now how I ever got through the book as a boy and, having got through it, how I ever fastened on the idea that Robinson was a happy, heroic soul.

I suppose it was just that I wanted him to be that way. Or maybe I wisely skipped those tedious paragraphs on which he establishes himself as a homely colt-philosopher and a bit of a boob, to boot.

For hardly a chapter goes by that Crusoe isn't seen at his worst, crying "O miserable creature, whither am I going?" or having "distractions of my heart" or "approaching myself with my past life." Crusoe had it tough all right, but he seemed to like it that way.

The moralizing, itself, was merely a luxury. Having money on his island, for example, Crusoe called it" nasty, sorry, useless stuff" and talked endlessly about the "worthlessness" of it. Much later, back in civilization and with some $25,000 in his kicks, old Bob could see his plight with all the hard-headedness of a St. James Street tycoon.

Friday's Fate

In all the 28 years and close to 300 pages of reflections, Crusoe never did change his ideas much and was still a fair away from being a well-adjusted person when he left as when he was tossed up on those shores.

At a boy I relished the meeting with Friday and those chapters are still the most readable, to my old book. But now I find that Crusoe couldn't resist playing the missionary.

Friday, himself, was clearly twice the man that Robinson was, like a pair of linen drawers to cove his nakedness, teaching Friday to call him "master" and to worship him as the supreme being. Friday had a pretty good god, nam' o' Benamuckee, but Crusoe wasn't having it and thoroughly bewildered the poor native with a 40-odd pages of theology.

When help finally did come Crusoe developed a royalty phobia, the fear of losing and ended became his "dominion" and Crusoe reflecting (still reflecting) on his "property" and his "rights." In reality, of course, he was just an old, testy man in a goat skin.

Mind you, it's a very great book and Defoe was the cleverest of reporters, as you can plainly see when he describes the steps down from his home-made" pulpit. But Robinson Crusoe, I regret to say is no longer the man I knew and loved and I am a little sad about it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DARE TO VENTURE

To the daring and venturesome do we owe most of the world's pioneers, inventors, and builders. They who had vision and who dared and who failed, and who tried. People who faced hardships and privations, clearing lands, building roads and forests and building towns and cities that today bear the marks of their sacrifices.

The electric light, the automobile, the telephone, the radio, the TV, the deep freeze, and endless number of other inventions and discoveries have changed the way of life in this world. People who dared to open up new regions and spirit should read that Canadian classic "Maria Chapdelaine," by Louis Hemon. It was written about thirty years ago and translated from the French into English. It is "Canada's most lasting contribution to English romantic literature."

My first visit to Salt Lake City was an event in my life, for I kept thinking of the vision of those Mormons who tracked their way across uncharted territory, experienced hardships of the direst character, yet who founded on an outstanding spot one of the most beautiful cities in all America. Later, I visited Colorado and saw what the stalwarts who dared set to venture. We are all debtors to them.

Because of the venture daring of Henry Flagler who built the railway over the wastes of Florida, that region has since blossomed into a paradise of health, now spotted with thriving cities and winter homes that are among the most beautiful in all America. To the late Carl Fisher also goes credit for the vision of making Miami Beach from hardly more than a thicket marsh and sand dunes, one of the pioneering spirit should read that Canadian classic "Maria Chapdelaine," by Louis Hemon. It was written about thirty years ago and translated from the French into English. It is "Canada's most lasting contribution to English romantic literature."

Personal Health Talks

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS

The modern method of treating infected tonsils—diathermy, electro-coagulation, not "burning" or cauterizing—is usually not applicable in the case of a child under eight or ten years of age because a young child will rarely co-oper-ate with the doctor. However, I have seen a few children only five or six years old under diathermy treatment co-operate as well as any adult could. The children were patients of the pioneer of tonsil diathermy in New York City, but by now good doctors everywhere should have acquired as much skill as the pioneer had then.

Only in exceptional instances is either diathermy treatment or operation necessary or advisable for children under ten years of age, in my opinion.

More or less normal, perhaps physiological and beneficial to growth and development and natural immunity, is enlargement or hypertrophy of tonsils and adenoids in childhood.

A good doctor simply does not look for child's throat and, side the tonsils and adenoids are enlarged, and cut them out. That's shameful abuse of public confidence.

I repeat, mere enlargement (hypertrophy sounds more medical) of tonsils and/or adenoids (nothing more or less normal in children, particularly in late winter, spring or early summer. In any group of children whose tonsils are enlarged in the spring, tonsilitis in the autumn will show that in most instances the tonsils are no longer so large. You see, the children have had the boon of a tremendous amount of fresh air and sunshine in the interval. Such tonsils are "tempered" against fresh air and sunlight on naked skin in the winter time. Some parents, doctors and teachers are afraid the poor kids will "catch cold."

Adenoids are tonsils—same tissue composes the visible tonsils and the third or pharyngeal tonsil, invisible except in a throat mirror, or the dome of the throat behind the tip of the soft palate. Some tonsil, adenoid, epithelial tissue is always present there; when it is enlarged, swollen, hypertrophied we call it "adenoids".

Only occasionally is the pharyngeal tonsil so large that it obstructs the air-passage between nose and throat enough to call for surgical removal of the obstructing portion.

In a good many instances moderate enlargement of the third tonsil obstructs free ventilation of the ear through the Eustachian tube connecting postnasal space with middle ear cavity. This accounts for a good deal of impaired hearing in children often making a child seem "not bright" or "backward" in school because no one bothers to have the hearing tested. In these cases of impaired hearing and sometimes inflammation of the middle ear cavity, either X-ray or radium emanation (radon) treatment will shrink the adenoid tissue and relieve the ear trouble and restored hearing without pain or risk.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Slower Than Nitroglycerin

Your observation about throbbing headache after a dose of nitroglycerin prompts me to say that I have had the same experience, although I need the effect of nitroglycerin. My doctor then prescribed sodium nitrite tablets instead, one-grain each, and I find them very good. Only one tablet that I did from a nitrophenol tablet, but with similar throbbing, flushing or other discomfort. I thought this might inform readers who have c v. d. (S. J. M.)

Answer—Thank you. The effect of sodium nitrite is similar to that of 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet C V D (cardio-vascular degeneration), heart and artery troubles.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In one day in the Highlands of Scotland I have seen more wild animals than I have seen in a month in the Canadian wilderness or anywhere.

There were deer, roe deer, grouse ptarmigan, partridge and pheasant. Hare, rabbits by the hundreds, and hunting dogs galore. These things are not seen in Canadian mountains, mountains and moors, but from a motor car, driving along the winding little Highland roads. Roe deer, among which were the largest game seen, have not yet banded up. The stags herd in bachelor bands, the hinds and calves to themselves. It was a band of hinds I saw, and there must have been twenty or thirty in the band, and they vanished over the skyline. My Scottish escort said he could show me hundreds within twenty miles of where we stood.

Farm houses are scattered all over the moors, as well as the big mansions of the lairds who use their authority to protect and cultivate the game. They rear the pheasant in artificial surroundings in the private game rearing farms. Less inflammable, tamer and rabbits have had no encouragement, and survive despite all the centuries of hunting they have been subjected to.

The thing seems fairly certain: Scotland will never starve. There is a vastness to the country, in comparison to the human inhabitants, that vies with our Canadian prairies. It is a great rolling, rugged land, difficult to travel over save on the roads, and very deceiving in its rolling slopes. On the high land and lonely hills, the wild creatures have and always have had a chance to survive like could not be offered them anywhere else I can think of. It is a land of birds and wild life and nature that even the Rockies cannot match.

Letter to the Editor

More Weeds

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

I noted with interest your editorial on weeds, prevalent on the Province of Ontario road this time or last Tuesday. However it is not necessary to go that far to see a real crop of weeds.

The County of Hastings has constructed on the Trent Road a millfield-Cow home for old folks. In front of this home weeds are growing five feet high, including a good crop of rag-weed, the hay fever producer. All these weeds are at present going to seed and spreading to adjacent properties of people who have kept their land free of weeds.

The people of the Belleville district are very much interested in this new home but at present it is hard to see the home from the highway due to the weed crop.

If these weeds were on some private individual's property, a weed inspector would politely notify the owner to remedy the property to cut same.

Why can't the county allow these weeds to flourish?

"Trent Road Resident."

Price Controls Would Remedy Situation CCF Members Told

Only socialism will give the people of Canada a just distribution of goods and services, said Rev. Fred Young, Ontario organizer for the C.C.F. during an address he made to members and adherents of that party in the Belleville I.O.O.F. Hall, Friday evening.

Mr. Young quoted statistics which, he said, showed that Canadian production last year amounted to more than $1,000 per capita, or $5,000 per family. "We have produced the goods and the services, but we are not getting them," he said. "Why are we not getting them? The answer is: monopoly control by monopoly capitalism.

"We produce enough to give everyone in this country a good living and more, but everyone is not getting a good living," the speaker continued. "The reason for this is that we are enduring what is called inflation. Inflation simply means that a few people are collecting an unduly large share of what is being produced and should be distributed to others who need it."

Overseas Price Controls

Price controls, Mr. Young contended, would remedy this situation, just as, during the Second Great War, they had maintained a rising standard of living and at the same time enabled many people to save something out of income for the first time in their lives. This had been achieved, he added, even although about a million people had been taken out of normal production during those years.

"As soon as the crisis was over," Mr. Young States, "those who control the Liberal party told the government to remove price controls, and they were removed. They wanted the controls removed so that they could grab what the people had saved.

"This brought on what is called inflation. Inflation was simply a smart trick by the big interests to grab what they wanted. There is here minimum for the producers.

"Our standard of living should have risen sharply after the war, when all our young people came back either from the armed forces or from war production but it did not, Monopoly saw that it did not, for the reason I have just given you.

Speaker Asks Question

"What should I have done? I think that the answer is fairly obvious. Who is going to control this country, the monopolies or the people? Are we going to let those fellows ride roughshod over us forever? Are we going to allow a few to give the people a bare subsistence, while they keep all the rest of what is produced for themselves?

Price controls are what is needed. Price controls are only the restoration of a balance between what is paid to a worker and what he must pay out."

Mr. Young emphasized that neither a Liberal nor a Conservative government would ever give justice to the people. Both, he emphasized, had been tried many times and had always been found wanting. "Either would promise anything to get into power," he said, "but the promises were always forgotten as soon as the election had been fought."

Deals With Overproduction

Another point in his address, Mr. Young dealt with overproduction. "Capitalism's answer to overproduction," he said, "has always been war. Socialism's answer," he continued, "was reduction of labor."

E. R. Nelson, president of the South Hastings riding C. C. F. Association, was chairman of the meeting.

E. Gibbs, recording secretary of the organization, announced that that party would hold a nomination convention in the Belleville I. O. O. F. hall at 8:00 p. m., September 24.

Mr. Gibbs announced the C. C. F. organization would hold a pot luck supper. The speaker at this occasion, said Mr. Gibbs, would be Stanley Knowles, C. C. F. member of the House of Commons for Winnipeg North Centre.

Number of Planes Will Leave Hunt On Sunday

Kapuskasing, Sept. 15—(CP)—A number of planes engaged in the huge spread search for Toronto Maple Leaf hockey player Bill Barilko, missing denfter Flt. Henry Hudson will be withdrawn Sunday, it was announced today.

The two men have not been reported since they took off from Rupert's House on James Bay 20 days ago.

On Sunday three long-distance R.C.A.F. Lancaster bombers will be returned to their bases where, it was announced, they are needed to meet "training commitments." They will carry back R.C.A.F. personnel and Toronto newspaper men to various points in southern Ontario.

Twenty men under Flt. Lt. "Rusty" Rutson will continue the search of the tree and lake covered regions of northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec. A Dakota aircraft will also be based here for the hunt.

Today the Lancasters and four Lands Department Beaver aircraft, an R.C.A.F. Norseman and helicopter will make their final sweep over the district.

Boy's Appetite For Ice Cream Has No Limits

St. Louis, Sept. 15 (AP) — The latest box score in the count of how much ice cream a young boy can eat in a month lists six gallons consumed, two pounds of weight gained—and one trans-Atlantic telephone call.

Seven year old Charles Gibson was interviewed by telephone by the London Evening Standard. The newspaper wanted to know how it feels to have all the ice cream you can eat.

Charles had a one-word answer: "Great!"

The youngster, who was given all the ice cream he wanted for one month as a reward for returning lost money to a St. Louis ice-cream firm, has been putting away a quart per day on the average. Not only has he not lost interest, but his appetite for ice cream has increased.

Charles has only one regret —the month of free ice cream ends Sept. 20.

Ralph McCabe To Make Home In Belleville

Ralph McCabe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McCabe, and well-known baseball pitcher, will take up permanent residence here late this month, it was learned here today.

McCabe is at present in Bancroft, Iowa, where he is the playing coach of the Bancroft Baseball Club's entry in the Iowa State League. Yesterday he buried his team to its first victory in the league playoffs.

Ralph will become associated with his father in the Bay of Quinte Fisheries in the capacity of manager. He is married and has three sons.

City Population 19,394 According To June Census

Population of Belleville now stands at 19,394, according to the June census, it was reported today by the Bureau of Statistics. Belleville was listed in the second of a preliminary series of population figures based on the 1951 census.

The local population at the time of the 1941 census was 15,710, it was stated.

Fails to Lose Weight On Chicken Diet

Detroit, Sept. 15 —(AP) — Chicken every Sunday, and most weekdays, too, brought Mrs. Frances Dinsdale from London, England, to the United States.

She was going broke in England trying to stay on a diet of fowl.

The 240-pound English woman says she was under doctor's orders to eat mostly chicken to lose weight. But in England, a little" chicken costs around the equivalent of $4. On British pay, that's money.

So Mrs. Dinsdale packed up and came here to join her three sons, Frank, Joe and Charles. She's eating plenty of chicken now, and hopes to cut her weight to 200 pounds.

But it isn't working, at least so far. Mrs. Dinsdale has gained five pounds in the two weeks she has been here.

Western Farmers Seeking Labor In Belleville Area

Additional help for the wheatfields in Western Canada is needed if the crop is to be harvested safely and the National Employment Service is asking for experienced help from the Belleville district.

Already 34 farm helpers from the Quinte district have gone west to work in the wheatfields, but a call for additional help from Eastern Canada has been received.

Experienced workers willing to go west get transportation to Winnipeg for $15 and from there on are transported free of charge to localities where workers are needed. Transportation back to the Belleville district from any part of the west is $11.50. Men interested in going west are asked to contact the Belleville office of the National Employment Service.

Salvation Army Needs Equipment For Youth Activity

With the commencement of operations at the Salvation Army Youth Centre on Station Street the local Salvation Army officers are once again faced with the problem of securing recreational equipment such as ping-pong tables, checkers, crokinole boards and other similar articles. In order to meet the requirements with as little expense as possible they are appealing to citizens who might have such articles in storage, with the request that they be donated for this work. The Salvation Army will arrange to pick them up and all that is necessary is a call to telephone 4497 to make this arrangement.

It is the intention that the Station Street Youth Centre will function six nights a week from seven o'clock until 10, and in addition to the Cubs, Scouts, Brownies and Guide units, which will be meeting there, the recreational facilities will be at the disposal of the young people of the community. A staff of supervisors will be on duty at times and the program at the centre will be patterned on the lines of the well-known Army Red Shield Service Centres.

DANGEROUS DRIVING

Lindsay, Sept. 15 —(CP) — Twenty-year-old Peter B. Wilson of Montreal was fined $100 plus costs of $26.50 Friday on a charge of dangerous driving, the aftermath of an accident in which two were killed.

Wilson and four friends were driving from Montreal to Camp Borden early on Aug. 4 when the car entered a turn three miles west of town and rolled over. Trooper William Sawers and Sgt. David Woodward both of Montreal, were killed.

Wilson pleaded innocent but later changed his plea to guilty.

Premier Suggests Decorations Kept To Modest Scale

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) —Premier Frost Friday called on all municipalities in Ontario to make the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh the occasion of a "people's welcome."

At the same time he suggested to all municipal officials that decorations be kept to a modest scale.

"Their Royal Highnesses are interested in the people and are anxious that they should have an opportunity of seeing as many as possible," he said in a statement.

"Some inquiries have been made with relation to official decorations. The province proposes to have very modest decorations at the Parliament Buildings where their Royal Highnesses will be on a number of occasions and suggests to the municipalities that their decorations should also be of a modest nature. . .

"I am sure that their Royal Highnesses would be more impressed with the little flags and decorations that the people themselves would show rather than anything of an elaborate or official nature. The municipalities might encourage their people in demonstrations of affection and esteem which need not be expensive but would demonstrate the regard which our people have as individuals for the Princess and her husband. Our people should be asked to hang out their flags and small flags might be given to the school children."

Trip to Jasper National Park, Columbia Ice Fields Described

By CHARLES E. BONE

From the time of boarding the Continental Limited until arrival at Jasper we find "a home away from home" in the modern Canadian National bedroom-lounge car complete with chesterfield chairs, pictures, windows, dining room and library with books by Canadian authors for those who wish to read when scenery closing in the mountain scene, for the varied views, moods, scenery, the daylight hours.

The soft nurtured farmlands of Southern Ontario gradually give way to the hard, rocky surface of the north where huge boulders, like upturned bathtubs, lie sunken in the undulating earth, and miniature, mirrored lakes, captured between the rocks, lie, with necklaces of water lilies, gazing at the sky and ever hanging boughs. Short, dwarfed cedars, like summer snowflakes, dot the nearby fields and red lilies, wild phlox, lupins and brown-eyed Susans grow in wild profusion along the right of way. In larger lakes, loons with their trilling cry, disturb the reflected surface, parting the water from the sky.

Minaki Lodge

Travelling ever westward in the early hours of dawn, we catch a glimpse of Minaki Lodge, lake-side resort, nestling amongst pines and cool, grey rocks bathing in the deep water lapping at the shore. As the train speeds the route, Indians encamp, enjoying their way of life; often, appearing at the flat facaded western stations with baskets of wild berries. As we enter the prairie provinces, endless sections of waving grain sweep away to the horizon and beyond. Winnipeg's water-marked buildings, Saskatoon and Edmonton's new look pass by, as gradually climbing and crossing deep ravines, we enter the Canadian Rockies' end, where clouds and mountains meet. Drinking along the embankment of glacier streams that mingle with clear, fresh rivers, we arrive at Jasper in the early limousines and buses transport us to the rustic, picturesque cabin and mobile and skis while on the grassy, sloping banks of mountain, flowers vie for attention, growing between rocks bearing forms of sea shells and prehistoric markings of another age.

Source of the Athabaska

The thick ice, honeycombed by the sun, slowly trickles over the rocks and down into the valley, forming the source of the Athabaska River which empties into the Hudson Bay and Atlantic Ocean, while on the western slope, others find their way to the Pacific.

The Athabaska receding at the rate of 50 feet a year, as huge slabs break off from sheer weight and melting bizarre shapes are formed in a lake of their own solitude, is considered to be one reason why our winters are becoming warmer. Tourists explore the vast expanse of the Columbia ice fields and skis while on the grassy, sloping banks of mountain, flowers vie for attention, growing between rocks bearing forms of sea shells and prehistoric markings of another age.

Lodge's Fine Interior

Upon entering the main lodge, a profusion of summer blossoms greet the welcomed sight, where walls of polished logs are hung with local scenes and trophies of the hunt, whereon hangs the gracious and specious lounge, cheery with its soft rustic material upholstery. It is here that guests congregate for dining and dancing, for motion pictures, bridge or a friendly chat beside the dual, central fireplace; while on the wide verandah, others relax from a day on the golf course, or from swimming, boating, fishing, trail riding, tennis or from a hike to the nearest mountains, as brilliant blue birds flash across the scene and double rainbows shine against the misted mountains.

Situated in the Athabaska Valley, Jasper Park is the largest National playground. In the park within its borders is the Columbia Ice Field covering an area of over 110 square miles many glaciers feed their source. It is also the largest body of ice outside the Arctic Circle and is reached over high mountain roads, passing tumbling waterfalls, deep canyons and glimpses of wild life.

Forty-Third Wedding Anniversary Featured By Many Gifts

2nd Thurlow—Several friends and neighbors of the anniversary and birthday group, tendered a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. W. Gray on Wednesday night in honor of their 43rd wedding anniversary.

Progressive euchre was enjoyed after which Mr. and Mrs. Gray were asked to be seated, and, on behalf of the group, Mrs. Douglas Atkins read an appropriate address and Mrs. Corah Howard presented them with a lovely table mirror and rose bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray sincerely thanked all for the gift and previewed several interesting happenings over the period of time. They also received lovely gifts from their daughters, Mrs. Cecil Crowder and Mrs. Harold M. C. Crawford and Mr. Crawford, and their son, Mr. W. Gray and Mrs. Gray.

Prizes were given for the euchre, Mrs. Harry Gray; consolation, Barbara Howard; men, Mr. Corbett; consolation, Mr. Douglas Atkins.

Refreshments were served, including a large anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Howard, and concluded the evening's enjoyment.

Recent Bride Feted With Fine Gifts

A delightful miscellaneous shower was held last evening, at the home of Mrs. H. Yorke, when the hostess, assisted by Miss Helen Yorke, entertained 25 guests in honor of Mrs. J. Robertson, nee Jean Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Harris, bride of last week, who was married in Dryden, Ont.

The evening was spent in a happy get-together and after various contests, after which an address was read by Mrs. George Meagher, and its gaily-decorated basket filled to overflowing with beautifully wrapped gifts, was presented to Jean by Helena and Mary Harris. As the gifts were opened, confetti in the hands of guest friends, was showered down upon the recent bride. Jean most graciously expressed her deep appreciation to each and all for their kindly wishes for her future happiness and for the lovely tokens of their regard.

Tea was poured by Miss Irene Harris, aunt of the bride, while the Misses Mary and Ruth Harris and Helen Yorke served the refreshments.

The bride and her bridegroom will reside in Dryden.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S M.S.

St. Andrew's Missionary Society met for their first fall meeting on Tuesday with quite a good number being present. Mrs. Mantle presided. After a short business session, a tea was arranged at the home of Mrs. E. N. Pigden, 230 Charles Street, to be held later in the month.

Mrs. I. L. Moore took the devotions and welcomed the guest soloist, Mr. Bob Reid, who was accompanied by Mr. E. Shepherd.

Mrs. Mantle, on behalf of the W.M.S. presented Bob Reid with a gift, as he leaves for Knox College next week where he will study for the Presbyterian ministry.

Fine Reading

Mrs. Beavis gave a fine reading with events from the study book. The interests, this month were on Formosa. There has been urgent need for more missionaries and the Canadian Mother Church has only sent one missionary couple in 1949, the Rev. L. de Groot and Mrs. de Groot, but the staff was augmented by missionaries who were driven from the mainland in China. Three beautiful new churches have been built in the north, but we pray that Christianity will outgrow and offset communism.

Mrs. Pigden reported 22 calls during the holiday season. A cup of tea was enjoyed as was the fellowship.

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS' AID

The regular meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Wright with 17 members, three visitors and two children present.

THE BABY SHOW

One of the best handled events at the Canadian National Exhibition is the annual baby show. This year broke all records with more than 1,400 babies entered in the race. In the huge airy C.N.E. dance tent, these crowds of babies and their parents went through their paces with a dozen trained nurses and doctors in charge. It is almost unbelievable how quickly and easily so many babies are handled in the judging.

Each entrant shows her entry card at the door of the big baby show tent. She then hands it in to one of the attendants inside who exchanges it for an entry tag. This entry tag has previously been made up to match the card sent to the mother by mail. The tag is made of white cloth so that the baby can't destroy it. On the tag is the baby's name and date of birth. Blanks are left for those in charge to fill in weight, height, head, chest, legs and kind of feeding.

Quickly Screened

Trained nurses take the weight and measurements recording them on the tag. Medical men check the baby's teeth, stance and general appearance. Babies are screened quickly with only those believed to have a running chance put into the prize ring for elimination by medical judges.

Staging the baby show in the dance tent allows plenty of room and a good view for rollie the babes around in their go-carts. Plenty of chairs are provided for the parents. Fashionable for this year's girl babies were pink and short dresses with all smocking. Boy babies wore white sun suits. All of them were well scrubbed and sported brand new white shoes.

Nearly every baby wore the new plastic panty which eliminates pins in the diaper.

The prize babies were presented with medals and cheques by the proud fat press photographs. It is said that these cheques are never cashed. They are usually framed for the baby's room.

Cows and Women

The other night we heard someone remark that old, old description of a particular kind of woman — "She's like the cow who always gives a good pail of milk and then kicks it over." It's just as well all women are not like her.

Refrigeration

We've been told to keep everything in the refrigerator from coffee to bread. The very latest is to put your nylons in. They say that the manufacturers used to cool their nylons before shipping them out for sale and that they no longer bother to do this. Advice to Madame is to put her new nylons in the frig, leave them there 48 hours, then take them out and wash in lukewarm water. By doing this simple home processing it is claimed the nylons will wear much longer.

So it now looks as if father will not only cook and wash up, wrapping his arms around mama's nylons when he goes in with the bathroom light, but he may find himself sliding a pair of nylons into his cold ham sandwich.

They Want Wives

Indicating a definite trend in the wishes of members of Canadian clubs exclusively for men, is the opening thought was that "God builds no churches—but labor has been left to man."

Mrs. Burgess gave the history of the hymn, "Lord of the Lands", which gave the title to the study book "From Lakes to Northern Lights."

Resume of Work

Mrs. Linton Read and Mrs. Knutson gave a resume of the work in Canada and referred to church units as the gift of the frontier churches.

Miss Ethel Morden gave a short talk on the problems of rural churches and Mrs. Emery

Mrs. Nellie Anderson distributed a number of missionary books to be read, which were passed around among members.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

"Then, you're fired!" Lance shouted and the girls in the office shuddered. They had never heard the boss talk like that before.

"But, but, child," Stub protested. "I did it for Goldie's own good."

"For Goldie's own good?" Lance questioned. "Well, you're fired. Get your money from Sparling and—go lose yourself. You're through."

And when Stub Rose arrived in the newsroom to announce that he had been fired and the news spread to the composing room and Goldie Webster, a red-faced youth, hung his head in disgrace as his fellow employees glanced at him. And he decided that Stub Rose was not the only one that was leaving The Ensign at this time. He would go, too. Had it not been for him, Stub Rose would still be sports editor of the paper and his fellow associates on the paper would not have lost their money betting on him.

"Yes, he would leave The Ensign too," he thought, "and be going with Stub Rose. In Stub's present state of mind, he would have no other Goldie Webster as his travelling companion. And so, when quitting time came, and he had collected his pay, he shook head down he set his feet away from The Ensign office in the direction of Lower Town, but not to stop there, not to be traced there. He knew a good hideout, a place where he could sit all by himself to figure out the next best move to make.

CHAPTER XXIX

When Goldie Webster left a clump of bushes south of Lower Town and sneaked across a narrow creek to the large barn on Gilroy barn in the middle of a broad field, it was getting quite dark. Glancing to his right he could see the lights of the town. On the left were lights from the property on the north, and reached from the barn by a long narrow gravel road, automobiles were passing in and out of town.

After leaving The Ensign office that late afternoon, Goldie had dropped into a south end store and purchased the food necessary to tide him over the next day which was Sunday. Monday's food supply could be secured when required.

The barn which he approached was not unfamiliar to him. And it didn't matter how it was secured, he and his gang could always manage to get into it. At this time of the year there would be a team while driveways and now of that season's hay reaching almost to the roof on either side. An ideal spot where a fellow might remain unnoticed, undisturbed, for as long as he cared to use it.

A narrow door to the left of the broad double doors in front unexpectedly opened with a light push, and when he went inside the building it was just as he expected it would be. He crawled up a ladder to the hay mow to his left, bedded up to his knees in loose hay until he was well up under the roof. Then he sat down and opened his parcel of food. And as he ate he heard noises that might have been made by mice or rats. But he didn't think so. He had a feeling that he was not alone in that big building—that he was sharing its roof with some other person—possibly a tramp.

His eyes accustomed to the darkness in the building now were searching, searching. Then that they could take in the mow in which he was hiding, they could also bridge the dark gap across the driveway to the other mow, any more than the eyes of some hiding there could make out objects on his side.

Having eaten for his present needs, Goldie lay back comfortably, hands under head and he rested himself for the mess he had made of things. He should not have let Stub Rose and The Ensign staff, which had bet so heavily on him, down. He could well understand his foster father's action in firing Stub for the thing she had printed in the paper. Had Bradley had done that to save face. As far as he was concerned, Stub Rose had not printed one thing about him that was not absolutely true and that he didn't deserve.

That he would be successful in any attempt to get away from Dad Bradley and The Ensign, Goldie doubted very much. But it was at least worth a decent try. A day or two in this barn, a night hop to another and then another—he might stay with Webster as his travelling companion. And so, when quitting time came, and he had collected his pay, he shook head down he set his feet away from The Ensign office in the direction of Lower Town, but not to stop there, not to be traced there. He knew a good hideout, a place where he could sit all by himself to figure out the next best move to make.

Glancing to his right he could see the lights of the town. On the left were lights from the property on the north, and reached from the barn by a long narrow gravel road, automobiles were passing in and out of town.

The barn which he approached was not unfamiliar to him. And it didn't matter how it was secured, he and his gang could always manage to get into it. At this time of the year there would be a team while driveways and now of that season's hay reaching almost to the roof on either side. An ideal spot where a fellow might remain unnoticed, undisturbed, for as long as he cared to use it.

A narrow door to the left of the broad double doors in front unexpectedly opened with a light push, and when he went inside the building it was just as he expected it would be. He crawled up a ladder to the hay mow to his left, bedded up to his knees in loose hay until he was well up under the roof. Then he sat down and opened his parcel of food. And as he ate he heard noises that might have been made by mice or rats. But he didn't think so. He had a feeling that he was not alone in that big building—that he was sharing its roof with some other person—possibly a tramp.

In the crowd was Black Jack Webster, his real father, in his usual state of intoxication, and a big man in a grey suit that he had seen in The Ensign office one morning. There were many other men there, too, but while their faces were familiar, he could not name them. One gets that way in large town.

Pretty soon at Craft's bidding the men formed a circle around him, and he turned from one man to another to pick up money. There appeared to be a lot more in sight. The round completed, Craft stepped outside the circle to make way for two men who entered with struggling game cocks in their hands. The men squatted across the ring from one another and held securely their game cocks on the floor in front of them.

Craft shouted "Go!" and the birds sailed into action. The fight lasted until one of them was killed, and the other stood on the dead body of its opponent to emit its crow of victory. The victorious bird was picked up and returned to a bag. The steel gaffs were removed from the vanquished and it was tossed aside.

There followed a round of beer, and sandwiches, and Craft was back in the ring again, this time with a game cock in his hand. Then he was handing out and picking up more money. While that fight was on Goldie felt a real thrilling as it was wicked, there had been no betting on the fight. Talk, yes. But as the other fights were staged, and more beer was drunk, the excitement of the crowd grew louder and arguments developed. But for what reason Goldie didn't know. He had never seen a cock fight before and knew nothing about betting.

Goldie eased himself towards the ladder. Someone playing with a flashlight apparently came into the mow across the driveway from him and he caught a fleeting glimpse of a face that Goldie might own if he wasn't wearing glasses. And he understood what Stub Rose, if it was he, was doing here? How had he found this place anyway?

Goldie was almost within reach of the ladder when the trouble over his presence started. Stub cursed. And as he expected, too, his father Black Jack Webster was the man to start it off. Black Jack was complaining loudly to Bill Craft about something when Craft gave Sailor Joyce the nod to put him out. And then, Burke Sailor Joyce and Black Jack were pounding one another. Other men joined in and Goldie Webster was down the ladder before he knew it, with Sailor Burke the target for his blows. All around him were men fighting. Craft was down on Goldie to help the hotel bouncer and he made their preparations. Goldie let him get down the hay to get a better look at the principal, the man who were behind it all. When he did, his eyes rounded in surprise.

Below him were Joe Crookes and Bill Craft and Ed Maker, and of all people, William Sinder, the former Ensign editor of police. And there was Sailor Burke, the ex-fighter, who was a bouncer at the Emerton Hotel. Then men appeared to be in charge of the proceedings.

Lighted cars were moving slowly, flashing their way through. Somewhere was running around blowing a police whistle, if that was fired was silence.

Goldie found himself in the dark away from the fighting. His hands were paining him, but he was laughing for the sheer love of the thing. For the first time had been fun. As he stood there, the cars moving over from the barn in a string, braked to a stop, and men with flashlights he could see they were police—Emerton police—were going from one car to the next, picking names, addresses, etc., seizing game cocks and any liquor they could find, then the cars began to fly. By now all car lights were on.

After the cars had gone, Goldie turned towards the barn. He had lost Stub Rose in the excitement and he wanted to find him. Nearing the building, he stopped. Another man was ahead of him with a flashlight in his hand, who pushed into the building and began a search of the floor. Evidently he hadn't found what he was looking for and he came back. Goldie recognized the man as Bill Craft. And then there was another man—Goldie could feel his hot breath on the back of his neck. When Craft neared the door, he flashed a light in his face.

"We need you, too, Craft," the man said. Then turning to Goldie he said, "Better round up Stub Rose. I've something to tell you." Next moment he had Craft by the arm and was leading him to a car which had just then drawn to a stop in front of the house.

Goldie felt his way around the barn and as he did he kept calling "Stub! Stub! Where are you?" But there was no answer. After a while he came to the front door and peered inside. There was a lighted lantern hanging on a nail, and beneath, sitting on a beer case, was Stub Rose with a bottle in one hand and sandwich in the other. Goldie walked towards him.

"Now, what the hell do you want?" Stub Rose, sitting into his sandwich. Stub was wearing his horn rimmed glasses again. "Of all the nerve," Stub continued, "to come near me. Webster, you're a dirty louse—get it? A dirty, dirty louse—you cost me my job."

"I know I did, Stub," Goldie confessed. "But don't rub it in. I'm sorry about. When I heard you were fired I quit too and I'm not going back until Dad apologizes to you and gives you back your job. What's a man here for—I think he's some kind of a police—I think he told me that to you; he says he has something to tell us—" He stopped—and lowered his voice "there he is now."

The big man in the grey suit came to a step in front of them.

"Hello, you fugitives from a newspaper office," he grinned, "been looking all over for you. I have something to tell you. But first, I want to know, are you coming quietly with me, or do I have to take you?"

"That depends on how good a man you are," Stub said, tipping his bottle and taking a long drink. "If you're a cop you'll have to show me why I should go anywhere with you. What charge against me?"

"Not one charge, but two charges," the man said, counting them on his fingers. "First I find you and this young man, Goldie Webster, present at a game cock main. The other charge is that both of you deserted your jobs in good ship Ingersoll."

"Deserted, hell!" Stub snorted. "I was fired, and all because of this dirty—he broke off, and turned to Goldie. "Say, you young lerk if you had fought Burdell as well as you fought here tonight —you would have beatch his can off."

"There'll come another time, Stub," Goldie assured him. "Ever Burdell was very much alive the last time I saw him."

"But, that doesn't answer my question," the man said, "are you coming with me, or must I—"

"Have some beer, officer." Stub broke in, fishing a bottle out of the case beneath him and passing it over. Turning to Goldie—"but don't you touch it, sonny, you're bad enough without it."

The officer popped the bottle top off with his lighter.

"Well, here's to good old Yale," he said, putting the bottle to his lips.

"Drink her down," Stub urged.

Just then Sergt. Broadfoot of the Emerton police force came in the door, and what they were doing.

"Hey, you!" he shouted. "Quit drinking up our evidence!" He strode forward. There was a rush of the case from under Stub Rose and left him sitting on the floor. Then without looking back, he carried the case to a waiting car, outside.

"Well, I'll be a dirty son of a gun to let that happen to me," Stub wailed, getting up and brushing himself. "Why, that no good flat footed—"

"How'd you come to be here in the first place," Goldie questioned. Stub pointed to a chair and he came in one gulp and tossed it aside.

"Once a newspaper man, always a newspaper man," he boasted. "I had a little tip that a game cock main was going to be held here tonight, and—well, I thought early I'd get a good scoop. I saw you come in. And now, I've got a good story to write—" Stub ladder to come into the child wryly. "But I guess I've forgotten something—I haven't got a paper to write it for."

"I think we can arrange that," the officer said. "As a matter of fact, Lance Bradley sent me out to find both of you, to offer his apologies to you and ask you to come back with me. All that

UNUSUAL GUEST

London. (CP)—Three language professors have started on a search for quaint words and phrases, particularly in dialect, that are slowly dying out of modern English. Oxford Professor Charles Wrenn, leading the search, said persons interested in dialect will be asked for opinions.

Are you in the know?

What's flatters a chubby chassis?
☐ Slinky black ☐ Creamy yellow
☐ Soft, cool colours

Beagle—how a colour can fool the eye. The right hue can pare down that chubby chassis, defeat a figure. But don't think slinky black's the only slimming trick in town. Also, avoid dazzling shades. Keep away from bright colours like lime green, violet, preferably in darker tones. And never let colour be the only special safety centre of Kotex. And choose Kotex for softness that holds its shape—because Kotex has to stay soft while you wear it.

If you've conclusive-conscious, what helps?
☐ A literary card ☐ More upholstery
☐ More mink somewhere

Got a less-and-hollow-look around the collar? To add "upholstery" is not hearty. Swim like crazy. And do this: Sit very straight, with a back! In each case, you'll look slimmer! Keeping shown black, slowly bosst looks toward mink, these streets lower these—20 times daily. You can also boost your confidence with the special safety centre of Kotex. And choose Kotex for each of those days when revealing coziness — keep you blush proof.

3 ABSORBENCIES: Regular Super Junior

More women choose KOTEX than all other sanitary napkins!

How to prepare for "certain" days?
☐ Circle your calendar
☐ Buy a new belt ☐ Pack up your wardrobe

Before "that" time, be ready! A new belt can help a lot. Especially a new Kotex sanitary belt. Made with self-stretch elastic—light-weight Kotex belt's non-tearing. Stays flat even after many washings. Dries pronto! So don't wait . . . buy a new Kotex belt now. (Why not buy two—for a change?)

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

WHISTLERS

"Whistler" rather than "sing" is more accurate in speaking of the sound made by many birds. This applies to a number of species whose voices are so absolutely different that they could never be mistaken for one another. We talk of the whistle of whip-poor-wills, shrikes, Baltimore orioles, several kinds of flycatchers, grosbeaks, sparrows, and warblers. The call of brown thrashers, the plaintive, tremulous note of screech owls, and the cry of marsh hawks as they beat up and down over a field looking for meadow mice, all these might be termed "whistles."

One of the various, odd noises made by blue jays is best described as a harsh whistle, and among the many, curious sounds that come from the familiar, city starlings is a whistle that can easily fool anyone into thinking a boy is just around the corner.

Two species are actually named whistlers. There are whistling swans, so called on account of certain unique vocal powers they possess. Their windpipes are arranged differently from other birds, in special recesses of their breast bones. But, according to people well acquainted with the loud, high-pitched notes of these beautiful, large, white birds, the name is not apt. Their "woo-hoo woo-woo, woo-ho" is said to sound like that sweet-toned musical instrument, the flageolet.

What! No Whistle?

Golden-eye ducks are known to many sportsmen as "whistlers," but, strangely, they have no control over the whistling. The noise is made by their wings cutting the air as they fly, and not by their voices at all. Sometimes the peculiar, penetrating whistle is heard and recognized before the golden-eyes themselves can be properly distinguished.

Other species whose wings do the whistling are the mourning dove, the American woodcock, and the Wilson snipe. The dove's flight whistling is so distinctive that by it the bird may be accurately identified. The American woodcock's outer wing feathers produce a unique whistle as, on being flushed, the bird rises suddenly from the ground. The snipe makes a sharp, hollow whistle as it takes wing, but when it drops from a height (in some of its love-making aerial antics) the air rushing through its wings sounds more like drumming than anything else. We all know that the loud drumming of a ruffled grouse is made by its wings beating the air. How peculiar that air passing through wings should sometimes sound like whistling, and other times like drumming!

R.C.A.F. Has Conducted Aerial Search for Men to No Avail

Trenton — (Special) — Three weeks ago today a yellow Fairchild aircraft on floats carrying hockey star Bill Barilko and doctor-prospector Dr. Henry Hudson went down in sub-Arctic country somewhere within a radius of 500 miles of Rupert House on James Bay where the aircraft was last seen taking off in a high wind.

Since the word of their disappearance flashed across the continent two days later the RCAF has conducted a tireless search to no avail. Hundreds of thousands of square miles of suspect areas have been combed, but to date not even a solitary clue has been brought to light. Hope that the missing men will turn up wanes as all types of land and water aircraft continue the all-out hunt.

The job is a hard one. Crews have begun to show signs of strain.

There is no doubt in the minds of the searchers that they will have to give up sometime. But the thought of finding the Maple Leaf defenceman and his Timmins friends goads them on and it may be that last hour or minute in the air that reveals the mystery that has baffled even the wisest rescue men.

A week from tomorrow the hero of last year's N.H.L. series is due to report for training at the Leaf's St. Catharines camp. His closest friends and playing mates refuse to let themselves think that the big blonde headed Timmins' resident will be absent when the roll is called. Their Bill was the individual who seemed always to be on the right spot at the right time.

May Be Still Alive

In the meantime another great R.C.A.F. search started out of Yellowknife, N.W.T., for veteran bush pilot Johnny Fournier, D.F.C. lost since May 15. There are new signs that he is still alive. His damaged all-equipped Reliance plane was found at the edge of Lake Wholdaia, 300 miles south east of Fort Reliance on Sept. 5. A note in the cabin said he had waited five days by his aircraft and then headed out across country for Fort Reliance. USAF searchers spotted Boursara's freighter during the dramatic hunt for two Wisconsin fishermen rescued after being missing 29 days.

Eight RCAF search planes went into the air at Yellowknife yesterday when ground crews reported finding what they believed was a camp site left by one of the two push pilot 22 miles from where his beached aircraft was found.

Country, however, was terrifying over is similar to the waste James Bay region, where Barilko and Hudson are lost excepting that there are more lakes and less bush to cope with.

Dr. Renton Looking For Racer

Speedboat drivers note: Dr. J. E. Renton the Trenton dentist who turned up a lot of water in the faces of some of the country's top speedboat racers this summer hopes to provide even stiffer competition next summer. He has his eye on a hull that has 35-horsepower racing motor will push through the water at speeds upwards of 60 miles an hour. His C-3 was clocked at 52 m.p.h in trials this year.

Trenton's racing dentist plans to show his stern to all comers with the ultimate in speed boating design when time comes round for racing next season.

Hurt In Fall

Market clerk William Smith, 68, of 57 Nicholas Street walking to the bathroom on Thursday night fell downstairs and suffered a head cut and injuries to the nose and left shoulder. The wound in the head needed stitches to close. He was unable to report for duty at the market square yesterday.

Parachutist Injured

Word from Rivers, Manitoba, has been received by his sister Mrs. Jack Keegan of Trenton that Private Freddie Genereau is recovering in army hospital from a leg injury suffered in a parachute drop recently. Young Genereau has been undergoing airborne training with the Canadian Army at the central Canada airborne centre and was expected home on leave at the completion of his course.

The wolfe eel found in Pacific coastal waters of Canada is known to reach a length of eight feet.

Thomas Sarles Wins 6th Cheese Prize at C.N.E.

Rawdon.—Mr. Thomas Sarles, popular cheesemaker at Central factory, near Anson, had the honor of winning sixth prize, at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, on his Kraft cheese. The 15 cheeses all manufactured at the same time graded 95 per cent and he won a prize from the Kraft Company.

Mr. Sarles just commenced making Kraft cheese this season and he has had three different vats which graded 95. He and Mrs. Sarles attended the C.N.E. and viewed the prize cheese. His many friends extend congratulations at this time.

R.M. Sale, Ford Firm Head, Says Canadian Car Market To Expand Within Few Years

Banff, Alta., Sept. 15 (CP) — Canadians will be buying more cars than ever a few years hence, Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., predicted Friday in an address to Canadian Federation of Automobile Dealers Association.

"The current lull in sales," he said, "is temporary and does not reflect any fundamental weakness in the Canadian automobile market. It also is very largely from such artificial causes as government credit curbs and discriminatory credit curbs and savage taxation. If these are corrected, there should be an early stabilization of the market.

"I accept assurance that restrictions on credit and the draining-off of purchasing power by taxation are basic to an effective campaign against inflation. But I am not prepared to concede that any one section of the population, or any one industry, should be asked to bear more than its fair share of the sacrifice."

He said "the attitude in Ottawa seems to be based upon a thin and timeworn belief that the motorcar is a luxury. If that were ever true it has certainly not been true for the past few years."

Mr. Sale said some 6,000 men formerly engaged in automobile production or feeder plants in Ontario, are idle—4,000 of them in Windsor—and that this "wastage of productive effort is inflationary in itself.

"I doubt whether it is practical to induce many of these men to uproot their families and move elsewhere."

He stated that, in addition to the automobile industry, credit restrictions have apparently proved too severe in the housing and home appliance fields.

"I do not attach full blame to the government for the unemployment situation that has developed. It is not unlikely that a considerable reduction of the working force in automotive plants would have resulted from the downward adjustment of the market and the tightening of the material supply situation. But I point to higher prices for cars."

Destroyer Cayuga Supports Marines In Driving Raid

Tokyo, Sept. 15—(Reuters)—The Canadian destroyer Cayuga supported South Korean marines in recent raids on communist installations far behind the front line, a United Nations' communique said today.

The communique said accurate fire from the Cayuga's eight fourinch guns cracked communist resistance and killed 150 communists.

At one time the destroyer commanded by Cmdr. J. Plomer, was raining shells on a concentration of 350 men, the communique said.

The Cayuga also knocked out gun positions and shattered installations and supply buildings during her patrol along north Korea's west coast.

Cayuga's own gunnery spotters landed with the South Korean marines. They estimated that more than one-third of the strong communist force opposing the landing was killed or wounded.

On board the destroyer, Surgeon Lt. J. C. Cyr of Halifax, N. S. operated on 3 badly wounded marines. He removed a bullet grooved a quarter of an inch from the heart of one.

The communique also revealed that Cayuga joined the British cruiser Belfast and demolished three installations southwest of Chinnampo, southwest of the north Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Farm Production Will be Highest In Many Years

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) —Ontario farmers are having a bumper year in almost every field this year, the monthly crop report of the Provincial Department of Agriculture showed Friday.

With livestock prices at an all time high and practically every crop heading for a record yield, total farm production will be "considerably higher" than ever before, the report said.

The oats crop was estimated at 102,906,000 bushels from a seeded area of 2,120,700 acres or 48.1 bushels an acre, compared to 96,186,000 bushels from 2,128,000 acres or 45.2 bushels an acre a year ago.

The 36.1 bushels an acre yielded by barley this year was termed the largest production on record. Total barley production is expected to reach 8,739,000 bushels as against 8,325,000 bushels last year.

Total volume of all crops in the province this year is an estimated record 221,864,000 bushels.

Hay and clover crops will amount to 6,843,000 tons against 4,509,000 last year and a 1941-50 yearly average of 5,095,000 tons.

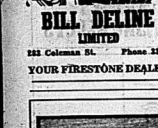
Grape and flue-cured tobacco crops, providing frost-free weather permits successful completion of harvesting, both will be of record volume.

Pastures in most areas were "very good" during August, thanks to heavy rains.

NOT DISAPPOINTED

Vancouver, (CP)—Perch Sills, retiring after 44 years with the B.C. electric tramways, was fairly confident there would be some sort of traffic tangle on his last day as point supervisor at Victory Square. There was a fire which resulted in snarling bus services at the intersection.

GIANT PUFFBALL



Clive, Alta. (CP)—William Knutson found a real jumbo puffball on his farm near here. It was 12 feet high and weighed more than 20 pounds.

A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job . . . save you money . . . last longer. Every unit that SUPPORTS the load — frame, axles, springs, wheels, tires — is engineered right to provide the strength and capacity needed.

Every unit that MOVES the load — engine, clutch, transmission, propeller shaft, rear axle — is engineered right to meet a particular operating condition.

Whether your loads are big or little, heavy or light . . . your roads paved or rough, level or hilly . . . there's a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck engineered to fit your job.

If you now have too much power or capacity for your particular job, the surplus is being wasted — operating costs will be high. If you have too little power or capacity, the excess strain on your vehicle will result in heavy maintenance cost.

Before I was married I am afraid I didn't realize the importance of regular saving. I had a vague idea I'd be lucky in real estate or some other investment.

After we were married I woke up to the fact that a man with my responsibilities must keep an eye on the future.

I was making good money but we were spending all I made until I got the Mutual Life policy.

The money I put into it is ours and always will be ours. It'll grow too, steadily and surely. It's the one sure way of saving we have."

FITZ HAD 'EM IN FITS

Following their "leanings" on Thursday night, the Redmen "granulated managers" didn't have a bone to show on in that Kingston Leo-Reds tussle in McGaffin Stadium last night. In fact but few, if any, could be noticed in the 100 powders who paid admission to see our side retire to form and make the Scrutineers eat large-sized chunks of crow while all and sundry skidded around on a treacherous diamond said to have been floating atop a subterranean lake.

Swami Patrick Wilson, looked into his crystal ball, mulled at what he saw, dug into the war-bag and came up with a surprise package that changed the looks of disdain to those of amusement on the physogs of Stanly Scrutiny and company.

For Patrick, gave the mound nod to Dick Fitzpatrick and that gentleman proceeded to tie the Leafs into knots, pretzels, and tangled fish-lines with a nifty twohitter while the rest of the Reds pounded three Leafton clouters for nine hits. Andy Milne was given the Leafs leather medal for securing the only clouts garnered off Fitz' delivery.

A fifth-hanler which erupted from five hits and three, bobbles put the game in the well-known container, and the Leafs could lose the diamond with no more misery after that. The Reds put the clinchers in runs in the sixth, eighth and ninth. Tom Buchanan's sparkling double play when he speared a sizzling liner to deshle a runner at first highlighted the Red fielding.

Tonight the teams clash in Kingston for the fifth game of this somewhat unpredictable series. Just who will dig up what, and whose balloon, if any, will ascend is hard to say at this time. The Leafs are back here Monday night for the sixth clash. Tonight's game is an important one, since the winner will have a big advantage with but one win to go while the loser must perforce grab a pair to annex the series.

There will be no mad rush for the Kingston turnstiles last night, in fact, there has been no occasion for the master-minds to hire extra help for the box-office at the season down thataway. Rumor has it that the Leafs, if the situation warrants it, would fain play the seventh tilt of the series here in Belleville.

* * *

"MANAGERIAL DIFFICULTIES"

We thought we had heard about everything in the baseball lexicon, but it remained for a brace of umpires down Brockville way to dig up a new one. It all happened when the Smiths Falls Royals ended a lengthy rhubarb (the kind patented by the Redmen) by walking off the field in bellies and climbing in their cars.

* * *

The Umps announced that the game was called off (and get this) "due to managerial difficulties." They apparently forgot to add the Harry Ballogh gem "And may the better partyticant emerge triumphant."

* * *

It seems Pat Wilson, proxy Jack Carson and their managerial difficulties worked a peach of a baseball gamberke when they threatened to pull the team out of a game with Kingston a few night's ago due to the fact the Kingston management refused to allow Munro do a replacement for Sammy Mulholland.

* * *

Smiths Falls Royals, or the Brockville story goes, injected a player named Maude into their lineup as a replacement for an injured player. It seems that President Bob Nesbitt of the Cornwall Maids ineligible to play since he had sworted with the Val D'Or, Quebec team during the summer months.

* * *

Manager Harry O'Neill defied the presidential edict and said Maude would play Belleville Manager Andy Herschock, who is as much at home in a verbal blowoff as a duck in the family pond, said there would be no game if Maude played.

* * *

It looked like a two man filibuster with neither manager giving ground. Then O'Neill said he would pull his team, which he did, the Royal trooping to waiting automobiles. The umps strode to the plate and announced in stentorian tones the game was off "due to managerial difficulties." The fans started to leave the park when O'Neill apparently had a change of mind and the Royals took the field minus Maude.

Red Sox Trail Indians by 3, Homers Pace Win Over Browns As Yanks Blast Tigers 5-2

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Vic Raschi, one of the best pitchers in the business in a stretch duties, has pumped new life into the New York Yankees.

Raschi contributed little to the Yanks' pennant drive during July and August, but he's showing signs of finishing up strong just as he did in 1950.

The veteran righthander pitched the Yanks to within one percentage point of the pacesetting Cleveland Indians yesterday as he turned back Detroit Tigers, 5-2. The Indians' night game with Washington Senators was rained out. The third-place Boston Red Sox climbed to within three games of the top by beating St. Louis, 9-6.

Raschi yielded the Tigers only one hit in the seven innings he worked. He was forced to leave the game in the Tigers' half of the seventh with a tight shoulder.

Raschi Wins "9th

The victory was Raschi's 19th, and he appears a cinch to win 20 games for the third straight year.

Raschi usually starts off with a bang, slumps off during the "dog days," and winds up in high gear. Last year he wound up the season with seven straight victories.

The Yanks sewed up Raschi's 19th conquest in the first inning on Yogi Berra's grand-slam homer off lefty Bob Cain.

Home runs by Walt Dropo, Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio along with another neat relief job by Ellis Kinder, featured the Red Sox victory over St. Louis. Dropo climaxed a five-run rally in the first with a three-run homer.

The victory overshadowed a spectacular batting performance by Bob Nieman, rookie Brownie outfielder. Nieman, playing his first major league game, homered in his first two trips to the plate.

Little Bobby Shantz turned in his 16th victory for the sixth-place Athletics as he pitched Philadelphia to a 3-0 victory over Chicago. The A's clinched it with two out in the seventh.

Meanwhile Brooklyn Dodgers remained six games ahead of New York Giants in the National League. The Dodgers downed Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1 while the Giants defeated Chicago Cubs 7-2.

Preacher Roe limited the Pirates to six hits in turning in his 20th victory against two defeats.

Five Chicago errors helped the Giants beat the Cubs. Sal Maglie gained credit for his 15th victory as he needed help in the ninth from George Spencer.

In other National League games, Philadelphia Phillies trounced Cincinnati Reds, 10-4, and Boston Braves won in "extended" game, 7-4, and a night game from St. Louis Cardinals, 6-5.

Timmy Geohagen of the firm of Geohagen and Eric Unlimited, anaesthetician and animal tamers, established something of a record in non-physical prowess techniics at Memorial Arena last night.

Timothy, who used railroad spikes for bubble gum when six months old and teethed on manhole covers when but a sapling in an orchard of Geohagens in County Antrim, licked two men, crawled from a pile of unconscious blubber in the third fall of the evening and discovered he had lost the match.

Record Crowd

A seasonal record crowd of 17-50 shrieked its disapproval as one Bert Atkins, lately resident of Toronto, claimed by the announcer to be his wife, leaped into a pile of supine arms, legs and torsos, picked up a hairy something with which he surrounded from it and raised it in token of victory.

Later it was discovered, the arm was attached to the body of one Fred Atkins, who with his partner in wrestling "crime" the unmasked Mask, Lou Newman, did not know they had won until they emerged from the land of flickering stars and birdsong some minutes later.

As a matter of fact the gallant Timothy with partner Yukon Eric actually had to cope with four men, three of whom it fell the lot by side would qualify for the title role in a barrel-jumping act. Maxwell, was credited with an assist when Atkins "struck out" after the hoodless "hood" had been stretched on his back in an approved mortician layout.

Here the third "villain" of the piece enters the picture. The "Zebra" garbed in a screaming orange, black, purple and mottled gold garment, topped with the striped monstrosity that covers referees, landed into the ring in protest of Tim's treatment of his fellow graduates of the All-Colleges of Applied Packydermy.

Geohagen met him with a straight-arm punch that caused Tim's arm to sink almost to the elbow in rolls of lard that are the Zebra's anatomical regions, or maybe his 21st and 22nd chins and he was eliminated.

Geohagen turned and readied for further combat. Maxwell helped Atkins, who was still waving the chirping birdies away from his head, and with a final heave sent the dazed nig paddy, in token of victory.

Timmy Cleans Up

The finish started after Tim went on a ring-cleaning rampage with Yukon Eric. He slapped the sleeper on Newman, and deposited him in a heap in a corner. Atkins, who had tripped the ropes, was giving the well-known works to the Yuke when the latter's rocket jumped him and again the "Sleeper" as on.

Maxwell intervened and stopped a neat elbow jab with his third chin. Then applied the pressure and when Atkins slumped, almost "out" he fell on top of the Irishman who was unable to wriggle "out from under" before Maxwell finished his arithmetic lesson.

The Zebra had brought Newman back to his senses with a trio staggered to the dressing room stui in a mental haze. Tim and the Yuke objected strongly to the decision, but Maxwell had had plenty and left the ring.

Atkins and Newman, up to their old tricks of the "fly and bejabers out of the Yuke in the first fall before Geohagen got in there. He, too, fell victim to their wiles and went down to defeat after 13 minutes.

Geohagen and the Yuke had the better of the second fall. They teamed neatly in some nifty one-gin-knockin', using the craniums of the foe as fattering rams. At one time, Geohagen grabbed a head in each hand and played cymbals with them. He put Newman away with the "Sleeper" and that worthy, coming to, unleashed an attack on his own partner.

Lou Sjoberg had the "Zebra" in a bad way in the semi-final using him as 'a dummy tackling bag while hooked in the ropes. The wily "hood" however, managed to side-step one of Lou's crossring plunges, and he catapulted out of the ring and was counted out.

Billy Stack defeated Mayes McLean in a fast-moving preliminary.

BRITISH DEFENCE

Britain's civil defence corps at the end of June stood at 1,447,464 of whom 83,124 were women.

British Empire Tuna Veterans Win Tournament

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Wedgeport, N.S., Sept. 15—(CP)—The most important fish of the 8th international tuna tournament, won by a group of all-veteran British Empire team, was the smallest and it-put up the shortest fight.

When Maj. Cyril Frisby, the London stockbroker who made the crucial catch, smilingly brought the Bluefin into the cheering crowd on the wharf at the end of the three-day world big game fishing classic, someone yelled "don't bother hoisting that one, major, carry it up in your arms."

But it wasn't that small—in fact it was an important 269 pounds and it won the British team their first victory in the post war series of matches, led last year by Chile.

Here is the scoreboard.

British Empire, three fish for 2,039½ points.

United States two fish for 1,853 points.

Scandinavia, two fish including the 305-pounder biggest of the tournament, for 1,821 1-3 points.

Chile two fish for 1,370 2-3 points.

Cuba one fish for 663 2-3 points.

The scoring is based on poundage, biggest fish of the day and tournament, and most fish.

Hairston KO's Keough in 9th

New York, Sept. 15—(AP) — Jackie Keough, Cleveland middleweight is sidelined for at least 30 days after his ninth-round knockout by Eugene (Silent) Hairston last night at Madison Square Garden.

Keough was out for more than seconds after Hairston landed a beautiful right to the jaw at 1:29 of the ninth. Finally he sat up and sat up on a stool near the [illegible] few seconds later he was able to proceed to his corner on his own power.

No more than 1,500 fans, lowest gate turnout in years, saw the underdog Keough, a Randy Turpin surprise partner, give the dead-mute from the Bronx a close fight.

Dr. Alexander Schiff recommended the 60-day rest for Keough after a thorough examination.

Fitz Holds Kingston to 2 Hits As Reds Pound Out 9-1 Win; Leafs Flutter for 9 Errors

By MAURICE H. REID

Two sharp singles by Harvey Milne, Kingston Disney Leaf outfielder, robbed Dick Fitzpatrick of his bid for a no-hitter last night at Megaffin Stadium as the Belleville Redmen pounded out a 9-1 win over the Diners.

Fitz increased their lead of seven series at two games each and that's still very much in doubt. Fifth game of their set will be played tonight in Kingston with the two teams splitting even in Belleville on Monday evening for the sixth.

The Redmen employed two of the oldest and commonest points of the game, the ordinary single and the sacrifice bunt, to their best advantage and showed good baseball psychology to pile up their nine runs. On the other hand the infield showed a combined reversal of form from the previous night and pulled off several baffling plays.

An unassisted double-play by first-baseman Tom Buchanan was the finishing gem of the night although the whole team played well behind Fitzpatrick.

Fitz Was Good

Dick, in his only hurling appearance of the year showed to good advantage using a curve, slider and drop ball to near perfection. For six innings he had the Diners eating out of his hand and it was only a bit of errancy by manager Stan Scrutton that ruined the no-hit effort. He threw out a neat ball at the start of the seventh for Fitzpatrick to use and Milne, heading for the base-line, stepped confidently to right. Fitzpatrick gave up the ball as the batter was throwing the third strike by a half dozen.

The Diners were unable to get Ike Richards, Leaf starting hurler, past the fifth, when three hits, a walk and a hit batsman with pitch and passed ball contributed five runs and put the game on ice. Munro was the first to reach base safely, when he walked and Buchanan, who had reached first on error, advanced to third, scoring a minute later on a passed ball. Goyer drove a tremendous drive to the centre field fence scoring Munroe but slipped going around first and was held to a single. Dean filed out but Gatson was safe on another boot by a loose Kingston defence and both scored on Gilmour's single. Stone relieved Richards and retired Strahan to end the frame.

The Reds added a singleton in the sixth and another pair in the eighth before "Babe" Stinson took over the mound chores, Gilmour's single, a sacrifice and another pair of errors plated the final tally.

Kingston scored their only run in the seventh when Milne singled, reached second on a steal, stole third and plated on an infield out.

Munroe again starred at the plate, collecting three of the visitors nine hits, all singles. Fitzpatrick garnered a pair as well as Pat Gilmour, who broke out of a batting slump at an opportune time. There were no extra-base knocks by either team as the ground was very sticky, making a fast getaway practically impossible.

Daily Double Pays $3.404.

The Vancouver Exhibition Park daily double combination, Peaceful Jane and Van Vic, Friday paid off at $3,404 for $2, believed to be the largest payoff in the history of British Columbia racing.

Three Vancouver men shared the only two tickets sold.

Peaceful Jane paid $190.40 for a $2 win ticket, Van Vic returned $20 in the second race.

Barrie Juniors Get 'Ultimatum' On Sunday Games

Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 15 (CP)—The Sunday playing problem which troubled Barrie Flyers last season, has bobbed up again.

Coach Hap Emms said last night the Memorial Cup holders have been given an "ultimatum" which may result in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A club either dropping out of the league by seeking another home arena outside a 50-mile radius of Toronto.

His announcement was made after a stormy session of the OHA Junior executive council, made up of the coaches and team managers of the loop.

Emms declared he was told by general manager Art Ross of the Boston Bruins, the National Hockey League club sponsoring the Flyers, that Conn Smythe, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs had taken the problem to the NHL.

He said that unless Barrie was willing to play Sunday games in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens the NHL rule be enforced. This rule gives the Leafs veto over all territory within a 50-mile radius of Toronto, an area that includes Barrie.

This would bar Boston from sponsoring a team in that area. Home games would play no Sunday games in Toronto, Team manager H. Norris said the refusal was taken on religious principles.

More About Guides

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Selmar Tackle)

About a month ago I knocked out a news story about guides. While the story dealt with all kinds of guides, good ones and bad ones, a good share of it was about bad guides, the fellows who don't give you much return on your dollar.

On re-reading this story I feel that I may have been a bit rough on the boys (and girls, too; there are quite a few females nowadays and that was unintentional.

So, in all fairness, let's talk some more about guides, this time about the good ones.

One paragraph in that news story went like this — "Fortunately for all of us, a high percentage of the fishing guides, no matter where you find them, are honest, hard-working boys who take their jobs seriously . . ."

Last July my son, Dick, drove down to Long Island to do some fishing for striped bass and bluefish. The stripers should be in by July and he wanted to give some of them a workout with a fly rod, using streamers and "popping bugs."

Unfortunately he did not inquire about the fishing before he started on his trip. He went on the assumption that the fish would behave this year as they had in former years.

Perhaps I had best let you have the rest of the story as he has it to me on his return. This is what he had to say.

From Shinnecock Inlet to Montauk, along Long Island's south shore, stretch miles of beaches that annually afford the gunfaster excellent fishing for stripers and bluefish. The beaches drop off into deep water fairly fast and surf is standing close enough to shore for the average caster to get out where the fish are feeding. Then, too, there are a good many inlets and rips that attract feeding fish.

There are two major runs of fish in this district. The blues, accompanied by the first run of striped bass, come in about mid-summer, followed by a heavier striped run in the fall of the year.

With this in mind, I went to Long Island in July, equipped with salt-water fly tackle, hoping to connect with some big fish schooling off the surf.

The morning after my arrival, I drove to Shinnecock in search of a guide. The first one I spoke to was very emphatic. He was sitting on the stern of his boat, splicing a piece of line. I sat on the pier above him.

"How's the fishing?" I asked.

"Lousy!" he grunted.

"Want to take me outside tomorrow? I'd like to find some stripers," I continued.

"You'd like to find some stripers! Fiddle sticks, boy, so would I! I haven't laid eyes on a school in three weeks and you'd like to find some stripers!"

"Well," I grinned, "you can find me some blues, can't you?"

"If'en I could find some blues, I'd be out after them myself. Make more on a load of blues than I could off you in a week. Fish houses are cryin' for fish!"

I watched him for a minute and then asked, "You do guide, don't you?"

"Sure, I guide," he exploded. "Takin' money from you for the fishen' you'd get would be like suin' a gnu. When I take a man out I get fish!"

"You're rare if that's the case. I've hired a lot of guides when I haven't seen any sign of a fish."

"Look around here. You won't get anyone to take you out. We got reputations to protect," he answered.

And that was that. I spoke to three more captains. All were politely firm. No sense going for a boat ride. Come back next fall. No fish in and we ain't goin' fishin'.

And that was that. Dick played golf that weekend and came home without having unpacked his fishing tackle.

My hat is off and I bow low to men who think enough of their reputations to turn down some easy money, particularly when the going is a bit rough and only cash not easily come by.

As I said in my previous news story, it takes all kind of people to make a world, and that includes guides, all three are good ones and bad ones, but fortunately for us, the good ones are in the very large majority.

Erics didn't get a man on first as Johnson's sizzling pitches left the batters swinging wide, while Calgary hurlers Morrison, Scott and Bill Burrows were tagged for 13 hits and seven walks.

Toronto was fresh from their three straight wins over Vancouver Giralyns to cop the Dominion crown.

Harry Pnutka, 22, who played hockey for St. Michael's Majors last year, signed Friday with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Ontario Hockey Association senior loop. He played for the Kitchener Junior B team in the 1945-46 season.

Corner Shots

By "THE OUTSIDE RIGHT"

The Belleville Charity Cup games got underway this week. Last Wednesday evening Batawa beat Trenton Methodists by three goals to one in a first round match and earned the right to meet R.B.D. today in the semi-finals. In the other semi-final game, Belleville meet Picton Hunters at Bayside Park. This game was scheduled for this afternoon, but has been postponed until Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. All proceeds from the cup series go to the Injured Players Fund operated by the Bay of Quinte Football Association.

Next Saturday two games are called for in the Trenton Challenge Cup series, Trenton are at home to Belleville in a first round tilt for the right to meet Batawa in the semi-final while R.B.D. visit Picton in the other set.

It is expected that Batawa will be engaged next Saturday in the Ontario Intermediate championships. They won their final round in the district playoffs last Sunday against R.B.D., and now meet the winners of the Kingston district playoffs in a home and home encounter.

The Belleville School League will shortly get underway under the leadership of chairman Jack Bennett. The schools will be playing off for the Harvey trophy donated by Bill Harvey. Frank Pollwell, MP, Hastings South, is putting up a trophy for juvenile (under 18) competition and it is hoped to start this competition shortly with probably Belleville, Napanee High School and Wellington Consolidated School participating.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Sunday, September 16—

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Delightful influences from Venus, Mercury and other planets augur for a pleasant Sunday. But be sure that you treat it as God's day, with prayer and good deeds included in your plans.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Happy outlook for you who forget worries and disappointments to avail yourself of daily advantages. Look to God for blessings and you will receive them. Enjoy family, friends, healthful fun.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Opportune time now to improve a talent or hobby, to catch up with neglected correspondence, writings, reading. Essential work honored. Thank God for privileges, accept duties in good spirit.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—A day for increasing honor to God, parents, for thought of aid to troubled peoples, for building freedom's causes. Go to church. In free time, seek wholesome fun, restful recreation.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Sun and Mars only ones suggesting restrictions, and these can be most helpful, restraining us against extremes, urging us to enjoy character development. Congeniality important, too.

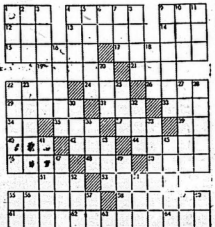
August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)— Day's many benefic planetary aspects sponsor first spiritual development, home, scientific and artistic professions, abiding worthy causes. Needed, too, is enjoyable relaxation.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Note Taurus and Cancer; your chart similar this generous day. Fine time to improve talents, for good reading, music, etc. Necessary work honored. Indulge good diversion, too.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Mars' aspect suggests some curbs and wise limitations. Hold back over-zealous tendencies. On whole, day is promising, can be very pleasant. Remember your soul's demands.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) — You who must work, and all in country's services under most benefic aspects. First favored are religious, government and domestic matters. Socials and fun to be taken in thoughtful turn.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Note Scorpio today. This Sunday can bring many blessings and temporal benefits if you heed God's laws and live as God-fearing and God-loving people should. Avoid useless changes.



January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Pleasant, constructive influences. A sane, middle course best. Thoughtfulness brings greater respect and co-operation from family, associates. Attend your church; ease any strained relations.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Church, home, family issues, music, literature, due personal matters top day's preferred list. Find true contentment in prayer, association with children, the aged, little pleasures.

YOU BORN TODAY are the stable, calm-in-emergency type. Fond of learning, the better things in life generally. Too critical at times, and are equally exacting of self as of others. Are innately generous, careful in decisions. Both mechanical and artistic ability, can adapt yourself quickly to altered circumstances and won't complain at long hours or difficult tasks. Correct wanting to change others' ways even though your intentions are kindly. Success may be greater as you grow older. Always keep trying and have faith.

Birthdate: Francis Parkman, noted historian; James J. Hill, railroad builder; Andrew Bonar Law, English statesman.

Imperial Oil's White Says High Canadian Living Standard Depends on High Production

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Canadians have grown up with the idea that their standard of living should be about the same as the United States. But do we have a right to expect that it should be?

First, after you have stopped taking it for granted that it should be the same, you may ask why it is so close to the American?

Why can a people of such a scattered community—and especially the Canada of a few years ago—enjoy nearly the same way of life as those of the richest country in the world; and a better way than virtually any other people?

The major part of the answer probably is that never (with the possible exception of the early United States) have so few people owned so much in a national sense.

From the fur-trading days we have been a people with something to sell—more of it to sell than we have been able to gather up. In our most formative modern years, wheat was the major item. We always had forest products and minerals, but the extent of recent demand makes them almost new industries. And to all our raw materials we have added manufacturing.

All along the way, however, we have been living between the advantage of being a few people owning a lot, and the disadvantages of being a few people having to run such a large country.

John R. White, executive vice-president, Imperial Oil Ltd., in a speech to the United States National Petroleum Association in Atlantic City, N. J., put part of the problem as follows:

"From the earliest days, distance and the problems of transport have been the controlling influences in Canada.

"There are 3.23 persons per square mile of land area in Canada, compared with 45.1 persons in the United States. The average Canadian has something over 190 acres to take care of, while the average American has to look after a mere 14 acres. The average Canadian must maintain 15.5 feet of railway against 5.3 feet for the American; he must take care of 212 feet of roads and highways compared with 106 feet."

Mr. White also gave the answer to why we have done as well as we have. He said:

Use Mechanical Energy

"How does a country attain a high living standard in the face of heavy transport costs and a small population?

"Obviously, the answer lies in multiplying the working power of its people by means of mechanical energy. And that is just what Canada has done. Our use of energy in the form of petroleum, natural gas, electricity and coal now is rated at 307,000,000 British thermal units per person, very nearly equal to the 229,000,000 units per person in the United States.

"So, given the territory capable of producing a high standard of living, the answer seems to lie in putting enough production power in the hands of the people; and, also, on their accomplishing the production.

"More numbers, of course, do not mean higher production. As countries increase in population so do their none-productive and even wasteful, efforts, tend to increase.

"It is widely felt, for instance, that Britain would be better off with a few million less of the part of its population which produces virtually nothing and consumes a lot.

Little Waste Here

"In Canada, because of the relatively small production, there probably is much less waste of this kind. But even here it is sometimes a shock for a city dweller to think upon how few people are actually producing anything; even though we may be performing services either essential, or considered essential under a high standard of living.

"To come back to the United States—perhaps the greatest debt we owe that country is for the example she has set in demonstrating that a high and continually-rising standard of living is possible, and for showing a way to bring it about.

"We believe that anything the United States has, we should have, perhaps that is too negative an approach. Undoubtedly such a few people with so much to work on could accomplish more than we do accomplish.

Atlantic Countries Integration to Top NATO Discussions

Canada to Join in Talks As National Leaders Ponder

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Sept. 17—(CP)—The North Atlantic Council thrust the future integration of the Atlantic community to the top of its agenda today while new efforts were made to speed deliberations by slashing the amount of talk.

As delegates from 12 nations went back into secret session, a Canadian source said the paramount problem is how to balance military power and economic stability and social progress.

Military power remains first, but the broad concept of interest shown Saturday in the creation of a more-tightly-knit Atlantic community moved it up ahead of other items for immediate consideration.

Canada is expected to join in the discussion today and to tell the other nations how she feels they should go on from the present military collaboration to create something deeper and broader. A broad statement from the whole council is expected to emerge later.

As delegates filed back into the big communist compound from where they meet, they found a cubicle in the name of every member of the United Nations—so there won't have to be translation into English or French of what each speaker says. In this way, time spent on talk can be slashed sharply. It was installed by Canadian engineers and signallers but nobody was around at opening time whether it would work effectively.

De Gasperi Speaks

Today's discussion on the long-range development of NATO would come after Italy's Prime Minister De Gasperi completed the series of views of the non-world situation. This started Saturday as the first item of business.

The Canadian source said today's discussion will be to clarify just what the nations mean when they talk about an Atlantic community and how they think it can best be achieved.

The long-range discussion will, however, be permeated with talk about the more immediate problem of how to counteract the wrecking the economies of the free nations.

On both points, Canada is expected to have something to say and may come up with concrete proposals for meeting the economic problems confronting European countries because of the further economies can't bear further yearmanent without aid.

Financial experts in both the U.S. and Canada for those countries has been reported likely here.

It is understood that the foreign ministers will discuss Korea and the U.S. reported Saturday on the results of their talks on west German rearmament. The subject is unlikely, however, to be pursued here.

There is satisfaction in Canadian circles over the progress that has been made in creating an international European army for service under NATO with German units in its ranks.

The council, its five-day Ottawa session formally opened Saturday by Chairman Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium, is to receive a report from Gen. Eisenhower bringing members up to date on preparations to defend Europe. It is understood the report, one of several scheduled for early presentation, will be a general hastening of military contributions from the 12 members' states, including Canada.

While anti-war demonstrators paraded outside the parliament buildings, Mr. Van Zeeland told an opening session of the council that "we are still a long way off our objective" of balancing Western armed might with that of Russia.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Sept. 17 (CP) —Synopsis—Rain fell last night in the Kapuskasing region in advance of cool dry air from Hudson Bay. This area of rainfall is expected to push as far south as Muskoka this today and then dissipate.

Southern regions will continue to enjoy sunny skies both today and Tuesday with temperatures averaging a seasonable 70.

Six Convicts In Alabama Break Remain at Large

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 17 — (AP) — An intensive search for six Draper prison convicts still at large continued throughout Alabama today with the capture of a ringleader and four other escapees.

Tracked to be taken were three prisoners who were flushed by bloodhounds near DR prison at Speigner, Ala.

The three, who were unarmed, were not immediately identified.

Convicted murderer Frank Morris and Allen Westo, were surprised and taken without a struggle last night.

Warden C. R. Reeves said Green was a ringleader in the daring escape Friday night. Fifteen prisoners broke for freedom after a guard had been slugged and five others overpowered.

Possibilities of How Life Began Pondered in Book Published Today

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 17—(AP) —Did life originate in a gas? In Water? Did it drift here from space? Did it start in minerals?

The possibilities are told by Dr. Harold F. Blum of the National Cancer Institute in a book published today—"Time's Arrow and Evolution" (Princeton University Press).

Fossils prove that life originated upon this earth nearly 1,000,000,000 years ago. They indicate that apparently no life existed before.

Dr. Blum starts with some things that happened before there was life. He has proved in laboratories. One is the building of molecules. When two atoms meet, they may share, held by electrical bonds. More atoms join to form molecules.

Dr. Blum said this was the first step toward life. Living molecules all are complex—many of them with thousands or hundreds of thousands of atoms.

Light and heat alone are sufficient to cause much of the building of complex molecules. But light and heat are not enough to build molecules which are alive. For that something additional is needed. This addition is a favorable place.

Gas could be such a place, because the building reactions occur quickly in gas.

Water is the scientist's favorite builder. Hot, energy seas were supposed to have existed once, providing a fine life laboratory. The molecules they might have drifted here from some unidentified place in space. It is known that tiny organisms can remain alive in the intense cold of space.

Astronomers find the atmosphere of the largest planet, Jupiter, is largely frozen ammonia. The same is true of the giant planet Saturn. The ammonia probably once was hot.

20 PERSONS KILLED WHEN STUNTING PLANE CRASHES

Craft Cuts Deadly Swath Through Crowd

Flagler, Colo., Sept. 17 (CP)— This stunted little farming town of 800 residents today prepared to bury 20 persons killed Saturday when a stunting aircraft cut a deadly swath through the air show crowd of 1,000.

Seventeen others were injured when Lieut. Norman Jones civilian plane plunged on wheat stubble as he was executing a barrel-roll. Jones, a student at the Lowry air force base photo school, was killed when his plane crashed and skidded 1,200 yards packed with cars and spectators.

The plane cartwheeled into the crowd and practically disintegrated.

Authorities of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Civil Aeronautics Board scoured the scene today.

The crash was described as "the worst tragedy involving a small aircraft in this country's aviation history," by R. F. Patterson, regional chief of the CAB who is directing the probe into the crash.

"I could see parts of the plane fly over the cars," said Rev. Edward Dixon, who walked among the dead, delivering extreme unction to Roman Catholic victims.

There were 13 children among the dead.

Many of the dead will have mass funeral. Services are scheduled for tomorrow and Wednesday.

Flagler is trying to rouse today from its shock. The hospital has been scrubbed down and bloody linens and cots which have disappeared. But the people still suffer from the sudden death which closed it at least one friend or relative of everyone in town.

SHOT IN BACK

Oakville, Sept. 17—(CP)—Shot in the back with his own service revolver, Cpl. John Sheffield of the Ontario Provincial Police was found in his car here Monday in critical condition Sunday night in Oakville-Trafalgar Hospital.

The officer was shot Thursday night after he had engaged in a fierce argument with his daughter, Doreen, 16, about her job.

Doreen was later arrested and charged with committing causing grievous bodily harm. Crown Attorney Lloyd Dingle said the girl will appear in the magistrate's court next Thursday.

JOHN S. HENRY DIES

Kleinburg, Ont., Sept. 17 (CP) —John Stanley Henry, 75, brother of the late Ontario Premier George S. Henry, died here Sunday. Born in Toronto, Mr. Henry graduated from Upper Canada College and from the University of Toronto. During the First World War he served overseas with a siege battery from Saint John, N.B. After the war, he was engaged in farming in Milton and Kleinburg.

Ridgway Offers to Renew Suspended Cease-Fire Talks

Tokyo, Sept. 18.— (Tuesday)— (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway notified the communist high command Monday he is still ready to resume cease-fire negotiations broken off by the reds.

However, the Supreme Allied Commander made a 13-hour flying trip to Korea to confer with the Eighth Army Commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, in case his offer was again rejected.

He also saw Commonwealth Division commanders before he returned to Tokyo Monday night.

Ridgway's terse message to the reds made no mention of Kaesong which he previously had declared unacceptable as a site for further armistice talks.

It was not immediately clear whether Ridgway could continue to insist that the conference site be changed to avoid further interruptions, or if he would be willing to send his cease-fire team there upon reaching a "mutually-satisfactory" understanding with the reds.

Ridgway's headquarters at midnight described the Supreme Commander's trip to Korea and return as "routine."

It was the Supreme Commander's second Korean visit since the talks called off armistice talks Aug. 23, with the first of a series of 12 charges that Allied ground and air forces violated the Kaesong neutrality zone around Kaesong.

Proposed New Site

In the flurry of charges and denials, Ridgway on Sept. 5 proposed that the talks be moved to a new site. The reds replied Saturday that the suggestion was "completely unsatisfactory and unacceptable".

In his reply to that message today the Allied Supreme Commander said:

"If you are now disposed to terminate the suspension of Armistice negotiations which you declared on 23 August, I am still prepared to order my liaison officers to a meeting at the bridge at Panmunjom (red outpost six miles southeast of Kaesong) to discuss conditions that will be mutually satisfactory for the resumption of Armistice talks."

Observers here speculated the "mutually satisfactory" conditions mentioned by Ridgway Monday night include a new site for the talks.

In his stinging message Sept. 5 Ridgway called the red charges "baseless and intentionally false" and added: "I cannot provide you with guarantees against your own efforts to create control in an area for which you are responsible."

Labor Head Blames High Price Level on Lack of Controls

Vancouver, Sept. 17— (CP)— Lack of direct price control has resulted in the "outrageously high" price level, A. R. Mosher told the Canadian Congress of Labor today in his presidential address at the C.C.L. annual convention.

President Mosher taxed the government with disregarding the interests of the people in the "efficient haste" with which it had dropped price controls after the war.

If a political party responsive to the interests of labor had been in power, he said, the present price situation would not have developed. He said labor should be political as well as economic action.

(The C.C.L. for some years has designated the C.C.F. party as the "political arm" of labor and urged a political action committee to work with it.)

Chides Employers

The veteran president and founder of the Congress, opening the 11th convention, also struck at employers who he said give aid to communist units by signing sub-standard contracts.

"It is especially regrettable," he said, "that certain employers are so shortsighted as to be willing to make agreements with communist controlled unions simply because in many cases they can make a better bargain with a union which is on the defensive and trying at all costs to maintain its existence."

Mr. Mosher's address was obviously directed chiefly at Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, Ltd., and International Nickel Company of Canada, which hold contracts with the red-dominated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. The mining union has been expelled from the congress for its communist leadership.

Dealing with legislative matters, Mr. Mosher revived the demand for a labor code, the labor groups for a wider national labor code. It should cover such matters as the right to collective bargaining houses, not now included. He also objected to unnecessary delays in the settlement of labor disputes.

In the prepared address, Mr. Mosher expressed the hope for continued co-operation between the chief international labor bodies which banded together in a national committee on co-operation early this year in Canada, now including a membership of about 1,000,000.)

Speaking on defence, Mr. Mosher said labor is ready to do all it can to meet aggression. He urged labor representation on planning and policy-making bodies. It could make a valuable contribution towards the defence effort.

Ready to Meet Aggression

At last week's T.L.C. convention, the congress decided to withdraw from the present state of co-operation among the international groups, a decision generally interpreted as meaning the Congress would withdraw from committee. Others on the committee are the Canadian and Catholic labor congresses and the Canadian independent railway brotherhood. It also told the three organizations have a membership of about 1,000,000.)

Speaking on defence, Mr. Mosher said labor is ready to do all it can to meet aggression. If urged labor representation on planning and policy-making bodies. It could make a valuable contribution towards the defence effort.

Carrier Crews Trained to Handle Atomic Bombs

Washington, Sept. 17 — (AP)— Admiral William Fechteler said today the United States Navy now has carrier crews trained to handle atomic bombs.

He said this includes both men in the ship engineering and those who fly the carrier planes.

The chief of naval operations told a press conference that the planes would be used for "tactical operations . . . not the cities against naval targets ashore or afloat).

He said the navy already has two types of planes which can operate off a carrier and carry atomic bombs. They are the AJ attack plane and the P2V Neptune patrol bomber.

The navy started practising with the use of dummy atomic bombs in exercises last spring and will use them again in the fall exercises which will start in the Atlantic yesterday Fechteler said.

Berlin, Sept. 17 (Reuters) — Czech Olympic champion Emil Zatopek bettered a long distance running record in Prague Sunday, the East German news agency Adn reported today.

HARRIMAN WILL NOT BE ENVOY IN OIL DISPUTE

Refuses to Deliver Ultimatum to British

Tehran, Iran, Sept. 17 — (AP) —W. Averell Harriman has refused to serve as messenger for an Iranian ultimatum to Britain to reopen the stalled oil talks, an informed source said today.

The United States troubleshooter's reply regarding the two-week ultimatum was delivered to Premier Mohammed Mossadeh this morning.

(American officials in Washington said yesterday that Harriman had decided to sit on the ultimatum, at least until he gets a response to his letter from Mossadegh.)

American and Iranian officials declined to comment on the lengthy note from President Truman's representative, but an authoritative source said Harriman had turned down Mossadegh's request to deliver the ultimatum.

The ultimatum threatened expulsion of about 350 British technicians remaining in Abadan, world's largest oil refinery —unless Britain reopens the talks within two weeks.

The source reliably reported that Harriman wrote Mossadegh he was opposed to the ultimatum, because it would result in a worsening of British-Iranian relations and put the possibility of settlement further off.

There was a strong possibility that Mossadegh would not even send the ultimatum to the British government, but simply inform the British technicians in Abadan that their residence permits were no longer valid and they must leave within two weeks.

British sources here said the technicians, in that case, would have little alternative.

Gov't. Under Fire

Mossadegh's government has been under fire from a small but powerful group in parliament since the oil talks with Britain broke down.

The defence of the government's weakness was a report by the government spokesman yesterday that security officials are investigating a report of a coup that would be set up as exploded sky-rocket.

There was no evidence today of unusual military precautions in Tehran. One opposition leader branded the report as a "propaganda trick" which might be used as an excuse to proceed against opposition figures.

The refusal of Harriman to become embroiled in the bitter British-Iranian dispute is the latest setback for the nationalistic premier.

He now is put in the position of pushing ahead with his threat to expel the British or face the British foreign office already has said it would refuse to negotiate under the present circumstances.

Although Harriman gave indirect support to the government proposals before the talks broke down in August, he tried to remain "neutral" and refused to help in the future.

On this basis Mossadegh has been hoping for a last-minute American step to put pressure on British to reopen negotiations.

Harriman's refusal is expected to increase the parliamentary opposition to Mossadegh.

Mad Parson John Edward Allen Escapes Asylum to Prove Sanity

Broadmoor, Berkshire, England, Sept. 17—(Reuters)—A murderer who made a dramatic jail-break and lived on his wits for two years to prove that he is sane today won his fight to convince mental specialists.

After 13 years in Broadmoor criminal lunatic asylum, John Edward Allen—known throughout Britain as "the mad parson" —will be released with medical approval.

Allen, now 38, was sent to Broadmoor for life after killing a 17-month-old Dianna Woodward in 1937. For 10 years he was a model prisoner.

His favorite hobby was acting and in 1947, dressed in a parson's collar and somber black suit for a theatrical performance he climbed a 16-foot wall and escaped, with $450 from the canteen.

Police picked him up three days later in London.

When Allen was returned to the asylum he set out in earnest to prove his sanity. Under Britain's lunacy acts, an escaped lunatic who maintains himself for 14 days must be re-certified before he can be locked up again. Doctors found Allen passed all sanity tests.

When he freed, Allen must obey certain conditions.

"So long as he satisfies these conditions, he will remain free."

Passenger Train Hits Truck, Two Killed at Chatham

Engine Overturns, Fireman Buried, Killed in Wreckage

Chatham, Sept. 17—(CP)—Two men were killed and another was injured severely when a speeding passenger train struck a truck at a crossing near here today.

Joseph Pettigrey, 21, of Toronto, died in the flaming wreckage of his tractor-trailer truck when the fast Canadian Pacific Railway Chicago-to-Toronto express plowed into his vehicle four miles east of Chatham. Fireman Carl Sterling of London was killed when the locomotive overturned.

The engineer C. Childs of London, was brought to hospital here in serious condition.

Two-hundred passengers of the seven-car train were shaken up but none was injured severely.

The locomotive and tender tipped over on their sides and the baggage car and three coaches were derailed but remained upright.

Pettigrey's truck, normally used to transport bulldozers, was empty at the time.

Sterling was pried from the wreckage of the engine by Rev. F. Lester Wimple and district of St. Peter's seminary, London, and were passengers on the train.

First aid was rendered by Dr. C. A. Cawker and Dr. Graham Irvine Graham of Windsor, Ont., recently graduated as a nurse, who also were passengers.

Fourteen Persons Burned Fatally By Flash Fire

Mexico City, Sept. 17 (AP)— Fourteen persons were burned fatally or trampled to death when flames, touched off by fire works, flashed through the crowded "Can-Can" Cabaret yesterday.

Ten of the dead were women-mostly hostesses.

Ninety persons were injured in the disaster 28 of them seriously. About 1,000 persons jammed the place when the fire broke out.

The cabaret was crowded with Mexicans celebrating their independence and the fireworks firecracker set fire to strips of bunting. Earlier reports had said the fire was set by an exploded skyrocket.

Police gave this version of the disaster:

During the night a group of men and women had been amusing themselves by tossing firecrackers at the feet of the dancers. Some of the crackers accidentally touched off the paper decorations and flames shot up the walls.

There was a rush for the door, which was less than three feet wide. The crowd piled up against a screen, and the screaming mass of men and women fought to get through.

A few patrons ran for the windows, but these were covered by heavy iron bars and heavy wire netting.

The building was gutted.

BRUTALLY BEATEN

Toronto, Sept. 17—(CP)—Mrs. Mildred Davis, 45-year-old mother of six children, was found naked and unconscious after being brutally beaten in a downtown lane early Sunday. She is in critical condition in hospital with a fractured skull.

Police say she had not been criminally assaulted.

Expert Handling Of Crippled Ship Saves 53 Lives

Chicago, Sept. 17. (AP)—A Florida-bound plane crash-landed yesterday and the pilot's expert handling of the crippled ship was credited with saving the lives of 53 persons aboard.

Capt. R. J. Mountain was lauded for making an "excellent" belly-landing of the converted twin-engined Army C-46 in a field near Midway Airport. Mountain brought the ship down shortly after getting airborne, when the left engine died.

The plane was badly damaged as it came to a stop after turning away in the wheels-up landing. None of those aboard was seriously injured.

Most of the 50 injured suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Thirty-seven were treated at the scene and others were examined at the scene. Fourteen persons were sent to hospital, but their injuries were described as not serious.

Officials said Mountain managed to avoid serious injury by a clear area—a prairie spot about three miles west of the airport —and made "an excellent belly-landing".

Will Silvert, acting chief of the civil Aeronautics Board Region C, said that about three minutes after the pilot had radioed he radioed that his port-engine had failed and he was coming back for an emergency landing.

The plane, lumbering along at about 200 to 300 feet, apparently was too low to make a 180-degree turn back to the field. He decided then, Silvert said, to risk a landing in the clear area.

Bringing the ship to the prairie, Mountain and the co-pilot, Robert Tracy, 33, cut the engines, and the plane then touched the ground to avoid the hazard of a fire. The plane panned, and slid to a halt, right side up.

The plane, owned by the Tennessee Valley Authority of Miami and leased to the Safeway Skycoach Airline Company of Chicago, was starting a charted trip to Miami.

$250,000 Fire Loss at Hespeler

Hespeler, Sept. 17 — (CP) — A spark from an acetylene torch ignited a small puddle of oil and mushroomed into a raging inferno Saturday, destroyed two factories and threatened to wipe out the town's industrial area. Damage was estimated at close to $250,000.

Heroic efforts of firemen of two departments waged a seven hour fight to control the fire. It was Hespeler's heaviest fire loss in 50 years.

Fire swept the Hall Foundry Company Ltd. and Standard Castings Company Manufacturing Company and left the two factories, sprawled over two acres in the heart of the town's industrial area, blackened hulks.

TOMATO PICKERS WORK ON SUNDAY

Tomato fields of the district especially Prince Edward County were hives of activity on Sunday. Some canning plants also operated in an effort to take care of the crop.

Warm weather for the past few days accelerated ripening and pickers worked until sunset to harvest the crop. Wellington plants operated into the early morning hours of Sunday clearing platforms for the expected rush today.

FORCED TO SWIM AFTER DINGHY UPSETS

"Flootin' down the river on a Sunday afternoon" could be the paraphrased theme song of Aldermen William Argue. His dinghy capsized in the heavy weather during the Sunday yacht races and the alderman floated some distance down the bay before help arrived.

This is the second time the Argue craft capsized during a race.

Queen's Alumni Association Holds Fall Dinner

The Queen's University Alumni Association, Belleville and district branch, recently held their annual fall dinner at the Lakeshore Hotel, Sandbanks. Nearly 90 members of the branch were present at the meeting. C. D. Dies, president, was chairman.

The guest speaker of the evening, Dr. H. Estall of Department of Philosophy, Queen's University was introduced by Mr. A. S. Robb. Dr. Estall's subject was the Massey Commission Report.

Dr. Estall began by explaining that the Massey Commission was set up by Order In Council to report on the state of development of the arts and sciences in Canada. He discussed generally the influences of our two nationalities, languages and traditions, of American culture, and of the geography and sparseness of population on the development of Canadian culture.

He pointed out that they were specifically commissioned to report on the case for Canada's present publicly owned broadcasting system and reached the conclusion that nothing could be gained by setting up a new organization separate from the CBC to control broadcasting in Canada.

Need of Federal Aid

They were also commissioned to report on the federal financial support of cultural development and found that although much was being done in the realm of physical sciences there was an almost complete lack of support for the development of the humanities and social sciences. The report emphasized the need of federal aid to voluntary bodies, especially the universities, action in the form of interim legislation has already been taken by the government and that some help will be given the universities this year as a result of this recommendation. The report proposed the setting up of an extensive program of fellowships and scholarships and of a counterpart of the National Research Council in the field of the humanities, social sciences and fine arts.

The speaker concluded that the very fact that the government had commissioned the Massey Report spoke well for the prospects of future cultural development in Canada.

Mr. Lorne Mallory expressed the group's appreciation to Dr. Estall for his interesting talk.

There followed several business meetings in which Dr. William Angus of Queen's University discussed some of the factors involved in bringing Queen's Drama Guild plays to this district.

During the dinner a toast to Queen's by Dr. Walmsley of Bloomfield was answered by Herb Hamilton, the secretary of the General Alumni Association.

Dr. K. McQueen of Bloomfield, who was chairman of the committee which arranged the excellent meeting and dinner closed the meeting with a toast to to Canada.

A nine-man team from the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club won the Morton Parker Trophy for Nassau competition in a tri-club tournament played on the Quinte Golf Club links on Sunday.

The Quinte linksmen scored 1-3 points to defeat Trenton with 9 1-2 and Napanee with 7 points.

Low scorers for the tourney were F. Bentley, Napanee and T. A. Carruthers, Bay of Quinte, who were tied at 75 each.

Refreshments and a dinner were served after the match by the ladies of the Napanee club.

Ted Parker, Quinte, was elected president and E. Pugh, secretary to plan for the 1952 competition to be held at the Bay of Quinte club next year.

Members of the winning team were V. Smith, T. A. Carruthers, F. Pugh, Mike Aquafreda, Harry Ridley, D. Joss, W. Oliver, R. Graham and B. Yanover.

Fire Marshal's Dept. to Probe Two Blazes

A full investigation by the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department has been ordered for two blazes occurring in the city Saturday night which appeared to have suspicious origin.

One of the blazes caused approximately $1,000 damage at the F. W. Hewat Company Ltd., woodworking shop on Everett Street. The other blaze which appeared deliberately set was on the third floor of the Army and Navy building where two separate fires were discovered in two closets. Both were extinguished before the flames broke out of the closets.

It was the second time within recent months that firemen have been called to the Hewat woodworking shop on Everett Street. Several months ago considerable damage was done the building and contents from a fire which apparently started in a washroom.

Blaze on Lamber Shelf

Saturday evening shortly before ten o'clock firemen were called to the woodworking shop where a blaze was in progress on a shelf of lumber in the stockroom. Fire Chief Vance said the second time within one window had been found at the building.

"The blaze is being thoroughly investigated," Fire Chief Vance said.

Mystery also surrounds the two separate fires found in closets in Joseph Samain's private apartment on the third floor of the Army and Navy building. Smelling smoke in the hallway Mr. Samain investigated and found blazes going in separate closets situated about eight feet apart. He had the blazes extinguished before the arrival of the fire department.

Busy Weekend

It was a busy weekend for members of the local fire department who answered no less than nine calls from Saturday evening until Sunday evening.

First of the string of calls was to the Bayview coal yards where a coal pile was ablaze, apparently started as result of spontaneous combustion. A dozen men were procured to move part of the pile in an effort to uncover the burning coal, but firemen were called back twice to drench the coal.

Yesterday morning firemen were called to the home on Pinnacle where they found a mattress in a bedroom ablaze. Smoking in bed was the cause of the blaze.

Last Sunday afternoon the department was called to the bay shore with the resuscitator after a sailing boat had upset in the bay. The occupants of the boat hung on to their craft, however, and were picked up by another boat little the worse for their experience.

The final call answered by the department was to Trenwell's Motel in the east end of the city where a small oil stove got over-heated. No damage resulted.

POLICE BLOTTER

Street disturbances were prevalent in the city over the week-end with police officers being called on to break up several sidewalk groups. No arrests were made, however, the participants merely being dispersed and ordered to move on.

The proprietor of a Station St. feed mill complained that a number of windows in his plant had been broken presumably by children proving their stone throwing abilities.

Three-and-a-half-year-old Ellen Morrison, 321 Dufferin Ave., escaped injury when she darted in the path of a car driven by Roy Sanderson, 222 Pine Street. The little girl was examined by Dr. Beattie but no injuries were reported.

Fishermen Enjoy Rare Experience

While on a recent fishing trip in the Massaw Lake area, Mattawa, Mr. Simmons of Sharbot Lake, Ont., and the Rev. H. W. Griffin of Foxboro, Ont., experienced a thrill that comes rarely in a lifetime. While fishing, the men's attention was drawn to a moving object some distance away, moving out from the shore and heading toward a distant point. Curiosity caused the sportsmen to alter course in their motor and investigate. The moving object turned out to be a buck, deer, an extremely large specimen possessing an excellent rack of horns.

The big deer's open mouth showed that it had been running hard, escaping, no doubt, from pursuing wolves. Running the boat alongside the swimming animal, Mr. Griffin firmly grasped the horns, holding on with considerable difficulty. This allowed Mr. Simonet to pat the beautiful beast.

Releasing the animal, the fishermen followed it to shore to see it disappear into the forest with a few great bounds."

19-Year-old Bride Strangled in Room Husband Held

Timiskaming Que., Sept. 17—(CP)— A 19-year-old bride of two months was strangled in the bathroom of her three - room apartment Saturday night in this northwestern Quebec town.

Attracted Mrs. Gerald Ryan was found fully clothed, her hands clutching the wedding gown in which she was married July 16.

Her 22-year-old husband is held by police on a charge of murder. A homicide squad from the Quebec Provincial Police in Montreal arrived here late yesterday afternoon to take charge of the investigation.

Ryan, a 240-pound six-footer who works as a cook in a cafeteria and boarding house, told police about the slaying which occurred about 9 p.m. Saturday night.

He telephoned the town police and blurted out:

"I've killed my wife."

Montreal police officers refused to comment on the case. They left open whether or not whether they had uncovered a motive for the slaying.

However, friends of the couple said Ryan and his wife had wrangled bitterly Friday night.

They said Ryan was "insanely" in love and deeply jealous of her.

Both worked at the Crawley-McCrackens cafeteria and boarding house. The apartment is on the second floor of the cafeteria building where Mrs. Ryan worked as a waitress.

One of Mrs. Ryan's friends said that after the marriage, the young bride had said:

"He told me he didn't marry him...he would kill me."

Shrine Tag Day Realizes $1,480

What is believed to be a city Tag Day record was achieved by the Belleville Shrine Club in its appeal for funds held on Saturday.

Shrine President D. E. Storey said today that the total receipts amounted to $1,480.00.

"We, of the Shrine, cannot put in words our heartfelt appreciation of the generous response to our appeal for funds for the Crippled Children. The record taken through this medium will be devoted to the welfare and care of these less fortunate children." President Storey said.

"We also wish to extend our appreciation," he added, "to all those who in any way assisted in the special thanks to members of the Shrine who worked to make the appeal the success it was."

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Sept. 17. (CP)—Support weakened abruptly today in early afternoon dealings as stock market prices turned mixed.

Market leaders took the brunt of the trend reversal after a steady morning climb. Trading continued actively and volume for the first three hours reached 2,305,000 shares.

Papers weakened sharply and were displaced by steels as the strongest industrial section. Refining oils continued to gain. Foods and constructions advanced. Utilities, liquors, banks, textiles, manufacturing companies and retail stores were mixed while miscellaneous industrials turned lower.

Base metals climbed to a new high on the exchange's index at noon and then eased during the mid-session. Consolidated Smelters posted the largest gain as it jumped more than two points. Noranda climbed $1 and Pend Oreille and United Keno Hill added fractions. Cassiar and Steep Rock advanced steadily.

Western oils moderated slowly during the noon hour. Anchor Petroleum, Calvan Consolidated, Commonwealth Oil, Home Oil and Okalta eased as much as 25 cents. Central Explorations, Grid Oil, Kroy and New British Dominions went against the trend for small gains.

Senior golds weakened. Six issues showed losses up to $1 while three posted moderate advances.

News of Trenton Danger from Red Dictator Stressed by Chaplain House At Trenton Sunday Service

He said "there persists the growing fear of another and even more devastating war.

"The enemy with whom we are contending is less demonstrative than other dictators, less obviously aggressive, more subtle and sinister. Covertly with insidious and poisonous infiltration, he is steadily endeavoring to burrow beneath our foundation of democracy and freedom. He works silently in the deep darkness of the night, he lulls his victims into a false sense of security, he is a friend who lies like truth, who cries peace when he means war, liberation when he means bondage, love when he means hate. To this personification of duplicity no thing is sacred and human beings are expendable."

"Even as we celebrate the historic battle of Britain by and in mind the heroic young men who cleared the way for our final victory over Germany and her allies, we should look realistically into the future when another trial of fire, courage, devotion and faith may be required of us.

Strengthen Resolve

"We have not gathered here this afternoon," he said, "to make a show of formality and ceremony, but rather to gather courage and to strengthen our resolve to defend with all the power and resources a way of life in which we should all profoundly believe and steadfastly seek to follow.

"Today we remember those extraordinary young men of the Royal Air Force, Commonwealth and allied nations, including our own Dominion, who successfully defended the British Isles against the German Luftwaffe, the most imposing air armada the world had ever known. With consummate skill and daring, careless of their own lives, they scattered the massed might of Hitler and inspired by their heroism and devotion the immortal words of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, 'Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few.' To those few on this battle of Britain Sunday we pay our most sincere tribute and express our most profound gratitude."

Personnel of R.C.A.F. station Trenton, the 6 Repair Depot and Training Command Headquarters took part in separate religious services for Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths. Later both groups combined in a mass march past

Ibn Saud Gets $500,000 Daily In Oil Royalties

Cairo, Sept. 17 (AP)—Spurred by the cut-off of supplies from Iran, oil production is booming at record rates in the rich Persian Gulf area. This area holds about half the world's oil reserves.

The new oil wealth is flowing chiefly from the United Oil Co. (Aramco) fields in Saudi Arabia and from the tiny sheikdom of Kuwait.

These two countries have this year boosted their production so high that they've just about made up for the complete stoppage of the shipments from Iran.

The world demand for petroleum is so great that the end of Middle East expansion is not yet in sight. Aramco became the world's biggest single producer when it hit the 750,000-barrel-a-day mark three months ago. Today, production is 850,000 barrels.

The stepped-up oil flow is expected to give King Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia, an income from royalties of some $500,000 a day by the first of the year. Its royalties under a 50-50 arrangement are believed to exceed 50 cents per barrel.

Sheikh Abdulla As-Salem As-Subah, little-known ruler of Kuwait gets $87,000 a day under his recent royalty deal. Kuwait's barrel and production of 650,000 barrels daily.

Kuwait began producing oil only in 1946—at the rate of 11.- 700 barrels daily. Last year it averaged 350,000. The Burghan field in Kuwait, with its estimated reserves of 15,000,000,000 barrels, is the richest in the world. Saudi Arabian reserves by comparison are estimated at 10,000,000,000, Iran's 13,000,000,000.

Royalties now paid the Sheikh are believed the lowest in the world. He is asking for equal treatment with neighboring countries. This would mean a daily income of better than $300,000.

Protestant parade was composed of two squadrons of three flights. No. 1 wing, made up of flying instructors, school trainees and regular squadron personnel commanded by W.C. S. Farrell, with F.L. A. O. Puttonen as wing adjutant. No. 2 wing was made up of personnel of the air weapons school, station administration, mobile equipment, supply, works and buildings, hospital, signals and marine sections commanded by W.C. Wilkinson with F.L. J. Liggett as wing adjutant. No. 3 wing was made up of servicing and telecommunications personnel commanded by W.C. H. W. Lupton with F.L. R. A. B. Ellis as wing adjutant.

Popcorn Man Colyer Would Reduce Surplus

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 17.—AP —Marvin Colyer popped up short in the popcorn department yesterday. Now he's holding the bag for a few thousand friends.

It's pure guesswork just how much popcorn the 44-year-old Colyer gave away in two years. But after his arrest today, estimates ran between 15,000 and 40,000 bags.

Colyer was popcorn salesman for the Ritz Theatre.

His employer, Allen Bradley, couldn't understand the diminishing popcorn supply, so he had Colyer investigated.

Detectives gave this account:

About two years ago, Colyer started giving away popcorn to his friends because he just wanted to be good to them."

His supply of bags ran low. He ordered 40,000 at his own expense. He also bought some extra popping corn, too.

Colyer said he intended no harm. He wants to pay for the popcorn he gave away.

And Bradley isn't mad, either. He put up bond for Colyer and relieved him of some of his duties. Colyer had been booking agent as well as popcorn salesman.

Now he's just booking agent.

BANCROFT

Bancroft — Thursday night's meeting of the North Hastings High School Board was an informal get-together of the members of the school board and teaching staff in the cafeteria of the building.

"A GOOD PLACE TO DEAL"

You mean... We're not squirrels?

"NO SQUIRREL," frowned Sammy, "would ever do what you've done today!"

"But all I did was buy five new moss pillows," protested Sophie, his wife.

"Ummhmm," said Sammy. "Did we need to get new moss pillows?"

"No," answered Sophie, "but everybody knows there's a terrific shortage of moss — so moss pillows are getting scarcer and scarcer. Besides, the prices are bound to go higher."

"You're probably right! Especially if followers your example," growled Sammy, "that sort of buying just sends prices up higher. But what worries me is — what's happening to our savings."

"Savings?" echoed Sophie. "How can we save when the cost of living is higher than a Douglas Fir? Take this tail brush, for instance. Ten years ago I could buy one for five measly beechnuts. Now they cost two horse-chestnuts. Or take . . .

"I know, I know," cut in Sammy. "But we still need to save for the same reasons we always have. We've got to keep adding to our bank account, paying our life insurance and buying savings bonds. Or leave town."

"Leave town?" gasped Sophie. "For heaven's sake why?"

"Because," said Sammy, "everybody thinks squirrels are savers. So if people find out we're not saving, they'll say we're not squirrels! We'll be exiled. Banished."

"Oh, dear! exclaimed Sophie. "I never thought of that. I'm sorry, Sammy. From now on I'll really try to save every way I can. Ok?"

"Ok!" said Sammy.

AID NEEDED FOR BLIND

It is common knowledge that blind persons can be trained to perform many tasks which would ordinarily require good vision. It is also known that persons who become blind after maturity can often be taught new skills which enable them to earn a living in some new sphere.

Very few are aware, however, that the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has succeeded in training blind persons so effectively that some are able to become competent stenographers. Yet such is the case.

In its Toronto office, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has stenographers who are blind and who are not only able to operate typewriters but can choose letterheads of different kinds, make proper change, and locate all sorts of different memos and correspondence. This is done partly by touch and party by keeping each type of article or paper in a definite and invariable location.

There are 19,000 blind Canadians. Of these, about 115 live in Hastings County. The annual campaign for funds which is held by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind began September 10 and continues until September 30. The objective for Hastings County is $4,500.

A generous response to the Institute's appeal will enable many of our blind fellow-citizens to become self-supporting, self-respecting and happy once more.

SOMETHING TO CHEW ON

Science, whose province is to search out the nature of things for the sake of academic advancement, has come forward with a pronouncement that vitality affects every human being. Six chemists, all Nobel prize winners in chemistry, have stated that science now knows enough to feed four billion people, almost twice the present population of the world, abundantly, and not at the present low level of most of the world. At the same time these six men also told of new research which lends hope for the ultimate conquering of cancer. It is quite and the same time, science has some forward with a boast that it can assist man to a longer, fuller, healthier, life than that which he presently has.

The method by which these learned men plan to stock the larders of the world is very simple. Just grow more per acre. And grow more legumes — beans to you — because they utilize free nitrogen from the air, and as any chemist knows, nitrogen is the building stock of the proteins. They also suggest boosting the vitamin content of plants by using antibiotics — a process which is expected to improve vegetable proteins to the point where they will equal milk and eggs in food value.

Now this is all very interesting and no doubt the starving millions in Asia will be delighted to learn that at some future date the world will be able to support four billion people abundantly. But we have the rather jaundiced opinion that even when this Utopia is reached, food prices will by just out of reach of the consumer.

Science, that seemed in a fair way just a few years ago of destroying mankind, should not tempt him with gastronomical visions, unless it is prepared to deliver on its dreams. A carrot in hand is worth two legumes in the laboratory-tripline.

And nothing has been said about utilizing the abundant food available in the oceans. Thor Hyerdahl, in his book Kon Tiki, points out that the world's largest mammals, the whales, exist almost entirely on a diet of algae and plankton, minute creatures that fill the seas in numbers beyond human understanding. He also noted the abundant fish life as he drifted across the Pacific and wondered if maybe man isn't passing up the greatest source of food known to him by not cultivating the wealth of animal and vegetable life in the seas.

Since the water-land ratio is heavily weighted in favor of the oceans, it would appear that the world could support a population in excess of the paltry four billion proposed by the scientists. This is something for an ambitious scientist to get his teeth into. Or have all the scientists already tried to feast on seaweed and algae? Between the oceans' algae, and the hunter's claims for legumes, it looks like the world is in for a full stomach but one can not help wondering for how long.

TOURISTS GONE

(North Bay Nugget)

Each year, just about this time in September, somebody says: "Well, guess the tourist season is over again." And we look around about us in the midst of Northern Ontario's most beautiful season and find that it's the truth. The visitors are gone, traffic lessens noticeably every day, the "No Vacancy" signs are few and far between along the highway.

The clerk from Cleveland, the salesman from Toronto and the New York banker have come and gone, leaving we of the northland alone to enjoy this gorgeous season when the north country hits its prime.

HEART AND WALLET

We put our money in a fold	Are carried in the heart and mind,
And you the leather more would hold;	Safe wallets by the Lord designed.
A new one buy when that gets old.	Within them can be borne about
A thief policemen call "a dip" —	All that this life were poor without,
The wallet from its place may slip	Secure until they're both worn out.
And every dollar from it strip.	The friends who've shared both smile and sigh,
But riches of a surer kind	Dear memories of the years gone by.
	In heart and mind securely lie.

N.Y. Times, One of World's Most Important Newspapers, 100 Years Old on Tuesday

By SAUL PETT

New York, Sept. 17 (AP) — The New York Times, one of the world's most important papers, will be 100 years old Tuesday.

It was never in better health, a fact attributed to moderate living, a high-minded purpose and a busy but strictly-prescribed pattern of behavior.

True, in recent years, The Times has spiced its diet somewhat. It has increased more features and pictures, added crossword puzzles (but not comics or fiction) and sought to brighten its writing and speak more bluntly in its editorials.

But basically, the paper still lives and thrives on straight news, which is soberly covers, blankets and sometimes saturates. It does not engage in crusades, stands aloof from sensationalisms, turns away from gossip and at the words of publisher Arthur Hays Sulzberger, solicits the "patronage of intelligent Americans who desire information rather than entertainment."

All this has resulted in enormous prestige, if not in a great mass circulation. The Times has its $15 Pulitzer prizes, more than any other paper.

The Times is read in the White House, by the members of Senate, cabinet members and supreme court justices. In nearly 12,000 towns and cities around the United States and 100 countries abroad, subscribers receive 1 copies of The daily Times and 31 of the Sunday, most of the Soviet subscribers being government bureaus and libraries.

Thoroughness is Pride

Impartial thoroughness is the wellspring of Times pride. Also its bulk. It lives under the slogan "all the news that's fit to print." From its ow.n reporters and news agencies all over the world, more than 1,000,000 words pour into The Times office every day. It prints about 145,000 words in its daily edition and nearly three times that volume on Sundays.

The Times is filed every day in 6,615 libraries in the United States and abroad. One reason is that it is a newspaper of record and carries long verbatim texts. It printed 83,000 words on the Versailles Treaty, 247,000 words of its full pages on the Pearl Harbor report, 85,000 words on a day of the recent MacArthur hearings.

One Sunday issue of The Times costs more than $500,000 to put out, has run as long as 380 pages, usually weighs about four pounds.

This year The Times daily circulation is 554,088 and the Sunday, 1,146,807.

Its Sunday advertising. The Times carries more than twice that of any other paper in 1950, running to 20,131,227 lines.

The Times was born Sept. 18, 1851 in a candle-lit, windowless, hall-floored basement in New Manhattan. Its founder was young Henry J. Raymond, who believed in the new and violently personal journalism that his paper would seek "to allay, rather than excite, asperities." The first edition was four pages.

The Times now occupies its home in a 14-story $10,000,000, air-conditioned building just a few steps off Broadway on 43rd St., but temperamentally far removed.

World Scarcity of Pepper Enriching Producers in India

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

New Delhi, Sept. 17 (Reuters) — "When you want to buy pepper, please" you are putting a 4,000 percent profit into the pockets of India's pepper growers.

Watchmen are guarding the pepper vines of India's Malabar coast today as if they were sprouting gold.

The pepper boom came to India after the destroyed most of the pepper vines of Indonesia and gave India a virtual monopoly of the world's pepper trade.

Exports of black pepper have soared from about 3,400,000 pounds weight a year in 1938 to 60,523,400 hundredweight today.

Today, it costs a small grower in Travancore or Cochin about 100 rupees ($19.80) to grow a "candy" (1,200 pounds) of pepper. Its sale price for export, without the addition of duty, is more than 4,000 rupees ($840) a candy.

Small wonder that the pepper growers of Malabar set guards by night around the precious vines which have brought them fortunes, and which have netted the Indian government during the past year $24,000,000 in export duties.

Growers expect their boom to last at least another two years before the pepper estates of Indonesia come back into full production and competition brings prices down again.

Only five years to raise a pepper plant from a seedling to the production stage.

SACRED SOIL

A few evenings ago I saw a newsreel which thrilled me a great deal. Behind it were the hopes of millions of others who saw it. A group of displaced persons arrived at the United States asked that they might be allowed to set foot on American soil first by going on the soil of land upon which rests the Statue of Liberty. As soon as their feet touched America at the world's feet was for a margin of existence only a little on this side of hunger and want.

Behing the iron curtain a man dare not call his life his own. Without a doubt it is meant that in this country we can own our own automobiles, choose our own types of work, and, if we behave ourselves, can go about our business as we like. Impressive also among that there is such a thing as a police system in the country. We can appeal to our rights when they are involves criticism of our highest officials. We can cherish any political faiths we choose our own types those which advocate the overthrow of the government by force, but we can go to church or stay at home, and it makes no difference what brand of religion we favor. No wonder the displaced persons kissed the soil of America. We ought to do the same.

TONSILS LARGE AND SMALL

In the preceding talk about tonsils and adenoids I said that in any group of school children whose tonsils are enlarged in the spring, reexamination in the autumn will show that in most instances the tonsils are no longer so large.

A while ago—years ago — I cited the report made by Dr. Wm. E. Barron. Dr. Barron was so impressed by chance observation of this seasonal change in the size of the tonsils in school children he examined, that he felt 'it his duty as a good doctor to report it to the medical profession. In the Journal of the New York State Medical Society.

At that time I was a member of the N. Y. State Medical Society—of course, that was B. F.— but from out of town I learn I was the only N. Y. State doctor, in good standing, to cut of it, who noticed Dr. Barron's contribution at all. I sincerely believe all the other 9843 New York State doctors either treated the report as a joke, or thought it hadn't deserved or hurriedly turned to some other item in the medical journal with which they had a doctor's conscience.

At that time most physicians were engaged in, or if actively engaged in the business indifferent to the tonsil snatching fad. Not that they were hard-boiled or without compassion, but certainly they had come to accept the concept of the physiology and pathology of tonsils. Likewise many physicians and specialists still harbor the same wrong concept, and are still willing and eager to entice prospective victims to the operating-room.

Strong language, you think? If you think so it is because you are ignorant.

I have just read another tragic story from one of three sights I chold a few hours after "routine" tonsillectomy. I can't use language strong enough to comment on that.

The wrong concept which has contributed so much and still contributes to the perpetration of tonsillectomies on innocent children whose tonsils are enlarged is simply that the presence of tonsil tissue in the throat is somehow a menace to the individual's health, and that therapeutic specialists who still harbor this idea are not vicious about it. They just cannot help it. It was handed down by their predecessors and so shall hammer and tongs without ever stopping to think.

Even steady operators who prate about "getting every bit of tonsil" are the worst offenders in this respect. These ethical quacks take full advantage of the layman's unsophistication by impressing upon the poor geek the importance of a "clean job" (implying that if an operation is a failure if any portion of tonsil remains in the throat afterward. This line of hooey is fed the prospect before operation. After operation the quacks do not dwell on such a theme. Why not? Well, in actual practice it appears that portions of tonsil remain in the throat after tonsillectomy in about half of all cases. You can hardly expect an operator to admit he has botched the job.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Immediate Operation

Had a wart on my eye, scratched it and it bled for quite a while. It doesn't seem to heal. Is there any way to get rid of it? Is there any treatment but surgical excision.

Let'me Know When You Catch Up

When you say, in reference to "controlled exfoliation"—a $500 word for peeling—that "just in case you dumb laymen catch up with us" I like to tell you that perhaps we dumb laymen will catch up with you and the day is sooner than you think! I spent four years as a detail man and in my opinion most M.D.'s are pompous stuffed shirts. (P. H. B.)

Answer—Don't attend to your quarrel with the A.M.A. and I'll attend to mine.

Father Has My Sympathy

Father, 66, has dreadful nightmares two or three nights in the week. He yells for help, curses and always talks about money. The people have nightmares. (Mrs. P. J.)

Answer—Your conscience—or no, come to think of it, I yell for help too, some one trying to take away my fortune down to the basement late in the night to take care of the furnace. Search me, Ma'am. I pass to the psychologists. I do believe, however, that a wife has likely to have nightmares if one uses a knife too little bed cover than if one uses a little too much.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CITY HEAD-UP

Nothing gave me greater joy this summer at my Nova Scotia island retreat than to make an occasional trip to Halifax, only 22 miles away—and note a new enterprise represented by a beautiful library building. I said to myself that here was sound evidence of Halifax with its head up—proudly and with dignity!

To me the greatest institution that any city can plant in its midst is a free, efficient public library. "Knowledge is power" wherever planted. A town, or a village without a good one is cheating itself. Whenever I visit such places and view a library I know that that community is intelligent, wants to learn—and that it deserves and should have carry it along.

A library and books are beyond all monetary consideration. Books are living men—always. Men and women carry on and never die when planted in books, and all their books were sincerely a part of them, and their thoughts high and noble, their life immortal as their memoself is immortal!

People with ideas, and who think for themselves, are the really wealthy in any community. Hence the well-equipped library and watch the intent with which each book is held in the hands of fascinations it holds for the reader, especially when read by a young person. New worlds are being discovered, new ideas formed, new thoughts born. The more noted then is at its meal time. Who can measure its ultimate power? I have decided to say about this new, beautiful library at Halifax, which is named Halifax Memorial Library, but I noted that people as they passed it looked at the building and its architecture seemed to hold their eyes and thoughts higher in pride, for it is a memorial to their gifts and sacrifices that they and their children might make a better city and contribute to a better world.

Halifax, as I know, is created in many other ways, outside that of fine libraries. It gets it in good schools, parks, playgrounds and pools for children, and through its city civic enterprises, and its efficient hospitals. The mere money expended for such things as a beautiful library becomes only a means to the finer mental and spiritual results.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Barbara Ann Scott is appearing goes crazy with excitement. Nobody will ever know, I suppose, how much real though romantic-ness publicity Miss Marie has given Canada in the past twenty-four years. Generations of men and children have been attracted, from all parts of the earth, to Canada as a consequence of the romantic appeal of this one operetta. But when you hear the roars of applause from the great arena at Harringay, it gives you leave to wonder that the RCMP might ever want for recruits from Britain.

In the midst of the spectacle, Barbara Ann, a little Dresden figure of intense artistry and beauty, floats superbly. Canada and its individual provinces spend large sums of money advertising Canada in many parts of the world. But we must not forget the little job of advertising being done, ten arduous shows a week, by one three-year-old Barbara Ann Scott.

In London at the moment in an ice fantasia based upon Rose Marie. The huge Harringay arena seats each night and four matinees a week and upwards of 10,000 thousand people. Loud speakers carry the music and dialogue of the play to the audience while Barbara Ann and a very large company including her fellow-Canadian skaters Suzanne and Michael Kirby, perform the scenes of the Canadian operetta, all about Indians and Mounties.

At one stage of the show, a chorus of fiery Mounties, not the real thing, of course, but a pretty good imitation, in their scarlet tunics and wide stetsons, come flooding out on the ice to perform a marvellous piece of ice choreography, wheeling and gyrating in fantastic representations of the famed musical ride which the real Mounties do with their horses.

The London audience nearly

CAMPBELLFORD

'Dry' Workers Elect Officers For Coming Vote

Campbellford—Thursday evening's downpour of rain failed to dampen the spirits of either the dry or wet campaigners for the forthcoming liquor vote in this town, public meetings for both sides of the question were held last night.

The committee opposing the establishment of government stores in the town met in the Campbellford Baptist Church with about 30 members present. Rev. H. S. Staples presided for the meeting, held for the purpose of organizing a working committee to oppose the vote.

Rev. H. S. Staples stressed the fact that his or any other church in the town, had nothing to do with this meeting. "We are not sponsored by any group, organization or church" he said, "but are meeting as a group of independent citizens to oppose this (liquor) by-law." He also said that although there were members of the local clergy present, those at the meeting would be "well advised not to consider themselves members of the clergy to any office." This case after repeated nominations for members of the clergy to assume office.

Reluctant to Take Office

Reluctance on the part of persons at the gathering to allow their names to stand for election to the various offices in the organization resulted in what Mr. Staples referred to as "railroading", in placing the various individuals in office. Mr. Staples said he hoped the shyness on the part of those present to accept office in the organization would not be indicative of the entire campaign. He stressed the importance of the canvassers' work, and said he hoped the campaign would not accept any office in He warned canvassers against arguing with, or antagonizing anyone on whom they call, and said they must use diplomacy and tact.

W. F. Scott, campaign manager for the "drys" during the previous contest three years ago, sent word to the meeting that he would not accept any office in the present campaign. He did not attend the meeting.

Councillor William Nicholas was nominated to various offices, but refused to let his name stand for any. Eric Gillespie also refused to let his name stand for the presidential nominations, but later accepted this post due to the unanimous vote.

Officers Elected

Election of officers resulted in the following being named: Campaign Manager, Harold W. Pierce; President, Eric Gillespie; Vice President, Mrs. M. Sills; Secretary, Mrs. Morley Petherick; Treasurer, Mrs. Chas. Palmer. Ward chairmen were named as follows: Ward 1, A. G. Watson; Ward 2, William Ford; Ward 3, Mrs. Robert Bateson; Ward 4, Thomas J. Craighead.

The duties of the ward chairmen were outlined, and these were instructed to secure ten additional workers in each ward to act as canvassers. It is hoped that a door-to-door canvass of each house in the town will be completed before the end of the month. Information thus secured will be used to compile a list of what wet or dry votes may be expected at the coming plebicite, and as many dry names as possible will be placed on the revised voters list which is soon to be made up.

A statement to the Town Clerk bearing 35 signatures and naming Mr. H. W. Pierce as campaign manager for the organization, will be handed over within the next few days.

Rev. Gordon Whitehorne, who also attended the meeting, extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Staples for assuming the chair. WEDDINGS

SHANKS—PATTERSON

Tall standards of yellow chrysanthemums interspaced with ferns formed the setting in Wellington Street United Church, Brantford, Ont., on the lovely September 15, for the marriage of Ethel Margaret Patterson, of Brantford, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Neil D. Patterson, to Douglas Allen Shanks, of Sarnia, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Shanks. The Rev Neil D. Patterson, father of the bride, assisted by the Rev. A. B. Irwin, of Sarnia, officiated at the lovely double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. M. Edwin Foster, church organist, rendered the traditional Wedding March from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and during the signing of the register, "Melody in D Flat" by William Faulkes, OP. 101, No. 4. The recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March". During the wedding service, Mrs. A. Bruce Gordon, of Peterborough, soloist, sang "The Wedding Prayer", by Dunlap, and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of ivory satin, featuring a sweetheart neckline, lily-point sleeves, and full train. Her full-length veil of silk tulle, trimmed with French lace, was held by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses with white and purple heather and stephanotis.

Miss Flora E. Patterson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in gold faille taffeta with matching elbow-length gloves and headdress. The maid of honor and one bridesmaid carried bouquets of large yellow chrysanthemums, intermingled with baby mums of the same shade, and the other bridesmaid's bouquets of large and small white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Stuart Shanks, of Sarnia, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Douglas Marriott, of Sarnia, and the Rev. Robert Shorten, of Rideau Ferry, were ushers.

The reception attended by 170 guests, was held in Wellington Street United Church hall which was profusely decorated in the color scheme of blue, yellow and silver, the same being carried out in the dainty favors. Silver flowervases adorned the guest tables, while that of the bride was banked in front with ferns before a miniature bridal bell, lined with the traditional wedding bell and white cupids forming the motif of decoration above. Those presiding over the tea table, were Miss Elleen Lewis, cousin of the bride and Miss Olive Shanks, aunt of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother received, wearing a floor-length gown of deep purple rayon crepe with short-sleeved jacket and sleeves, with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in a floor-length gown of blue with matching accessories, and rose haan hat with cluster of blue coque feathers. Her corsage was of pink Briarcliffe roses.

For the wedding trip by motor to Eastern Canada and the United States, the bride chose a rose rayon dress with matching hat and navy coat and shoes. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Shanks will reside in Kingston, Ont. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Queens University.

Out-of-town guests included those from Sarnia, Chatham, Windsor, Peterborough, Toronto, Trenton, Belleville, Foxboro, Ottawa, Dundas, Hamilton, Grimsby, Granley, Que., and Detroit, Michigan.

Catholic Women's League Holds First Meeting of Fall Term

The September meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held recently in St. Michael's High School, John Street, with Mrs. J. F. Boyd presiding.

The minutes of previous meeting as read by Mrs. B. E. Burley, recording secretary, were adopted and signed. Mrs. J. E. Logan reported 350 paid-up members. Mrs. D. V. Doyle reported that milk will be given daily to the needy school children, as in past years. Mrs. H. Carr-Brabit, treasurer, gave a satisfactory financial report. Mrs. A. Whalen said ten letters and cards had been sent and two replied received. Blue Cross convener, Mrs. George Williams, advised that the rates for this hospitalization are being raised and notices are being sent to all members of the C.W.L. group. Single subscribers will pay a little less, with family groups paying more. Immigration convener reported that a bed and bureau of drawers was provided for an immigrant family. Mrs. P. E. Doyle, who attended the big rally held at Heathfield with other ladies from this sub-division, gave a very interesting report of the retreat.

The president gave a short report of the diocesan executive meeting held in Kingston during the summer. A letter from diocesan magazine convener, Mrs. J. E. Boyd, was read which stated that every member of each subdivision executive should be a subscriber to the Canadian League, the official organ of the only national federated Catholic women's organization, the Catholic Women's League of Canada.

Made Many Visits

Hospital visitors reported 23 patients visited during July and 43 in August. If a patient is out of the room our visitor leaves a card, however if a patient's name is not on the list available to the visitor at the time she is in hospital, it is not possible to call. We are grateful to the ladies, who gave their time during the vacation month to do hospital visiting for the League.

Public Health Convener, Mrs. B. E. Burley, reported that the newly-organized Department of Health, under Dr. Rhella, M.O.H., and Miss Gennick, supervisor of nurses, was already well under way, with a well-planned school health program. The V.O.N. will continue to give nursing service in St. Michael's Academy and Holy Rosary School. It is a most satisfactory arrangement to all concerned as the V.O.N. have been supplying these services for several years past with the request of the Catholic Women's League, and they are, therefore, familiar with all the aspects. Our new Department of Health's plans include intensive testing all students in Collegiate and St. Michael's High School, with X-rays to include Fletcher's Fancy.

To Hold Regional Meeting

An invitation has been received from convener of regional meetings, for as many of our members as possible to attend a regional meeting in Picton, Tuesday, Sept. 23. All members wishing to attend kindly contact Mrs. B. E. Burley, secretary.

Our missionary endeavor during the summer included the sending of several boxes of clothing to a mission in Saskatchewan. Also a Gladstone bag was provided for a young gentleman entering the seminary. The League is asked also in this regard to send bandages and used clean linens in neat packages to Rt. Rev. Mons. Davis, 67 Bond St., Toronto, to be forwarded to leper colonies. The president expressed the wish that members make more frequent visits to the church. Our Holy Father has graciously extended to the entire world the spiritual treasures which last year could only be gained by a trip to Rome. As loyal members of the C.W.L. let us all heed the voice of the Holiness and the strong appeal of our national director, Rt. Excellency Bishop Cody, for us to make our visits by the corporate procedure, or in a group. Each month is the time for some group in the parish, so let this league lead the way.

The visits could be made on C.W.L. communion Sunday, the third Sunday of each month, before the 11 o'clock Mass, for confediction in the evening.

Mrs. D. V. Doyle expressed regret at losing Mrs. Maund as leader of Brownie Pack at the Academy and hopes to be able to find a new leader soon. Mrs. E. Mowers kindly offered her assistance to the new leader, when she is found. The League will have a High Mass sung for the repose of the soul of our late beloved director and pastor, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, and other pastors of St. Michael's parish.

Mrs. T. V. Mallette will convene a rummage sale, Saturday morning, October 6. Members are asked to send any articles to Mrs. Mallette, that are suitable for sale.

It was decided to hold a tea and bake sale on Thursday, October 18, at the home of Mrs. J. R. Rashotte, North Front Street. This will be sponsored by the members of Coleman and Murney wards.

The Marathon bridge and euchre will be resumed and the conveners expect to be starting early in October.

Sponsor Graduation

The C.W.L. will again sponsor the annual graduation formal dance on Friday evening, October 5. Also the afternoon tea on the same day in St. Michael's auditorium following graduation exercises.

Additional piping equipment is to be supplied by C.W.L. to St. Michael's High School. This will include Fletcher's Fancy.

With regard to fall bazaar being held Nov. 15, Mrs. Leo Callaghan will be general convener and plans a meeting of all the conveners of booths in the near future to finalize all plans made during summer months.

Very Rev. Dean Garvin director C.W.L., addressed the assembly briefly. He enumerated the many things the league had done during the past term for high school, the academy, Holy Rosary school and the rectory. He commended the ladies for establishing the Scholarship Fund for the high school and expressed the wish that the league continue its support in this regard.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Dear Mary" . . .

Among the large and varied assortment of highly colorful slanguage and phrases created by the men who fought World War II, and since made a part of American slang no doubt forever, was the famous "Dear John" letter.

This kind of letter, as everyone has come to know, was the one which broke the news, sometimes gently, often cruelly, that the girl the G.I. left behind was his girl no longer. Usually, she either had already become someone else's girl, or wanted her freedom in case someone else should happen along. After all, the boy for whom she had promised to wait, or the man she hastily married on the eve of his departure overseas because she couldn't bear not to be his wife, waiting faithfully and patiently for his return, was very, very far away and life was pretty dull. Moreover, perhaps he never would come back. What then? Surely, she reasoned, it would be much more sensible to have no hampering ties.

So the girl of whom the man dreaming there in the front-lines—the thought of whom kept him sane in the midst of the screaming madness of war, was reassured that there really was a world somewhere in which there were normalcy and happiness and love—sat down and wrote a letter, "Dear John". It would begin, "I have something to tell you that I hope you will understand. . . ."

Compassion Piece

There's a companion piece to the "Dear John", though; a communication that probably doesn't go through the mails as often, but is no less heart-breaking to the one who receives it. That's the "Dear Mary".

Like to hear a sample of that kind of letter? Here it is, coming to me enclosed in one from the girl to whom it was addressed:

"Dear Mary:

"I really don't know how to begin this letter, but I've been doing a lot of thinking and it all ends the same way. The truth is, that I think you'd better not wait for me after all. I don't think it is fair to you, because I don't have any idea when I'll get home and you ought not to have your life all tied up at your age. It's really best for you to forget all about me. I'm sorry it had to be that way."

Contrary to most of the "Dear John" letters, this "Dear Mary" doesn't say that its writer has "found someone else". It does not say that the boy doesn't love the girl any more; that he acted on the spur of an impulsive moment when he was away, or that while he was gone and become his wife after he got back, and that time and distance have helped to dim his affections. It doesn't say a single thing that gives her a convincing reason why she should accept his decision. Not the way she looks at it. It merely leaves her wondering, all up in the air, confused and bewildered by a change of heart for which she sees no cause.

Happy to Wait

For the way she looks at it is that she loves this boy and so there is no sense in his argument that she "ought not to have her life all tied up at her age". She wants it to be tied up just as it is. She wouldn't have it any other way. Her chief happiness, at the moment, lies in the fact that she is waiting for him; that she is hoping for and planning for and urgently looking forward to the day when they'll be together again. How can it possibly be best that she should forget him when he is all she wants in the world? To put an end to her waiting would be to remove all meaning from life; to cut off the thread that, in holding her to him, holds her to the main purpose of her existence.

The first reaction of any Mary who gets a letter like this is to put it down on the instant and pour all this out to the boy who wrote it, try to make him realize that she doesn't care how long she has to wait for him, so how could it possibly be unfair to her? To tell him that she understands it is only his feeling for her and arises almost to stop fis besting.

If he really loved her as he told her so passionately he did, would he—could he—bring himself to give her up like this? Can there be more to his suggestion that they break off than appears on the surface? Something behind that seemingly selfless statement that she was too young to wait for a future that seemed so uncertain? And then the climax to which these questions gradually lead up—is it that she ahead-ow of some other girl was falling across the page as he penned the lines that broke her heart? Some girl far prettier, far more attractive, far more charming than herself? A girl who had won him away from her? If so, why didn't he come right out and say so, instead of leaving her in this torturing uncertainty?

Well, if Mary's surmise is correct, the reason why he doesn't come right out and say so, of course, is because he is trying to let her down gently. Later on, he thinks, when their break has been of long enough duration to have lost most of its pain for her, she will not mind hearing the news of his engagement to another girl. So why go into that now? Why make her feel he is disloyal, unfaithful, cold-blooded? It would be kinder to her, and much more comfortable for himself, if the truth came out only after —he hoped—her own feeling for him was gone.

So—what shall Mary do? Write back and accept what he says about not writing any more? Assume that he is entirely sincere, and try to persuade him that she wants to wait? Accuse him outright of having another girl in her place?

What I would advise her to adopt is the first suggested course. That is, write the boy and accept his offer of freedom with the best grace she can muster. But leave a loophole just in case it might really be that he is offering it for her sake.

The way to leave that loophole is to ask if he would like her to write him now and then; just natural, friendly letters giving him the news from back home. If he says yes, he'd like that, let her write, but not too often or too eagerly, and definitely not sentimentally. If he says better not write at all but make the break final, or he just doesn't bother to answer, his silence will give her the answer.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Oil treatments for the scalp

Says an old-timer; "Ideas on health, hygiene and beauty have changed a lot since I was a girl. I had oily hair and a passion for shampooing it every week. I remember my grandmother, finding me with my head lathered, was shocked. 'You will ruin your hair,' she exclaimed. 'Remember, we are not water animals'. I remember too that, in my childhood, practically everyone had dandruff, from little Willie to Grandpa, probably due to unclean scalps."

Slap the bristles briskly on the scalp.

Other days, other ways. There was a time, when bath tubs were installed in homes, that everyone was supposed to lie down for half an hour after a bath, it was considered so exhausting. The good old days! Who laughs?

To have healthy hair one must have a healthy scalp. Circulation must be brisk because every little shaft lives on the blood streams. Skin scales must be removed frequently as that the skin and glands can function normally. Combs and brushes must be kept scrupulously clean.

If you would treat your hirsute halo kindly, give it a reconditioning treatment now and then. This rite is particularly necessary if the hair is dry, inclined to break, and the scalp shows scales. The time for the treatment is the night before the shampoo.

Start with a vigorous brushing, using a narrow brush with bristles of different lengths set in groups. Brush the hair forward and down at the sides, then groom from the crown downward. Throw your head forward and brush upward from the napeline. Then treat a strand at a time, holding the hair away from the head. Slap the bristles briskly on the scalp, pass the bristles through the strand with a rolling motion.

Divide your locks at various places, apply the ointment all along the partings. You can use a small brush for this purpose or pledgets of cotton, but a medicine dropper is best. When the oil has been distributed you should see that the ends also are lubricated—give your brain roof a rousing massage. Work out your fingers and thumbs. Lift the flesh, pinch and press it until it glows. The oil should remain on over night.

Woman Needed In Municipal Field Says Dr. Whitton

Toronto, Sept. 15 (CP) —Women are needed in the municipal political field, Dr. Charlotte Whitton believes.

The acting mayor of Ottawa told the inter-club council for women last night that women have certain qualifications for public office that men lack.

Speaking as a "plumber with broad observation unhampered by experience," she said: "Women have a finer feminine sense for ethical and moral values. Often they can draw to male attention something not previously expressed."

She stressed that women should be partners, not competitors, with men in public life.

"No life comes within partnership of men and women. And no better life for a nation can be had without this partnership in government."

GOOD MANNERS

Hostess pays for ticket for man guest she invites to dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Every year at the end of the summer season, our Country Club gives a dinner-dance for the benefit of a local charity organization. To this party this year I would like to invite as my guest a young man who is very often my golf partner and dance partner at this club, but doesn't belong to the club. Must I buy the two tickets, or could I explain to him that the occasion is for this local charity and let him pay for his own ticket?

Letitia M.

You say that you would like to invite this young man as your guest . . . and so, as hostess, you should buy the ticket for your guest. This is the responsibility of hospitality, no matter what the occasion or the purpose of the occasion. If he wishes to give a contribution to this charity, he can do so at the party (parties for charity usually plan a special way or special ways for this to be done) or later. But this is quite aside from your ticket-responsibility.

Best man's wife should be graciously co-operative about wedding plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's brother has asked my husband to be his best man at his wedding in November. I know the bride-to-be quite well, but she has not invited me to be her bridesmaids.) Is this a proper arrangement for them to make, or should I insist that my husband withdraw unless I am included in the bridal party in some capacity?

Alaine

Please don't take such an immature attitude. The groom has done the customary thing . . . asked his brother to be his best man. And the bride has done the customary thing . . . invited her only sister to be her matron of honor, and her four most intimate friends to be her bridesmaids. And since you know the bride-to-be only "quite well", obviously there is no real reason why you should be invited to be a member of the bridal party. It would be utterly ridiculous, childish, for you to insist that your husband withdraw from this assignment given him. (Graciously and understandingly accept this situation, which is very usual, take it for granted as you should, and gracefully co-operate with all the plans. You will, of course, be invited to the wedding and the reception. You will undoubtedly be invited to all pre-wedding parties. If at the reception there is a bridal table, sit-down service, for only members of the wedding party, you should not expect to be included . . . but if the table is more "inclusive" you certainly will be invited to this table. Whatever the plans, be so graciously co-operative that your husband and his family will be proud of your knowing what's what and doing your social part with becoming grace.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Pigs may some day outnumber the human population.

Last year's record production of 100 million porkers is expected to reach 106 million this year, the biggest peace time record. The huge increase in potential hams is a result of the large supply of corn and improved feeding methods.

Many families which cannot afford exhorbitant meat prices are able to keep meat on the menu through the use of abundant fresh and smoked pork.

An excellent pork stew can be made into a shepherd's pie. Although the term shepherd's pie originally meant a dish of left-over lamb heated in gravy, it now includes left over or freshly stewed beef, lamb or pork provided it is covered with a mashed potato topping. When using shoulder pork for this dish, cut away the excess fat, which may then be melted and used to brown the meat.

Shepherd's Pork Pie. Serves 4-5

2 lbs. fresh shoulder of pork
2 tbs flour
Salt—pepper
1 medium size onion chopped fine
1-2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
1 pint stock
1-2 teaspoon chopped oregano or sage
1 large fresh tomato chopped fine
Brown gravy color
2 cups mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons grated cheese
Paprika

Cut the pork into 1 inch cubes. Remove excess fat. Chop the fat coarsely and heat slowly in a stewing pot until the fat melts. Remove the brown pieces from the pan. Do not let the fat smoke. Combine the flour, 2 teaspoons salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper in a heavy paper bag. Put the meat in the bag. Shake well to coat the meat thoroughly.

Brown the meat in the melted fat. Sprinkle the onions, garlic and oregano over the meat. Continue to saute a few minutes longer. Add the stock and the chopped tomato.

Simmer, covered, over a slow flame until the meat is tender, 1 1-2 to 2 hours. Skim excess fat from the gravy. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add brown gravy color if desired.

Turn the stew into a greased baking dish or casserole. Spread the mashed potatoes over the stew. Sprinkle the grated cheese over the potatoes. Dust lightly with paprika.

Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, 30 minutes or until the top browns lightly.

Bombers Crush Tribe, Take Over Lead As Bosox Close In; Giants Gain

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS COULD BE IT

It happened. This Alphonse-Gaston gesture that has fostered the Redmen-Kingston Dixney Leafs semi-finals series in the Canadian Senior Baseball League is holding up well.

Saturday night, the Reds, set to be outdone by the Leafian performance of Friday night, went blooey and as a result the Leafs now lead the series by a 3-2 count.

Johnny Mowat who started for the Reds apparently had an off night and the Limestone leddyhawks got to him for six hits and three runs before Willie Fordham went in. As has been the custom, for some unknown reason or other, the Redmen again failed to back Fordham in the field and the southpaw was tagged for plenty before the "Duffer" was rushed into the breach in the last innings to battle for a hopeless cause.

So tonight the Redmen have their backs to the wall. It is do or die time for the Men o' Wilson. They've got to tab the Leafs for this one to even the series and take two in a row to make the finals. Leafs can win the series tonight and-start on that Brockville trek in search of the league pennant.

The Redmen-Leafy series has been a wacky unpredictable one since the start with first one team blowing the lead and the other following suit in alternate games. According to that system, the Reds should take tonight's joust — but — we never can tell what might happen. Wily Stan Serafinko with the finals just over the hill will throw all his power and strategical cunning at our side, and the Reds will have their hands full to pull this one out of the fire. They can do it, if they play the type of baseball they are capable of playing.

QUEER GAME!

Ottawa Flyers peewee baseballers went back to Rytown Saturday with an 8-7 win over Walker Hardware to extend their shirts after a wacky O.B.A. semi-finals playdown game here. There were protests, mild rhubarbs, waste of time, weird base-running and the whole thing was a queer championship caliber. Ottawa protested the game at the first, will likely withdraw it since they emerged the victors.

The Walker kids blew a first inning five-run lead which they grabbed with a lone hit and six walks. The climax came in the seventh with the Walker outfield run being pulled and the runner sent back to third. The second game will be played in Ottawa next Saturday.

GLENS GRAB FIRST

Glen Roys and Howe and Hagerman's came up with a typical finals tilt on Saturday night with Doug Sword's hit with the bases loaded in the ninth settling the 6-5 issue for the Glens. It was a fast close game with the score tied twice and the result in the balance for two innings. The boys go at it again on Tuesday night starting at seven o'clock in the second game of the two-of-three series.

PITCHER COMES HOME

The announcement that Ralph McCabe is making his permanent home here will be greeted with acclaim by sports circles of the city especially baseball. The tall right-hander has associated himself with the Bay of Quinte Fisheries, owned by his father Herbert McCabe and will move his family here as soon as possible.

McCabe, if he decides to cast in his baseball lot here next season will be a valuable asset to the Belleville club. At the moment he is the playing coach of the Bancroft, Ont., club team in the Iowa State League and on Thursday hurled his team to a 5-3 victory in the first game of the finals playoff. He expected to arrive in Belleville around the latter part of the month.

Ralph was one of the best junior hurlers to come out of Belleville. He starred here and in Oshawa before he graduated to the higher brackets. He signed with the Cleveland Indians and after a brief time with them before being sent to Baltimore Orioles thence to Oklahoma City in the Texas League. He had a fine record with the southern team in his first year with that club.

Of late he has been resident in Bancroft, Iowa where he not only coached the baseball team but served a basketball sports goods store. He recently disposed of this prior to moving to Belleville.

The thirty-one year-old pitcher has a son Terry, 8, who is following in his dad's footsteps and under his guidance should develop into a hurler in his own right.

Reynolds Beats Feller, 5-1 As Boston Edges White Sox; Pirates Bow to Twin Killing

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York's defending champion Yankees still win the big ones and that is why they are back in first place today.

Because of their ability to rise to the occasion the Yankees won the flag in 1949 and '50.

History simply repeated itself Sunday when the Bronx bombers crushed Cleveland 5-1 to replace the Indians at the top of the American League. Boston's third-place Red Sox remained right in the thick of things, beating the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and climbing to within 2½ games of the top.

New York's first-place hold is only three percentage points and it can be wiped out today if Ed Lopat loses to Cleveland's Bob Lemon in the last meeting between the two clubs.

Up to now, however, the Indians have shown an apathetic ineptness at the Yankee Stadium. In 10 games, the Yankees' home grounds they have won only one game. No other invader has done as badly.

Reynolds Wins It

Allie Reynolds wielded the tomahawk yesterday, Old Wahoo set the tribe back on five hits and added insult to injury by driving in what proved to be the winning run with a second inning single.

It was in the Yankee half of the fifth, however, that this crucial contest reached its most dramatic point, as far as the 68,760 fans were concerned.

The Yankees, leading 2-1, had a runner on third with two away. Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to the lefthanded Yogi Berra in order for the righthanded Bob Feller to pitch to Joe DiMaggio.

The Yankee clipper knocked the strategy into a cocked hat and Feller out of the box with a two-run triple that rolled to the left-centre field fence.

The victory was the 15th for Reynolds and five have come over Cleveland. Feller, whose 22 victories lead all the hurlers, was charged with his eighth setback and his third in four duels with Reynolds.

The Indians, who move to Boston Tuesday for a two-game series, have nine games left to play. The Yankees have won 13 and the Red Sox 14 but eight are against each other.

Lest it be forgotten, there still is a pennant race in the National League. The Dodgers' rallies over Pittsburgh 7-1 and 6-4 kept the faint hopes of New York Giants alive as Brooklyn's four-game lead margin shrank to 4½ games despite Sunday's triumph over the Cubs in Chicago.

The Dodgers' magic number is still eight but they have to win in order to clinch the flag no matter how the Giants fare in their remaining nine encounters. Brooklyn has 14 to play.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia's Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns twice 7-1 and 7-3; Detroit took two from Washington 3-1 and 6-3; St. Louis Cardinals vanquished the Philadelphia Phillies 9-2 and Cincinnati and Boston Braves split a pair, Johnny Antonelli outpitching Vern Bickford in the first game to win 4-0 for his 21st victory after Boston won 5-3 for Warren Spahn's 21st triumph.

Golden Gaels Win Over Aggies

Queen's University Golden Gaels got off to a first-quarter touchdown Saturday in their Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph 16-5 in an exhibition game Saturday at Kingston.

Al Sarria, Hamilton Panthers displayed a powerful running attack which ground along for 218 yards and an 8-3 Intermediate Ontario Rugby Football Union win over Sarnia before 900.

Windsor Spitfires bounced their way to a 30-11 triumph over Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers at Kitchener-Saturday in a wide-open junior ORFU game. It was the second straight win for the defending champions.

Gaels were reported not too impressive as they prepared for their opening match in the Intercollegiate season at Western University Oct. 6.

Barlow put Guelph ahead in the first quarter with an unconverted touchdown. Queen's scored a rouge on Wagar's kick. He added another single in the second quarter before Lampman and the Gaels took the lead with a major, converted by Mellor. Ross McKelvey added another converted major and Queen's added two more singles.

Royals Nip Chiefs In First Game Trophy Finals

Montreal, Sept. 17 —(CP) — Montreal's high-stepping Royals and Syracuse Chiefs go at it again tonight in the second game of their best-of-seven Governor's Cup final, with the Royals holding the edge through a victory yesterday.

The Royals, who waltzed into the final with four straight victories over Buffalo Bisons, tripped the Chiefs 6-4 Sunday before 15,708 fans.

The Chiefs outhit Montreal 11-9 Sunday but left 10 runners stranded, largely because some mid-belt balls went right at outfielders.

Following tonight's game, the teams move on to Syracuse where they play Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Picton Driver Takes Feature At Auto Races

Roaring over the finish line ahead of a 12-car field, Marvin Moon, Picton won the feature race at the Auto Racing meet held at Speedway Parkland on Saturday afternoon.

Clarence Johnson, and Ted Broad, both of Belleville finished in second and third positions respectively in a thrilling race that was featured by a three-car spill.

Del Breadman, Shannonville paced the pack for the first three of the 12-laps and going into the turn at the fourth his car went into a spin. Earl Thompson coming up fast behind Breadman attempted to turn out and his car somersaulted. It was left to turn by the third-place car driven by J. Hannigan and it was damaged. Breadman suffered a slight cut on a hand.

Thrilling Exhibitions

Seventeen city and district drivers again provided the crowd with some sensational driving with all heats and races being closely contested. The track was in excellent condition and there was a large crowd on hand to afford either drivers or spectators.

Bob Fitzsimmons, Milltown, won the consolation race with Warren Day, Kingston second, and W. Vas, J. Harrington third.

Johnny Jones, Belleville, won the third heat from a field of eight starters in a thrilling exhibition of driving, from second and third place Ken Simpson and Earl Thompson.

E. Lindsay, Kingston paced E. Vas in the B. Picton and J. Foster, Kingston to the wire in the second qualifying heat while Jerry Brady, Belleville headed Clarence Johnson and Ted Broad in the A. Picton.

Moon attempted to break the track record, negotiating the half-mile in 27 1-2 seconds, 2 1-2 seconds short of the record held by George Bowers, Toronto.

In a three-car team race, the team captained by Del Breadman with Bill Sweet, headed Clarence Johnson and Ted Broad in the A. Picton.

Ottawa Edges Walker Peewees In 8-7 Game

Ottawa Flyers peewees spotted the Belleville Walker Hardware five runs in the first inning here Saturday, but went on to win the first game of their OBA semi finals playdown round by an 8-7 score. The second of the two-of-three series will be played at Ottawa next Saturday.

Ottawa hurlers Leslie and Weedon allowed but one hit, but 14 walks paved the way for practically all their runs. Belleville also was held to one hit and runs after the first inning in the eight inning game.

Ottawa touched Joe Ryan for eight hits and drew five walks. They scored one run on the first, three in the third, two more in the fifth to tie the score, added one in the sixth and shoved over the winner in the eighth. Ryan struck out seven while eight Walker batters whiffed.

Two walks, an error, and five more bases on balls plated the five tallies for the Walker team in the first inning. Three walks, a stolen base and a passed ball added another in the third and the last run came after two walks and two stolen bases by Mike Ryan.

The Flyers scored the winning run on a single by Weedon, a stolen base and Blondin's single.

Beer got the only Belleville hit. Smiley banged out a homer, double and single for the visitors. Blondin came up with a pair of singles and Kritch banged out a double.

Bosox Chances Hinge On Super-Pitching

Boston, Sept. 17 (AP) —With three top sluggers out indefinitely with injuries and the rest in batting slumps, the Boston Red Sox' still-robust pennant hopes will hinge on super-pitching the remainder of the season.

And, if they do out-battle New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians in the home stretch, Ellis Kinder, the rubber-armed relief hurler, could rate the American League's 1951 most-valuable-player award.

Although the Sockers' heavy-hitting Bobby Doerr, Junior Stephens and Lou Boudreau are sidelined, Kinder is doing a giant share in bolstering the club.

That 37-year-old workhorse has participated in 50 of his club's 140 games to date, and has compiled a record of 11 wins and two losses.

He has totalled 119 innings, given up 90 runs and 104 hits for a 2.58 earned run average. His 41 bases on balls have been offset by 78 strikeouts.

Always a capable starter —he had a 23-8 record in 1949—Kinder was called to the bullpen this season to cure the Red Sox' pitching woes.

The only relief loss charged against Kinder in 58 tries this season was on July 27, His second loss was suffered in one of his few starting assignments.

It is exactly a month today—17 games ago—that an opposing runner last crossed the plate with him on the mound.

Reds Bow to Kingston 12-3, Must Win Tonight-Or Else

By MAURICE REID

Scoring in every inning except the first and last of the game Kingston Disney Leads took the Belleville Redcoats into action Saturday evening in Megaffin Stadium by a score of 12-3.

The win for the homesters gave them a 3-2 edge in the best of seven semi-finals series of the OBL playoffs. The sixth game is scheduled to be played in Belleville tonight at the Fairgrounds.

Norm Harry was elected to chuck for the homesters and he kept the Reds off the score sheet in all but two innings, keeping the situation well in hand. In only the run-scoring frames did he hurt to more than four batters. He fanned eight while showing perfect control, and did not pass any.

Johnny Mowat started on the mound for Belleville but just didn't have it in the three and one-third chukkers he labored. He gave up five hits, walked the only two of the game and threw two wild pitches. He was replaced by Willis Fordham who was the victim of some very loose play by the Reds. Although giving up eight hits, he should not have been in very serious trouble. He fanned a pair.

That old reliable, Bert "Cuffer" Noakes, came to the fore in the eighth and last inning, being touched for a double but retired the side by fanning the last two men.

Three in Second

Kingston poured three runs across the plate in the second frame and was never headed. Ferguson's double and a single by Barnegie were the only hits of the frame but Rank stole home while Mowat was winding up and Carnegie scored a run on a wild pitch.

They squeezed in another in the third and added another trio in the fourth. Harry beat out an infield hit to start the fireworks. McCormick doubled to knock Mowat out of the box and Fordham came in. Gilmour grounded out for the second out but White bounced one down the right field line that escaped Buchanan. Gilmour's throw to the plate was wide and when Dean threw the ball into left field, White went all the way in with the third run.

Ferguson's double, Rank's single, an infield out and a passed ball added another pair in the fifth. Singles by Gilmour and Scrutton and an error and passed ball plated two more in the sixth.

The Disney's scored their 12th run in the eighth on a pair of singles and a sacrifice.

The Reds collected two of their runs in the third frame when Reeves and Buchanan beat out infield hits and moved up on Mowat's sacrifice. Fitzpatrick singled to centre driving them across but was out a moment later trying to steal second. Munroe ended the frame by popping out.

Fitzpatrick beat out an infield hit in the sixth and moved to third when Scrutton booted Munroe's grounder and threw it into left field. He scored the third and last Redmen run on White's boot of Strahan's grounder.

Strahan replaced Vern Goyer in the fourth frame when the latter objected too strenuously to a third strike call by plate umpire Don Thomas.

Ferguson banged out a pair of doubles for the winners while Carnegie and White garnered two singles each. McCormick had a single and double while Allen doubled in his only appearance.

Reeves led the teams with three hits in four appearances. Fitzpatrick collected two while Carson and Dean banged out doubles. Carson's blow came within a couple of feet of going over the left field fence.

Oshawa Reaches Senior Finals

(By The Canadian Press)

Oshawa Merchants are in the Ontario Baseball Association senior finals but whether they will meet Welland Stokes or Niagara Falls Fords hasn't been decided yet.

The Merchants defeated Windsor Panthers 10-5 and 8-1 at Oshawa Saturday to complete a sweep of their best-of-five semi-final series. They had won the opening game of the series 2-1 Friday night.

At Niagara Falls, meanwhile, Welland remained in the running by beating the Fords 8-3, partly on the strength of five Niagara Falls errors.

In the Nickel Belt senior finals Frood Tigers came from behind with 13 runs in three innings to beat Garson Greyhounds 15-12 in a high-scoring game at Sudbury. Garson leads the best-of-seven series 3-2. Sixth game is scheduled for tonight.

Glen Roys Take Howe-Hagermans In Finals First

Doug Sword's single in the bottom half of the ninth with the bases loaded broke a three-all stalemate and gave Glen Roys a 4-3 victory over Howe and Hagerman on Saturday night.

The game was the first in a best-of-three series for the city championship of the "A" section Commercial Softball League. The second game is scheduled for the Alemite field, tomorrow night at seven o'clock.

Sword's hit stopped what loomed up to be an overtime game since the teams had battled on practically even terms throughout the nine innings.

Going down in order in the top of the ninth the plumbers loaded the bases intentionally with one out, for a double play. Baldwin, Glen's clean-up man was ordered to bunt and he forced Rowbotham on third for an easy out.

Sword, however, settled the issue by driving a hit to centre field to bring home Ronsky with the winning run.

Ronsky opened the scoring in the first, touching Lum Carson for a single, two of them were stolen by Rowbotham and Corbett. They were held scoreless until the seventh when Alfie Rowbotham drove a third-base foul-line home run to the outer pastures, to tie the score.

Tied in Third

The plumbers tied the count in the third innings when Tim Williams drove an easy grounder through the shortstop hole to score Adams and Henn who had singled and doubled ahead of him. They went ahead in the fifth off Williams' hit and Glen's pitching settled down with Timmy drove in all Howe-Hag's three runs. Glens tied it up in the seventh and went on to win in the ninth.

Lum Carson and Marty Halloran sent the route on the mound with Lum giving up 13 clouts, striking out six and walking three. Halloran yielded seven hits, wilfing four and walking three.

Merlie Henn hit a double and single for the losers with Widge Adams and Tim Williams getting a pair of singles.

Alfie Rowbotham paced the Glens with a homer, double and single. Sword got two doubles and a single, Bob Hunter doubled and singled and brother Jim got a pair of oners, Ronsky, Baldwin and Corbett got the rest.

TiCats Triumph Over Ottawa, Alouettes Defeat Argonauts

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Tiger-Cats still retain the distinction of being Canada's only unbeaten senior football team after weekend action in both east and west.

The Tiger-Cats delighted a home crowd of about 15,000 Saturday by defeating Ottawa Rough Riders 11-5 for their fourth straight Big Four victory. The five-point margin was significant in that it was unusually small for the high-scoring Tiger-Cats. But it didn't match the wide playing margin Hamilton had over Ottawa.

In the west, the story was familiar as Edmonton Eskimos, beaten only once this season, stretched their lead by pasting Calgary Stampeders 30-15 at Calgary. The surprising Eskimos now have a handy six-point lead over Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, tied for second place.

In the other Big Four game, Montreal Alouettes broke into the win column by taking Toronto Argonauts 6-5 at Toronto in a hard-fought ground battle.

The second western game saw Winnipeg, led by quarter Indian Jack Jacobs, defeat Saskatchewan 21-13 at Regina.

Beaches Win Twice

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Toronto Balmy Beach won two games in two days. They edged Sarnia Imperials 18-17 in Toronto Friday night and followed it up Saturday by crushing Windsor Royals 27-6.

Most sparkling performance in the east was turned in by Hamilton's Bernie Custis. Six times the Negro import from Syracuse University led the Cats deep into the Ottawa end of the field only to see them lose the ball on fumbles or interceptions.

They finally broke into the scoring in the third quarter after a fumble by Bob Simpson of Ottawa and a 45-yard run by Dick Brown gave Hamilton the ball on the Ottawa 18-yard line. Speedy Hal Waggoner went over in three plays on a touchdown which Tip Legg converted.

Moments later Waggoner fumbled a long kick by Bruce Cummings. Simpson scored for his earlier fumble by snatching the loose ball and racing 10 yards for a major, converted by Bob Gain.

Custis provided the margin of victory in the fourth quarter when he went over for an unconverted touchdown on a five-yard run around the end.

At Calgary, it was Jim Champion, an obscure interpreter in Montreal last year who provided much of the scoring punch for the Eskimos.

In Varsity Stadium before a Toronto crowd of 18,200, Montreal's slim victory pulled the team into a third-place tie with Argonauts, who haven't been producing anything like the football they played last season when they won the Grey Cup.

The Alouette line outcharged Argonauts and Montreal backs picked up 260 yards along the ground compared with 164 for Toronto.

Ratterman Good

George Ratterman, the highhaired Montreal quarterback, kept his passing arm as a threat most of the afternoon, sticking mainly to a ground attack.

Argos had a brief second-quarter lead on a single by Steve McArrys, who handled the kicking in place of Joe Krol, benched for indifferent play in last week's game. Montreal went ahead when Ratterman topped off an 85-yard march by tossing a short touchdown pass to outside John Yonakor. Choo-Choo Roberts converted. Argos tied it up shortly after, Doug Pyzer scampered 62 yards for a spectacular major, which was not converted.

Two tremendous kicks for single points by Rod Pantages in the third and fourth quarters provided Montreal with the winning margin.

In Regina, quarterback Jacobs completed 19 passes in 33 tried to give the Bombers a total of 315 yards in gains in the air. Three passes were for majors.

In the O. R. F. U. game at Windsor, Bobby Lee led Toronto Beaches with a pair of touchdowns. The 27-6 victory shoved Toronto into sole possession of first place, two points ahead of Sarnia Imperials. Windsor is still reeling from the knockout punch delivered by Lee Saturday.

'Cassawappy' Wins Mikel Trophy In Last Race of Sailing Season

The "Cassawappy" sleek, rakish-lined sloop from Trenton, heeled over the finish line on Sunday to win the W. C. Mikel Trophy in the last Bay of Quinte Yacht Association race of the season.

The trim winner sailed by owner Ted Janes negotiated the two-lap course of the government dock to finish three minutes ahead of the second-place Bob Boyce-owned "Passan."

Six "Keelers" answered the starting gun in the feature race. These included besides "Cassawappy" and "Passan," Freeman Burrows "Viking"; "Joka" owned by George Haggis and sailed by Maurice Callaghan; Jack Sills' "Windrift II"; and Harold Scott's "Helicon."

"Joka" was well up in the running when she was forced out of the race at the end of the first lap after developing a broken spar.

"Cassawappy" is the fifth boat to claim the Mikel Trophy since it was challenged for after Visiting" won a special race at Northport early in the season. Walk Berra to Get DiMaggio, Yankee Clipper Belts Triple

By JACK HAND

New York, Sept. 17 (AP) — Walking a batter to get Joe DiMaggio violates the rules of etiquette at Yankee Stadium.

Al Lopez knows now, but it may be too late for the manager of the Cleveland Indians, now reposing in second place.

Not in the memory of the oldest settler has a manager intentionally passed a hitter to pitch to the Yankee Clipper at the Stadium—not until Lopez tried it yesterday in the fifth inning of the wild Cleveland-New York game.

Some 68,670 fans told him how wrong he was, even before the jolter boomed a two-run triple that ran 457 feet to the wall in left centre.

They loosened a thunderous boo to still the rattle of the elevated trains when Cleveland strategy dictated an intentional pass to Yogi Berra, the Yanks' new cleanup hitter, with DiMaggio on deck. Joe's batting average rests at a meagre .263 this year.

"I hope he hits it out of the lot," one Cleveland supporter told his neighbor.

Women crept and small boys crowded in the aisles when the big fellow put the wood to Bobby Feller's slider.

The blow wasn't vital to the game. It merely boosted a 3-1 lead to a 5-1 winning Yankee margin. But it came a few minutes after Allie Reynolds surrendered his most rewarding threat of the game.

After it was over, DiMaggio sat in the clubhouse, as is his custom. He lingered long after the other Yanks dressed and departed.

He couldn't say so but you knew his pride had been wounded by Lopez' gesture. It was the second time the Cleveland pilot did it. The first time, in Cleveland, Joe came through with a run-scoring single.

"I guess I would have done the same thing myself," said DiMaggio. "Who knows? Maybe Yogi would have hit the ball in the seats."

Giles or Frick For Baseball Boss

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Chicago, Sept. 17—(AP)—Speculation is growing today that either Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds, or Ford Frick, president of the National League, will become the new baseball commissioner.

The highly-secret business of selecting a successor to A. B. (Happy) Chandler is expected to come to a head in Chicago Thursday.

The 16 Major League club owners meet then to vote for a man to hold the biggest job the sports world has to offer. They are ready to boost his yearly salary—possibly to $75,000.

And just what will be asked of this man? The owners can ask no more than he be a fair, impartial man of integrity. The book of baseball laws is already there for him to abide by.

The confirmed report that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had turned down an offer of the job several weeks ago seems to have steered baseball zero away from so-called big-name candidates.

The owners are now said to on agreed almost unanimously that the commissioner this time be a dyed-in-the-wool baseball man.

This, at the outset, would appear to eliminate such rumored nominees as James A. Farley, Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College; Benjamin H. Reese, who retired this year as managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and others.

In stacking up the strongest speculation and reports now current, Giles and Frick emerge as probably the only two serious candidates.

Galloping Ghosts Edge Orillia

Orillia, Sept. 17 (CP) —Cobourg Galloping Ghosts, Dominion Intercollegiate football champions last season, registered their second straight victory in the eastern division of the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate series with a 13-11 triumph over Orillia Bombers Saturday.

Don Douglas, veteran end, and Burnie Flesch, 20-year-old halfback registered touchdowns for the winners with quarterback Bob Cooper kicking two singles and Art Jones one.

Frank Sedgman Whips Trabert For Tennis Title

Los Angeles, Sept. 17—(AP)—The U.S. Davis Cup tennis team may present a revised slate of personnel when it tackles the defending champion Australians in December.

Captain Francis X. Shields said today he would recommend to the American selections committee that veteran Ted Schroeder be added to the team, and there is a possibility that Herb Flam will replace Tony Trabert when the latter is inducted into the navy Sept. 24.

This was the trend today after the triumph of Australia's No. one player, Frank Sedgman, for the second straight year in the Pacific southwest tournament yesterday.

Sedgman defeated Trabert 8-3, 6-3, 2-6, 8-6.

Sharing the laurels with Sedgman was the triumph in women's singles by little Maureen Connolly of San Diego. The new U.S. singles queen, who celebrates her 17th birthday today, took the measure of dextrous Beverly Baker of Santa Monica, 9-7, 6-4.

Segman ran through the first two sets in 37 minutes. But Trabert stiffened in the third and sent match into four sets.

Sedgman, who had been stretched to five sets in a grim battle the day before by Flam, played in contrast against Trabert with more rushes to the net and aggressiveness.

A rehsh, discloses that only Sedgman was invited out of the Australians, and even he had trouble with Flam, who was not named to the Davis Cup team.

W. J. (Bill) Klem 'Old Arbitrator' Dies in Miami

Miami, Fla., Sept. 17—(AP)—William J. (Bill) Klem, baseball's famous "old arbitrator," is dead.

The veteran umpire, 77, died of a heart and kidney ailment in Doctors' Hospital in suburban Coral Gables yesterday. His wife, Marie, his only survivor, was with him when he died.

Klem, who had been in failing health for the past two years, entered the hospital Aug. 31. He knew the end was near and only a week ago told his lawyer, "this is my last game and I'm going to strike out this time."

Klem was gravely ill last wipter and for a time was in an oxygen tent at his home on San Marco Island in Miami's Biscayne Bay.

"Klem was a fine chap and probably the greatest umpire of all time," said Ford Frick, president of the National League.

One of the most colorful umpires the game ever saw, Klem often was quoted as saying he never missed one in his life. Later he amended that to say when he called a play he knew in his heart he was right.

Born in Rochester, N.Y., Klem played baseball briefly with a home town team but soon switched to umpiring and officiated at games in Connecticut and New York State before joining the American Association in 1904.

The following season he went to the National League and remained there for 36 years, until he retired in 1941. Since that time he served as umpire-in-chief of the league, occasionally officiating at exhibition or charity games.

Klem was credited with doing as much as anyone in the national pastime to raise umpiring to its present level.

Maxwell Takes National Amateur

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 17 (AP) —Texas, land of cattle, oil and famous golfers, added another linksman to add to its archives today—red-haired Billy Maxwell the 1951 National Amateur golf champion.

The 22-year-old North Texas State College senior captain is the youngest to take the crown since Bobby Jones came out of Atlanta in 1924 to win the first of his 5 amateur titles. Jones was four months younger than Billy.

Maxwell earned the title Saturday by defeating Joe Gaglardi, 28-year-old Mamaroneck, N.Y., lawyer and father of five children, 4 and 3 over the Saucon Valley Country Club course.

Kesselring Wins Golf Title

Kitchener, Sept. 17 — (CP) — Gerry Kesselring won the golf tournament named after himself by taking a playoff win here Saturday from London's Gil Walker.

Both men shot three-under-par 67's on the Rockway Course, home of the Kesselring field day held each September, but in the first extra hole by the tie, Kesselring fired a birdie three to win.

Third low gross was Windsor's Nick Weslock, a previous winner, who turned in a 69.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

There is a dangerous age for a bridge player. It is when he does not know the responses to a simple overcall (a non-jump defensive bid in a new suit).

A simple overcall of one promises five tricks. But only two of these tricks are guaranteed to be high cards. And only one of these high cards is guaranteed to be a sure trick.

So what does a simple overcaller depend on for his tricks? Two of them with his high cards; the rest by trumping short suits. And only if his named suit remains the trump.

If some other suit becomes the trump, he may not be able to trump anything. So, in that case, the only tricks to be expected from him are his two high cards.

A simple overcaller says: partner, I can take five tricks if my suit is trump. If you bid a different suit, do not expect more than two tricks in my hand; my two high cards.

Suppose an opponent starts with an opening bid of one heart and your partner sticks in a simple overcall of one spade. If spades is the final trump suit, you may expect partner to take five tricks.

Suppose you have this hand:

♠7 5
♥8 3
♦J 9 6 4
♣A Q 8 2

Should you respond with a bid of two clubs? Ixnay. Certainly not. Your bid or two clubs must take eight tricks. Where will you get them?

If clubs are trumps, you will have four tricks. If clubs are kinds of trouble with their answers to defensive bids. They forget that the tricks of dwindle to partner's hand when his suit is not trump.

Tricks without body soon turn into shoddy.

Hollywood, Sept. 17 (AP) — Bet you didn't know that the piccolo is sexy.

Neither did I. I had always thought it a comical little instrument used for filling in the lulls of Sousa marches.

But composer Alex North informs otherwise. He recently finished the score for the film "Streetcar Named Desire" and his music is reputed to be the sexiest ever recorded on a sound track.

Not being sure what comprises sexy music, I asked North.

Sensual Sounds

"It's hard to describe," said North. "But when you hear it, you know that it possesses sensual qualities."

And did the piccolo really help?

"Absolutely," he replied. "There is something about the piccolo when played in the higher registers that sounds sexy.

The saxophone can sound sexy if played well, he added. North has discovered such qualities in instruments as part of his work in scoring motion pictures.

The flute gives a primitive sound, but is not dynamic or emotional he said. "It can be used to depict pure innocence. On the other hand, the trumpet is highly emotional and dynamic.

He added that the trombone is sentimental, the cello personal and the bassoon capable of high comedy. Drums can be used to promote eeriness and suspense, he said. They do describe desolation and lonelines.

trumps, partner promises only two tricks. So you can see only six tricks at a club suit contract. You are short two tricks.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, September 18

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Some unfriendly tendencies that bear watching. Don't overstend finances, business. Don't rush ideas or action regardless of obstacles, contention, be cautiously composed.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Take things in easy stride. Good common sense plus your natural wisdom handling jobs can smooth out your day splendidly, happily. Don't lose faith; be cheerful.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—You may need some help, we all generally do. Take it gracefully, a smile in payment goes long way. P.M. very auspicious for personal affairs, romance, family, relaxing activities.

July 24, to August 23—(Leo)—We advocate conserving energy wisely, keeping nerves calm for the trying moments. What you do, do well, and don't act hastefully. Action, tasks can be helpfully stimulating taken rightly.

August 24 to September 22—(Virgo) — May have some disappointments in a.m., take them in stride as Virgo always is capable of doing. P.M. changes to more pleasant period, should be benefic, inspiring for you eager ones.

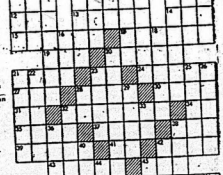
December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Stars in more generous position for you who are carefully cautious of what you say and do. Fine period for mental alertness, written matters, real estate, construction. Eat sensibly.

January 22 to February 19—(Aquarius)—Should be ideal for finishing incompleted work, agreements, starting new essential deals. Personal gains depend on approach and amenableness. Spend as you earn only.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Really no unfavorable condition but neither are there very powerful encouraging ones. Configurations in happy medium class, you must solve your problems, rate your work and outlook keenly.

YOU BORN TODAY: Generally a sound reasoner, surely an impressive personality. Capable of getting the limit out of anything you lay your hand to, put heart into. Careful of speech; sincere, innately fair. You rarely show temper or resort to domineering attitude but you do tend to direct others. Much talent for many fields of endeavor: mechanical, literary, artistic, religious. At times too minutely cautious for the greater success that could be yours. Be ever more progressive, take some warranted chances. Shun worrying.

WHY SAY QUIZ

. . . A manufactured word This word, which has now come into very popular use, dates back less than 100 years old. It was started by a Mr. Daly, who was manager of the Dublin Theatre. He made a bet that he could coin a new word and circulate it in 24 hours . . . so he printed the letters Q-U-I-Z on walls all over the city. The next day, when asked on everyone's tips because everyone wanted to know what it meant. When the answer was told, quiz was used to denote a practical joke and then later it was used as a word for a question as it is today.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

CHAPTER XXX

Meantime, when Goldie Webster had failed to show up on time for dinner at the Grooms' home that Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Grooms had not been unduly alarmed, even though the youth had never been late for a meal since he had gone to board with them. But when seven and eight o'clock had come and gone with no sign of Goldie, Mrs. Grooms had told her husband that he should make some effort to find him, to learn what had been keeping him.

John Grooms had found no trace of Goldie at The Eagle office, or the radio station. No one had seen him. Then he'd gone to the Roberts home, only to find it in darkness. A neighbor woman had told him that Mr. Bradley and Constable Shepherd had gone to the hospital to be with Dad. She'expected them back shortly after nine o'clock.

Grooms had relayed the news to his wife, then returned to the main street to ask everybody he saw if they had seen Goldie Webster, but all to no purpose. It had been shortly after nine o'clock when Grooms had gone back to the Roberts home to tell Lance Bradley that Goldie was missing. Lance had mentioned the loss of his car, which had been stolen from his garage some time before. At the time like this the car would be useful.

"I fired Stub Rose, my sports editor, for the same thing I'm going to put in the paper today," Lance had explained. "I have an idea that Goldie's not such close friends, it's possible that Goldie has gone after him. The intentions of the coming back unless he does, too. Besides that, the boy is smarting because of the way I laid right and he's been taking it hard all day. I'll run a few blocks in the taxi to come here and pick us up, and we will take a drive and see if we can trace him."

"The taxi driver had taken them to the Y, made enquiries there. They had gone on to Lord's Town, asked people on the street. Then they had gone back to, here at home but his wife had. She had told them she had not seen Goldie Webster for weeks.

Completely stumped by then, Lance had been driven to the Grooms' place to leave Mr. Grooms there. He'd gone right off and gone to the police station.

Every man on the force was, by actual count in the Chief's office when he'd gone in.

"What's cooking, Chief?" he asked, hatless, bewildered, "planning a raid?"

"Could be, Brad," the Chief had grinned non-committally. "Might get you a good headline for your Monday's paper."

"Good headlines are getting scarcer than hen's teeth around here lately," Lance had said. "But that's not what brought us here. Have you or any of your men seen anything of Goldie Webster this evening?"

"No," the chief had admitted, neither had any of his men. "What's up, Brad, he'd asked, "what's Goldie been up to now?"

"He hasn't been home to his boarding place for dinner, and I'm getting a bit worried about him. U'see, I gave Stub Rose the gate for the piece he wrote about him for the paper. And I haven't seen either of them since; although I do know where they'd left away together. Have you put Ed Carruthers in the cooler?"

"Not yet, but I will. And if we find them," the Chief had asked, "what shall we do with them?"

"Bring them in, of course. Lance had said, "I'm beginning to think I'm too harsh on Stub Rose and I should give him another chance."

Lance Bradley had let himself into his office and had turned on the lights. Then he had crossed to the job room door, opened it and called, "Hey, Ed!"

"Okay, Brad, coming!" came the prompt answer from the back room with flashlight in hand Ed Carruthers had come to him.

"Everything under control around here?" Lance had asked.

"Yes, Brad, all's quiet on the Ensign front so far. But then, it's always quiet. Look, I know you don't need me around here any more. You have enough help, police to keep an eye on this place."

"We'll talk about that later," Lance had said, "Meanwhile I have a job for you. I'm in trouble—"

"What—again?"

"Now, I resent that, Ed." Lance had laughed. Then his face had sobered. "Goldie Webster hasn't been seen since quitting time, and I'm worried about him. I tired Stub Rose this afternoon and I'm afraid Goldie has left me on that account. I've been all over the place, but I can't find him. How would it be if you took a look? You might have better luck than me. I'll stick around here until you get back."

"Okay, Brad," Ed had said quietly, "I'll do what I can."

He had gone into a cloak room to get his coat and hat, and leaving the job room door open, set the lock on the door leading into the yard and locked the door behind him. After a few steps he'd been out on the street, heading south. At a drug store he'd stopped to ask a telegraph boy and another Chief Constable John Shepherd. Their conversation was brief.

Lance had been in his office in time to turn on the radio to CKOC, Hamilton, and to hear the eleven newscast and had heard him sign off the station until nine o'clock next morning, Sunday. After a while he had heard Jimmy coming down two flights of stairs from the studio, and had heard him close the door opening to the side street. Presently he had heard his heavy steps on the walk along the side of the building and his tap on the window as he stopped to look in as he passed.

Lance had not moved. He had picked up a paper—just for something to read. Soon he'd tired of it and had looked at his glasses and leaned forward over his desk, his head on his arm. Midnight, one o'clock came and went, but he didn't know it.

The boom of the clock was striking two, he was on his feet, to answer a noisy rattle on his door.

When he opened it, Carruthers and Stub Rose and Goldie Webster had entered. He followed them into his office, put on his glasses and looked at them.

"Bruises, Ed?" Carruthers chuckled, "the lost have been found. Here they are, a bit bang-up—as you can see—but very much alive."

Lance looked at them searchingly. All three had been through the mill all right. Their faces were bruised and bloody, while their clothes were considerably torn.

"You do look as if you'd been taken to the cleaners," he observed.

"In a way, yes, Brad," Carruthers laughed, "but let me tell you something. I was picked up four four old buddies, Crookes, Crall, Maker and Slender, have been given rooms at Castle Shepherd for the night."

"You mean—in jail? But for what?"

"For conducting a game cock main in the Gilroy barn. The Chief and his men made a—not a clean-up, game cocks, liquor, spectators and everything."

"That's the headline Chief Shepherd promised me for Monday afternoon's paper," Lance had observed. "I suppose you have the dope on that raid, Stub? Looks like a big story!"

"The hell you say; Stub snorted, "I get fired, then I get a tip and I'm in on something big, and you expect me to write it for you? You think I'm nuts! Nothing doing."

"Then, what brought you back, Stub?" Lance asked, "Didn't Carruthers tell you how sorry I am about the whole business and wanted to apologize to you—that I wanted you and Goldie back?"

"I came back to collect some money." Stub said tersely. "A little matter of a hundred bucks, and when I get it, you won't see me chase yourself."

"Did you say a hundred bucks?" Lance asked, and then his eyes lighted. "You don't mean to tell me that—that—"

"Yes, I do," Stub said. "I found the dirty son of a B. I mean Crooked John Gilroy, and he's Bill Crail and he's now in jail. And if you don't believe me, I'll run your glimmers through this stuff—" and he tossed the letters and papers that had taken from Crail's pockets, on to Lance Bradley's desk.

Lance Bradley and Ed. Carruthers stood side by side going through the papers, turning them over, reading them, comparing the typing with Palms letters received from the safe. And then Lance turned to Stub Rose,

"Stub", he said, "let me shake your hand. You can't stay struck pay-dirt this time. This is unquestionably the doing of Crail, the senseless ravings of a man who must have known that he would be caught some time."

"When do I get my money?" Stub asked suddenly.

"Monday," he said. "I don't do business on Sunday. Any way, I haven't that much money on me. I'll tell Sparling in the morning to give you the cash. But, look, Stub, that isn't the point. Aren't you going to accept my apologies, aren't you going to stay on the job to write the biggest scoop of the year?"

Stub considered the matter silently. Then he shrugged his shoulders. "I'll stay on the job. It was headline stuff, real hot stuff. And after all, newspaper work gets in his blood."

"Okay, Chief," he said at last. "I'll write it. I'll stay with you till the last dog dies, but you remember, don't ever try to take it out on Goldie. Goldie's a friend of mine—"

"I'll say he is," Lance laughed. "I'd say now that you two are as thick as thieves."

That August 6th., Sunday, Bradley enjoyed his happiest moment in the identification and capture of the man who had caused him so much grief in the past several weeks. But long as the day's end he was plunged into the darkest depths of despair.

Despite the lateness of the hour—early Sunday morning—Stub had parted with Ed Carruthers at The Ensign office, Lance was up early. Shortly after 8 o'clock he had sent Mother Roberts were at the hospital where he left them to go on to Chief Shepherd's office with the John Palms letters and papers that Crail had lost the night before.

The Chief told him that Crookes and Crone had been released on their own surety of $500 each and that Maker and Slender had been denied to Crail and Maker and they were in the cells. The Chief read the list of charges that he would prefer against the four principals. He, himself, the clerk would enter the records to see if they ever had been convicted of running a game cock main before, or if they had ever been "found in" at one. All four would appear up for a preliminary hearing the next morning at ten o'clock. Similar statements would be made in the records of the spectators present.

Little Benny's Note Book

I'm suppose to do something useful around the house every Saturday morning to work for the housewife, and this morning I was suppose to tidy up the basement and tie up the old newspapers neet, and I heard wife and Mom Dugeon arguing out in the street, and I said to pop, Hay pop, how about if I help you work this afternoon? Wouldn't that be just as good of an idea? I said.

No, it would be a worse idea, my self said. As Benjamin Franklin said, Werk before play is the sensible way. Or if he didn't say so I'm sure he thought so, because he was a grate filosofer and thought of everything. If you werk feerst and play afterwerds, the anticipation of play will help make the feerst beacon lighting up your werk and spurring you on to get a well earned rest. But if you go out and play this morning the thought of working all afternoon will spoil your fun like a mocking ghost. Dont you agree with me? he said, and I said, Yes sir.

Good, pop said. Now this afternoon when the fun and start yelling even louder and geyser, you can go out and join them. But if you get into a fite, be conscience, he said, and I said, But Jimminies, pop, its libel to rain all day neat Saturday, so why cant I wait a week and do today's werk and next Saturday's werk all together?

And suppose the weather is even more perfect next Saturday? pop said, and I said, Then it will be 2 good lessns to me, because feerst it will prove you were rite about werk before play, and 2nd it will prove I was wrong not listening to your advice.

Get going, pop said, and I said, Im going right now.

I meen down, pop said. Meening down to the basement.

East Europe Roman Catholics Form Resistance Groups To Combat Communism

Vatican City, Sept. 17 (Reuters)—Communist persecution of eastern European Roman Catholics has led to the birth of underground Catholic resistance organizations.

Private reports reaching Rome indicate that such organizations now are well established in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland, and that a small one is in being in Romania.

This development is ignored by the Vatican.

Although opposed to Marxist communism and to the forms of communist rule in eastern Europe, the church has in recent years clearly shown its desire to minimize the persecutions which the 60,000,000 Catholics "behind the Iron Curtain" will inevitably suffer for their faith.

This is one of the reasons, it is believed, why secret resistance organizations are not recognized by church authorities.

According to private reportsment reaching Rome, one of the most robust of the organizations is the ZCA, organized by young Czechoslovak Catholics.

This, like most of the others, arose spontaneously in reaction to the communist pressure on the mass of Czechoslovak Catholics.

Its aim, as reported here, is to help Catholic families suddenly flung into poverty by government action against them and keep alive a spirit of Catholic solidarity amongst the workers.

As in the case of the underground organizations in other countries, the ZCA is not specifically revolutionary.

Its parallel organization in Poland, the TAPS, is also an organization of young Catholics.

The latest access of the TAPS was to place great difficulties in the way of the Polish government's mobilization of young people to attend the communist youth rally in Berlin in August.

Many members of the organization have fallen into the hands of communist police. They have all been condemned to death or to forced labor.

The Catholic movement in Hungary is divided into sections for men and women and is not specifically a youth organization.

The men's organization is particularly active among industrial workers, while the women's is principally devoted to keeping alive the faith in country districts.

THREE DIE IN FIRE AS HOME FOR AGED BURNS

Communists Say U.N. Soldiers Seen In Neutral Zone

Will Meet at Penmunjom To Discuss Latest Imbroglio

Toyko, Sept. 18—(AP)—The communists tonight charged four allied soldiers had invaded the Kaesong neutral zone. The reds demanded a meeting of liaison officers Wednesday "to settle this matter."

The United Nations command replied that its representatives would go to the meeting at 9 a. m. Wednesday.

The meeting place will be Panmunjom, six miles east of Kaesong,site of the suspended truce talks.

The communist note asserted that "four of your military personnel" entered both Kaesong's neutral zone and Panmunjom at 2:30 this afternoon, a dispatch from Munsan said.

"We request your liaison officer to come to Panmunjom at 0900 hours tomorrow to settle this matter," the red note said.

No Details Given

A reliable earlier from headquarters of the supreme allied commander said the reds made the charge in a radio casteet with the United Nations command advance headquarters in Korea. It gave the number of soldiers as three, instead of four. There were no details of the alleged incident.

It was the 12th time since the Korean war armistice talks opened at Kaesong July 10 that the communists have charged the United Nations with violating the five-mile neutral zone.

The U. N. command has admitted to one of these charges—that one of its planes strafed the zone accidentally Sept. 10.

The reds called off the truce talks Aug. 23 after charging that a United Nations plane had bombed the Kaesong area the night before.

The latest red charge dimmed even further the slight chances that the talks can be resumed.

The charge was made only about 24 hours after Ridgway had ordered to have his liaison officers meet their red counterparts to discuss conditions that could lead to resumption of the talks.

A U. N. headquarters release made it clear that Ridgway had insisted in his message to communist responsibility to say when the truce talks will be resumed.

NATO Suspends Greek-Turkish Debate 24 Hours

Ottawa, Sept. 18—(CP)— The North Atlantic council suspended debate on the Greek-Turkish question at 11:30 a.m. EDT today, probably for at least 24 hours.

The adjournment of the biggest political issue now facing the 12 nations was granted at Denmark's request to allow the Danes to get instructions from home.

Canada, in place by External Affairs Minister Pearson, is understood to have joined the majority of the member nations who want the two countries associated with the alliance through full membership.

It became clear later, however, that there would be no vote on their admission today, after Denmark's Foreign Minister Ole Bjorn Kraft said he could not state Denmark's position at this time and asked for a "brief adjournment."

Diplomatic sources said it would be at least 24 hours.

Canada has entered today's sessions anticipating that a definite conclusion would be reached this morning.

American sources were reported still confident that their desire to see the two eastern Mediterranean countries join the alliance would be fulfilled at today's meeting of the council, expected to end Thursday.

Canada is expected to favor their admission to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. A spokesman said the issue will likely either end in agreement to admit them or in agreement to put the matter over to the Rome meeting late in October.

As the 33 cabinet ministers went back into session, a working group of top-level officials went into three-times-a-day meetings to hammer out a set of principles for the development of the North Atlantic community in the non-defence field.

Huge Throng Attends Funeral Of Slain Waitress

Tinnikaming Que., Sept. 18.— (CP)—The little Roman Catholic Church where Rose Marie Ryan took her wedding vows 65 days ago was the scene of her funeral today.

The attractive 19-year-old waitress, whose strangled body was found on the bathroom floor of her apartment Saturday night, was buried in the Catholic cemetery.

And while a huge throng of relatives, friends and the curious crowded the church for the services, the girl's 22-year-old husband, Gerald Ryan, was held in jail as a material witness.

Police said that after the slaying Saturday night Ryan had a call from Ryan, husky, six-foot cook, who blurted out: "I've killed my wife."

Mrs. Ryan's body was found in the bathroom, closed eyes turned toward the ceiling. In her hands she grasped the long white satin and lace bridal garment she wore when she married Ryan July 16.

Homicide officers from Montreal an Ottawa completed their investigation on the slaying and left here for Ville Marie, county seat 90 miles north of here, where Ryan is held.

An inquest probably will be held next week with chief witness the provincial police pathologist who conducted a post-mortem examination Sunday night in this town in the Ontario border, some 40 miles northeast of North Bay.

IRANIANS PONDER HOW TO REVIVE TALKS ON OIL

May Still Expell British Technicians

Tehran, Sept. 18 (AP)—Iran's cabinet scheduled another meeting today to decide how to go about delivering a tickiin ultimatum demanding that Britain revive collapsed oil talks.

The cabinet also met last night to talk over the latest developments in its dispute with Britain. Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said the cabinet decided to keep the 'ultimatum alive despite W. A. Averell Harriman's refusal to rel..y the note to London. A government source said that the United States trouble-shooter wrote Premier Mahammed Mossadegh that it would only make matters worse.

Mossadegh had sent the ultimatum to Washington for delivery to Britain in hopes of getting Harriman to enter the stalled negotiations again.

Threaten British

The ultimatum threatened to break off the talks if nationalization left at the nationalized Abadan refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in Britain's hands and decided in two weeks to re-open negotiations.

Fatemi also said Harriman's letter asked Mossadegh to modify the text of the note and was not a complete rejection of the ultimatum idea. The note was made public.

The deputy premier said the government received a telegram the shutdown of oil shipments from the Abadan section of Iran's deteriorating economic situation.

The oil industry is virtually shut down because of Britain's withdrawal of tanker ships and most of the technicians.

Increasing Pressure

Britain also has been gradually increasing economic pressure in an effort to bend Mossadegh to a more reasonable agreement. A.I.O.C. said yesterday it will have dropped 20,000 Iranian employees on the payrolls by the end of September. The bulk of the dismissed Iranian workers would fall on Iran's already uncertain economy.

Fatemi also initiated. Fatemi said an order will be issued today to bring about a 50 per cent exchange by the British Bank of Iran and the Middle East.

Dr. Gordon Richter Nurt of Iran leaded in London last night for oil talks. He said Britain's position will ask for greater royalties from the A.I.O.C. and the Iran Petroleum Company, for wheat fields and drilling rights in Iraq. Britain recently signed a similar deal with Iraq, a bigger share of profits from the British-run fields there.)

Flashing Light Believed Clue To Lost American Fisherman; Air Force Planes Join Search

Winnipeg, Sept. 18 —(CP) — Four R.C.A.F. planes and a Central Airway's Norseman took off today to investigate the sighting last night of a fire and a "flashing light" near Deer Lake, Ont., about 200 miles northeast of here—latest clue to the possible whereabouts of a missing American sportsman and his light aircraft.

Roy H. Nelswander of Springfield, Ill., has been reported missing since he started out alone from God's Lake, Man., Sept. 10 on a 300-mile flight to Red Lake, Ont. Last night a Lancaster bomber, which arrived from Greenwood, N.S., to take part in the search, reported a strong beam of light flashing on and off on the north shore of Deer Lake, about 100 miles north of Nelswander's destination—Red Lake.

"We're not holding too much hope that this is the missing man," Air force officials here said. "An Indian village is situated in that area, and they have been known to flash on flashlights at passing aircraft."

Mrs. Nelswander, now at Red Lake said her husband—on a fishing trip in northern Manitoba and Ontario—carried a powerful flashlight which can send a beam 1,000 feet.

RCAF officials said the float-equipped Norseman will fly direct to Deer Lake and attempt a landing. Four other R.C.A.F. planes will hover over the area, if the Norseman reports no findings, the other craft will spread out and continue the search over the American's proposed route.

Iran Premier Mossadegh Makes Attempt to Strengthen Cabinet

Tehran, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh was reported today to be shaking up his cabinet to strengthen his nationalist government against internal political opposition and economic pressure from Britain.

Premier Minister Mohammed Ali Varesti has submitted his resignation, informed sources said.

Varesti, who headed the Iranian delegation in the unsuccessful talks with Britain's representative, Richard Stokes, supported Iran's nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company holdings, but opposed Mossadegh's policy of getting tough with Britain regardless of the economic consequences.

Deputy Prime Minister Hossein Fatemi said cabinet shifts are in the wind, but that new ministers would not be presented to the Shah before Saturday.

Mossadegh apparently is readying for a showdown battle with his parliamentary opposition. He has called both the 79-man lower house and the 60-man senate into session today to transmit the ultimatum, threatening expulsion of 300 British technicians still at Abadan unless the talks are resumed.

Structural Change In King's Lung Has Developed

London, Sept. 18—(Reuters)—A Buckingham Palace statement tonight said a series of examinations carried out recently showed structural changes had developed in the King's lung.

Signed by nine doctors, the bulletin said the King had been advised to stay in London for further treatment. This weekend he was to visit his Scottish Balmoral summer vacation to see his doctors.

It was disclosed tonight that Queen Elizabeth also is returning to Buckingham Palace.

The bulletin issued tonight said: "During the King's recent illness a series of examinations has been carried out including radiography and bronchoscopy.

"These investigations now show structural changes to have developed in the lung. The treatment has been advised to stay in London for further treatment."

The King is suffering from a lung condition, believed aftermath of a catarrhal inflammation which attacked him last June.

Welland, Sept. 18. (CP)—Edward Anthony Bassett, 49, of nearby Crystal Beach, went on trial today charged with murdering his common-law wife, Mrs. Leone Peterson, in a Crystal Beach cottage June 18.

Dr. Lorne Gibson, provincial pathologist, was the first witness. He said post-morten examination showed that death was due to a shotgun blast in which "the top of the head was literally blown off."

REFINERY BLAST LEAVES 12 DEAD, 20 INJURED

Cause Not Determined And Damage $100,000

Wood River, Ill., Sept. 18 (AP)—A terrific explosion rocked the big Shell Oil Company refinery here last night killing 12 workmen.

About 20 persons were injured seriously.

The earth-shaking blast occurred in one of the refinery's large oil cracking units as a special night crew was cleaning it.

As flames lashed out from the explosion, enveloping workers, panic broke out.

"I saw men knocked to the ground," Billie Blanchard, 17, a boilermaker's helper said. "They were screaming and begging for help, running with their clothes afire."

Blanchell was atop a pumphouse, 20 feet above the ground. Blocked by flames, he reached safety by sliding down a pipe to the ground.

Four bodies were recovered soon after the blast. Four workers died at a hospital several hours later. A hospital authority expressed fear the death toll might mount even more.

Two of the dead, burned, all badly burned, were rushed to hospitals here and at Alton, Six others were treated at the refinery.

The four bodies recovered from the blast were so charred that immediate identification was impossible.

A flash fire following the explosion shot flames more than 50 feet into the air. It was quickly snuffed out by company firefighters, but the pall of smoke hung on keeping rescue workers from probing deep into the debris.

Cause of the explosion — the second major mishap at the refinery in less than a month—was not definitely determined. A company spokesman said a number of things may have caused it including a pocket of gas or static electricity. A company official estimated damage might exceed $100,000.

It lies in some 200 miles west of the nationalist strongbold of Formosa.

Fighting Men to Learn Under Fire How to Operate Under A-Barrage

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP) — Five thousand United States fighting men are going to learn by the actual explosion of live ammunition how to operate when a battlefield is blasted and searched under atomic barrage.

These men and officers drawn from the army, navy and air forces will take part in a new battalion combat team, will get their atomic warfare training through a new series of nuclear tests at the Frenchman Flats, Nev., atomic weapons proving ground.

The military has designed the exercises to give the men this first atomic warfare troop manoeuvre.

The combat team will be trained in a battle position, dig trenches and dugouts and string wire before each explosion. Then they will move to safe positions as the explosion comes, an official army announcement yesterday explained.

Presumably, their places in the trenches will be taken by blast and heat recorders and geiger counters to record what would happen to them when the detonation occurs.

The announcement said that "supporting service troops" will operate with the combat team. This indicates that the tests also are designed to show how much damage to food, clothing, communications systems and other material used by a combat unit in the field would occur from blast, heat and radiation, Presumably, training will involve the recovery and rehabilitation for immediate use of such equipment.

Another important factor will be psychological—to convince foot soldier that he can live and fight through atomic attack if he follows instructions and remembers his training.

What types of nuclear detonation would be used while the troops are undergoing training was not disclosed.

However, the Atomic Energy Commission and the defence department have been working for more than a year at development of atomic weapons suitable for battlefield use.

Ten Other Victims Taken to Hospital Following Escape

Some of Those Rescued Said To be 'In Bad Condition'

Colesville, Md., Sept. 18 — (AP) — Flames raced through a home for the aged today and burned three persons to death, the owner of the home reported.

Firemen earlier had reported three bodies recovered and others visible in the burning structure 15 miles north of Washington, D.C.

However, Mrs. Jessie Proctor Jolliffe told a reporter by telephone only three of her patients had died in the flames.

She was sobbing and after giving that report hung up, saying: "I can't talk."

Reached by Phone

She was reached by telephone at "Mrs. Jolliffe's Home for the Aged"— a 2½-storey frame building.

A. Forton Thomas, director of the Montgomery county department of inspection, said there were 59 patients in the home at the time of the fire.

At least 19 persons were taken to the Washington sanitarium and a nurse said some of them are in bad condition."

All available doctors and nurses in Montgomery County, Md., were called by firemen.

All Firemen Called

All volunteer fire departments in the county also were summoned to help fight the flames in the 2½-storey frame building.

"Some of them are in bad condition," a nurse told a reporter.

Three ambulances unloaded the stretcher-borne patients and then sped back to the blazing home.

Drivers said additional injured were at home awaiting removal to the hospital.

Engineer Fights For Life After Crossing Crash

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 18—(CP) —Engineer Fred Chubb, due for retirement in three weeks, fought for his life today in an oxygen tent as a result of a collision yesterday between a passenger train and a trailer-load of gas, open crdssing five miles east of here.

Two men died in the crash. They were Joseph Petigney, 35, of Chatham, Ont., the truck driver, and Stanley Sterling of London, Ont., fireman of the train.

Trainmen credited Chubb with saving scores of lives. An instant before the crash the engineer jammed on the train's emergency brakes. Only one passenger, William R. Robbins of Toledo, O., required hospital attention. His shoulder was X-rayed and he was later released. Several passengers were shaken up.

Suffering severe burns and leg injuries, Chubb was lifted from the steam cab of the 3,000 h.p. locomotive immediately after the crash which turned the locomotive on its side and derailed four cars.

Petigney, crushed in what was left of the cab of the truck, was burned to death while horrified passengers climbed from the wrecked train.

Sterling was taken from the locomotive cab by Rev. Lester Bradley, Trinity Church Seminary, London, and two Seminary students, Frank Turner and Harris McCarthy. They climbed into the cab amidst steam escaping from the shattered engine. Sterling was free and lifted him on the gass bside the crossing.

Badly Burned

The fireman, badly burned about the head, died soon afterward.

The crack Canadian Pacific Railway Chicago-Toronto flyer, was speeding east from Chatham at more than 50 miles an hour at the time of the crash. Petigney's vision, as he approached the crossing, was obscured by a small orchard.

The locomotive tore through the truck cab, lurched off the track careened 100 yards to a standstill. Four passenger cars jolted after it, but into the roadbed and stopped. The remained on the track.

The gas tank of the truck exploded and fire enveloped the section of the cab in which Petigney was pinned. Several passengers grabbed fire extinguishers and made ineffectual attempts to put out the flames.

Mr. Thorn said the owner had promised to keep the dog muzzled.

McNevin, Johnson Real Fishermen

Lake Opeongo in Algonquin Park can always be depended on to produce excitement for the fishermen who know where to get the big ones.

At least that is the claim of Don McNevin and Walter Johnson, local Izaak Waltons who report repeated strikes at the northern lake—and they bring home the fish to prove it.

Again, over the last weekend Don and Walter made a haul of 76 pounds of lake trout, the largest of the 19 fish they caught tipping the scales at 13 pounds six ounces.

Pte. Hardwick, Home on Leave, Says Japanese Food Prices Below Level Prevailing Here

You can get your clothes pressed while you eat a little entertainment tossed in, if you are a buck private of any man's army in Korea.

You won't get a de luxe job, and the crease in your pants is in nowise the razor-edge variety. But the cost of this near-primitive job is negligible. A cigarette, a chocolate bar, or perhaps little.

And your launderers, laundresses or other clothes-cleansing operators range from nine to 90 years of age.

So says Private Charles Hardwick of this city, who has just returned from Korea. He is on 30 days leave with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardwick, Burton Street, and will report back to Camp Borden for training before taking off for the wars again.

Have Special System

Canadian carpet-beating probably started with the Korean hinterland laundries. You tote a bundle of dirty clothes to the laundryman or woman or child and he, or she whangs the daylights out of it with a stick.

The pressing is simple. They merely pile the clothes, put a large load on top. "After each Korean war dance on it, Presto, your clothes are pressed, even for a short time.

The Canadians are well liked by the Korean, Hardwick said, especially the children. He firmly refuted news dispatches to the effect that the troops were using the Korean kiddies. Far from it.

"A fellow," he said, "after spending all of a five-day battle with the gooks is hardly in the mood to have a honeybun, when he wants is a bath, some clean clothes and fresh rations. There were times when the G.I. would pushed the kiddies aside after a stint in a hillside hole, but those stories of mistreatment are untrue."

While the Korean beauties would hardly dethrone a Miss Canada over here, there are some Japanese girls who are tops in Oriental pulchritude. Charlie spent five days sight-seeing in Japan before leaving for home for Canada, and he was so smitten with the Japanese city that "I couldn't mind living there as a permanent establishment there."

And Canadian beef cattle wouldn't be so bad either if they could price a juicy steak in a Jap restaurant.

You can get a choice hunk of steak meat, with tomatoes, lettuce, onions and other porterhouse trimmings for a mere ninety cents, the price of gravy over here. Roasts and fish prices are commensurate.

Getting back to the more serious things, Charlie says the North Korean troops are great believers in advertising, before attacks on our positions.

Communists Noisy

Patrols are heralded by loud whistles and bugle calls as the communists prepare to attack. It is their system of passing orders.

Most of this is done at night under cover of the Korean darkness and as a result the enemy is seldom seen.

Decoration for the troops in Korea is American. Local amusement places are forbidden due to the native diseases.

But Canada looks pretty good to this young Canadian soldier with the red and gold shoulder flashes of the famous Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry. Incidentally, the flashes with their silk lettering and various insignia are made by the Japanese and sold at a ridiculously low figure.

Charlie's stint of three-year duty with the Special Force ends shortly. He likes the army but has not made up his mind whether he will remain in it.

Enjoying Leave

In the meantime he is enjoying a well-deserved leave with his embattled terrain of war-torn Korea forgotten for the moment.

Council Signs Contract to Build New Fire Hall With McCrory Co.

Delay on the part of city council in deciding on the contract for construction of their new fire hall will result in an escalator clause being inserted to protect the builder because of winter building conditions.

This was learned by members of council at a special meeting held Monday afternoon to pass the by-law authorizing the signing of the contract with the S.R. McCrory Construction Company, successful tenderers for the job.

One week ago the McCrory tender of $68,154 was tentatively accepted by council but when members met yesterday they were informed by a letter from Mr. McCrory that due to winter building conditions the tender expired after such a late start an escalator clause would be necessary in the contract.

Speaking on the matter Alderman Harry Rollins, polited out the proposed escalator clause was a common clause in any contract and in this case may not mean any increase in price.

Disapproves of Clause

Alderman Hyde disapproved of an escalator clause noting that the city now "may as well wait until spring."

Alderman Lummiss declared that council has "the cart before the horse" in that it was talking of a building contract before they were sure of the location of the fire hall.

"We settled that last week," returned Alderman Thomas, "The fire hall is going to be built on the tourist park."

"Yes, but can we get a deed for the property?" asked Alderman Lummiss who noted that the limited time had given the property to the city for park purposes.

Discussion Out of Order

Mayor Potter ruled council had been called upon to pass a by-law authorizing signing of the building contract and discussion regarding site was out of order.

Alderman Haig was of the opinion an escalator clause should not be permitted on the grounds that it gave the builder an incentive to get the work done. "If we are going to tamper with a contract we should again call for tenders," he said.

"And run into the same trouble we did last year with the new school," reminded Alderman Countryman. "New prices were called then and they were all up from the original tenders."

Council to Probe Sanitary Fill Disposal Method

On recommendation of the Belleville health department, city council will investigate the sanitary fill method of garbage disposal, with prices for equipment to be ascertained by the public works department committee.

Speaking on the matter at yesterday afternoon's special meeting of council, Mayor R. T. Potter noted that the department of health had many times condemned the city garbage dump and intimated that Dr. Bruels of the health department would also do so. First, however, an opportunity would be given to make other plans and procure equipment.

Weekly would be a caterpillar bulldozer which would be used to furrow out a trench. The garbage would dumped in and packed down, the bulldozer then to be used to backfill. As a result of this procedure there would be no raw garbage left overnight to collect flies or to create undesirable odors.

Such a method could be used in filling in low spots within the corporation, it was stated.

At the next council meeting a deputation on this method of garbage disposal will be invited to councillors.

'Van Doo' Regt. Experiences Heavy Fighting

With Canadians in Korea, Sept. 18 (AP)—Canada's "Van Doo" Regiment has experienced its bitterest fighting since arriving in Korea.

The Royal 22nd Regiment from Quebec encountered heavy resistance from Chinese Communists in the west-central front while attempting to take a hill, suffering heavy losses in the Old Strathcona Horse. An exploratory patrol was stopped in its track and called for air strikes on the enemy positions.

Allied planes responded with napalm and high explosive bombs while the patrol regrouped. Then artillery sent a heavy barrage as the Canadians resumed their advance.

Chinese came out of their foxholes fighting.

Tanks immediately behind the Canadians opened fire on the Chinese positions. The "Van Doos" cleaned up the hill, while artillery rained shells on the Chinese rear.

Thirty-six Chinese bodies were found, as well as many weapons and gear in the hastily abandoned trenches. A "Van Doos" sergeant-major picked up, was presented to Lt.-Col. J. A. Dextraze, Montreal, commanding officer.

Brig. John M. Rockingham, commander of the Canadian 25th Infantry Brigade, commented later he never before had seen such fine co-operation between tanks and infantry. He "took off his hat to the short hair today," he said. "The tank shells seemed to be just clearing their heads and it was almost too close for comfort. But it certainly did the trick."

Queen Victoria School Will Be Given New Sound System

Following up its "one a year" policy of installing sound systems in city public schools, members of the Belleville Board of Education at their first meeting of the present season, have tentatively approved of a Stewart-Warner sound system for the Queen Victoria Public School.

Schools either having complete sound systems in, or in the course of installation, are Prince Charles school and the newly-erected Queen Elizabeth school.

The proposed sound system for Queen Victoria school is complete in every respect and includes wherever possible the present equipment at the school. School Principal Everett Pullman addressed the meeting with respect to the need for a modern sound system in the school, while engineers from Stewart-Warner were also in attendance to point out the use to which such a system could be placed.

Below Regular Cost

The installed system would be used by Stewart-Warner dealers needed for placing of other systems in Ontario schools and is being made available to the school at a price considerably below the regular cost. Mr. Pullman told the Public School and School Association had set aside $200 to spend prior to the opening of the school, Board member Stuart Robb was named a committee of three to look after the purchase of the sound system equipment and accept if found satisfactory.

Captain Lloyd Hyslop, Cadet Training Officer for headquarters Eastern Ontario Area, addressed the meeting asking that cadet training at the collegiate be carried on throughout the year throughout the year instead of being confined to the spring season as at present. A committee of Miss Josephine Tickell and Fred Symons was named to go into the matter.

Health Services for School

The board approved of entering into an agreement with the city department of health to provide health service in the schools. Purchase of equipment for the Queen Elizabeth health room was approved.

A committee of board members William Thompson and Chairman Campbell was appointed to the Municipal Provincial committee on municipal taxation.

Authorization was given to install new electric service panels at Queen Alexandra school to take care of any change in lighting or other services that may be needed in the future. Service at the school was interrupted recently when during a storm a limb ripped out the service wires to the building. Heavier wiring is being replaced.

Night school courses in chemistry and in cook for 27 nurses in the probationary staff at Belleville General Hospital were approved providing suitable instructors can be secured.

The application of one of the city churches for the use of the auditorium at the Queen Elizabeth School was denied.

Fully Recommendation

The board ratified a recommendation from the Collegiate-Vocational committee approving of rules governing evening class instruction and amending the schedule of fees. This year welding class students at the night school will pay a fee of $12 and all other evening class students will pay a fee with no refunds to anyone.

Fees for non-resident kindergarten pupils were set at $5 per month, and at $8 per month for grade pupils.

Trustee Gayle Cadet reported to a recommendation from a special committee on salaries and allowances to compensate teachers taking summer school courses where no other provision is made in the salary schedule. Such compensation would range up to $350.

A report on work progress at the Queen Elizabeth school was read, it being noted the operation of the building was still incomplete. Principal's and office in the south corridor. A used piano has been purchased for the school at $250.

Committees Approve Plans To Build $60,000 Grandstand

Approval of plans for the erection of a new $60,000 grandstand at the Belleville Fair Grounds was made Monday evening at a special meeting of local interested committees held at the city hall.

Attending the meeting was a special committee of city council consisting of Aldermen Hyde and Countryman; members of the Parks Board, and Harry W. Rollins, Ben Bleecker and Eric S. Denyes, "representing the fair board."

Before the meeting came a recommendation asking that city council sell the debentures for the grandstand. The grandstand. The recommendation will be presented to council at their next meeting.

Architect W. A. Walton attended the meeting with sketches of the proposed plans for the new stand, while A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative for Hastings was also present. The proposed stand would be built to provide accommodation for 2,000 in the grandstand seats for junior farmer activities. Underneath the stand would be provided 2,000 square feet with dressing rooms, lockers and rest rooms.

Municipality Pays One-Third

Under the plan the province would pay one-third of the cost, the federal government one-third and the municipality would pay the remaining one-third of the cost.

Plans call for a stand with accommodation for 5,000 people with 28 rows of seats. This would make the stand considerably deeper and higher than the present stand. It would be situated between the two light standards set about 40 feet west of the present stand.

No structural steel would be required in building of the new stand, according to fair president Rollins. The stand would be made of re-inforced concrete with a partial roof of the cantilever type. A permit for the construction of the stand would have to be secured from Ottawa, it was stated.

Steel Production Returns to Normal After Walkouts

Sydney, N.S., Sept. 18—(CP)—Steel production returned to normal at the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation plant today after a series of wildcat walkouts that tied up the mills temporarily.

Open hearth workers left their jobs yesterday, halting production in the big plant, but returned to the furnaces early today. There also were temporary walkouts in the coke oven and boiler departments.

These were the latest in a series of work stoppages that started in July. The 4,700 workers are members of United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) and are seeking parity with men in Ontario plants.

Dosco countered with an announcement it was putting into effect a 10-cent wage increase—an offer earlier rejected by union negotiators. Local president Ed Corbett termed the action a deliberate attempt to break the union.

Lionel A. Forget, Dosco president, denied in Montreal last night the company had made any such attempt and added:

"We have a contract with the union which doesn't expire until next March and we expect them to live up to it as we have. this walkout is news to me but it is obviously a violation of our contract."

Last week the company slapped a seven-day suspension on more than 500 workers who participated in a walkout. Union officers have termed the walkouts spontaneous.

The union asked wages similar to those in other Canadian mills—$1.29 basic hourly at Sidco—and other concessions.

NATO Delegates Stress Defence Build Up Now

U. S. NATO delegate, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, is shown inspecting R.C.A.F. honor guards at Ottawa, escorted by Flt. Lieut Douglas Biden. Conference delegates agreed that Western world must speed up defence build-up to avoid third world war. European delegates stressed that Western strength must be economic as well as military, clause which had originally been inserted in North Atlantic Treaty through insistence of Canada's delegates. — Central Press Canadian.

Morrison Sees NATO Eliminating Citizenship, Trade, Travel Barriers

Ottawa, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Herbert Morrison, United Kingdom foreign secretary, suggested today that in time the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might develop into community of common citizenship without barriers on trade or travel.

"I am sure that we should look forward to the day when in the fullness of time there will be a common citizenship for all the peoples in the North Atlantic community, with all the barriers to thought, travel, trade and understanding swept away," he said.

Here for the N.A.T.O. meetings, he made his observation in a speech to the Canadian Club of Ottawa. It was the most far-reaching conception of the eventual evolution of N.A.T.O. yet voiced by a minister, though previously Canada's external affairs minister has spoken of a possible "Atlantic federation."

Mr. Morrison was speaking of the long-term objectives of N.A.T.O. These, he said, must not be forgotten, though at present the concentration was on "strengthening our defences and insuring our western way of life against aggression."

After outlining his conception of an Atlantic community of nations he said N.A.T.O. was moving now in that direction. The present meeting in Ottawa "marks a stage on the road."

He did not want to convey the idea that "everything in the garden is lovely."

"We must all hope and pray for a change of heart on the part of those powerful and irresponsible rulers behind the Iron Curtain."

The west must play its part in creating better material and social conditions in the world. In this the Colombo plan for the development of south and southwest Asia marked a great step forward "in our recognition of our obligation to our fellow man."

The west must think in terms of ideas and of the daily battle of ideas. All in the free world were fighting against false ideas held with all the fanaticism of a new religion.

"We must reconcile the needs of the individual with those of the community and the needs of the community with those of mankind as a whole," he said. "That is what we are seeking in these regional organizations such as N.A.T.O....

"It is a big idea. Let us hope that one day it will be a world idea. Above all we must be patient. Ideas take years to work out. While these ideas grow and take hold in men's minds, we have to keep the peace of the world in strong hands."

First Convention Tussle With Reds Easily Mastered

Vancouver, Sept. 18 (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor has had the first 1951 convention tussle with its communist foes and has floored it without working up a good sweat.

Despite a clamorous uproar by left-wingers, they managed to muster only about 30 of 600 votes at yesterday's opening session when the chips were down over the expulsion of the red-line international union of fur and leather workers.

The net result was that only a scattering of party-liners remained today among convention spokesmen for the CCL's 350,000 members. The 5,000 member fur and leather group was the last ringing voice of communism in the CCL, which has been systematically cleaning out its reds for three years.

It followed into exile the 250,000 member United Electrical Workers and the international Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter

Allied Armored Force Launches Surprise Attack

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters Korea, Sept. 18—(AP)—An allied armored force with infantry support launched a surprise attack on the dormant western front at dawn today. It was stopped by firmly dug-in reds.

The allied soldiers fought all day in mud and a steady drizzle in their unsuccessful effort to gain

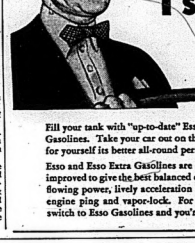
Workers, with 20,000 members. Like the fur-leather union, these were expelled during the last two years for the communist-line policies of their leaders.

The fifth heave of the fur-leather workers appeared to have left as the convention's major left-wing group a body of about 12 members of the United Automobile Workers from Windsor, Ont., reported to have slipped into the anti-red U.A.W.-s 100-man delegation as the result of a local internal squabble.

a hill mass west of Chorwon. Chorwon is the southwestern point of the reds' old iron triangle troop assembly area. The town is 18 miles north of Parallel 38.

On the west-central front "The Van Doo"—the Royal 22nd Regiment from Quebec—reported it had recently experienced its heaviest fighting since landing in Korea.

In the fighting west of Chorwon, the reds held grimly to bunkers and trenches on the hill mass. Communist mortar and artillery fire, anti-tank guns and mines helped check the allied thrust.



American and South African fighter pilots hurled fire bombs on the height in an effort to dislodge the reds. Heavy allied artillery and mortar fire was poured on the communist foxholes.

They, the infantrymen tried again. They met with no better luck.

Elsewhere along the western front, allied patrols probed beyond the United Nations line with little enemy contact. One hill southwest of Chorwon was occupied against no opposition.

Sharp local clashes flared along the mountainous eastern Korea warfront Tuesday.

MUST CURB WILD DRIVERS

During August, 91 persons were killed in automobiles in Ontario, as compared with 82 during the corresponding month last year, it was disclosed by the provincial department of highways last Friday. According to the same authority, 566 were killed during the first eight months of this year, as compared with 457 during the first eight months of 1950.

These figures indicate a trend which should be alarming but which is not, only because similar ones have been published so often that the public has become hardened to them.

Ontario's population increases at no such rate as ten per cent per month; neither does the number of cars increase at any such rate. Yet when automobile fatalities jump from 82 in one month to 91 in the corresponding month of the next year, the increase has been more than ten per cent.

Automobiles today are more easily operated than the cars of years ago, and should be safer. Highways are generally in much better condition than they were a decade or two ago. Stoplights and other warning signals are more numerous and more efficient. Automobile bodies now are much more strongly built than they once were, and should provide much better protection when accidents occur.

When, in spite of all these factors, the automobile death toll continues to mount from month to month and from year to year, there is only on conclusion to be drawn—that motorists are becoming more reckless, or, to state the case a little more euphemistically, less careful.

The only remedy or partial remedy for this admittedly serious situation which appears to be practical and capable of application would appear to be a much more stringent examination of persons applying for permits to operate motor vehicles.

The best of cars, on the best of highways, can be a menace with an incompetent driver. Any car, on any road, is usually safe if its driver is careful and competent.

RURAL POST OFFICES DISAPPEAR

(Toronto Telegram)

Announcements that numbers of rural post offices are to be closed foreshadows the disappearance in many hamlets of an institution linked to the earliest pioneer days.

Invariably these small post offices were located in a crossroads general store, shut off from the drygoods and groceries by partition walls around which on the inside were ranged little pigeon-holes into which the postmaster, who was, so the merchant, thrust the mail of the families in the area nearby. Outside ends of these mail boxes were covered with glass and sometimes numbered so that the box-holders could peek in to see if there was any mail.

If there were two stores at the crossroads, rivalry arose between them because of the possession of the post office. It brought in customers in addition to providing a small remuneration for the services rendered.

Usually the possession of the post office was decided on political patronage lines. When the government at Ottawa changed, the location of the post office often changed too. Everyone in the community had to call for mail, and he was a poor merchant who could not turn the opportunity to good account by making a sale from the assortment of merchandise which filled the glass-covered counters, adorned the walls or hung from the ceilling.

The combined country store and post office was a wonderful place for the country boy. There was romance in the bundled confines of spices, new clothing, coal oil and binder twine. When the lad grew tired of inspecting the merchandise there was always the mystery of the rows of glass-end boxes in the post office partition. On a rainy or blustery day the combined store and post office was on a par with the local smithy as a meeting place to thresh out the world's problems.

ST. LAURENT 0, TRUMAN 85

(Toronto Financial Post)

In fiscal 1950, there were 44 attempts on the life of President Truman. In fiscal 1951 there were 85 and 3,269 persons were questioned about letters and telephone calls they made to the White House.

What's the score for Prime Minister St. Laurent and Governor-General Alexander?

The deputy commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police told The Financial Post there have been no attempts on the life of either man in the past two years "as far as something we don't know about — no threatening letters, phone calls, no suspicious characters — nothing of the kind."

We leave readers to their own reflections.

Or bid me turn to left or right
He didn't fling the curtains wide
To get a little extra light.
He didn't use a sturdy clamp
Set moments of my head should show,
He got me with a flashing lamp.
How different from the long ago!

"Now just one more!" I heard him say,
Since all photographers say that.
But I recalled a by-gone day
When for a family group we sat.
How hard that gallery owner tried

To get us all in focus then,
When I was at the mother's side
Where here we'll never pose again.

How quickly time and skill improve
What once took tedious care to do!
Now, camera men will let you move
And hold you still with gadgets new.
A snap! And the photographer
Said: "Very nice, and that is all."
How different when we sat with her—
The mother and the children small.

"I can't get any money out of you, so I just charge things and let them try!"

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON SUSPECTING

A suspicious person, through force of habit, doesn't make a very good friend. He is liable to disagree against dish he suspected. But even that fails to dampen his search, finding what he has suspected.

The worst part of all suspicion is that the imagined, or hoped for, may be confirmed, though it may be a false suspicion. How exciting to suspect good in a person, and find it! Most people are far finer in mind and heart than is ever suspected. How often we hear the remark that a certain person was never suspected of having the qualities of mind and character revealed upon a certain occasion.

Suspicious persons are an unhappy lot. On their expeditions they always return home with bad news. There are veins of gold in the human framework as real as those found in quartz mines. You just have to do a little digging as well as prospecting. It may have to be a patient process, but is almost sure to turn out thrillingly, for there may be a friend behind it all! And if that isn't worth prospecting for, I am at a loss to know what is.

The obituary columns are often starkly revealing. All the good things—all—are there, often come to the surface. He, or she, was a better person than ever was suspected! How much better, however, to have all this knowledge earlier.

I believe that all our faults and failures of character are easily more than balanced by the good in us, and that "other people" are quite the same in construction as any one of us—and perhaps far better. We ought to suspect that all persons we meet are important potentialities as human beings, and that to discover the good and inspiring in each is something like locating a bank of knowledge.

You can't locate a potential friend by first suspecting him. You have to open your spiritual eyes and look deep. You have to be a Christopher Columbus on a voyage of discovery bus on a voyage of discovery to the human heart!

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

QUIET DRIFTERS

Mentioned yelly fish here the other day. It was a real cliche. Those of us who drift with the tide of events, I said, are like jelly fish. It isn't a bad cliche, at that. Or is it?

Anyway, I have been thinking about this. I go fishing with an old goat named Joe. He is a born cynic. He thinks I owe jelly fish an apology. He has a very high opinion of jelly fish and a very low opinion of people. That's the way he is.

I have been getting pretty interested in jelly fish, myself. Joe and I do our fishing in the long channel between Salt Spring Island and Vancouver Island. This is the most beautiful place in the entire world. It is also good fishing. Yesterday morning we caught three cohoe and nine trout. We caught them using Tom Mack spoons, No. 4.

But about jelly fish. This channel is alive with jelly fish. It is a king of Times Square of jelly fish. There must be eleven million jelly fish. You can look right through the water which is very green and clear. Sometimes there are so many jelly fish it is a little frightening. You wonder if maybe the jelly fish isn't going to inherit the earth.

I said this to Joe yesterday. It was a fine early autumn morning. The sun had burned off the morning haze. We had a seven-pound cohoe by then and two fine trout. You would think a man would feel charitable at such a time, Not Joe. He just said that if the jelly fish inherited the earth it would be the best thing that ever happened. That's the way he is.

On A Course

Joe claims to know a great deal about jelly fish. Matter of fact, he claims to know a great deal about everything. He knows practically about them, myself, except that they are beautiful. Most everything in the sea is beautiful.

The ones we have here are like gelatin, tranaparent, and anywhere from the size of a five cent piece to your fist. They have long, silky feathery tentacles, and they set up quite a disturbance with the water maybe a foot or two under the surface.

You might not think it, but jelly fish are as graceful as a ballet dancer—oh, more than a ballet dancer—and when I fish, watching them undulate by under the boat, that they have a curious kind of dignity.

Joe has some surprising information about jelly fish. I don't believe much of it, but it is surprising.

He says it is true that the jelly fish gets along with the tide or the current, which accounts for the cliche. But, Joe says, the jelly fish knows what he is doing. He maintains his position! So Joe says the jelly fish isn't the victim of the tides or the currents. He is taking advantage of them! Joe says this is the big difference between jelly fish and the human race.

I have examined lots of jelly fish pretty closely. They get hooked on the gurdy sometimes. They seem pretty basic. A jelly fish is really just a mouth and a stomach as far as I can see.

The other day I brought one into the boat that had captured a bullhead. The poor little bullhead was paralyzed or dead. He was in the middle of the jelly fish. His big, sad eyes looked out from a prison of gelatin. The jelly fish itself has no expression.

Joe says that my reaction to the jelly fish is typical of human beings. He says we are surrounded by titanic, mysterious things and take them for granted. He says the jelly fish is a lot more complicated than it looks.

For one thing, it is probably the most dangerous thing in the ocean, explosive. Joe says there is a kind of capsule which detonates and kills anything that touches it. The jelly fish uses to grab his lunch. They are poisonous and they kill their prey. The jelly fish, like the human being, is a lot more dangerous than he looks.

As'a Group

Joe and I sometimes argue about jelly fish. There is such a thing as an individual jelly fish, I don't think so, Joe does. I say that the jelly fish is the whole bunch of people on a beach the jelly fish would wonder if they were individuals.

He says we don't have anything like that jelly fish. He says we don't have a nervous system and sense organs and—hey have a sex life. I don't know anything about that, he tells it, and I won't go into it right now.

He says the proof of the individual jelly fish is that sometimes they form colonies. They latch on to each other and form a chorus. One jelly fish looks after the catching and paralyzing of the prey, another takes care of the digestion. Another is in charge of locomotion. Another takes care of the jelly fish kind of love, which, come to think of it, is probably no more complicated than our own.

When we were coming in yesterday morning there were more jelly fish than I have ever seen. You could almost walk on them. They were that thick. They were heading for Ladysmith.

"There they go," Joe said, "just mindin' their own business, lettin' it take and wear. I tell you, if people acted more like jelly fish and less like people it'd be a happier world."

So that is the other side about jelly fish.

NOT SECURITY BUT SUPPORT

"Why has God sent this dreadful thing upon me?"

It is in this interrogation of despair that nine people out of ten meet their troubles, and there is a reason why this should be so. It does seem when trouble comes upon us that these things are taking place because of some evil or disaster. We seem to have so long accustomed ourselves to believe that trouble is something "sent to us" that we have failed to hear that great assurance of the word of God that just as often as not trouble comes not only upon the wicked, but upon the righteous also.

God does not send trouble upon human beings. He made a perfect world, and man by his sin has brought the hideous curse of pain. God is not responsible for this distortion of His purpose. It is true that at times God does send it upon human hearts to bless them. He never sends the trouble which men themselves have made and utilitizes it to a great end. Instead of inflicting us in our follies, His loving hand comes down and supports both us and the innocent that they may survive and pass through the deep water.

He never promised security in this world as a reward for the good we do, nor matter what happens to us, we can be confident that powers vatly beyond our own are being extended to us every minute of our lives.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Hotel page boys the world over have an unenviable job. With their little high piping voices, some of them have to keep cracking stage, at which time a page boy is just on the eve of becoming the world's greatest actor. They have to wander the hotel foyers, lounges, dining rooms and bars of the world's cavernsamirals loudly calling "Mister MacDonald," "Senor Rodriguez," "Monsieur Beauclaire" or such names as "Phoot-abeya—Tsingaling—Wong" in the hope of finding, if not a European and British hotels, because so far, in Canada, we have not got the displaced persons problems quite as badly as our elder civilizations.

At the London hotel in which I am at the moment incarcerated, the page boys come from somewhere east of Bow Bells. It would be hard to define their accent. They refer to me as something between Mr. Clawk and Mr. Clork.

And when they are called upon to pass on a message from Iraq, Senegambia, or all points east of Singapore, they add their imaginative touch. Bung! Please, Mr. Squidsquiz! Mr. Sawfy? Mr. Bung! Please, Mister Squawfy! Mistaw Bungtuff? Mistaw Feedenbug? Calling Mistaw Bungfaw! Calling Mistaw Bungfy, Mistaw Tuffensawff!"

But the poor boys retreat, heads unanswered, and wondering if they will ever be junior porters.

OLD DOCTOR A. J. COINCIDENCE

My husband had an ulcer. I sent for your booklet that recommended a diet and Vitamin B complex to supplement the diet. He swears by golly it helped him more than any treatment he ever had... for a year now he has been fine and he gives all the credit to you. (Mrs. A. R. F.)

Pergh (gastric, stomach, duodenal) ulcer seems to have perplods of relative freedom from distress alternating with periods of aggravation. Hence a good many remedies, diets and methods of treatment are good or no good, depending on what phase the patient happens to be in when they are used.

Thank you, Ma'am, for reporting. At any rate I can assure you the diet and the vitamin B do do no harm. For instructions send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask please for the booklet So You Have Indigestion? (Note to muttonheads: If you want to go on suffering without trouble to "indigestion", don't send for the booklet. It'll just make you mad.)

I believe you will be interested to hear beneficial effect a daily ration of vitamin A has had on my skin. Now forty years of my age I have been bothered in the last two years than ever before. I have itchiness and dandruff because, alligator hide...taking 25,000 units...(A daily I noticed no definite improvement until seven or five months. Then improvement began and my skin slowly but steadily got better. When I began taking vitamin A my skin was very rough and dry, veritable all over, with tiny raised pimples or spots on hands, forearms, elbows, knees, but after about sixteen months of vitamin A all of these areas were smaller and much less noticeable. Today I have little trouble concealing. Thank you very much. (Mrs. W. M.)

Answer—I pray God that he will heed this advice. He should feel in touch with me for another or next week, with the Alcoholics Anonymous group in your city. Telephone directory may have one or more groups listed. If your husband likes my articles he has confidence in my advice or any love for his wife should prompt him to write in God he will lose no time in attending a meeting of A. A. in your city. Ma'am we prayers join yours and the children's.

Ernest Brennan Describes Importance of Dairy Industry In Speech to Rotary Club

The dairy industry is "big business" in Canada, members of the Belleville Rotary Club were told Monday at their weekly luncheon meeting.

Guest speaker Ernest Brennan, of Kemptville, chief federal dairy grader for Ontario, told his listeners that the Canadian dairy industry was so important that it ranked third on the industrial list and that one person in six in the dominion was dependent on it for his livelihood.

Mr. Brennan cited the rapid growth of the industry following the turn of the century and emphasized its present importance on the Canadian economy.

He pointed out that the dairyman was still taking the short end of the financial stick. Cost of dairy products had increased less in proportion than had wages or the price of consumer goods manufactured in city factories. He urged that the farm point of view be considered when the price of dairy products was discussed.

Industry's History Long

Tracing the history of dairying in this country, Mr. Brennan noted the first domestic cattle were brought in by Champlain 300 years ago. The first cheese factory had been established in Oxford county in western Ontario in 1864 and two years later a cheese plant was erected in Lennox and Addington county. Creameries came into being later, he said.

But the industry had seen rapid expansion. In 1900 25 million pounds of cheese and 183 million pounds of cheese had been exported after domestic requirements were met.

Today the fluid milk market supplying milk to consumers absorbs roughly 25 per cent of the close to 16 billion pounds of milk produced annually in Canada. This market, together with farm consumption, takes close to 50 per cent of the milk.

Biggest branch of the dairy industry in terms of milk use was the creamery butter trade at 27 per cent in 1950. Still domestic butter requirements were not met.

Cheese Balance Wheel

The cheese factory, commonly known as the balance wheel of the dairy industry through its taking care of surplus milk, last year less than seven per cent of the milk produced. The importance of the cheese factory as the balance wheel of the industry was stressed by the speaker. This, he said, had been proven many times.

Other important branches of the dairy industry were the condensed milk and powdered milk plants and the ice cream market. Ice cream was no longer a luxury and production had been doubled in the past ten years with 23½ million gallons being made in Canada last year. This represented 2.6 or the available milk supply.

A high standard of quality had been largely responsible for Canada maintaining its place in the export market for dairy products. Government grading and regulations had been an important step in bringing this about.

Milk Production Down

With Canada's population increasing by over a quarter or a million persons annually, Mr. Brennan took a dim view of the country's decreased milk production, down a billion pounds since the wartime peak. The high price offered for dairy cattle was one of the reasons, these big prices tempting farmers to dispose of their herds. Over 70,000 dairy cattle had been exported last year, he said.

Considering production on a national scale, the point had been reached where the industry was now producing just enough milk to take care of domestic requirements.

Despite this fact, however, it was vitally important for the dairy industry to maintain its entry into the British market, where cheese was available for surplus cheese.

In closing, Mr. Brennan paid tribute to Mackenzie Robertson, proprietor of Belleville Creameries, who at his passing left matter in western Ontario had gone to the state of Utah to assume a high post as a dairy official. Later he had returned to Ontario to build and operate creameries in the Belleville district.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Robertson with club appreciation being expressed by Newton Thompson.

150,000 U.S. Troops to Stage War Manoeuvres

Stuttgart, Germany, Sept. 18—(Reuters)—More than 150,000 United States troops and airmen will stage large-scale war games early next month, using hundreds of new tanks and thousands of guns and vehicles.

The manoeuvres will be the biggest in Germany since the end of the Second World War. For the first time since the war, they will not be carried out with battle-worn Second World War equipment.

Nearly half the troops taking part in the exercise have arrived in Germany during the last three months.

Small British and French forces will also be participating.

The theme will be the familiar one of an "aggressor" from the east mounting a massive onslaught against friendly forces, whose job this time will be to contain the "enemy" while organizing a defence line on the Rhine.

The war games, which begin Oct. 1 and last 10 days, are expected to be the most realistic ever conducted by the American forces in Germany. Plans call for a wide use of blank ammunition, long manoeuvres and night movement.

More German and other foreigners will be employed than ever before, with the total expected to exceed 10,000. They will serve as drivers, cooks, mechanics, doctors, clerks and guards.

The role of the air force, to which the British and French air forces will contribute air, craft, emphasizes close support of ground troops and low-level strafing and bombing of enemy columns.

Australia Holds Vote Next Saturday On Outlawing Communist Party

Sydney, Sept. 18—(AP)—The Australian people will decide in a country-wide referendum next Saturday whether they want the Australian communist party outlawed.

They will be asked if they are in favor of having the constitution altered so as to give Prime Robert G. Menzies government power to ban the communists.

Australia has six state parliaments and a federal parliament which sits in Canberra.

The constitution vests certain powers with the state governments and others with the federal government, just as the Canadian constitution splits powers between the dominion and the provinces.

The last federal election, on April 28, 1951, re-elected the coalition government of Menzies' Liberal party and Sir Arthur Fadden's country party. First elected in 1949 on an anti-communist platform, it promised to dissolve the communist party and remove communist agents from executive posts in key unions.

Is Government Bill

The government introduced the Communist Party Dissolution Bill, which passed both federal houses and became law in October, 1950, but the Australian high court found last March that the federal parliament lacked the constitutional power to implement the measure.

Powers to do so are vested with the states. But the states, some of which have Labor governments, refused Menzies' request to "refer" their powers to the federal parliament.

In the event of a deadlock of this kind, the constitution provides the remedy of a referendum.

The government Liberal and Country parties are plugging the "yes" case.

The opposition Labor party led by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, is publicizing the "no" case.

The government argues:

"Communist activity in Australia has become a grave menace to industrial peace, to production, to national security, a friend of inflation and disorder and an enemy of defence.

Must Meet Conspiracy

"Unless Australia meets and defeats its conspiracy in the next year or two, Australians may be in a defensive war, inadequately prepared and with insufficient resources."

The opposition case says:

"The question is not whether you are against communism, but whether you approve of the government's referendum proposals which are unnecessary, unjust and totalitarian, and could threaten all minority groups."

WEDDINGS

GEEN—GREENWOOD

Holloway Street United Church decorated with ferns, baskets of gladioli, dahlias and other autumn flowers, was the setting for the lovely wedding ceremony on Saturday September 15, at 3 p.m., when Vera Eileen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Greenwood, of this city, became the bride of Donald Kenneth Geen, son of Mrs. Murney Geen, Thomasburg, and the late Mr. Geen.

Rev. S. E. Larman performed the ceremony.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Clifford Templer. Mr. Ronald Elmy, as guest soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin fashioned with bouffant skirt ending in a slight train and featuring a Queen Anne neckline and stand-up collar, the sleeves ending in points over the hands. She wore a fingertip veil over a satin half hat headdress with sprays of lilies-of-the-valley at each side and carried a cascade bouquet of red Bettertime roses. Her only ornament was a three-strand necklace of pearls.

Miss Joan Chumbley, as maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of pale aqua tafeta with a bonnet effect headdress and matching mitts. She carried a nosegay of yellow baby 'mums and Talisman roses. Joan is a cousin of the bride and her maid of honor as bridesmaid at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood.

Little Margaret Jane Chumbley and Helen Ann Smith, as flower girls, were floor-length dresses of mauve and yellow taffeta, respectively with matching bonnet effect headdresses and mitts and carried nosegays of baby 'mums and Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Ross Geen, of Thomasburg, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Harold Geen, Thomasburg, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Bruce Page, of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception for some ninety guests was held in the church parlors, where the bride's table was arranged with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Greenwood received her guests in a dress of copen blue lace and silk faille with navy and rose accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Geen in grey crepe with wine accessories and corsage of Talisman shade of Sweetheart roses.

Misses Doreen Bay, Lorna Ray, Margaret Stead, Joyce Townsend, all of Belleville, and Audrey Wellman, Ottawa, served at the reception wearing pastel gowns of yellow, mauve, blue, pink and green.

Rev. A. Poulter, of Wellington, a friend of long standing of the bride's family, proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, and Buffalo, the bride chose a navy gabardine suit with grey accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a rhinestone necklace, and to the best man, a lighter. The bride's gift to the bridegroom, a signet ring; to her maid of honor, pearls; to the flower girls, silver bracelets and the girls who served carrings. The gifts to the ushers were tie bars.

Out-of-town guests were present from Crookston, Harold, Hawley, Plainfield, Madoc, Thomasburg, Roslin, West Huntingdon, St. Catharines, Thomasburg, Trenton, Tweed, Ottawa and Wellington.

The bride and bridegroom will reside in Thomasburg.

DOMENICO—GUCHARDI

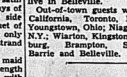
St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Allinston, was the scene of a very lovely wedding on Monday September 3, when Mary Frances youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Guchardi, of Allinston, became the bride of Samuel Philip Domenico, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Domenico, of Belleville. Rev. Father Keelor officiated. Attending also were Rev. Father Callaghan of Rockwood, and Rev. Father Hickey, of Toronto.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of imported French lace. It was fashioned with a yoke of tulle illusion, outlined with seed pearls and of crystal sequins; a fitted bodice and hoop skirt extending in a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade of white orchids, baby 'mums and stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Don Doner, of Trenton, as matron of honor, wearing a strapless gown with matching bolero of paddy green nylon net over taffeta.

Bridesmaids were Mary Fatella, Tillsonburg, cousin of the bride, and Mary and Pat Domenico, Belleville, sisters of the bridegroom, wearing gowns of tangerine nylon net over taffeta. All carried baskets of roses, gladioli and stephanotis with matching flower headdresses.

The flower girls were Mary Ellen McCarroll, and Rosemary Caruso, nieces of the bride, wearing yellow taffeta with flower headdresses and carrying miniature baskets of roses.



The best man was Vincent Fatella, of Kingston, cousin of the bridegroom; Tony Guchardi, of Shelburne, and Leonard Guchardi, of Allinston, brothers of the bride, and Francis Morrell, of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The wedding music was played by Miss Mary Bricco, of Allinston, and soloist, Miss Maria Caruso, of Brampton, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother received wearing a dress of ladylove crepe and lace with mauve accessories and a corsage of orchids. The groom's mother assisted wearing blue crepe and lace with black accessories and corsage of orchids.

The bride and groom left on a motor trip to Quebec, the bride wearing a rust dress with gold shortie coat and brown velvet accessories and a corsage of green orchids. On their return they will live in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from California, Toronto, Hamilton, Youngstown, Ohio; Niagara Falls, N.Y., Wiarton, Kingston, Tillsonburg, Brampton, Shelburne, Barrie and Belleville.

White or pastel veils need frequent washing. Rinse through warm soapsuds, rinse well, and starch by dipping in a thin solution of sugar water. Roll in a towel to absorb moisture, then press with a warm iron or leave.

Bay of Quinte Branch W.M.S. Holds Leaders' School at Whitby

Among the lovely and convenient surroundings of the Ontario Ladies' College at Whitby, Ontario the 13th session of the Bay of Quinte conference branch school for leaders convened recently. The friendly atmosphere welcomed more than 120 delegates who came to study and to worship, and to learn more of the great work of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada.

Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, of Peterborough, was again dean of the school and under her capable direction, and that of her committee, Mrs. Carscallen, of Whitby; Mrs. White and Mrs. McKinney, of Brooklin, and Miss Cora Wagar, an excellent staff had been chosen and much thought gone into the preparation of the programs.

Capable Staff

This year the staff consisted of the following—Miss F. McNair, chairman of Literature Committee of Dominion Board, who each day introduced in many various manners, the new auxiliary book—"From Lakes to Northern Lights", by Rev. Malcolm C. McDonald. A great deal of help was given these leaders of smaller groups to take back to their auxiliaries by Miss McNair, and her attendance was much appreciated.

Mrs. D. B. P. Davidson, Mission Circle secretary of the branch, had charge of the group interested in this particular field; Mrs. A. E. Blair, C.G.I.T. secretary, carried on the work with the C.G.I.T. leaders and the girls present at the school. They will take back with them much good work and inspiration well worth while. Mrs. Haywood, secretary of Mission Bands, was in charge of that group. Much valuable help was given to these junior secretaries by Miss O. Sparling, secretary for young groups of Dominion Board. Mrs. Hewlin was in charge of the Baby Band groups. It was a special privilege indeed for the school to sit in each morning and listen to the devotional hour under the direction of Mrs. G. Watts, Christian Stewardship secretary of Dominion Board. Mrs. Watts in a convincing and charming manner brought attention to the obligation of being living Witnesses—basing the four programs on the book "Living Witness to the Living Faith"—published by the joint boards of Social Service and Evangelism.

Drawing attention to the globe in the front of the leaflet through which there stands a cross, she asked, "There is no witness in life without a cross—no religion worth while without the cross. Was witness worth while unless "Work out your own salvation, for it is God which worketh in you" could be true? Was your Christ supplies power to our lives when we are willing to put His Way, before our own".

Good Reading a Necessity

Daily Book News was given by Mrs. C. R. Carscallen which intensified the need of good reading to supplement "Mission Studies". In the literature department of the school, she said, "we are not selling books but selling Missions." Some of the books on Canada suggested were —"Canadian Mosaic," "Canadian Unity" and "Canada Century." Mrs. Carscallen also reviewed the book "Forward Through the Ages" by Basil Matthews, covering the expansion of Christianity for 19 and one half centuries.

Mrs. E. Snelgrove, Christian group leader gave a great deal to think of with her panel discussion of "Citizenship Problems of Our Day". This discussion covered the problems of the "New Canadian," "Sabbath Observance," "Gambling", "The Liquor Problem" and was so well worked out that the students were anxious to get copies for use. These were made available by Mrs. Snelgrove. The one hope is the return of so-called Christian citizens to Jesus Christ. "We need to be new creatures in Him." "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it." "Except the Lord build a city the watchman waiteth no purpose."

The service of praise was conducted each morning by Mrs. Seymour, and hymns were sung with reverence and consecration as the day started. Mrs. Seymour also had charge of the "Get - Acquainted Night's" program. It is the "people" side the scene work of Mission leaders that helps to round out a successful school.

Study Books

The study books for the year were as follows: "From Lakes to Northern Lights" by Dr. Malcolm C. McDonald—with this study book goes "Home Missions Digest"—a must for all auxiliary members, and "How to Use" outlining six programs. The Mission Circles will use also, "Home Missions Digest". "The Splendor Dawns" by Rev. W. H. Pike will be the study book of the C.G.I.T. groups,—containing many stories gathered from the experiences of the writer after 40 years of Missionary service.

Miss O. Sparling, who with her pictures of the work of Dr. Lester Burry of Labrador, and her showing of the film on the "Training School for Leaders" and her assistance with the junior groups was a great help to the school. Miss Eadie, who has written a book called "This We Do" used as guide for the leaders of the C.G.I.T. Post and Mission Bands and Explorer groups, "The Twins Make Friends" by Isabel McFadden, and "The Junior Leaders Guide", also by Miss McFadden. Miss Hewlin, Mission Bands—"The Three Henrys" and Mrs. Hornicle", by Edith J. Agnew.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She wants to leave her husband? ... Let dads tell!

It's funny how many of the old sayings seem to sum up a situation expressively and more briefly than anything else we can think of.

The first thing that come to my mind as I read the letter I am going to quote was: "Out of the frying pan, into the fire", which seems to me just about what would happen if the writer of the letter actually did what she is thinking of doing.

Here is the letter:

"I know you will call me silly or plain no good," this 40-year-old wife writes, "but whichever it is, I can't seem to help myself.

"To start with, I have a very good husband, but I have found out that he has stepped out on me. We don't have any children, and he makes very good money and buys me almost anything I want.

"About six months ago, we were out on a party and I met a man a year older than myself. I don't exactly know why, but we fell for each other very hard. I believe he really loves me, and I know I love him. I have gotten away from him thinking that perhaps I'd didn't see him. I would forget him, but every day I seem to miss him more.

"He has a wife and seven children, but I understand he and his wife were steady having trouble before I met him, and she was already planning to get a divorce. He wants me to get a divorce and marry him after his wife divorces him, but I'm afraid I would never feel that I had done the right thing if I did that. Besides, he drinks a lot, and I am afraid he would never save any money to live on.

"I love my husband and try to help him in every way I can, but I know this man in a different way. I guess you will say I am crazy, but whatever you say, I am hoping it will help me coming from someone else."

Confused Person

For this woman's comfort, let me tell her at once that I do not think she is either "crazy," "silly", or "plain no good". What I do think is that she is very troubled and confused person as a result of the unfaithfulness of the husband she really loves and with whom I believe, she really wants to stay. Certainly she is not going to get out of her trouble and confusion by walking directly into another bad situation, which as I was saying, would merely be jumping out of the frying pan, into the fire."

On the one hand, there is her husband's unfaithfulness to her. Yet heartbreaking and difficult as that is, she says that he is "a very good husband" in many ways, and that being so, it is not at all impossible that he will eventually wake up to, and be ashamed of, the fact that he is being a poor husband in a very important way.

On the other hand, being ripe for something that would comfort and divert her, she has fallen, or thinks she has, for a man who had already failed at one marriage, very probably because of the drinking she mentions. Also, there may well be other reasons why his wife wants a divorce which as she knows nothing about but, if she were to marry him, might learn to her sorrow when it was too late. It is more that doubtful that she would find happiness by leaving her husband for him; it is practically certain that she would not, especially since, on top of everything else, she admits she would feel she had not done the right thing.

As I see it, unhappy though she may be right now, this wife would choose the lesser evil if she stays with her husband, for a while longer anyhow. It would be very helpful if she could go to someone—doctor, minister, priest or some other wise person she trusts and with whom she could discuss her problem frankly and get practical advice. If she doesn't know of anyone to whom she can turn, I will be glad to suggest someone near her if she will write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Planning your wardrobe

This is the season of the year when the clothes you are wearing are no longer exciting. You are filled with an urge to turn forth and get into the battle of the shoppers so that you can add that touch of new loot that will make you feel younger and look better. Just how much fun it depends to a considerable extent upon how she looks.

If you are about to go on a buying binge do a little heavy thinking before you set out on a sartorial project. It is well worth while to look over fashion magazines, read the reports from Paris—which is again the fashion centre of the world—and to observe the offerings in the windows of the high-class shops. You will then have a general idea as to what dress designers and milliners have been up to.

Do your shopping in the early hours, when you feel rested, when the clerks aren't so busy and before the rush of the day has started. Spending money should be a serious business these days. You don't want to make any mistakes. You must not follow the hit-and-miss system, selecting a frock because you like it, a hat—likewise a purse too, then to find that they have no relationship to each other.

If you are in need of a new coat, that should be the first purchase. You can build around it, getting frocks and hats that will be in color agreement.

There are a number of matters to be taken into consideration besides color and line. Is the material interesting; the kind of fabric which you will not grow tired? Is the model suitable for such occasions as you will wear it? Does it belong to your type? Will it flatter your face and your figure? If not, it is not for you. If you have the slightest doubt, trail along to another shop, see what offerings are there.

A chic and lovely costume is not only pleasing in itself but it enhances the attractiveness of the wearer. It must not be so conspicuous as to overshadow the wearer. After all, a woman should be more interesting than her clothes.

Simple designs are always safer. The lady of fashion never overdresses as that practice may lead to dowdiness. Too much fluff and fuss is fatal except perhaps in the glamorous formal designed for the grand event.

Learning what to wear and what not to wear by the trial-and-error method is not only expensive but it means that a woman is never really well-dressed. Good taste means more than money. It is the directing force.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Shall they announce their engagement before he goes to war?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Don and I have been engaged since early April, and we haven't announced it publicly yet. The reason we haven't is that, when we became engaged, we planned to announce our engagement in May and to be married in July. But suddenly we were informed that Don probably will be shipped overseas. So we decided to postpone our marriage until next summer, until circumstances may be (we hope!) less uncertain. What I want to know is: when should I announce my engagement? That is, would it be proper to announce it now and announce that the wedding will take place next June, or would it be wiser to remain engaged without announcing it until next spring? I understand that three months is the usual period of time between engagement announcement and wedding.

Puzzled.

You and your fiance should be influenced as to when to announce your engagement only by your own preferences and by what seems the wisest and most desirable thing to do under the circumstances that must be taken under consideration. It would be desirable and elevated way to talk it over first with your parents and his parents, with your worldly experience and judgment should undoubtedly contribute a helpful viewpoint. Then you can talk it over, too, with your minister. But don't pay any attention to what is "supposed" to be the period of time between the announcement-of-the-engagement and the marriage. Naturally there is no hard-and-fast rule about this—wouldn't be considn't be—and most particularly in these days when Service problems and, unfortunately, be faced and planned for. So announce your engagement now, if your wish and the circumstances suggest this, making no announcement as to when the marriage is to take place. Or, if you can't make up your mind as to what is the wise thing is now, wait for several months—even if your fiance is going overseas—and announce it then. Or, if it seems best, wait until he returns and then announce it in a conventional way.

Her tenant told her the news at wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young woman who rents a store building from me was married a few weeks ago. Three days before her wedding she sent me word that she was to be married, but she did not invite me to her church wedding or to the reception. Now I am wondering if I should have sent her a wedding present. It seems to me that it is "against human nature" to give a wedding present if you are not invited to the wedding, but why should she let me know in the first place?

E. G. H.

I think it was very polite and thoughtful of your tenant to tell you her Happy News . . and since she waited until so short a time before the date of the wedding it would certainly seem that she had no "ulterior motive" that is the suggestion of your giving her a wedding present. She was I feel quite sure, simply and quite naturally, hoping for your friendly interest in her romantic news, if she wanted to tell you how self; not have you come upon the news unexpectedly and in a round about way. No need at all for you to give her a wedding present.

Fashion Flashes

LOTS OF BLUE in such shades as deep Mediterranean, royal and a rich medium blue called Biarritz—appears in many millinery showings. Biarritz blue velours makes a snug profile cap, richly trimmed with intricate motifs of gold bouillion.

DESPITE THE convenience of separates, how nice it is to see the real one-piece dress of elegance again! Rich black silk satin is used for a charming design, the skirt having a box-pleat panel in front and peg-top draped hips. Deep winged points flank the sides of the deep neckline and are finished with rhinestone-studded buttons.

A NEW ENTRY into the important domain of small furs is sheared beaver. This beautiful fur is smartly used in a short cape-jacket with a rolling collared, cuffed sleeved look in front. It is very loose and full in back to show off the stripes which fan out into the sleeve effect.

AN ECONOMICAL luxury is the fine lace blouse, the perfect companion to a theatre or afternoon suit. With a velvet or satin skirt, it is a complete afterdark costume on its own. Imported Alencon lace is used for a beauty of a blouse with a rhinestone "necklace" which helps give a dropped shoulder line to the long sleeves. Tiny rhinestones are spattered all over for added sparkle.

THE VELVET TOUCH is less strong, while that of satin continues to grow. While there are some satin dresses and suits, the favorite use of this bright fabric is for trimming and for accessories. Pull satin makes a tailored handbag with accordion gussets and an intricate metal lock closure. Bag is lined with bright black satin.

YEAR ROUND smartness is now the happy lot of the good fabric glove. A durable wire-cotton glove for fall has jet beading used in a heavy zig-zag pattern that follows the wrist seams. Pull satin makes a tailored handbag with accordion gussets and an intricate metal lock closure. Bag is lined with bright black satin.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

The biggest grapes are from Belgium. For years Belgium hot house grapes have been the largest, most expensive and handsomest in the world. It would be hard to surpass the bunch of grapes weighing 39 pounds grown in Belgium.

Unfortunately these grape lovelies do not possess too many useful features. Their flavor is rather nondescript, the skin is leathery and they cannot be made into exciting wine.

For summer eating Thompson seedless grapes are hard to beat. The skin of these white olive-shaped berries is tender and the meat is sweet, refreshing and never boring. They are luscious in fruit cups, salads and tarts.

A tart is simply a pie dough baked in a small individual fluted shell. The shell is filled with a cream filling (packaged pudding) and topped with fruit. Use apricot jam melted or beaten to give the fruit a shiny glaze.

Grape Tarts

2 1-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
3-4 cup shortening (room temperature)
6 to 8 tablespoons cold water
1 package vanilla pudding
1 3-4 cups milk
1 lb. seedless grapes
1-3 cup apricot jam

Measure the sifted flour. Sift again with the salt. Cut in the shortening until particles of shortening are the size of peas. Gradually add water, stirring lightly until dough holds together in one mass. Use only as much water as is necessary to form the dough.

Roll dough out 1-8 inch thick. Cut dough into small rounds to fit individual tart shells or the outside sections of a large muffin pan. Fit dough into shells. Trim edges.

Pierce each tart with a fork three or four times. Bake in a preheated oven, 425 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes or until light brown. If dough blisters during baking, pierce with a fork.

Remove from oven. When cool enough to handle, remove pastry from shells.

Mix the pudding with the milk. Cook over a moderate flame, stirring frequently, until thick. Remove pudding from flame. Cool slightly. Pour into tart shells.

Remove grapes from stem. Wash. Beat jam until smooth. Chop jam fruit with a knife if necessary. Mix grapes with jam. Pile grapes on top pudding in tart shells. Serve very cold.

PIMPLES? TAKE TINOXID

"Headache?..take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a free soluble acid and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives fast relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Orangemen Back Hope Report, Bateman Says

Bancroft — "The Orange lodge is 100 per cent. in support of the Hope report," stated Fred Bateman of Stirling, grand master of the Ontario Lodge for Ontario East, at an open meeting of the lodges of North Hastings and the general public in Bancroft's Canadian Legion Hall.

"The commission headed by Mr. Justice Andrew Hope consisted of a panel of experts, carefully selected and representative of the people of Ontario. It worked diligently for five years, interviewed educationists in all parts of the province, visited other countries to study their school systems and its findings should be enacted as legislation by our provincial government", continued Mr. Bateman.

The speaker was optimistic regarding the probability of the implementation of the Hope report and a return to the principles of the School Act of Ontario East of 1863, when no privileges were granted to any faction. He stated that the Orange Lodge was only one of the many organizations that concurred in this belief.

"Newfoundland, our newest and oldest province, is a shining example of loyalty to the empire and the Union Jack," said John Corrigan of Cornwall, past grand master of the Ontario Lodge for Ontario East.

Praises Smallwood

He was unstinting of his praise of Premier Joseph Smallwood's attitude in stating that no flag but the Union Jack would fly in Newfoundland. "The people of this historic island province are as proud of our flag as our neighbors to the south are of the Stars and Stripes and proudly display it at all times—an example that should be followed by the people of Ontario," he stated.

Both speakers stressed that the Orange Lodge was one of the most important bulwarks against socialism and communism and an important member of a triumvirate that included the churches and church societies.

Mrs. Corrigan and Mrs. Bateman brought greetings to the women. Mrs. Corrigan gave a talk on the history of the Union Jack, tracing its connections to the Old Testament.

Joint chairmen for the meeting were T. W. Tryon and Howard Tanner. In charge of the general program arrangements was a committee headed by S. R. Walker and F. A. Brethour.

A social hour, with refreshments provided by the women of the L.O.B.A. completed the evening.

This mammoth production is being presented by Jules Levey with Michele Morgan, Henri Vidal and Michel Simon in top roles. The picture opens on Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre through United Artists release.

Say Dobblestein Fled Crash Scene

Bancroft—The provincial police detachment had its second investigation in one day when the car that side-swiped Stanley Dwire's vehicle failed to remain at the scene of the accident on Hastings Street south of Bierworth's Garage Saturday.

While Constable Lloyd stayed with Dwire's vehicle Corporal Grayling and Constable Hawkins quickly covered the streets of the village to find the other car that had been involved in the sideswipe.

It was located on one of the main streets and Elmer Dobblestein of Cobawa and Centerview was charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

G.L. Knapp Netted As Joyrider

Bancroft—At 2.30 a.m. on Saturday morning a phone call from Maynoth advised Corporal A. F. Grayling of the provincial police that the car of Franklin Douglas of Maynooth had disappeared from the old Orange Hall.

Corporal Grayling discovered the car in front of the house where George Lloyd Knapp of Algonquin, a highway construction worker, was boarding. The car bore evidences of having been in an accident. Questioning brought out that the car had gone into a rock pile near the highway, about a mile north of Maynooth. Damages were estimated at approximately $300.

Knapp was arrested and charged with joyriding and failure to report an accident.

CAMPBELLFORD

Pair Warned About Breaking Light Bulbs

Campbellford — Officials from three departments turned out Saturday afternoon in answer to a complaint by a Saskatoon Avenue resident that two juveniles were breaking electric light bulbs with an air rifle. Chief George H. Hardy investigated, as did a couple of firemen and even a crew from the public utilities commission. Chief Hardy sent the lads home with a warning.

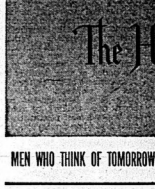
Truck Badly Damaged

Campbellford — Head injuries, shock and bruises were suffered by Mrs. Percy Windover of Norham on Saturday night, when the car she was driving was in collision with another at Bradley's Corners, seven miles south of Campbellford.

Mrs. Windover was proceeding east, and had entered the intersection of county road and the highway when she was struck by a south-bound panel truck driven by Robert Clark, 123 Collier St., Toronto. The front of the truck was badly damaged, as was the left side of the Windover auto. The two occupants of the truck were not injured. Provincial Constable George Rose of Campbellford investigated.

Frank Brown Fined for Theft Of Scrap Iron

Campbellford — Frank Brown, Campbellford scrap metal dealer, was given one week to pay $100 and costs by Magistrate R. T. Baxter, when he appeared on a charge of theft. Brown was convicted of the theft of two wheels weighing 1,200 pounds from a steam engine on a farm near Hastings. The wheels were the property of Michael Fitzpatrick, Hastings.



Crown Attorney Harry. R. Deyman stated that if the fine were to be reduced to the value of the wheels as scrap, that it would merely be a license to commit theft. "The price of scrap metal is so high today that these thefts must be stopped," said Mr. Deyman.

Complicated Affair

The story of the theft was a complicated affair. The deal took place in a Hastings beverage room. Edward Fitzpatrick, brother of Michael Fitzpatrick, had been talking to Brown in the hotel, and Brown's defence was that Edward had given him permission to take the wheels. He took them in daylight, while accompanied by his partner, J. P. Kozak of Montreal. Fitzpatrick denied that Brown had received permission to take the wheels. The wheels were noticed to be missing on August 5, when the owner visited the farm. He found the wheels had been sold to a scrap metal dealer in Trenton. Further investigation resulted in charges being laid by Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine of Campbellford.

PICTON

20,000 Persons Attend Fair In Three Days

Picton—Prince Edward County Fair, more familiarly known as "Picton Fair, closed its three day annual show, Saturday night with more than 20,000 persons having passed through the turnstiles. The Fair was voted one of the best in many years, with a record number of entries, 423 individual exhibitors showing 1,641 exhibits, and a great variety of entertainment.

The first day, Children's and Junior Farmers' day was opened with a colorful parade of school children, Trenton Lions' Band, horses, ponies, pets, a Junior Farmer float, and 63 decorated bicycles. The Fair was officially opened by F. A. Lashley, superintendent of Ontario Fall Fairs, who highly complimented the board on the splendid showing. Warden Harry Coulter, of Hastings County, Warden James Cleminson, of Prince Edward, George Tustin, M.P., Donald Baxter, M.P.P., and Mayor H. J. McFarland, also took part. President E. W. Henderson presided. Pet Parade

A pet parade saw a variety of entries, including a skunk (deodorized) and a fox. The beautiful child contest saw 65 children between the ages of three and eight years take part. Winner in the boys' class was Barry Bervan, son of RSM. R. E. Bervan, RCAF, and Mrs. Bervan, Picton, while the girls' class was won by Lois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Franklin, Picton.

There were 43 calves from Hillier, Ameliasburg, and Picton Calf Clubs taking part in a competition.

While the first day saw perfect weather prevailing, the second was somewhat marred when rain fell during the night and made the track a sea of mud. Races were cancelled at the last minute. The crowd was entertained with a horse show and a western show by the Rhythm Ranch Riders of Belleville, and concerts by the Havelock Pipe Band.

Three Horse Races

Saturday was highlighted by three horse races which were the best seen here in years, 24 horses being entered. The light horse driver was outstanding, with a special attraction being Hackneys owned by Lance Rumble, Toronto, a former Pictonian. His entry shown in special class, included a tandem-driven team, these being North American Reserve champions in this class last year and champions at the recent C.N.E. Other champion Hackneys were shown single and in teams.

The Black and White show saw a record number of 114 Holsteins entered and for the first time there were two herds of Guernseys in the barns.

The entry of horses was so great that 24 were sent home after being judged the first day in order to make accommodation available. Stalls in nearby barns were also used.

The swine entry was especially good, being highlighted by the pair of hogs shown by 12 members of the Swine Club.

The building devoted to fruit, vegetables, grains and seeds, was a riot of color which was enhanced by the lavish use of evergreens. The cheese show saw all county factories with three entries each.

Prince Edward County schools filled a large space with art, woodwork, craft work, sewing and knitting, while large vegetables, odd shaped fruits and vegetables were included in the oddity show.

Model Airplanes Shown

Model airplanes took part in a flying competition Saturday afternoon. There was a large display of woodwork, art and photographs.

Some 400 baskets and vases of flowers filled a large tent to make a spectacular flower show. The home cooking department saw 96 pies, 76 cakes, and 128 other entries displayed. The ladies' work section displayed a variety of skill with the needle.

Prince Edward Junior Farmers took over a large section for a display of fruits and vegetables and grain club entries. They also had a special project in a display of tomatoes and potatoes, and erected a safety demonstration. A stencil cutting machine was operated steadily and was designed to encourage placing of names on mail boxes.

There were 546 entries in the poultry section, housed beneath the grandstand. The entry of pheasants and bantams and children's pets attracted much attention.

The night school classes displayed leather work and weaving. A display of stuffed and mounted birds by Harry Wamsley drew many spectators. Special displays included bread baked Ukrainian style; fancy embroidery by F. McCaw, of Montreal; a display of Dutch products; a collection of 500 match folder covers, and work done by the I.O.D.E.

A cooking school was held several times each day and there were overflow crowds for each, many fine prizes being given. Merchants had attractive displays and reports say many sales. About the grounds there were displays of cars and machinery and other products.

MARMORA

George S. White Gives Talk On 'The Trail of 98'

Marmora—As guest speaker at the September meeting of Marmora District Chamber of Commerce, George S. White, M.P., of Madoc, gave an interesting talk on Thursday evening on "A Trip Along the Trail of 98".

This trip extending six weeks, the speaker took recently with Mrs. White. His first gave some sketches of bus trips in the Rockies taken from Jasper and Banff. He described the beauty of the lakes, one of which was the scene-ario for a scene in "The Hills of Home", featuring the famous dog "Lassie".

Wonders of Yoho Valley

Next he touched upon the Yoho Valley and its wonders. He described the meeting place of the Yoho and Kicking Horse rivers. He was impressed with the Great Divide. When at Kamloops, the temperature was 100 and at Revelstoke 104.

The trip on the "Princess Kathleen" to Alaska on the Inside Passage, furnished material for interesting comment. "The towns of Alaska," said the speaker, "are built at the base of mountains. At Juneau, the world's largest mine is open at night when ship excursionists land. The city is named after Joe Juneau, who found the first gold of Alaska there."

Mr. White visited the federal building and the museum, being interested in the exhibit of early Eskimo relics in the latter place. He described the painting, "The Face on the Bar-room Floor".

Gleefer Ice

Treated to Free Rides

The midway attracted its quota and the Elks Lodge treated the children to free rides on the midway and free ice cream.

Each night a Shantymen's contest was presented in front of the grandstand. This amateur, but well presented show, attracted more than 2,500 people. Choruses, dances, a liars' contest, buckaroo contest, and novelty numbers received hearty applause. The Kansas Farmer was guest artist and added to the fun and enjoyment of the show, which was presented by 30 men under the direction of Phil Dodds, Fair secretary.

While complete financial returns are not yet available, directors of the Fair expect that there will be a handsome profit despite the increasing of prize money, which is expected to exceed $4,000.

This was the 50th annual Fair and plans are already being made to mark the centennial next year.

At a glacier nearby, ice has been penetrated to a depth of 9,500 feet without the bottom being reached. Ice from a glacier lasts three times as long as artificial ice, the speaker learned. Shagwey and Dead Horse Gulch, where it is estimated three thousand of those animals have fallen to their deaths, and an impersonation of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew", which Mr. White and his fellow tourists witnessed, were dealt with before the talk concluded. A model totem pole, such as is to be seen at Alert Bay, was displayed to the audience and its significance described.

R. E. Bonter introduced and D. B. Sanderson thanked the speaker.

Welcomes Members

President Alex. Fraser was in the chair and welcomed members back. He also introduced a new member, Ray Orr, manager at the Marmora Motors.

No report was forthcoming at this time of the Regatta held at Glen Allan Park. Attention was drawn to the amateur show, "Going Places", which is being presented at the town hall, September 19-20, under the direction of Miss Auld, with a cast of almost 100.

A committee was appointed to run the annual Hallowe'en Shall-out on October 31. Also it was decided to hold the Santa Claus parade on Dec. 15.

Provincial Highway

Rev. G. D. Young's suggestion that Ladies' Night be on October 11 and Farmers' Night be observed at the November meeting, received unanimous assent. The question of a provincial highway from Marmora to Coe Hill, an extension of the present No. 14 Highway from Belleville, was again aired.

A committee of the following, C. H. Rukard, R. E. Bonter, V. M. Lynch and I. McCoy, were empowered to look into the matter. Also the question of the building of low rental homes in Marmora received some consideration and discussion with nothing tangible resulting.

Two Tugboats Patrol Bay For Missing Men

Vancouver, Sept. 17 (CP)—Shades of the Nova Scotia rumrunners.

A bright moon shone down on Cowichan Bay in the small hours of Saturday. Two small fishing boats slipped into the bay on Vancouver Island's east coast, their running lights doused.

Quetly, 200 fathom of net was lowered. Before long, the three men on the two boats had 1,600 pounds of salmon and were about to haul in.

On shore, Fisheries Inspector A. A. Sherman clambered into his 14-foot patrol boat and shoved off to see what was going on in his prohibited fishing area.

Bedlam broke loose.

As Sherman started to board one of the boats, he was shoved rudely back into his own. A shotgun blast rang out over the still water.

Sherman, unhurt, shouted for help. William Barton and T. W. Spencer put out in Barton's boat. A fusilade of shots made them dive for the deck.

Three Mounties arrived. They hopped into Barton's boat and gave chase.

One of the poachers veered sharply and bore down on the pursuit craft, trying to cut her in two. Barton pulled hard over and avoided a collision.

The mounties opened upon the two fleeing boats but they made a clean getaway.

Fisheries patrol boats were ordered out immediately. The R.C.A.F. sent out planes to sweep Georgia Strait.

Yesterday the two boats—the Diana Lee and Sandra M—were found at nearby Steveston, 40 miles from Cowichan Bay, and seized. Arrested and charged with illegal fishing was William MacDonald, 38-year-old Steveston fisherman.

Police were still looking for the other two men today.

Vanishing Indians Slip Full Game; Bosox Win; Brooks Lead Cut To Four

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ALL TIED UP — TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

The Redmen snatched that one out of the fire after leading by a comfortable margin, but it was closer than your next breath. The pesky Leafs refused to say "uncle" after trailing seven runs and battled desperately away at the Redmen lead, whittling it down to a one-run margin and having the winning run on second base in the eighth, but sorry, no chicken cloud.

So tonight's the night. Games in Kingston and Brockville will settle who is to be the finalists of the two places the Brockville Memes gave the Smith's Falls Royals a beating last summer last night shellacking them 19-9 after absorbing a 16-5 setting on Saturday night. The Royals clash with Memes in Brockville in their seventh tilt and the Reds trek to Megaffin Stadium in their life-or-death tussle.

While the series time for both the Redmen and Leafs has been a move or less wacky one what with one team blowing its top one night and the other the next, the series doesn't need hasn't been much better. There has been some somewhat top-sided scores down there too, so the Leafs and Redmen needn't worry too much on that score. No matter who men needn't worry too much on that score. No matter who wins the eastern series, either team is capable of cutting its balloon airtit and indulging in capers that are far from good baseball.

League president Bob Nesbitt and his secretarial Man Friday, Harry "Tip" Radley were at the game here last night, but the official scribes were not impressed. Stillwell's rhubarb broke out in the ninth when Umpire Bill Reason, if is alleged, got mixed up in his counting. Maybe that's an old American custom.

So that's it. The chips are down tonight and both the Redmen and Leafs will be there to knock the other guy off the other. It should be a right nifty tilt and if both teams come up with the brand they have in heir systems, it should be anybody's battle.

GRIDDERS HAVE GRIPES, TOO!

Football coaches have their troubles too. Real, down-to-earth problems and additions. The universal type of being saddled with an inexperienced team when all the opposition is loaded with experienced seniors, and being plagued with injuries when your entire backfield is physical culture addicts who have a bad day when they feel tired after a three hour workout exclusive of five miles of practice running.

"Red" Tyrrell, coach of the scarlet-and-black-clad warriors at R.C.I. is currently beset with such a problem. He has a six-foot-six—inch lineman who weighs 225 pounds and he can't use him because he hasn't yet a pair of size 15 cleats and doesn't know when he can get a pair.

This unwholesome state of affairs is just one of the headaches he has to face this year. Aside from the fact that most of his senior backfield from last year is missing and that the returning senior lineman can be counted on the fingers of one hand, he has little to worry about. Unless of course you are of the type who worry about having thin linemen who are only slightly larger than a wraith-like backfield. And then you have only a handful all told. In the first two senior practices this week less than two dozen candidates have appeared. They ran through a light workout Wednesday afternoon, getting the feel of their equipment and shoving blocking assignments. A little downfield tackling and a turn around the campus completed the day's toil.

On the other hand the R.C.I. juniors are swamped with material. A veritable horde of boys, many of them big, beefy and fast, have appeared to vie for all positions. They appear is be in better physical condition than the seniors although they lack the latter's coordination and general know-how. However, a sketchy analysis of the football situation would indicate that the big school's chances for a football title rest with the juniors this season.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 18 (AP) — Wonder if Governor Frank Lausche's withdrawal as a candidate for the baseball commissionership means that the club owners have closed the Ohio governor off the list for Thursday's election or that he has learned he has a good future in politics? . . . Also wonder if it is significant that the U of Michigan football brochure arrived in an envelope stamped "second class mail?" Ohio State and Illinois, to name two, are strictly first class this season. . . . Dr. David F. Tracy, the hypnotist and hocus-pocus psychologist is coming out with a new book called "How to Sleep Without Pills." No doubt, the Browns and Rangers taught him that, too.

Drop 2-1 Decision to Yanks As Boston Dumps White Sox; Chicago Cubs Halt Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cleveland's vanishing Indians are rid of New York for the season but they may have left the pennant behind in the Yankee Stadium.

As they have done in all but one of their 11 games in the Yankees' home grounds, the Indians lost again yesterday. This time they dropped a galling 2-1 tussle that put them a full game behind the front-running New Yorkers as they faced the ragged Red Sox in Boston today.

It may be a case of out of the frying pan into the fire for the beleaguered tribe. Boston, winner of six of its last seven starts, and fresh from a 1-5 romp over Chicago White Sox, is only 1½ games behind Cleveland in the tense three-team American League race. Another Red Sox-Indians clash follows tomorrow.

It was Phil Rizzuto who beat the Indians yesterday with the shortest of hits. The winning blow —a deft squeeze bunt that didn't even travel 30 feet—scored Eddie Lopat who brought in Joe DiMaggio with the payoff run.

It came in the last of the ninth after Cleveland manager Al Lopez had ordered pitcher Early Wynn to walk Bobby Brown on purpose with runners on first and third and one out.

Lopat Wins 20th

The victory went to Eddie Lopat who squelched the Indians with three hits to retain the 20-win mark for the first time in his career. The only Cleveland rally came in the ninth on a fielding error to pave the way for the Indians' unearned run. An infield out followed by Bobby Avila's single brought the run across.

A 13-hit Red Sox attack, featured by the clubbing of Ted Williams and Clyde Vollmer, gave Ray Scarborough his 12th victory. Williams had a perfect day at bat with two singles, a double and his 30th homer in four official times at bat. Vollmer banged in five runs with two singles and his 22nd homer.

Lose Campanella

Brooklyn Dodgers not only had their National League lead cut to four games over New York Giants as they bowed to the Cubs, 5-3 in Chicago, but lost the services of Roy Campanella for at least two days.

Brooklyn's star catcher was laid low by a pitched ball which struck him on the left ear and sent him to hospital. The pitch, delivered by Turk Lown in the second inning, knocked Campanella unconscious. X-rays taken later revealed no fracture but Roy was held overnight for observation.

The Dodgers gave Don Newcombe a 3-0 lead over the first six innings but the righthander wilted in the seventh. Two-run homers by Hank Sauer and pinch-hitter Gene Hermanski turned the tide.

Tommy Brown hit his ninth homer of the season in the 10th inning to give Robin Roberts his 20th victory and the Philadelphia Phils a 2-1 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals.

All other teams enjoyed an off day.

CNR Edges Squires To Even Series

In the second game of three out of five series for the Belleville and District juvenile championship C.N.R. defeated Columbian Squires by a four-three margin tying the series one all.

Cornell on the mound for C.N.R. was relieved in the third by Haslip who collected a total of eight strikeouts and held them scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Trailing by three to nothing at the top of the fifth, C.N.R. gathered two runs in the fifth, one in the sixth tying the score three all.

With two innings of overtime the winning run was scored on a homer by Nickle.

Campanella Hit By 'Bean' Ball, Condition Fair

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Sept. 18—(AP)—Just before the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers took the field yesterday for their season finale against Chicago Cubs, husky Roy Campanella, frisky as a colt, chortled:

"Don't worry about those New York Giants catching us—we're really seven games ahead of them. Those seven more they lost than we have are gone forever." Actually, the Brooks now lead by four games.

Today, Campanella—rated as perhaps the best catcher in baseball—was resting in a Chicago hospital after an accidental beaning by the Cubs' Turk Lown. The Dodger star was through they also had received a collective blackjacking. Roy's condition was announced fair, but when he will return to the Brooklyn lineup is anyone's guess.

Without Campanella, the Dodgers, who play the Cardinals at St. Louis tonight, conceivably could back away from the National League pennant which the Giants alone believe they, themselves, might somehow miraculously snatch.

Absence Felt

The husky Negro's absence was felt immediately yesterday as the Dodgers blew a 3-0 lead and lost to the Cubs, 5-3. Don Newcombe, who had whipped the Cubs four times previously this season without defeat, apparently missed the behind-the-plate generalship of Campanella, who was felled in the second inning.

The doctor at Illinois Masonic Hospital had a tough time convincing Campanella he got a seven-knock on the noggin.

"He's so impulsive we think he'll be in the hospital only overnight," the hospital superintendent, William Tenny, said yesterday.

A preliminary X-rays failed to disclose any fracture, but Campanella remained in bed with 31 home runs, had bleeding from his ear as well as lacerations on the ear surface. He also had a swollen left jaw.

Campanella had worn a protective flap built into the lining in his cap since he was hit in the head by a pitch thrown by Bill Werle of Pittsburgh two years ago. However, Lown's high inside pitch struck just below the cap.

Syracuse Chiefs Stop Royals 11-8

Montreal, Sept. 18 (CP) — Syracuse Chiefs called a halt to Montreal Royals' five-game playoff winning streak last night and tied their best-of-seven International League final series at a game apiece.

The Royals, who disposed of Buffalo Bisons in four straight games before beating Chiefs in the first game of the finals dropped an 11-8 decision before a crowd of 12,421 fans.

Montreal used four pitchers as the Chiefs outslugged them 19 to 12. Starter Mal Mallette was the loser.

Schwab's Peewees Honor Coach Willie Fordham

Ted Schwab's peewee baseball team paid signal tribute to its popular coach Willie Fordham, Redmen southpaw, at an informal "bun-feed" held at the home of County Registrar Bill Hurst, Church Street, last night.

WILLIE FORDHAM

Fordham, one of the best-liked minor coaches to arrive in this city, was the recipient of several personal gifts, tributes to his outstanding work with not only the Schwab team, but other boys organizations in the city.

Schwab captain Dick Hurst, on behalf of the team, presented Fordham with a handsome wallet "because of your great help to us and because you are a great coach. We hope you come back next year."

Co-captain Jack Elliott also made a presentation to Fordham as did sponsor Ted Schwab, and Addison Lloyd on behalf of associate members of the Stirlings and Prince Edward Regiment officers' mess.

Magnificent Job

Mr. Schwab spoke of magnificent job Fordham done with not only his team but others of the city, and expressed the wish he would be back. Tributes to the popular coach were also paid by Messrs. Lloyd, Hurst and Walter Bent.

The peewees enjoyed hot dogs "cokes" and ice cream prior to the presentations and later were presented with team pictures by their sponsor. They were taken to see the baseball game between the Redmen and Kingston following the get-together.

Fordham, who is leaving the city at the conclusion of the baseball season here will return to college and later take up teaching in Baltimore, Maryland.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit Tigers set a major-league record of at least one home run in 15 straight games, 11 years ago today. They ran it to 16 games before being halted by Cleveland Indians two days later. In the continuous barrage Hank Greenberg homered in 12 of the 16 games.

Toronto Leads In Soccer Finals

Montreal, Sept. 18 (CP) — Two goals by centre forward Jack Douglas in the second half Monday night gave Toronto Ulster a 2-1 victory over Vancouver, St. Andrew's in the Dominion Challenge Cup soccer final and left the Toronto team in a favored position.

The first game of the three-game series ended in a 1-1 draw at Vancouver on a rain tonight for the Ulstermen will give them the Dominion title.

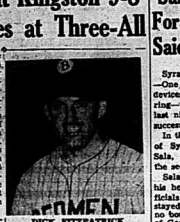
Redmen Defeat Kingston 9-8 To Even Series at Three-All



The Redmen defeated the Kingston Dixney Leafs by a 9-8 score here last night to even their COBI semi-finals series at three all and force the seventh and deciding game at Kingston tonight.

The winner will meet the winner of the Brockville-Smiths Falls series which is also deadlocked at three each with the seventh game played at Brockville tonight.

The Reds turned back the Leafs all right, but it was close, with the fans on edge until the last man was out when the Leafs after trailing by a 9-2 score in the fourth whittled away in pairs at the margin and had the tying run on base in the ninth.

Both sides used a trio of hurlers in a free-hitting game that saw 23 clouts bounce off the respective bludgeons with both the Leafs and Reds turning in good fielding efforts with the visitors drawing the odd error in three.

The Redmen with their backs to the wall spotted the Leafs two runs in the first inning but roared back in the second to pound out six clouts for as many runs. They added three more in the fourth and appeared to have the game on ice.

DICK FITZPATRICK

Whittled Lead

But the desperate Leafs drove Billy Strahan to the showers with one out in the sixth after they bounced eleven hits off him for six runs, whittling the Reds' margin to 9-8. "Cuffer" Noakes went to the rescue and struck out the two men on base for him in the inning, retired the side in the seventh but developed a wild streak in the eighth, walking four which coupled with a hit was good for a pair to make the count 9-8.

He fanned the first batter in the ninth and Fitzpatrick was rushed in to quell the disturbance. He proved the hero of the game when he caused Lenard to fly out to right; trapped Rank while stealing 2nd stuck to the bases loaded in the ninth.

Stone started for the Scrutton crew but a half dozen clouts headed by Vern Goyer's mighty home-run smash over the left centre-field fence, that were good for six runs sent him scuttling to the showers. Richards relieved him and gave up seven hits for three runs to the first of the ninth when Rank went in to retire the Reds handily.

Cuffer Gets Wild

The situation did not look healthy for the Redmen in the eighth when the "Cuff" suddenly developed a wild streak. He walked Lenard and Carnegie singles. Richards whiffed but McCormick and Gilmour strolled forcing in Lenard. White went out on a fielder's choice scoring McCormick and Hamilton drew the fourth walk again filling the bases. The Cuffer settled down for the knockout whiffed Milne to choke off the rally.

Goyer's mighty smash to left centre that cleared the fence by at least ten feet, together with a double and single for the Redleg fellow drove in four runs, and paced the Red attack. Harmon and Rank each drove out a double and single each with Fitz getting a pair, as did Strasahan. Gilmour and Munroe got singles.

Carnegie was the Leafs' big gun with a trio of singles. Scrutton hit a double and single and Rank got a pair of oners. Lenard got a double.

Munroe's fine running catch of Lenard's bid for a triple that took the fleet fielder clear to the fence was the fielding highlight of the game.

'Safety' Mat For Boxing Ring Said Success

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 18 (AP) —One of boxing's newest safety devices—a "safety" mat for the ring—was tried in a fight here last night and was acclaimed a success.

In the fight, Joey DeJohn, 161, of Syracuse knocked out Lee Sala, 160½, of Donora, Pa., in the second round.

Sala went down on his back, his head hitting the floor. Officials said Sala's head bit and stayed on the mat—no thud and no bounce such as took the life of George Flores recently.

They said the mat, made of a plastic combination, served as a shock absorber and probably saved Sala a serious injury.

Dr. Charles Mazziotti, acting chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission's Medical Board, said Sala's hard fall could have caused a serious head injury. He was quick to add that there was no way to tell if the mat had prevented it. However, he said, the mat had stopped Sala's head from "bouncing" often the cause of injury.

Use in Future Fights

H. B. Lauster, Deputy Commissioner of the Athletic Commission, said the mat appeared to be a fine cushioning for fighters as the conventional felt mat.

The consensus of officials was that the new mat would be required in future fights in the State.

The commission asked the Cornell laboratory at Buffalo about nine months ago to try to produce a mat safer than those currently in use. The laboratory tested about 20 combinations of materials—plastics, rubber, felt and fibers.

It finally settled on ensolite, produced by the U.S. Rubber Co., which in aviators' crash helmets. A representative said the plastic material was soft enough to provide a cushion, but sufficiently hard to give firm footing.

Waggoner Tops Big Four Scorers

Toronto, Sept. 18 (CP) — A newcomer to Canadian football stands at the top of the Big Four individual scoring list.

Hal Waggoner, fleet half from Tulane University, scored one touchdown for Hamilton Tiger-Cats Saturday to bring his total in four games to five touchdowns for 25 points.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press showed another Hamilton player, Tip Logan, in second place with 22 points on four touchdowns and 12 converts. Logan, born in the Ontario town of Port Erie, is the top native Canadian point-getter.

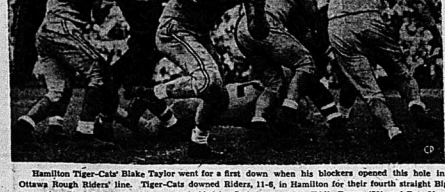
Johnny Chorostecki, last year's scoring champion in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series, threatens a repeat performance. The expert place-kicker of Sarnia Imperials, a native of the Sudbury district, has 19 points in three games on a touchdown, two field goals, two converts and six singles.

Howard French of Toronto Balmy Beach rnks second with 11 points in four games on a touchdown, five singles and a convert.

Three players are tied for third with 10 points apiece — George Watson, Ed Fisher and Bob Lee of Beaches and Corky Duchene of Sarnia, Watson, who has played in only two games, has a touchdown and five converts. The other three have two touchdowns apiece.

'Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)



Coach Dick Irvin looked over more than three score hockey players Monday at Montreal Canadiens' opening training session and smiled happily.

"Lots of big, young fellows out there; good players, too," he said. "Never saw so many big boys at the camp. It's tough that the new rule allows us to dress only 15 and a goaltender this season instead of 17 as before."

The count showed 61 in action, the big squad working out in relays on the Montreal Forum ice. Three more players will report. Among them are Butch Bouchard, towering defenceman, who has been out of town and will report today.

Playing coach Johnny O'Flaherty Monday night announced the names of three more players signed by Saint John Beavers in the Maritime Major Hockey League.

The three, who played for Toronto St. Michael's Majors last season and were formerly with Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast League, are centre Johnny Ubriaco, right winger Bill McCracken and left winger Ed Mulligan.

GOOD BLOCKING

Hamilton Tiger-Cats' Blake Taylor went for a first down when his blockers opened this hole in Ottawa Rough Riders' line. Tiger-Cats downed Riders, 11-6, in Hamilton for their fourth straight Big Four win. Blocking on the play was provided by Jack Rogers (24), Eddie Bevan (31) and Pete Neumann (31). — (CP Photo.)

ALS SHADED SCULLERS 8-6 TO TALLY FIRST WIN OF SEASON

Football became fun for Montreal Alouettes for the first time this season on Saturday afternoon in Toronto. For there, Lew Hayman's larks slipped across their first win of the Big Four season before 18,200 football fans. Net result of these shenanigans left Frank Clair's defending champs with their third straight loss and no better than a tie for bottom place with Montreal. It was a disjointed, loose leaf type of game which saw only a few outstanding plays, including the one where Doug Fyzer, right, ran for 65 yards for Argo's onl ytouchdown. One of shining lights in Montreal's galaxy of stars was Rod Pantages, left, who helped carry bulk of the heavy work up front besides kicking two singles. — Central Press Canadian.

Says Hall Prince Back in Form

New York, Sept. 18 (AP) — Hall Prince, the American champion race horse of 1950, is apparently his old self again, trainer Sasey Hayes said today. If that is true, the other horses around here might just as well save their marbles by picking up and going home.

Obviously elated over the performance of Chris Chenery's handsome big bay colt in his race Saturday at Aqueduct, Hayes said Hill Prince is ready to take on all comers this fall after being sidelined more than eight months with a leg injury.

"Our present objectives are the New York and Manhattan Handicaps and the Jockey Club Gold Cup," said Casey.

These three major races come on successive Saturdays at Belmont Park. The New York Handicap at a mile and one eighth comes Sept. 29; the Manhattan at a mile and one half, Oct. 6—both $25,000-added affairs. The $50,000-added Gold Cup Oct. 13 is over the rugged two mile route.

The burly son of Prince Quillo-Hildene easily defeated Noor in the J. C. Gold Cup last fall, then went to California where he suffered his injury while preparing for the Santa Anita handicap.

Last Saturday the Prince made his first start of 1951 in a six-furlong sprint, packing top weight of 128 pounds, including Eddie Arcaro. He finished third behind Tea-Maker and Northern Star—two speed merchants—but gave a sparkling exhibition and was flying at the finish.

CARAVAN CAMPAIGN

Chislehurst, Kent, England — (CP)—Patricia Hornsby-Smith, red-haired Conservative Member of Parliament for Chislehurst and Sidcup, really plans to hustle round the hustings. She will tour her riding in a caravan, making speeches and distributing literature.

Wings-Habs Game To be Seen By Royal Couple

Montreal, Sept. 18 (CP) — A change is being made in the National Hockey League's 70 game schedule to make it possible for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to see a game here.

The touring British Royal couple will see Detroit Red Wings play Montreal Canadiens Oct. 27. Monday games usually are played in Detroit but in exchange for the home date, Canadiens will play the preceding Saturday in the Motor City.

The 1951-52 season, third to feature 70 games, will open on both Montreal and Detroit Oct. 1 and close March 23. Chicago Black Hawks will play in the Montreal premiere, while Boston Bruins will be in Detroit.

Holders of the Stanley Cup, Toronto Maple Leafs, will play host to Chicago in their curtain-raiser Oct. 13. The sixth NHL club, New York Rangers, will see action first at Chicago, Oct. 14.

Boston will have its first home game Oct. 14 against Canadiens, while the New York premiere will be 10 days later against Bruins.

Boyce's Peewees Defeat Gourleys

Boyce's defeated Gourley's by 18-10 in the first game of their city peewee softball semi-finals at Fireman's park last night.

The teams meet in the second game, part of a double-header at Alemite Field tomorrow night. In the other half of the twin bill the Kinmen Kids meet Rotary.

The proceeds of the games to encourage night will go exclusively to a Miss Irvin, youthful pitcher of one of the girls' softball teams, who is a victim of polio.

Barrie Flyers Will Continue In Junior 'A'

Stratford, Sept. 18 (CP) — Despite loss of Boston Bruins' sponsorship, Barrie Flyers will continue in the junior "A" league of the Ontario Hockey Association, Hap Emms said today.

Emms made the statement after learning that Art Ross, president of the Bruins, had said that his club would be unable to continue sponsoring the Flyers.

Earlier, Emms announced he was planning to transfer his club to Stratford, providing the Bruins continued their sponsorship.

He made this decision after Conn Smythe, of Toronto Maple Leafs, had warned that his team would apply to the National Hockey League to rule that no professional club could sponsor an amateur club within 50 miles of Toronto unless the league consented to such sponsorship.

Smythe's statement followed Emms' refusal to have his Barrie Flyers play Sunday games in Toronto.

There is no reason why you should be fooled by your partner's simple overcall (non-jump defensive bid in his suit), it is merely a chicken-feed defensive bid.

Such a bid admits being able to take five tricks if that suit is trump. But it denies having any wealth in high cards or sure tricks. Else he would have doubled for a takeout instead.

Consequently, you should not get ambitious when you respond to a simple overcall. In fact, your first reaction should be that your are better off if you pass than if you bid.

So, if your partner bids a simple overcall, when are you justified in making a bid to your own suit? Only when you would have made a simple overcall or your own even if he had passed.

Look at it this way. A simple overcall of one in a suit shows five tricks, two high cards, one sure trick, a biddable suit. If partner starts such a bid, when may you takeout to your suit?

You may respond at once with a takeout to your suit if you have five tricks, two high cards, one sure trick, and a biddable suit. Because you then have a simple overcall of your own.

Thus, a takeout of a simple overcall shows a simple overcall of its own. It promises a hand that would have made a simple overcall even if partner had not already bid a simple overcall.

South opponent starts with an opening bid of one diamond. Your west partner sticks in a simple overcall of one heart. If no bid intervenes, bid one spade with this east hand:

♠ A Q J 8 3
♥ 6 4
♦ K 8
♣ J 9 8 3

Not because you do not like your partner's heart suit. Not because you are anxious to keep the bidding alive. But because you would have bid one spade anyway.

Yes, a simple overcall is a chicken-feed opening. Many a responder to a simple overcall simply lays an egg.

Movie Column

BY BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Sept. 18—(AP) — Hollywood blinked this week at the news that Bette Davis was playing a six-day part in a picture.

Her career isn't slipping. She has taken a short but important part in "Phone Call From a Stranger" as a matter of principle.

I found her sharing a dressing room with the star of the picture, husband Gary Merrill.

"Everyone was hesitant about offering me the role," she explained. "Actually, I loved the part when I read Gary's script."

Star Parts Overrated

"I think it would be a good thing if stars did that now and then. Ever since I started freelancing, I realized how few good starring roles there are.

"It would be a good thing if we got rid of the "star system" of Hollywood which requires that an actor's role must be big and fat. No wonder the English pictures are so much better acted than ours! It's because the finest performers there are not afraid to take smaller roles, as long as they are good ones. You see such good actors as Robert Morley playing a leading role in one picture and then doing a character part in another."

She added that she found her film-making venture in England stimulating, even if they nearly froze during outdoor scenes. (It was so cold, Merrill said, that the camera had to be nestled in hot water bottles during night shots.)

"Contrary to common opinion, shooting isn't much slower in England," Bette added. "The fable about stopping production to sip tea in the afternoon just isn't true. They have tea, but they take it between shots, the same as we drink coffee on Hollywood sets."

Capsule Review

"Behave Yourself" is a good attempt at a screwball murder mystery such as William Powell and Myrna Loy popularized in the '30s. It provides many hearty laughs, largely due to the garish characters among the cops and robbers. The story starts slowly but gets going after the first few murders (there are plenty). Farley Granger and Shelley Winters are personable as the embroiled couple.

AT THE CAPITOL
"Fabiola"

Based on a well-known romantic novel of some years ago (which is currently being reissued in a new edition), "Fabiola" the early story of the battle between the early Christian martyrs and the old Roman heathens in the empire's days of decadence. Into the house of a respected Roman citizen of wealth and power comes a young man, a Christian. On his way he meets the beautiful Fabiola (Michele Morgan) but must leave her to follow his calling. Later, they meet each other at a gathering and he discovers that she is the Roman's daughter. However, by this time, the father has been murdered and suspicion has fallen on the boy. For a time, she believes his guilt and sides with her father's friends. However, she comes to realize that her father's death was due to the treachery of his own friends, who feared his liberal tendencies toward the Christians and slew him.

So much for the love story. But the love story is nothing in comparison with the wonderful crowd scenes and the sequences of the torture of the Christians. Picture a stadium filled with literally thousands of bloodthirsty people, cheering and screaming as though watching a football game. Christians by the hundreds are being tortured in inconceivable ways. The whole thing is monumental.

And, at the end, Fabiola's

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, September 19

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Fair aspects for sound, matters, daily tasks, familiar duties. You must add the push. Don't be too hasty in decisions, actions, lest you will regret it. Steady, patient effort most effective.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Initiative and perseverance must come from within yourself. Today's influences not all helpful. Mars and Uranus aspects advise caution again; ill temper, too much haste.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—About same indications for you as for Taurus, and you and the Taurians can benefit more by staying close to essentials, daily tasks, and doing them calmly.

June 22 to July 23— (Cancer)—Your Moon's position stresses need for pleasantness, harmonious cooperation with family, associates. Much more to be obtained if you dispel gloom, remain hopeful, and keep trying.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—More friendly for you than for many today, but be sagacious just the same. Practical, useful, constructive interests the favored. May advance in your job if careful.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—You may not be as creative and original in ideas as usual, may even have to study more to get familiar things done, but keep cheerful, and don't permit little things to upset you.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—As with Taurus, day's inclinations are not all propitious, nor are they hindering. How you manage affairs and how you allocate activities and decide tempo will count.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Be your most gracious self and watch obstacles disappear, objectives come quicker, easier. It probably won't be all smooth sailing but there is more satisfaction in harder earned rewards.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Some friendly trend still linger from Jupiter's benefic Saturn vibrations tomorrow, so plan wisely now and get schedule set for big doings later. Patience, aggreeableness needed.

January 21 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Unhealthy restlessness, shifting from one undertaking to another before first completing any, may again tempt. Day will yield returns according to your management.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—More advantages to be gained now from outside your immediate work or confines, perhaps through, co-operating with government, civic or other important interests. Be watchful.

YOU BORN TODAY are: Artistic, affable, usually fair-minded and active. May have to guard against being what seems mediocre. Sympathy, seatness, truthfulness also fine assets. You should keep studying, improving your talents, success can always increase, new achievement come even late in life. Sensibly control inclination to gambling! And don't waste valuable time puttering with little nonentities when you should be doing important tasks. Pray always when troubled.

WHY WE SAY

. . . A cosmetic

This word started out innocently enough. It was the name of a cosmetic used by Arabs for painting eyelids (al-koh 'l). The word was picked up in Europe because of its smell and applied to the liquid it is today . . . far from being a cosmetic.

Air Force Cadets Killed in Crash Near Parkhill

Parkhill, Ont., Sept. 18—(CP)—Flight Cadets Bruce R. Cardy of New Liskeard, Ont., and Gary S. Bryson of Kamloops, B.C., were killed yesterday when a wing of their R.C.A.F. training plane fell off and the craft nosedived into a field.

Fred Heaman, a farmer in this area 35 miles northwest of London, saw the crash of the plane.

"I heard the aircraft open its throttle," he said. "I looked up and saw the plane—and one of its wings going in the opposite direction, to it. It must have been up 3,000 feet.

"I yelled to my wife, who was in the house:

"'Get out quick! That plane is going to crash right on top of our place!'

"The wing spun away northwards. The aircraft suddenly altered course and, falling end over end, crashed into the field. It landed with a terrific explosion, but there was no fire."

The plane struck the ground so hard that it buried its nose five feet in the field.

The wing that had ripped loose was found more than 1½ miles from the wreck.

MINISTER'S ONE-MAN ATTACK QUELLED L.P.P. "PEACE" PARADE

Ottawa gained similar rank with other cities which have been scenes of NATO meetings when usual crowd of "peace" picketers staged 90-minute demonstration outside the parliament buildings. Shouting "Down with peace pact" and carrying provocative placards, the 50 marchers, including six women, were jeered and heckled by onlookers, although R.C.M.P. did not interfere. — Central Press Canadian.

Show was stolen from 50 marchers reputedly members of L.P.P. from Ontario and Quebec, by one-man onslaught of Rev. Horace Davey, ex-Ottawan, now of Kennore, N.Y. While spectators cheered the 52-year-old minister tore "peace" banners from hands of startled demonstrators, while shouting "Swine, go back to Russia." — Central Press Canadian.

Bristol Dockers Back at Work Following Strike

Bristol, England, Sept. 18 (Reuters)—Work resumed in the strike-bound Bristol docks today after 1,500 dock workers decided to end the strike pending negotiations on payments for handling United States carbon-black cargoes.

The dock workers went out yesterday in support of 60 men who walked off the 7,607-ton Leslie Lykes from New Orleans. The original 60 strikers complained that five-shilling bonus a half day for unloading the 1,200 tons of carbon-black aboard was not enough. In other ports dock workers get a flat rate of £5 a day for this work. Dock workers said carbon-black is the worst cargo they have to handle.

Labor trouble in the London docks continued today, with 4,500 tugmen on the second day of their go-slow strike for higher wages; and 1,850 dock workers out at Tilbury because they object to a recruitment campaign for extra weekly labor.

Two hundred dock workers returned to work at London's East India docks.

The blast from an explosives store, the newspapers said, destroyed 34 houses, damaged 464 houses and other buildings and left 2,119 persons homeless.

THIS MR. ICARUS

By Harry Meldrum Moore

If you have anything, if you know of anything, that will help us to strenghien our case against these men, Brad," the Chief said, "now is the time to speak".

"Now that you mention it, I believe there's something in one of those letters," Lance said, going through the letters and handing one to the Chief.

"When did you get this?" Chief Shepherd questioned.

"The morning after the attempt was made to dynamite my place—"

"Why, Brad, that is not only a threatening letter, but it is an admission of guilt listen: "You are a lucky fool, Bradley. Next time we'll get you without fail." Get it? But who is 'we'? Who was in this thing with Bill Crait. "Maker is tall and slim—about Crait's size."

"Now, we're getting somewhere at last, Brad," the Chief enthused. "We'll make 'em talk—we'll put on the screws—make them believe we know more than we do. Anything else?"

"You might have a look at Crait's typewriter to see if it has some broken letters—o and t for instance." "And his finger indicated the broken letters in the Palms letters before him.

"I'll send a man for it at once." The Chief sat back. "Well, Brad, that's about all for now. Just leave the rest to me. By the way they tell me that Dad Roberts is in hospital. Nothing serious I hope?"

"I'm afraid it is serious," Lance said.

"Too, bad, Brad. "You're going to mix him, I'll wager."

"Yes, Chief," Lance said soberly. "When Dad Roberts passes from these scenes, Mr. Icarus will have lost his Daedelus and he may well soar too far off course for his own safety."

"Mmmmmm, I suppose so," Chief Shepherd said, scratching his head.

Mother Roberts and Lance Bradley were with Dad Roberts when he died shortly after five o'clock that afternoon.

The public turned out well for his burial which took place the following Tuesday afternoon, in the Baptist cemetery.

Mother Roberts took her bereavement with great courage, but to prevent her being alone too much, Lance secured a woman to be with her while he was attending to his business.

That Monday's Ensign carried the story of Dad Roberts' life and death, the story of a man who had lived long and well in the community and had made a host of friends.

But there was more in the paper than that. Since Dr. Pennock runner-up in the January election, was the only person nominated to fill the shoes of the deposed Mayor Crookes, he was elected by acclamation. And of course, to those who preferred the sensational, there was Stub Rose's eye-witness account of the game cock main, the arrest of the principals, and the result of the preliminary hearing given to the men at ten o'clock that morning.

CHAPTER XXXI

In Emerton court on Monday, August 14, William Crait and Edward Maker were sentenced to seven and five years, respectively, in the penitentiary for attempting to dynamite The Ensign Building. Also, Crait was given an additional two years for writing and circulating malicious, threatening and slanderous letters against Lance Bradley, under the assumed name of John Palms, and for misuse of the mails. Crait, Maker, Slender and Crookes were fined $500, and costs, for conducting a game,cock main, having liquor in an illegal place, making and receiving bets. Fines imposed on those "found in" ranged from $50 for a first offence to $200 each for those who had been in court before on a similar charge.

Faced with the prospect that they could be given up to fifteen years in penitentiary for their dynamiting attempt, Crait and Maker confessed on promise of a shorter sentence. But it was only when Crait's typewriter was produced in court and words written on it compared in every detail with the typing of the John Palms' letters that he admitted that he had written such letters and that he was John Palms.

As the fines for conducting the main were not paid, Crait and Maker's properties were placed under seizure until they were paid. Slender and Crookes were also unable to pay their fines and they were given six months in jail. However, there was no evidence that these men, individually or collectively, had had anything to do with the theft of Bradley's car or its present whereabouts.

And so the Emerton police closed their book on four men who, up to a few months before, had held sway at town hall, and while suspected of shady dealings, proved when the facts about them were known, that they could fix crooks of the first water. Thus completely rid of such men, and with Dr. Peacock, a previous mayor, in office again, the people of Emerton soon forgot the extraordinary hue and cry they didn't fail to realize that the town's municipal affairs must never be permitted to reach such a low again.

But to go back a week. That Monday, after the police raid on the game cock main the principals concerned, hied to separate cells in the Emerton police station. Stub Rose typed his story at fever heat, collected his reward and promptly started to share it with everybody in the place. There were flowers and a box of chocolates for Doris Parker. There were cigarettes and cigars and soft drinks and chocolate bars—no one from the office to back office and up to the radio studio was forgotten.

The envy of every man in the newsroom because he had so completely scooped them on one of the year's biggest stories, yet Stub did not suffer from any professional jealousy on the part of his confreres. Reporters Holden and Holland went out of their way to help him get the last detail, Managing Editor Holden and News Editor Bill Jennings made changes here and there for the improvement of his story before it passed to the party composing room. However, complete and all that it was, Stub Rose's eye-witness account of that night's doings did not contain the names of the spectators, for reasons that were obvious.

But, for good reasons, Stub Rose stayed up the night. Geddie Webster had played in the free-for-all that broke up the party before the police arrived. Stub had a re-match for Goldie with Tex Burdell in mind, and this was a good opportunity to work up some interest in such a bout. Stub pointed out that Goldie was now in a better state of mind than he had been when he'd met Burdell some time before.

As far as Goldie Webster was concerned, he was now willing and ready for anything. If Stub could arrange such a match with Burdell for him he was ready to assume his backers that there would be no fooling this time. This time he would redeem himself and then, he would accede to the wishes of Milly Brookes and Dad Bradley and quit the boxing game. But whether he would quit Dad Bradley's offer on such matters as getting married and settling down, he was not sure. If marriage was a wise thing why hadn't his foster father practised what he preached?

The sudden death of Dad Roberts was a severe shock to the entire staff of The Daily Ensign and Radio Station CEDE, for Dad, in his quiet unassuming way, had endeared himself to everyone. Reporters Artin and Holland and Radio Station Manager, Ted Wilson, represented the business at Dad Roberts' funeral, and the wreaths of flowers at his house bespoke the love and affection held for the man whose advice and counsel had made the business possible. And they wondered how their chief would get along now without his close friend and associate.

And that was what Lance Bradley was wondering too. Without his Daedelus at his side now, his Icarus might well soar into uncharted, dangerous waters, to the utter destruction of himself and his business a business that was running smoothly. Personally, he had no ambitions. A member of town council, he had no desire or keen ambition to be mayor of the town.

Lance took over Dad Roberts' job of handling the country correspondence and paying the writers, but he passed all copy over to his editors for editing. And as Dad used to, he kept in close touch with his staff by mixing with them more and more. Consequently, when some one called to see him in his office, he frequently was not there. He would be out in the plant somewhere.

And so this Mr. Icarus kept his feet on the ground and his eyes off the sky.

But as he found new interests to take up his time without having to step outside the four walls of the building, Lance Bradley soon began to worry about Mother Roberts. The sweet little lady, who had so bravely borne bereavement, was beginning to fail. Indeed two weeks after the death of her husband, Mother Roberts was in hospital and Dr. Brown was shaking his head in grave doubt that she would ever recover.

"Where there's no desire to live, there can be little hope," Dr. Brown said. "She's just pining away. Nothing can be done for her now."

Lance Bradley did his best for Mother Roberts. He was at the hospital twice a day to see her, spent long hours with her. And then realizing that it was perhaps better that she went that way, than to remain the care of some person for months, maybe years, he was resigned to the worst. He was with her when she passed away.
